Teatime Memories Of Britain, Bombs, Horrors and Heroes

Harvest Moon
A poem by Margaret Beadle

What think you of the Harvest Moon
with its bright silver path?
I think of the soft murmuring of a lover's tryst on a moonlit lover's lane.
Or the silver light shining through bedroom windows.
Or throwing shadows over gardens softly revealing the last roses of summer. . .

Neither the shining light of the harvest moon, soon to rise over local farms and fields, nor the sound of an airplane passing overhead make an impression on most of us. Today there is the luxury of safely assuming that no harm could come from the skies, not here, not now. It hasn't always been so for some people currently living among us in Garrett County, however. . .

What think you of the Harvest Moon?
I think back to the terror, burning cities,
Birmingham, London, Liverpool,
Glasgow, Plymouth and Coventry.
I think of the beautiful silver path which led bombers of evil
to kill and to maim. . .

Remembering

"Sometimes at night when I hear a plane go over it will startle me, and I automatically think, 'Is it one of ours or one of theirs?'" said Margaret Beadle of Accident.

"Yes, there was a different sound to the engines of the British planes and the German planes," agreed Dolly Cutler, summer resident of the Swanton area.

Beadle, in her 70s, and Cutler, in her 80s, are survivors of the Battle of Britain. Sharing lunch at Beadle's residence south of Accident recently, the women's cheerful demeanor masked memories of their youth when the pitch of an approaching plane's engine could signal the difference between friend and foe, life and death.

Although Hermann Goering's Luftwaffe ceased its attacks on the ladies' native land over half a century ago, Beadle's and Cutler's memories remain vivid. "People say to me, 'How can you remember the war so well?'" said Cutler. "My answer to that always is, 'If you had lived through it, you'd not forget it either.'"

Roots of the Conflict

The destruction that descended upon Europe beginning in the late 1930s had risen from the still-smoldering ashes of the "War to End All Wars," fought just one generation earlier. "I was born during the first war in 1915," said Cutler, "and my older sister was outside after a bomb fell on our city then. She pulled on the trousers of a gentleman touring the wreckage on foot, and there happened to be the Prince of Wales looking down at her. He sent her a card every year after that for years and years," Cutler laughed. Then her voice lowered as she recalled that "some of the houses bombed out after the first war still had not been rebuilt by the second war."

Beadle noted that houses were not the only things that remained in ruins, adding that "the fathers of some of my girlfriends were still shellshocked after living through what they had seen in the first war, and the poor men couldn't work or hardly do anything."

As the ominous growth of fascism first began to spread through the European mainland, it was only natural for people with such recent experiences of war to hold onto any hope there was to avoid renewed killing.

"At first our country thought Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was wonderful," Beadle said of the man most remembered for his ill-fated pronouncement that a signed agreement with Adolf Hitler insured "peace in our time." Beadle expressed the desperate hopes of her countrymen at that moment: "We didn't really want to fight another war; having just gone through a terrible war, we did not want another one."

I think of our wanting peace, but not at any price. . .

Yet as conflict became inevitable, the hopes for peace symbolized by Chamberlain's waving of a piece of paper in the air gave way to the reality of an iron will needed for war, epitomized by a cigar-smoking Winston Churchill. "There was never heard any talk of surrender once the fighting began," said Beadle, "even though at the time of the Battle of Dunkirk everyone was walking around with crooks in their necks because we were looking up all the time, waiting for the Germans to bomb and invade. Long before the Americans joined us we stood alone, and many veterans of World War I would have fought the Nazis with a stick with a nail in it if they had to," she stated without blinking an eye.

The Bombings

Beadle's hometown was Coventry, "England's Detroit," as she called it, a factory city that took some of the heaviest pounding that the island nation endured. "The government issued every family an air raid shelter, made of corrugated metal and shaped like an igloo. You'd dig a hole and partially bury it in the garden, away from the house. Many people furnished them with bunk beds since the bombs fell primarily at night, and many nights would be spent in the shelter," she said.

"We lived in Kent, in the center of the city, during the worst of the bombings," said Cutler, who by this time was beginning a family of her own. "My husband was a civilian lorry driver for the Royal Air Force, taking radios and other equipment to bases on the coast. One night when he got home he wanted me to fix him something to eat," she recalled, "and I said 'No, the sirens are going off and we're getting to the shelter in the garden.' Well, a bomb landed directly on our bungalow, destroying it, and spun our little shelter around so the door was blocked by the garden wall. Our neighbors had to come help pull the shelter 'round so we could get out," she said. "But all while this was going on, my husband was worrying about his birds that he kept in an aviary next to the house. Finally I just said to him 'Enough about your birds, what about your kids?'"

Odd Occurrences

"We can look back and laugh at the funny things, as well as remember the sad moments," said Cutler.

"Yes," Beadle concurred. "One time during the beginning of the fighting, I was getting my hair done at the beauty salon and my hair was tied up into a big machine when the sirens went off and the planes approached. The attendant had enough sense to unplug the machine, but injured one driver, according to a police report.

John B. Richard, 20, Oakland, and Michael M. Myers, 44, Swanton, were traveling in opposite directions along a gravel and dirt section of Pysell Crosscut Road around 5:50 p.m., the report stated.

When the drivers reached a point in the road that is too narrow to permit two cars to pass, they collided, police said.

Richard was then taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue. He was treated and release.

No charges were filed in this incident.

Maryland State Police report the following arrests for driving while intoxicated: Kenneth G. Wiley, 28, Accident, on Aug. 23; John J. Hovatter, 37, Friendsville, on Aug. 24; Steve E. Adams, 41, Mt. Pleasant, Pa., on Aug. 26; and Bonnie a. Wilt, 37, Bayard, W.Va., on Aug. 27.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of Education is required by its own policy and by federal and state law to annually notify eligible students and parents who have children attending public school of the policy regulating the handling of student records and the information contained within them. Board of Education Policy #474.20 and Procedures #474.21, the "Confidentiality of Student Records Policy," establishes the guidelines that the Garrett County Public Schools employ.

The provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the students which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools; to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

Individual pupil records maintained by teachers or other school personnel under the provisions of this policy are to be confidential in nature, and access to such records may be granted to professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation. Individual student records, with the exception of such records as are designated as permanent, and with such other exceptions as provided by law, should be destroyed when they are no longer able to serve professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of individual student in a teaching, guidance counseling, or consulting situation.

Institutions of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County shall not permit access to, or release of education records of students, or personally identifiable information contained therein (other than directory information), without the written consent of the parents of the eligible student. Education institutions of Garrett County; however, shall make the cumulative records of a student available to officials of other elementary or secondary schools or another school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll. The institution of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County will forward without consent cumulative records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

Directory information means the student's name, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, date of attendance, and other similar information. Directory information may be made public without the consent of parents or eligible students. Student records limited to directory information and student addresses may be made available at the discretion of the principal for legitimate educational purposes, such as post-secondary schools and armed services recruiters, for the purpose of informing eligible students of post high school educational opportunities, to businesses officially recognized by the schools as requiring legitimate contact for purposes of graduation activities, yearbook production, and alumni associations of schools in the organization of class reunions.

The policy goes on to spell out the types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent, he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases, there is a charge for copies of student records.

Teatime Memories

there was no time to get me out, so I was stuck there with the planes overhead and hearing the sound of machine guns firing at them from the ground," she said.

Cutler recounted how "if you had been shopping, you'd leave your bags and run for a shelter, and when the bombing was over you'd come out, collect your bags, and go about your business."

"I recall being caught out in a daylight raid," Beadle laughed, "and I ran Olympic speed to a shelter down the road. When I got inside, huffing and puffing away, I leaned with my back up against a wall, looked up, and saw open sky. They hadn't put the roof on yet!"

British eccentricity, actually a global phenomenon, found expression in those times, as it always will. "We had a pair of old maids living close by," Beadle said, "and they didn't quite understand the air raids. One thought all she had to do to be safe was to climb inside her large antique oak dresser, and they also thought that the government could throw a net over the moon to darken it so the bombers couldn't see where they were going!" Both Beadle and Cutler giggled at the thought.

Births . . . and Deaths

"My mother had a friend who was a midwife," Beadle said, "and many people would come up to her on the street or in the store for years and say, 'Do you remember me? You delivered my baby in a shelter during an air raid.' She once told me that the worst night of the war for her was when she attended at a delivery with bombs dropping above the shelter, and plaster falling from the ceiling, and she had to throw herself across the mother's stomach several times during the delivery to protect her. Finally the mother delivered a pair of healthy twins."

Cutler nodded in agreement, then softly added her story. "One time when I was pregnant and my husband was away, a raid came on, and I went into labor right there in the shelter. Above the table where I was lying there was a hurricane lamp that swung to and fro as the bombs would explode above us. My baby came as a bomb fell particularly close by, and the nurse was startled and jerked him up into the air, hitting his head on the hurricane lamp. A doctor came in a short time later to tell me my baby was born dead, but I know I had heard him crying when he was born."

I think of people huddled together in shelters.
I think of the cries of children buried in the debris of their houses.
I think of the terrible silence when their cries and screams ceased . . .

Finally Beadle speaks again, for the both of them. "The silence was hard to take, a bomb would fall on a building and you'd hear screams at first, but then they would cease one by one and the building would go silent as the people inside would die before we could dig them out. That silence was terrible," she said quietly.

Lessons of War

In their lives these two women heard not rumors of war, but saw its reality and learned its lessons as well.

"It had to be done, but it's very sad all the same," said Cutler. "Many of their boys didn't want to fight; neither did many of ours, although they knew they had no choice. Remember, they were all just kids," she said, "and we would pity the German prisoners of war that we saw in England, they looked so lonely, and they were just kids."

"War is a terrible thing," Beadle agreed. "I know of Viet Nam vets who are still shell shocked much the way our boys were after the two world wars. So much suffering . . I met a man who after the war had been in the German Army on the Russian front, where he was shot through the shoulder and sent to a hospital to recover. He was a devout Catholic who said his prayers every day, and he told me that he prayed for the safety of the Russian soldier who had shot him, not out of forgiveness, but out of thanks for getting him off the front lines. He said that he and his comrades were all conscripted and didn't want to fight, and in the hospital many of them would open up their wounds so that they wouldn't heal, in the hopes that would keep them from being sent back to the Russian front," she said.

"I was on a World War II commemorative board recently," Beadle continued, "and speaking there was a group of professors who were too young to have been alive then. They were saying that America should not have dropped the atomic bomb on Japan. After five of them spoke, I stood up and said, 'You don't know what you are talking about, you weren't there. The bomb, horrible as it was, saved lives, and a bomb is a bomb is a bomb, and whether it kills one person or a million, it is still a terrible thing.'"

Beadle summed up her insights by saying that "the sad thing about war is that when an enemy soldier is killed, we rejoice and cheer. You don't want to stop and think, 'That was a human being there, just like me.' I had always thought we had things very bad in Coventry," she said, "until I went to Germany in 1948. Everything was in ruins, and they still hadn't recovered."

Lessons for Today

In 1997 we stand at the crossroads between one century and the next.

We stand at the end of a century that dared to make its dreams come true, and had to live with the consequences. A century that dreamed the impossible and invented the everyday; the century that searched for knowledge but struggled for understanding; that longed for love, but found relationships; that fought for freedom and discovered responsibility; that negotiated for peace, but plunged into indescribable slaughter.

On the eve of the 21st century it may be well and good that we are inclined to look ahead to the future to see where we're going; yet we still have people living among us who can help us see more clearly where we've been. Perhaps through their eyes we may learn something about who we are today.

"It always amazes me that young men from a town like Accident would volunteer to fight to help save us," said Beadle.

Chiming in at that moment with her characteristic last word, Cutler said, "yes, but the Americans came over and took a lot of our girls back home, too!" The two women erupted into laughter.

Some things never change.

The silver path of the Harvest Moon should be the path to our dreams.
The shining moon should be for lovers,
but never a beacon for bombers.

Long John Silver's Opens In Oakland

Long John Silver's restaurant opened yesterday at its Oakland location on Garrett Highway.

Debra Thompson, field marketing director, said the menu will feature batter-dipped and breaded fish, chicken, shrimp and seafood meals, wraps, sandwiches, salads, and desserts.

The restaurant will offer dine-in, drive-through, and take-home service. "Off premises dining is the fastest growing segment of the quick-service restaurant business, as well as the highest growth area of the industry as a whole," Thompson said.

The new Oakland business will employ up to 35 individuals. It is locally owned by franchisee Milamak, LLC. The facility will be managed by Laurie Sloan, who has four years' experience in food service.

The hours of operation for the new restaurant will be daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Long John Silver's operates more than 1,430 restaurants in 36 states, Thailand, and Singapore. The chain employs more than 28,000 people nationwide and has its corporate center in Lexington, Ky.

Four Rams, One Husky Named To All-WMIL Team

Four members of the 1997 Southern High School varsity baseball team and two from the Northern High team were named this past week to the All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League squad. The members of the team were selected by a vote of the league's coaches.

Named from Southern were Joel Uphold, Derek Everd, Chad Warnick, and Jason Weaver, while Herman Arndt of Northern was also selected.

Uphold, a senior this past season, was also named to the All-Area team as a pitcher after recording a 6-3 mark last spring with 75 strike-outs and only 19 walks in 52 innings. He finished with a 1.62 ERA, third best in the area, and was also one of the area's top hitters, finishing with a .424 average. He led the area in home runs with eight and 34 runs batted in. It was the second straight year that Uphold was named to the All-WMIL first team.

Everd, a junior infielder who was also selected to the second team All-Area squad, led the Rams' in hitting this past season with a .482 mark with 27 hits in 56 at-bats. He paced the team in runs scored with 26 and in doubles with nine.

Warnick, also a junior, recorded a 5-1 mark on the mound for Southern last season, as he allowed only 21 hits in 34 innings, struck out 57, and walked 21. He had an ERA of 2.88. He also batted .318 and recorded six doubles, two homers, and 15 RBI.

Weaver, who was a sophomore, finished with a .309 batting average with 17 hits in 55 at-bats. He was third on the team in doubles with four and was second in runs scored with 21.

Arndt, who was also a first-team All-Area selection as a senior outfielder, led the Huskies in at-bats, runs, hits, home runs, stolen bases, and batting average. He went .411 for the season by recording 30 hits in 73 at-bats, with seven doubles, three home runs, 15 RBI, nine steals, and 27 runs scored. He had an on-base percentage of .615.

The Rams, who have been members of the WMIL only two years, have won two straight WMIL titles, with identical 10-1 league marks for both the 1996 and '97 seasons. Overall, Coach Jim Bosley's squad finished the two-year stretch with a 33-7 mark.

Southern led the league in the number of players selected to the team with four. Others named to the first team were: Darron Jones, J.R. Cross, and Tye Miller of Fort Hill; Jon Miller and Aaron Wilt of Westmar; Brian DeHaven and Bill O'Neal of Mt. Savage; Mark Harbaugh and Brian Powell of Allegany; and Ryan Raley of Beall.

Northern's Zach Leverenz received honorable mention.

CHARITY GOLF CLASSIC FUNDS DONATED - Funds raisod in the Railey Realty Charity Golf Classic, hald at Wisp Resort in June, were recently donated to the Garrett Community College Foundation and the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Garrett County. A $500 acholarship was donated to the GCC Foundation, with owners Billy Weissgerber and Jimmy Railey noting their opinion that GCC offers "outstanding education opportunities and is a tremendous asset to our county." Dr. Stephen Herman, president of GCC, stated that the foundation is "delighted to be a beneficiary of the first annual Railey Realty Charity Golf Classic. Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer for the foundation, expressed the organization's "sincere appreciation" to all who helped to make the event a success. Weissgerber is the vice-president of the foundation, and Susan Case, another employee of the realtor company, is the secretary as well as the chairperson. Weissgerber is pictured as he hands over the scholarship donation check to Ms. Reinhard.

Oakland Little League Seeking Board Members

The Oakland Little League is seeking individuals to serve on its 1997-1998 Board of Directors. The Little League is composed of 37 different teams in four separate divisions. Over 500 youth participated in either the Tee-Ball League, Minor League, Little League, or Senior Division.

Anyone interested in serving on the board is asked to attend the next meeting, which will be held Sunday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. at Southern Middle School or contact any board member.

LASER INVITATIONAL AND FLYING SCOT EASTERN WOMEN'S INVITATIONAL REGATTAS RUN IN PARALLEL

By Dan Muss

E-mail and the Internet are truly wonderful, but we get to depend on them and, when they have a glitch, we stumble. Last week's column got lost on the net and so this one covers two weekends.

If the problem two weekends ago was finding the few zephyrs that wafted around the lake, last weekend's problem was staying upright in the shifty, puffy, and very strong winds that blew from the southwest. These two regattas were run simultaneously; the Lasers sailed three races on Saturday and two races on Sunday; the Flying Scots sailed two races on Saturday and one race on Sunday. The Flying Scots were skippered by women and the Scot A Fleet had only women on board; the Scot B Fleet were allowed men as crew.

Two brothers, Andrew and Nicholas Place, respectively from Waynesburg, Pa., and Wilmington, Del., dominated the Laser Fleet and took second and first in the regatta. In the second Laser race Andrew broke his boom vang and came into the Turkey Neck Club and was given permission to borrow the vang from a Sailing School Laser. He did the repair very quickly, but the second and third races were back-to-back, so he was several minutes late to the start of the third race. Finishing ninth in the third race, he still was able to win second overall.

Another visiting Laser sailor from Stow, Ohio, named Ed Duckworth is 69 years old and there are very few guys his age sailing that hot boat competitively.

The Flying Scot B Fleet had some excitement; Alice Schubert was at the helm with her husband Gary crewing when they capsized. But as they went over, Gary climbed out onto the centerboard and the boat came right back up and they only lost one boat.

In my last column I talked about a young couple new to sailing named Liz Kingsley and her husband, Steve Valenti. Well, they took private instruction at the Deep Creek Sailing School and, in the Women's Regatta, Liz took the helm in the Flying Scot Women's B Fleet with husband Steve and Ed Peters as crew. She came in fourth out of nine boats registered, in ready heavy air.

This past Saturday the wind was out of the northwest blowing 5 to 10 knots, really beautiful air. I had just rounded the leeward mark and was on the second weather leg of the first race when we heard a sickening bang. I looked up and the forestay was hanging loose. At that moment the mast was being held up by the jib halyard and the boat was sailing fine, and I could have finished the race that way. However, the tension in that position is usually shared by the forestay and the jib halyard, and with the fairly heavy air I did not want to risk breaking the jib halyard and demasting. So we fell off and limped home.

On Sunday of this past weekend the air was light and flukey, but a couple of new racers, Bill Jacob and his wife, Jennifer Williams, had a real thrill as they came in first in the Flying Scot B Fleet for the first time.

Garrett County Mountaineer Parents Club
Dear Parents and Friends of WVU,
We have been appointed co-chairs to organize West Virginia University's Garrett County Mountaineer Parents Club. We wish to invite you to attend an organizational meeting this Sunday, Aug. 31, at 7 p.m. at our residence in Mountain Lake Park. At this meeting we will select an official name for the chapter and discuss/plan activities.
The Mountaineer Parents Club was created to provide families with a direct connection to their students' experiences at WVU. The Club will give us a way to continue our involvement in our children's college life, and provide a network of parents and friends that will be advantageous to both the students and their families. (This is not a fund-raising organization!)
Membership is open to all parents, grandparents, family members, and friends of current, former, and future WVU students. (One does not have to be a parent of a student in order to join the Parents Club.) Persons may telephone us at 301-334-3837 for directions to our house and/or more information about the Parents Club.
We hope you will be able to attend Sunday's meeting!
Sincerely yours,
Don and Suzie Sincell

Coil-on-Coil Construction:
The healthiest way to sleep.

COIL ON COIL

Sleeping healthier is much more than getting eight hours of sleep. It's the quality of sleep, as well as quantity that counts. Kingsdown's Coil-on-Coil construction is the healthiest way to sleep. Coil-on-Coil means that for every coil in the mattress there is an identical coil in the box spring offering you more comfort and support than any other sleep system. It's like sleeping on two mattresses.

The Kingsdown Coil-on-Coil system provides proper spinal alignment, ideal weight distribution, less tossing and turning, exclusive allergy and odor free Flexatron padding, and a longer comfort life than any other sleep system.

Come in today and sleep healthier tonight so you can feel better tomorrow.

Area Speedway Review

The rain won on Friday, August 22, at Interstate 79 Speedway with showers coming on the speedway just as the gates were ready to open. This race was supposed to be the season championship for Late Models so with the rain the Late Model Champion, Gary Dalton is the 1997 track champion. Mike Hawkins, Chuck Harper, Frank Wilson, Nolan Dalton, Mark Myers, Danny Hamrick, Robbie Scott, Dave Groves, and Tim Harsh rounded out the top ten.

This weekend brings the season ending Mountain State Invitational/Mark Balzano Invitational. The weekend begins on Thursday with an open practice session. The drivers will be testing and tuning for the big weekend. On Friday, the Late Models will run a 30-lap Mountain State Tune-Up. The Semi-Lates will be running their season championship race. Doug Horton, the defending champ, is the current leader and will try to defend his championship. The Pure Stocks, UMP Modifieds and Dwarf cars will also be on the card.

With Saturday, the STARS Late Models will take to the track for the Eighth Annual Mountain State Invitational. This is the final race of the prestigious West Virginia State Championship. Local driver Denny Chamberlain is leading this battle but is followed closely by Greencastle, Pa.'s Gary Stuhler. The title is very much at stake and will be decided on Saturday evening. The Pure Stocks, UMP Modifieds and Dwarf cars will be contesting their season championship on Saturday evening. Current point leaders in each division are Brian Tonkery (Pure Stock), Vic Vandergrift (UMP Modified), and Terry Hall (Dwarf).

Two dollar off coupons will be honored on general admission both nights. Ticket stubs from the WVU vs. Marshall game will also receive two dollars off on Saturday.

Wisp Golf Club Championships Results Noted

Seventy-five players participated in the annual Wisp Golf Club Championships, held Sunday at the Wisp course in McHenry. The tourney was organized into one ladies' flight, one junior nine-hole flight, one junior 18-hole flight, and four men's flights.

Chris Speicher won the junior nine-hole event with a 61, while Matt Settle took first place in the junior 18-hole round with a 91.

Following a tie after 18 holes in the ladies' division, defending champion Barb Vent won the playoff and the match with a 103.

Flight winners in the men's divisions included Brian Glotfelty with an 84 in flight one, Robby Robinson in the second flight with an 89, and Tom Vent in the third flight with a career-low round of 91.

In the championship flight, following 18 holes of regulation play, there was a three-way tie, with Frank Neff, Mike Sipple, and Joe Vent all recording 78s. In the first hole of a playoff, three-time winner and defending champion Frank Neff prevailed.

Joe Vent was the winner of a free 1998 Wisp Club membership, as he was closest to the pin on hole #7.

Women's Golf Results Noted

Flight play was the game of the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club on August 14, when members of the Women's Golf Association met for the beginning of the Championship Tournament.

In the first flight, June Bray won low gross, carding an 83, and Annis Colaw won low net, scoring 75. Bray won low putts with 30.

Sherry Grant won low gross in the second flight, scoring 102, while Nellie Inskeep's 81 was good for low net. Grant and Fran Bell tied for low putts with 35.

In the third flight the winners were: Cheryl Wotherspoon, low gross, 100, and Rita Humberson, low net, 85. Wotherspoon's 29 took low putt prize.

In the fourth flight Kaz Hamill won low gross with 114, and Marion Boehmer took low net with 84. Hamill had low putts with 35.

Fifth flight had Vickie Regnier winning low gross, carding 121, and Carolyn Deverse taking low net, scoring 82. Deverse and Karon Schnably tied low putts with 35.

Local Snowmobile Team Competes In Pennsylvania

Snowy Creek Motorsport's snowmobile grass drag racing team traveled to Vinco, Pa., to compete in a race there Sunday afternoon. Placing second in the C stock division and third in D stock was local racer Jerry Durst, while teammate Dan Ledden finished second in D stock. Both drive 1997 Yamaha sleds.

The races are held on a 500-foot straight grass course, with speeds usually ranging from 75 to 100 miles per hour.

YOU CAN AVOID GETTING SKUNKED IN LATE SUMMER TROUT FISHING

As readers of this column know, we sure don't give up on fly fishing for trout just because the weather is hot and steamy. However, productive trout fishing at this time of year does require a shifting of gears somewhat. Here are a few tips compiled from conversations with trout fishing experts on what they do when fishing for trout in mid to late summer.

1. Pick the right place to fish. Fortunately we have some excellent tailrace fishing here in Garrett County. The North Branch, the Savage, and the Yough all have consistent flow through the summer and the temperatures remain steady since the water comes directly from large impoundments. An alternative to this is to fish the smaller tributaries to the larger streams. Brook trout in these feeder streams can provide lots of fun if you can cast to them without spooking them. Much of the challenge is in the stalking. Spring-fed streams are productive year 'round, again because of the consistent temperature and fairly consistent flow. There are a couple of world class spring creeks in south central Pennsylvania, the Yellow Breeches and the Letort, that are worth the approximately three-hour drive from Garrett County.

2. Know what to use. Since virtually all trout water will be flowing lower and clearer this time of year, the successful angler will be using smaller dry flies such as midges and Blue Wing Olives. Big flies such as woolly buggers will tend to spook the fish. The tendency should be to small nymphs, subdued colors, and terrestrials. A deer hair beetle in a size 14 fished along a bank is a good choice.

3. Know when to fish. Water temperature will dictate fish activity. At this time of year, the most productive times of day will be early and late. Fish after a fresh rain.

4. Know and use the right techniques. Cast to areas that you know probably hold fish rather than just random casting. Be prepared to stalk your trout, particularly if the water is low and clear. It is important to stay out of the vision of the fish. That means keep a low profile. Work upstream at all times. An 8- to 10-foot leader in 5 or 6X is appropriate. Spring Creek Outfitters' Allen Noland manages to get a long, natural drift by stopping his rod fairly high on the forward cast and as soon as the line straightens he drops his rod tip to the water, actually beating the fly to the water. This creates a lot of S curves in his leader and enables him to get an unimpeded drift of seven or eight feet.

The only way to become confident about summer trout fishing is to get out and do it. Some folks who have been out with Allen recently are Mark and Michael Plumb, Tim Barnicle along with his son and brother, and Jim Gracie. All reported nice catches and Tim will tell you about the one that got away.

DESERT SOLITAIRE, A BOOK OF OUTDOOR EXPERIENCE

Edward Abbey spent three summer seasons at the Arches National Monument near Moab, Utah, and from his notes and recollections of this time in the desert he built his thought-provoking narrative, Desert Solitaire, A Season In The Wilderness. This is an easily read book about the desert and much, much more.

In his introduction, he writes, "Do not jump into your automobile...and rush out to the canyon country hoping to see some of that which I have attempted to evoke in these pages. In the first place you can't see anything from a car; you've got to get out of the...contraption and walk, better yet crawl, on hands and knees, over the sandstone and through the thornbush and cactus...." Other than the cactus, the setting could be Garrett County. Abbey was born in Home, Pa., in 1927 and died at his home in Oracle, Ariz., in 1969. Desert Solitaire and other works by Abbey are available through most book stores. This is nice reading.

GARRETT COUNTY TOPS IN MARYLAND TURKEY HARVEST

This past spring, 484 turkeys were taken in Garrett County despite a harsh, cold, and windy season. As good as this number is, it was down a bit from 1995's 721 and 1996's 630.

The decline was not a surprise to game program administrators. Poor reproduction due to heavy rains in the spring and summer of 1996 meant that fewer jakes (juvenile males) were available for spring '97 hunters. This was particularly true here in western Maryland, where the fall 1996 harvests were down as well. Allegany County was second to Garrett this past season with 430, with Washington third at 345.

WET BOOTS, BUT DRY FEET

These thoughts come from Ducks Unlimited's magazine and who should know better about keeping dry feet than duck hunters. If your waders get wet inside, stuff them with newspaper and hang them upside down for a couple of days. The newspapers will absorb most of the moisture and the boots will be ready for your next outing. And, here's a novel idea, if you don't have time to dry your boots thoroughly before using them again. Simply place a plastic trash bag over your foot and leg before inserting into the boot.

Deep Creek Lake Will Host Bass Tourney Sept. 20

Local fishermen are invited to enter the second annual County United Way bass fishing tournament scheduled at Deep Creek Lake, Saturday, Sept. 20. Nationally known Kelly Springfield spokesperson Hank Parker will again host the event, which attracted over 80 entries last fall. This year, Parker will appear at a pre-tournament charity dinner on Friday evening, the 7 a.m. tournament ooze-off, and a mid-morning children's family event.

Sponsored by Pepsi, Bass '97 will offer $5,650 in prize money, with cash prizes paid to the top 10 finishers, based on total weight of legal bass caught by the two fishermen in each boat. Last year's winning team, Ronnie and Shannon Poffenberger, took over $2,100 in prize money home to Boonsboro. Their winnings included first prize money of $1,500 for their day's catch of 12 pounds 7 ounces, plus the tournament's "lunker pool" for the largest single fish caught.

Local businesses have joined Pepsi, Kelly Springfield, CSX Transportation, and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources by purchasing sponsorships that include the opportunity to display their products at the tournament and enter a boat in the event.

Tournament entry forms are available at state park and state forest offices and sponsoring businesses, or can be obtained by calling Linda Toey a 301-722-2700. All entered boats must have a live well and a kill switch. Net proceeds will benefit the County United Way Annual Campaign.

Senior Bowling League To Begin

The Senior Citizens' Bowling League will begin its winter league schedule next Thursday, Sept. 4, according to Arleigh Hauser, league president.

Senior citizens who have already registered for the winter league area asked to report to Par-Matt Lanes at noon on that date. Bowling will begin following a short organizational meeting.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the week ending August 24 are:

Bluegill, 15 ozs., 10½ inches, caught by Steve Sekowski, Irwin, Pa.

Smallmouth bass, 2 lbs., 15 3/4 inches, caught by Phil Gardner, Arnold.

Chain pickerel, 3 lbs. 2 ozs., 23½ inches, caught by Allen Naylor, Oakland.

Northern pike, 6 lbs. 1 oz., 29½ inches, caught by Edward M. Vecchio, Abingdon.

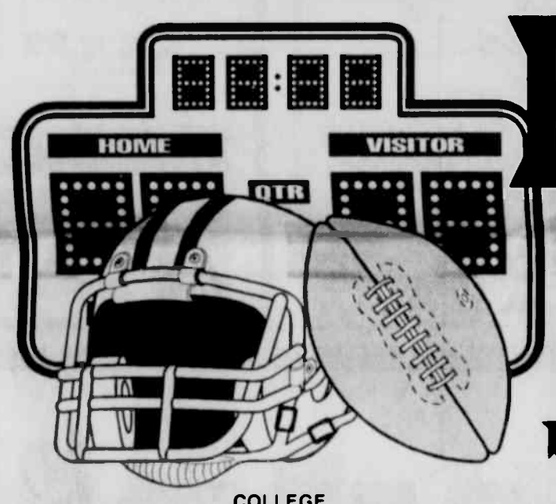
Largemouth bass, 1 lb. 10 ozs., 14 3/4 inches, caught by Mike Birdsong, Hampton, Va.

Crappie, 1 lb. 1 oz., 11 1/8 inches, caught by Hal Wendling, McHenry.



Yellow perch, 1 lb. 5 ozs., 14 inches, caught by Ed Bender, Grantsville.

Weekly winners are awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must enter their catch at Johnny's Bait House, Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Oakland VFD Unit Travels To Bladensburg

Members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department traveled to Prince George's County recently and took with them the department's antique fire engine known as Number One to help the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department celebrate its 75th anniversary.

Stockett Excavating & Hauling made it possible for OVFD's Number One to be showcased in the Bladensburg VFD anniversary parade. Gary Harvey, Oakland operations manager for Stockett, drove the company's tractor and trailer rig to Bladensburg to transport Number One.

"Without the help of Gary and his company, it would not have been possible for us to participate this way in Bladensburg's special celebration," stated Joe Helbig, a member of the OVFD and Number One driver. The Stockett company is owned by Dave Stockett, who has offices in McHenry and Lothian.

The antique engine was then returned to Oakland by a unit from Tri-County Industries, a hazardous materials handling firm owned by Glen Seltzer, chief of the Bladensburg VFD.

The Bladensburg VFD, located just inside the Washington, D.C., Beltway, is one of the largest volunteer/career fire and rescue departments in Maryland. The men and women of the department are well known across the east coast for their progressive fire fighting, training, and fundraising. The department has had a special relationship with the Oakland VFD for some 20 years, and always sends a unit and some of its membership to participate in the Autumn Glory fire fighters' parade and Oktoberfest.

HITCHING A RIDE to Bladensburg recently were members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with their antique fire engine known as Number One, and providing that transportation was Gary Harvey, pictured above left, operations manager for Stockett Excavating & Hauling. Harvey drove the company's tractor and trailer rig, which carried Number One to Bladensburg for the 75th anniversary celebration of the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department. Pictured with Harvey is Joe Helbig, a member of the Oakland VFD and primary driver of Number One. See story.

Town Hall

KITZMILLER

The mayor and town council met Monday, Aug. 25.

•Rev. Dennis L. Leatherman, pastor of Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church, asked permission of the council to use the Kitzmiller municipal building (old Presbyterian church) for a series of special meetings to be held Oct. 20-24. The council granted permission with the understanding that Rev. Leatherman would pay electric and water during that week.

•The mayor told the council that Wendell Beitzel of Garrett Sanitation District approved Keystone Paving to repair and repave areas of roadway as follow-up to sewer work previously done in town.

•Paul McIntyre, State Roads Administration, reported on hydraulic studies of trenching on Kitzmiller Addition Road to reduce run-off flooding of homes. The tests showed a negative impact on state roads. An alternative measure must be sought.

•The council agreed to contact state police for enforcement of parking restrictions in town, particularly in front of the school.

•Linda Sherbin has been retained to proceed with sale of property for delinquent taxes.

•Robert Barrick has completed probationary term and has been hired as a permanent town employee.

•Nov. 3 has been designated as town fall clean-up day for removal of leaves and brush.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 22.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Aug. 26.

•Garrett County Fire Marshall Steve Wendling explained to the mayor and council the procedures involved in condemning a structure as a fire hazard. Such buildings within the town limits will be identified.

•Landscaping on some properties has not be restored after work done in sewer system installation. This problem will be addressed within two to three weeks.

•Several resident stated that burning of brush by the town is an irritant to them and also a health hazard. This practice will be discontinued.

•Dennis Leatherman, Pastor of Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church invited the mayor and council members to attend a service at his church on Sept. 21 that will be held in honor of elected officials in the county.

•Letters have been sent to the contractor and engineer for the sewer project regarding a special meeting to be held with them the first week in September.

•A response to the request for Program Open Space money for playground equipment indicated that the town would need to pay a larger share of the cost than originally stated. The members agreed to do so.

•Bids will be taken for electrical work in the town office and garage.

•The decision was made to draft an ordinance prohibiting the leaving of trash by roadsides prior to the pick-up day. Residents had previously been requested to not put trash outside the night prior to collection because of multiple problems caused by animals attracted to it. Some residents have not been compliant with the request.

•Thursday, Oct. 30, 5-6:30 p.m. has been designated as "trick-or-treat" night for Halloween.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 9.

OAKLAND

The mayor and town council will hold a public hearing Sept. 8, 7:30 p.m., on an ordinance that will prohibit the use of engine brakes, or "jake brakes," within the town limits. The hearing will be held in City Hall.

YOU CAN AVOID GETTING SKUNKED IN LATE SUMMER TROUT FISHING

As readers of this column know, we sure don't give up on fly fishing for trout just because the weather is hot and steamy. However, productive trout fishing at this time of year does require a shifting of gears somewhat. Here are a few tips compiled from conversations with trout fishing experts on what they do when fishing for trout in mid to late summer.

1. Pick the right place to fish. Fortunately we have some excellent tailrace fishing here in Garrett County. The North Branch, the Savage, and the Yough all have consistent flow through the summer and the temperatures remain steady since the water comes directly from large impoundments. An alternative to this is to fish the smaller tributaries to the larger streams. Brook trout in these feeder streams can provide lots of fun if you can cast to them without spooking them. Much of the challenge is in the stalking. Spring-fed streams are productive year 'round, again because of the consistent temperature and fairly consistent flow. There are a couple of world class spring creeks in south central Pennsylvania, the Yellow Breeches and the Letort, that are worth the approximately three-hour drive from Garrett County.

2. Know what to use. Since virtually all trout water will be flowing lower and clearer this time of year, the successful angler will be using smaller dry flies such as midges and Blue Wing Olives. Big flies such as woolly buggers will tend to spook the fish. The tendency should be to small nymphs, subdued colors, and terrestrials. A deer hair beetle in a size 14 fished along a bank is a good choice.

3. Know when to fish. Water temperature will dictate fish activity. At this time of year, the most productive times of day will be early and late. Fish after a fresh rain.

4. Know and use the right techniques. Cast to areas that you know probably hold fish rather than just random casting. Be prepared to stalk your trout, particularly if the water is low and clear. It is important to stay out of the vision of the fish. That means keep a low profile. Work upstream at all times. An 8- to 10-foot leader in 5 or 6X is appropriate. Spring Creek Outfitters' Allen Noland manages to get a long, natural drift by stopping his rod fairly high on the forward cast and as soon as the line straightens he drops his rod tip to the water, actually beating the fly to the water. This creates a lot of S curves in his leader and enables him to get an unimpeded drift of seven or eight feet.

The only way to become confident about summer trout fishing is to get out and do it. Some folks who have been out with Allen recently are Mark and Michael Plumb, Tim Barnicle along with his son and brother, and Jim Gracie. All reported nice catches and Tim will tell you about the one that got away.

DESERT SOLITAIRE - A BOOK OF OUTDOOR EXPERIENCE

Edward Abbey spent three summer seasons at the Arches National Monument near Moab, Utah, and from his notes and recollections of this time in the desert he built his thought-provoking narrative, Desert Solitaire, A Season In The Wilderness. This is an easily read book about the desert and much, much more.

In his introduction, he writes, "Do not jump into your automobile...and rush out to the canyon country hoping to see some of that which I have attempted to evoke in these pages. In the first place you can't see anything from a car; you've got to get out of the...contraption and walk, better yet crawl, on hands and knees, over the sandstone and through the thornbush and cactus,..." Other than the cactus, the setting could be Garrett County. Abbey was born in Home, Pa., in 1927 and died at his home in Oracle, Ariz., in 1969. Desert Solitaire and other works by Abbey are available through most book stores. This is nice reading.

GARRETT COUNTY TOPS IN MARYLAND TURKEY HARVEST

This past spring, 484 turkeys were taken in Garrett County despite a harsh, cold, and windy season. As good as this number is, it was down a bit from 1995's 721 and 1996's 630.

The decline was not a surprise to game program administrators. Poor reproduction due to heavy rains in the spring and summer of 1996 meant that fewer jakes (juvenile males) were available for spring '97 hunters. This was particularly true here in western Maryland, where the fall 1996 harvests were down as well. Allegany County was second to Garrett this past season with 430, with Washington third at 345.

WET BOOTS, BUT DRY FEET

These thoughts come from Ducks Unlimited's magazine and who should know better about keeping dry feet than duck hunters. If your waders get wet inside, stuff them with newspaper and hang them upside down for a couple of days. The newspapers will absorb most of the moisture and the boots will be ready for your next outing. And, here's a novel idea, if you don't have time to dry your boots thoroughly before using them again. Simply place a plastic trash bag over your foot and leg before inserting into the boot.

Deep Creek Lake Will Host Bass Tourney Sept. 20

Local fishermen are invited to enter the second annual County United Way bass fishing tournament scheduled at Deep Creek Lake, Saturday, Sept. 20. Nationally known Kelly Springfield spokesperson Hank Parker will again host the event, which attracted over 80 entries last fall. This year, Parker will appear at a pre-tournament charity dinner on Friday evening, the 7 a.m. tournament ooze-off, and a mid-morning children's family event.

Sponsored by Pepsi, Bass '97 will offer $5,650 in prize money, with cash prizes paid to the top 10 finishers, based on total weight of legal bass caught by the two fishermen in each boat. Last year's winning team, Ronnie and Shannon Poffenberger, took over $2,100 in prize money home to Boonsboro. Their winnings included first prize money of $1,500 for their day's catch of 12 pounds 7 ounces, plus the tournament's "lunker pool" for the largest single fish caught.

Local businesses have joined Pepsi, Kelly Springfield, CSX Transportation, and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources by purchasing sponsorships that include the opportunity to display their products at the tournament and enter a boat in the event.

Tournament entry forms are available at state park and state forest offices and sponsoring businesses, or can be obtained by calling Linda Tocy a 301-722-2700. All entered boats must have a live well and a kill switch. Net proceeds will benefit the County United Way Annual Campaign.

Senior Bowling League To Begin

The Senior Citizens' Bowling League will begin its winter league schedule next Thursday, Sept. 4, according to Arleigh Hauser, league president.

Senior citizens who have already registered for the winter league area asked to report to Par-Matt Lanes at noon on that date. Bowling will begin following a short organizational meeting.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the week ending August 24 are:

Bluegill, 15 ozs., 10½ inches, caught by Steve Sekowski, Irwin, Pa.

Smallmouth bass, 2 lbs., 15 3/4 inches, caught by Phil Gardner, Arnold.

Chain pickerel, 3 lbs. 2 ozs., 23½ inches, caught by Allen Naylor, Oakland.

Northern pike, 6 lbs. 1 oz., 29½ inches, caught by Edward M. Vecchio, Abingdon.

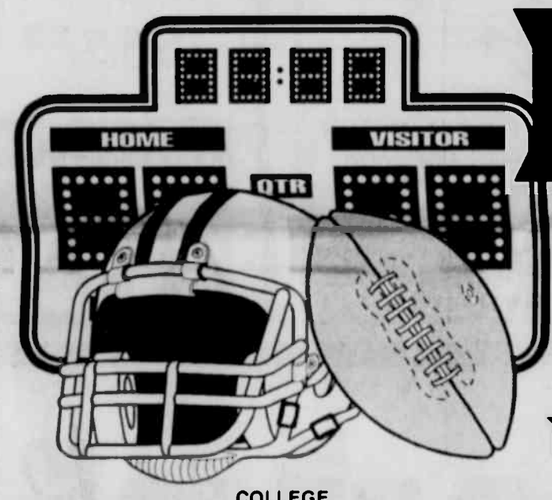
Largemouth bass, 1 lb. 10 ozs., 14 3/4 inches, caught by Mike Birdsong, Hampton, Va.

Crappie, 1 lb. 1 oz., 11 1/8 inches, caught by Hal Wendling, McHenry.



Yellow perch, 1 lb. 5 ozs., 14 inches, caught by Ed Bender, Grantsville.

Weekly winners are awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must enter their catch at Johnny's Bait House, Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Oakland VFD Unit Travels To Bladensburg

Members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department traveled to Prince George's County recently and took with them the department's antique fire engine known as Number One to help the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department celebrate its 75th anniversary.

Stockett Excavating & Hauling made it possible for OVFD's Number One to be showcased in the Bladensburg VFD anniversary parade. Gary Harvey, Oakland operations manager for Stockett, drove the company's tractor and trailer rig to Bladensburg to transport Number One.

"Without the help of Gary and his company, it would not have been possible for us to participate this way in Bladensburg's special celebration," stated Joe Helbig, a member of the OVFD and Number One driver. The Stockett company is owned by Dave Stockett, who has offices in McHenry and Lothian.

The antique engine was then returned to Oakland by a unit from Tri-County Industries, a hazardous materials handling firm owned by Glen Seltzer, chief of the Bladensburg VFD.

The mayor and town council met Monday, Aug. 25.

- Rev. Dennis L. Leatherman, pastor of Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church, asked permission of the council to use the Kitzmiller municipal building (old Presbyterian church) for a series of special meetings to be held Oct. 20-24. The council granted permission with the understanding that Rev. Leatherman would pay electric and water during that week.
- The mayor told the council that Wendell Beitzel of Garrett Sanitation District approved Keystone Paving to repair and repave areas of roadway as follow-up to sewer work previously done in town.
- Paul McIntyre, State Roads Administration, reported on hydraulic studies of trenching on Kitzmiller Addition Road to reduce run-off flooding of homes. The tests showed a negative impact on state roads. An alternative measure must be sought.
- The council agreed to contact state police for enforcement of parking restrictions in town, particularly in front of the school.
- Linda Sherbin has been retained to proceed with sale of property for delinquent taxes.
- Robert Barrick has completed probationary term and has been hired as a permanent town employee.
- Nov. 3 has been designated as town fall clean-up day for removal of leaves and brush.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 22.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Aug. 26.

- Garrett County Fire Marshall Steve Wendling explained to the mayor and council the procedures involved in condemning a structure as a fire hazard. Such buildings within the town limits will be identified.
- Landscaping on some properties has not be restored after work done in sewer system installation. This problem will be addressed within two to three weeks.
- Several resident stated that burning of brush by the town is an irritant to them and also a health hazard. This practice will be discontinued.
- Dennis Leatherman, Pastor of Mtn. Lake Independent Baptist Church invited the mayor and council members to attend a service at his church on Sept. 21 that will be held in honor of elected officials in the county.
- Letters have been sent to the contractor and engineer for the sewer project regarding a special meeting to be held with them the first week in September.
- A response to the request for Program Open Space money for playground equipment indicated that the town would need to pay a larger share of the cost than originally stated. The members agreed to do so.
- Bids will be taken for electrical work in the town office and garage.
- The decision was made to draft an ordinance prohibiting the leaving of trash by roadsides prior to the pick-up day. Residents had previously been requested to not put trash outside the night prior to collection because of multiple problems caused by animals attracted to it. Some residents have not been compliant with the request.
- Thursday, Oct. 30, 5-6:30 p.m. has been designated as "trick-or-treat" night for Halloween.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 9.

OAKLAND

The mayor and town council will hold a public hearing Sept. 8, 7:30 p.m., on an ordinance that will prohibit the use of engine brakes, or "jake brakes," within the town limits. The hearing will be held in City Hall.

cea for employment in our area. Those special interest groups who are touting it as such are only trying to appeal to the worry that we all have about having jobs for ourselves and our youth. Those special interest groups will also tell you that it will relieve the congestion in the Deep Creek area, but that congestion is caused by the people just moving around the Lake area and ourselves as we go back and forth to work or to play. Yes, it takes me longer to get onto Route 219 from a business or side street, but the traffic that I notice is not going to Florida or Canada, they are going to the movies, or to a house they have rented on the lake, or to the grocery store in Mcllenry or Oakland, or to work. There are local trucks, state highway trucks, log trucks, and shipping trucks. Most are getting work done in Garrett or Preston counties.

Please help spread the word that this highway is not needed for the good of Garrett County and West Virginia.

Judy Sconyers
Cranesville, W.Va.

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to trying to make a freeway out of Rt. 219. We do not need anymore roads in Garrett County, let alone more freeways. They are not "free ways" anyhow. They will take a lot of people's farming land and destroy woodlands. All these roads do is cause pollution in air. We need all the land we have in Garrett County and we, the taxpayers, cannot afford all the money it will take to make a freeway out of Rt. 219. We do not need it.

Taxes are way too high now. Older citizens live on fixed incomes, and they are taxing us to death, so let's put a stop to all this talk about taking our land and destroying it with concrete and bridges. Let them hook up with Rt. 220 out of Cumberland to West Virginia. They need roads in W.Va. Interstate 68 hasn't done anything for Garrett County, so why should we let them destroy our beautiful Garrett County with more highways? Let's stop the devil before he gets started.

I worked away from my home for 32 years in D.C., Baltimore, and Bethesda. Now I have retired due to sickness and bad health so I have to live on Social Security. I almost have to rob Peter to pay Paul some months. I own two acres of ground. My taxes are about $600 a year, which I think is awful. So stop building roads; they can't fix what they already have.

A lot of these freeways are nothing but death traps anyway. I sure hope Garrett Countians will put a stop to it before they get it started. I hear a lot of people saying we do not need any more roads in Garrett County. Let's stand up and tell them (the project supporters) that!

Mrs. Flossie Van Sickle

To the Editor:

Dear Citizens of Garrett County, Maryland:

Six long years ago the residents of the Potomac Highlands of West Virginia and Virginia found themselves in much the same position that you appear to be in today. At that time (spring and summer 1991) we started to hear of the "proposed" completion of Appalachian Corridor H from Elkins, W.Va., to some connection point on Interstate 81 in Virginia.

Corridor H had long been on the wish list of politicians and business interests of West Virginia. Then (1991) with the key congressman (Robt. C. Byrd) in prime position to push the pork in the highway builders' direction, it was put forth as a "done deal."

Funny thing though is, at the time, only a handfull of politician, state and federal agencies, and yes a few select environmental groups knew any of the specifics of the time table, "deals," and the status of the proposed project! Monies had already been moved into spendable position for the needed studies. The priming of the cash flow pump had already been accomplished.

This had occurred long before any public information meetings had been held. Most of the citizens were unaware that they had been chosen to participate in another great experiment of "progress."

You see, the moment of inevitability had been reached earlier when state and federal agencies involved in the pre-project scoping studies signed off on the "purpose and need" for the Corridor H four-lane highway project. Politicians and business interests certainly had their input into this part of the process.

Even certain environmental groups had some knowledge of what was going on. Only John Q. Public was left out of the loop and behind the game in the process.

We, the hard-core activists of Corridor H Alternatives, plus the almost 4,000 loyal interested persons on our mailing list and the 89% of West Virginians who opposed the "proposed" four-lane highway during the last public comment period; we were all doomed to be forced into legal action in federal court by the rigged "purpose and need" decision that had occurred before we even knew the real threat existed!

Tens of millions of dollars have been spent studying all the facets of Corridor H. Innocent residents in the path of the project have had their property sold under the threat of eminent domain laws. There is little likelihood that their property would ever be sold back to them if the project was not built. The state of West Virginia has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to legally defend Corridor H completion in court. Corridor H Alternatives has had to raise tens of thousands of dollars to prepare a case and drag the W.Va. Dept. of Highway to court and is in debt doing so. (Donation gratefully appreciated!)

YOU!, the alerted and concerned citizens of Garrett County, can avoid most of this if you will organize and act NOW! Do not wait; the clock on the Rt. 219 four-lane bomb is ticking. Steps to take are:

1. If you have the possibility of a public referendum on the Rt. 219 issue, make sure you use it. We did not have that possibility in any county along the Corridor H route.

2. Request - no, demand! - pre-scoping study public information meetings. You must flush out the special interests and behind-the-scenes deal makers.

3. Form alliance building networks with out-of-the-area tax, environmental, historic, and alternate transportation groups. Don't just talk amongst yourselves; spread the alarm across Maryland to your state capital and throughout the region.

4. Lobby you, congressman, senators, and state legislators hard and often. Don't let them "sell you down the road."

5. Find out what the federal agencies that would be involved in the process know about "studies" for a four-lane Rt. 219 and where the process is now.

Above all, do not let a pre-project scoping study issue a "purpose and need" decision that allows the project and the process to go forward! From that point on the process is a rigged stacked deck against you and you, too, will find yourself with your back against the wall fighting in court otherwise against powers that see "progress" only in terms of constant cancer-like growth and in acres of concrete!

Corridor H Alternatives is an all-volunteer road-fighting organization. We need your help in stopping the four-lane assault on the mountains of Maryland, West Virginia, and Virginia. We have been doing our part for the past five years and we stand ready to assist you as we can. Now it is up to you to defend yourselves! Nobody will do it for you.

To the Editor:

Homeowners and taxpayers who choose to live in Garrett County because of its natural quality of life, rural character, wild lands recreational resources, and lack of strip malls, freeways, and heavy industrial development must stand up and fight with financial backing and public support for the reasonable development and conservation of Maryland's best preserved region. We can fix current and future problems associated with traffic without tearing the county in two with a four-lane freeway.

Development decisions are most sensible when guided by a Comprehensive Development Plan that is respected and followed. Natural resources must and can be sensibly managed and utilized. Self serving political leaders and certain sectors of the business establishment must not be permitted to tell us what is best for us and future generations.

Healthy development is not guided only by business. Development decisions should also reflect the spirit, charm, and desires of the general public. Taking environmental health risks is foolish if the resulting benefits are minimal or phony. Our county's and state's comprehensive planning stands for sensible concepts. You won't find massive industrial development areas, and the International Trade Corridor of truck traffic in Garrett County's planning documents for a reason, and Maryland has Rural Legacy Policy, Smart Growth, and Agricultural Protection legislation that is here for a reason, too.

Remember when Bausch and Lomb came here years ago, with NO highway? They came for our work force and natural way of life. They shipped products all over the world, and they did not leave for lack of freeways - they left for cheaper wages elsewhere, and they left us hanging. We should not sell our own qualities short, or blame a lack of a freeway for difficulties in attracting manufacturing businesses. Pushes for development are being guided by folks unwilling or unable to sell what Bausch and Lomb came for. We'll lose all our natural selling points if we pave them over and allow ugly over-development.

Everybody has freeways to sell business developers. We have incredible large tracts of protected recreational open space, fairly low home and land prices, a growing and well deserved reputation for unsurpassed adventure and outdoors recreation, and best of all, a strong and resourceful work force with high moral standards. And don't forget the nice bonus of clean water, and clean air to breathe that most people appreciate.

We must listen to our hearts and begin to think of a world where stewardship, respect, and love lead us. We must reject a future of exploitation where we will eventually be held accountable for our selfish behavior. Jesus and religious leaders of all traditions tell us clearly and firmly about the consequences of greed, and the joys of moderation.

We should not be duped by proponents of freeways who have the most to gain from this insane 219 proposal. George Edwards has a gas station at the proposed junction of I-68 and this new interstate, making it obvious why he supports it. Statements that you won't hear trucks in the distance or smell diesel fumes because the freeway will locate in Potomac Forest or Savage Forest are really terrifying in their arrogant disregard for who really owns them--you and I. Should we pay to build expensive new sewage treatment facilities and all the new public infrastructure needed to support strip malls, budget motels, and giant fast food chains? Pollution and serious impact to our finest pristine areas from siltation, storm water runoff, cancer-causing diesel smoke, and high speed traffic is not a wise decision. Wake up, Chamber of Commerce! You are cutting your own throat, especially if you have a hotel or restaurant. You won't be able to fight the huge outside interests happy to squash your objections and exploit the interchanges. They will benefit and you will pay for it with more than just increased taxes.

The Garrett County Planning Department must begin to understand Smart Growth concepts and show us they care about the process of arriving at sensible development decisions. The most destructive form of stupid growth is the opening of large tracts of land before there is a need.

I see lots of jobs in the newspapers, and it is sad but true that for generations, folks unhappy with local job markets sometimes have to move. The Garrett Industrial Park directly on I-68 is pretty much empty, and it a shame that the Economic Development Corporation has difficulty selling the freeway we al-

In Loving Memory of My Husband
JOHN DAVID COLLINS
April 12, 1945 - August 31, 1996

No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the pain
I have suffered since I lost you—
Life has never been the same.
In my heart your memory lingers sweetly, fond and true.
There has never been a day that I don't think of you.
To some you may be forgotten,
to others, just a part of the past,
but for me, who misses you so much,
your love and memory will last.
You were someone special,
God must have thought so too.
If tears could build a staircase,
and if the memories alone would do,
I'd walk all the way to Heaven
And bring you home again, too.

Deeply missed by wife Margaret

AREA ARTISTS' WORK ON DISPLAY AT MOUNTAIN ARTS PAVILION - The former Pritts Garage in Oakland has recently been transformed into an art gallery and has been dubbed the Mountain Arts Pavilion -- a component in the revitalization plan for the town of Oakland. Volunteers have cleaned, painted, and repaired the building and artworks created by numerous area artists have been arranged. See story. The pavilion will formally open for the Artist Street Fair on Friday, Aug. 29, 4-8 p.m., and on Saturday, Aug. 30, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The street fair is being co-sponsored by WKHJ 99FM and funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council. The pavilion will remain open on weekends, Saturdays 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sundays 1-4 p.m., through the Autumn Glory Festival. Admission to the building is free. Pictured above, left to right, are Ken Perrin, chairman of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA); Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, Sonia Pratt and Ron Skidmore, local artists; and Steve Schlossnagle, director of the county arts council. Two of the numerous artworks are pictured here.

Mountain Arts Pavilion To Open In Oakland

Oakland's Mountain Arts Pavilion will open this weekend on Liberty Street in the building formerly known as the Pritts Garage. The pavilion is to serve as a demonstration for an artisan incubator in which various artists will combine their production and retail efforts in a shared cooperative space. Organizers hope that in addition to the economic advantages the cooperative would offer, the pavilion may become a destination spot for area residents and tourists in downtown Oakland.

This is a prototype demonstration project, partially funded by a small grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) as part of the Appalachian Community Learning Project. The Mountain Arts Pavilion was chosen as a prototype project by a team representing the Oakland area revitalization efforts, including Mayor Asa McCain; David Moe, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Peggy Jamison, Garrett County Economic Development; Mikal McCartney, president of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA); and Wendy Bauer, who is part of a revitalization grant writing team. Oakland was one of 12 communities in the eastern Appalachian region chosen to participate in the May conference held at Hidden Valley, Pa.

"Participating communities were chosen because they have undertaken organized, inclusive efforts to promote local economic development," said ARC Federal Co-Chairman Jesse L. White Jr.

The purpose of the conference and the prototype project is to identify visions for community economic and civic change in a community revitalization effort.

"The topic of revitalization has been an ongoing concern for different groups of people over the last several years, and studies have been commissioned in connection with the Maryland Office of Planning," said McCain.

"In the most recent study, the Office of Planning was asked to study several vacant buildings in the downtown Oakland area and to suggest ways to better use, or retrofit, these buildings, where possible," stated Al Feldstein of the Western Maryland Regional Office. One finding reported was the encouragement of artists, crafts artisans, and antique vendors to locate in the downtown areas in vacant buildings. The plan portrayed the Pritts garage building as the Mountain Arts Pavilion, housing retail spaces for selling artisans wares.

"The Maryland team decided to build on the success of the Artist Street Fair held on Labor Day weekend, 1996, which attracted over 800 visitors with local artwork, musical entertainment, seated chair massage, and food vendors," said McCartney. "We want to use the Mountain Arts Pavilion concept to house the second street fair."

The pavilion will be open from August 29 on the weekends through Autumn Glory weekend. It will feature an art gallery with the work of area visual artists. The gallery is being coordinated by the Garrett Arts Council, under the direction of Steve Schlosnagle, Sonia Pratt, and Ron Skidmore. Another area in the pavilion will house demonstrations of crafts such as bobbin lace, basket making, pottery, stained glass, and leather working by various artisans.

The First United National Bank & Trust, the present owner of the building, allowed the use of the building for the demonstration period. A project evaluation will be presented at a follow-up conference this fall.

"It is the goal of the downtown revitalization efforts to continue this project if it demonstrates a potential for increasing visitors and contributing to the economic success of the Oakland area," McCain said.

ready have. How can they assure us success in the future?

Interpersonal relationships in a small county like Garrett make it difficult to sometimes follow what we know in our hearts is the best direction for the long-term environmental public health, and the preservation of our county's unique cultural history and natural environment. What brought Garrett County to where it is, is a gift from God. We must be thankful, and not rush to worry about the future, or believe the development for development's sake is always in our best interest. More, more, more is a greedy concept we must not have forced upon us by groups whose only concern is profit, profit, profit.

Breathe deep the sweet air, go catch a wild trout, and savor the moment. We are growing quite nicely, and life is good here in Garrett County.

Sincerely Yours,
Crede Calhoun

P.S.: I would welcome the opportunity to debate David Moe in a public forum.

To the Editor:

Regarding the growing number of questions surrounding the construction of the U.S. 219 multi-lane highway, doesn't it make you wonder what Jim Hinebaugh and David Moe have to gain by promoting this project, considering how desperate they sound in their objections to people speaking out against the 219 highway? And don't you wonder who David Winstead thinks he is, telling our county to maintain consistent U.S. 219 improvement priorities? And don't you wonder why just a few people have taken it upon themselves to make such a big decision that involves so much land and impacts the lives of so many people and other creatures of the natural world? Why did not any official, on any level of government, come to us, the people of Garrett County, and ask us what we think about the idea of constructing another multi-lane highway right through Garrett County?

I believe that the people proposing this highway project feared it would be opposed and decided to go forward with it, without considering what the people want. And guess what. . . their fear was based in fact. People are opposed, obviously. I am emphatically opposed to the construction of another multi-lane highway right through Garrett County and will work vigorously to stop it. Many other people here are opposed to the 219 project, too. Many more people will be opposed when they find out what is being forced upon them by government officials. This is too big a decision by too few for so many.

The people of Garrett County do not have to accept anything being forced upon them. No one does. This highway is not a given, just because a state official tells us to make it a priority. We can say no. Here is what I suggest. Learn the facts about the proposed 219 multi-lane highway through Garrett County. Ask questions and make the officials responsible to explain themselves. Consider your own feelings about this issue. Decide for yourself what you do and do not want here, and why.

Over the next few weeks and months, individuals and members of C.A.R.E. will be gathering factual information on this subject and writing letters to the editor about it. To become better educated on this problem facing us, watch the paper, or call 301-387-7010 or come to a C.A.R.E. meeting - no obligation.

My reason for opposing the construction of any multi-lane highway here in Garrett County is simple. The earth and the creatures who live here (including ourselves) cannot take any more of this wanton destruction and blind reckless over-development. Is not the evidence of the damage done to the earth thus far obvious to all? The balance of life is seriously upset. Each time the life of any creature is lost unnecessarily, all our lives are diminished. I will explain these concepts and others more fully in future articles and letters to the editor. For now, I would ask you to consider the implications of the following statements for your own lives as you sustain them here on this earth: destroy as little as possible, consume as little as possible.

I hope the people of Garrett County who are not sure where they stand on this issue will find out the facts, seriously consider what is at stake now, and make your feelings known.

Ken Bauer

Sheriff's Office Makes Arrest In Boat Burglary

A Mill Run, Pa., man is being held on a $25,000 bond in the Garrett County Jail after his arrest on Wednesday in connection with a burglary from Quality Marine in McHenry.

Ervin F. Nicholson, 23, was charged with eight counts of felony theft and one count of theft scheme over $300, after a Sheriff's Office investigation of a burglary that occurred last Friday from Quality Marine's storage facility on Bishoff Road. Numerous boats and boat trailers were taken, and the investigation revealed that the boats had been sold in Pennsylvania.

Where Two or Three Are Gathered...

It's been another whirlwind week... always more on the "to do" list than we can do. We try to "take care of priorities." Soon, defining priorities can spur disagreements at home and at work, so even that becomes confusing. Where does it all end?

It ends at the door of your local church or synagogue this Sabbath. Really. For a few hours at least you can sit quietly, meditate peacefully, sing happily, and listen hopefully with the Spirit of the Living God. There will be no interruptions, no arguments, and no rush. Even strangers will smile and shake your hand and care about how you are feeling. You will be able to ready your mind, body, and spirit for the coming week.

God doesn't promise a carefree life...just the strength to cope. "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." (Matthew 18:20) Worship this week. Make it your priority.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NO LASTING CITY
August 31, 1997

Background Scripture: Hebrews 13
Devotional Reading: James 5:7-16

A little over a month ago I returned to preach at the church in Mohnton, Pennsylvania where I had served for 13 years before coming to Dallas, Texas 22 years ago. The invitation from the current pastor had been on my calendar for several months and I looked forward to it as a kind of homecoming.

Of course I realized that it would not be exactly the same church I had left in 1975. Some of my former parishioners had passed on, some moved away, and there were new people who had come since my departure. I knew also that the church building itself had undergone some extensive renovation. Yet, despite all of this preparatory thinking, I was not prepared to find that the appearance of the congregation was surprisingly different.

I really should not have been so surprised, for I know better—just as you do. Change is one of the facts of life with which a Christian must deal. Hebrews puts it metaphorically: "For here we have no lasting city, but we seek the city which is to come" (13:14). We all know that with the mind but we have a hard time accepting it in our hearts.

ACCEPTING CHANGE

I hope it isn't so for you, but I find that the older I get, the harder it is for me to accept the changing of things to which I have grown accustomed—institutions, practices, friends, relationships, associations. I must constantly struggle with myself to acknowledge and accept the changes that I cannot avoid. I know that "we seek the city that is to come," but I am often trying to cling to what Hebrews describes as "no lasting city."

The writer asks his readers to remember and consider the examples of the leaders who introduced them to and nurtured them in the way of Christ. One gets the impression that these leaders had died in the faith. Instead of bemoaning the fact that they were no longer with them, he tells them to concentrate on the examples these leaders had provided them and even to "imitate their faith" (13:7).

A few nights ago I awoke in the middle of the night and, for some reason, began to think about all the people who had been influential in the formation of my faith over these years. Many of them are no longer with us and I have lost track of others. I gave God profound thanks for what these people had meant for my own spiritual condition.

ONE FIXED POINT

Yet, although these Christian influences have come and gone in my life, I realize that the one reality that has never changed for me is Jesus Christ. My understanding has changed over the years—and probably will continue to change—and my way of responding to him has, too. But Christ himself is the one fixed point in the whole universe of my experience. He is the one immutable, unalterable, eternal reality in my existence. So, I can say with the writer of Hebrews: "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and for ever" (13: 8).

Some of those who read the Epistle to the Hebrews probably found it difficult to resist the temptations to fall back on rituals and practices upon which they had depended for many years. Hebrews is not saying that they must give up these practices, but that their dependence, their trust, their hope cannot be based upon altars, strange teachings, foods, buildings or sacrifices. These are all "earthen vessel," as Paul put it in 2 Corinthians 4:7, not the "treasure" of the gospel.

So, although the trappings of the gospel have changed and continue to change, the good news of Jesus Christ remains constant. We can remember and draw strength for "the good old days," but we cannot live in them. We "seek the city which is to come" as we "continually offer up a sacrifice of praise to God.." (13:13). No matter how much things have changed and continue to change, God still requires of us the same response now that he has always set before us: "Do not neglect to do good and to share what you have, for such sacrifices are pleasing to God" (13:16).

Proper Tools Make Job Easy

When your child runs in crying with a cut or scrape do you have the proper things on hand to clean and bandage? Or do you have to "make do" with what you've got? It's a good idea to keep a variety of items on hand. Having the right thing always makes the job easier.

Are you aware of the different sizes of bandages, tape and gauze rolls? Different sizes easily fit different parts of the body and give better protection to a wound. We will be pleased to introduce you to the basic items you should stock in your medicine chest. Shopping in a professional pharmacy makes all the difference.

McDONALD'S HAS NEW MANAGEMENT TEAM - The McDonald's Corporation has announced that a new management team has been named for 12 Western Maryland restaurants, including the Grantsville, Deep Creek, and Oakland establishments. Over 50 years of experience is being combined in the four-person team headed up by newly named operations manager Bob Turner, pictured at the far right. A resident of Midland, Turner will be directly responsible for 11 McDonald's, including the three in Garrett County. Pictured with Turner, left to right, are Brad Heavner and Debbie Llewellyn, both operations consultants, and Amy Bruck, the new area sales representative. Heavner will be responsible for the management of the Garrett restaurants. The team will continue to support the many community programs sponsored by McDonald's, including the Ray Kroc Student/Teacher Achievement Award and Scholarship, the Summer Reading Program at the libraries, and the annual Drumfest. Persons who wish to contact any member of the team may call 301-729-1052.

Dennett Road Nursing Home Staff Honored

A Quality Food Service Award has been presented to the kitchen staff of Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home by Tina Buckel, food service coordinator for the Garrett County Health Department.

The award was accepted by Drew Goff, manager of the kitchen, on behalf of her staff.

"The award presented to this food service facility is in recognition of outstanding effort in quality food service," Buckel stated. The award is based on inspection results, food handling practices, overall cleanliness, and the personal hygiene of workers, she explained.

The Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland, has been in operation since 1976 and houses 120 residents and about 45 staff members. The kitchen provides breakfast, lunch, dinner, and snacks to all clients and employees on a daily basis.

Goff, who has worked at the nursing home since 1986, accepted the responsibilty for kitchen management in 1994. She implemented changes ia the delivery of food service to improve kitchen operations, Buckel also noted.

Courses that Goff began taking through the University of Florida led to a certificate in Food Service Supervision and Dietary Management.

In accepting the award, Goff thanked her staff for their dedication and willingness to adapt to change. "The staff of Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, along with Mrs. Goff, are extremely devoted to the safety of the food that leaves their kitchen," Buckel said.

Legal Aid Bureau Notes September Outreach Schedule

Staff members of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc., will be available to discuss legal problems with persons during the month of September on September 2 and September 9 at the Community Action Center, 104 East Center Street, Oakland. The Legal Aid Bureau representative will be available from 10 a.m. until noon on those dates.

The Legal Aid Bureau provides legal assistance in civil matters to eligible persons. Services are available at no cost to those whose income and property holdings are below certain federally mandated levels.

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bureau is located at 110 Greene Street in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 301-334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for the outreach location or for an appointment at the Cumberland office, according to Bureau officials.

Frostburg State Prof. Studying Secrets Of Old-Growth Forests

By Kelly Colebank
FSU News Service

The towering trees of old-growth forests hold many mysteries, and a Frostburg State University professor is interested in unlocking their secrets.

Dr. Durland Shumway of the FSU Biology Department has been interested in the mysteries of old-growth forests for 20 years. These special forests are characterized by giant trees, hundreds of years old and about four feet in diameter. An old forest stand was recently identified in the Savage River State Forest, according to Shumway. There are approximately 100 acres of old forest in the park.

Even though the number of old-growth forest stands is declining, many scientists and researchers are trying to unlock the secrets of these old trees, so generations to come will be able to enjoy them as well. Shumway has spent much of his time in old forests, either as a student, logger, seasonal technician, or professor.

In the late '70s, Shumway first became involved in old-growth forests while he was working in Western Washington State. His interest was piqued because he believed that old-growth forests represent an integral part of the ecological process. He wanted to find out if forestry practices today are sustainable to become old-growth forests of the future.

"Old forests are information warehouses," he said.

Discovery of an old-growth forest stand is a great scientific find for researchers," he said, as they are able to compare the old forest with the younger managed forests of today.

"Finding an old-growth forest stand is like finding a diamond in the sand. You are learning something new from them," he said.

Shumway is currently working, in conjunction with Maryland Department of Natural Resources officials, on research at the Savage River State Forest.

Shumway said that part of the old forest was cut a few years ago. He is using the stumps and leftover trees to do his research. The stand at the Savage River State Park is currently oak dominated. Shumway considers this rare for old-growth forests. He thinks the stand composition may have been maintained by fires.

"Oak is pretty resistant to fires," he explained.

Because of the current era of fire suppression, the oak trees could be replaced with shade tolerant species such as red maples, Shumway theorized.

Shumway, with help from undergraduate researchers, wants to establish permanent sample plots to consist of sectioned areas of the forest with the trees specifically marked. Shumway will be able to yearly monitor each tree. He can note any change in size or shape, how many saplings are in the tree's immediate area, and how or if any trauma affects the tree. This information will create a database of old-growth forest information.

"It is a benchmark. It is hard to know if management practices are working," he said.

Shumway acknowledges the environmental debates over old forests and understands the thinking of both sides. He believes in setting aside some old forests to study and using other forests for their vast resources. Shumway feels that a compromise is needed.

He believes the best stance he can take is to "stay in the middle of the road" on this issue. He said his only concern is the fundamentals of ecological research.

"I am only a scientist, concerned only with the research aspect of it. I want to give useful information so that others can make the right decisions," he commented.

Shumway went on to say that the public needs to take an active interest in the situation. The only thing left of the large forests that used to cover the earth are remnants.

Shumway said that people should not only be concerned for the trees, but also for the other life that the trees help sustain.

To better manage the forests of today, scientists need to research what is left of the old-growth forests.

"There is no way to make old trees," Shumway said.

COVER STORY

Great shows scarce in mundane fall lineup

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Kevin Anderson

With a roster of new shows that includes both superior dramas and comedies, CBS is poised to make a serious run at top-rated NBC, which is fielding its weakest new shows in several years.

True, the peacock network does have the show everyone is justifiably pegging as the next huge smasheroo – Kirstie Alley's screwball comedy Veronica's Closet, in the can t-miss Thursday time slot between Seinfeld and ER – but elsewhere, NBC may have tried to clone the Gen-X formula sitcom once too often. And none of its dramas deserves serious attention.

CBS Entertainment President Leslie Moonves isn't blowing smoke when he says his network has this year's two best dramas and two of the best comedies.

Steven Bochco's new, gritty ensemble cop show, Brooklyn South, would dress up any network's lineup, and CBS has positioned it in one of its best time slots: capping Monday (Chicago Hope was bounced to Wednesday to make room for it).

Shockingly violent on occasion, there's also a cool, retro Hill Street Blues feel to it. Jon Tenney, Dylan Walsh and Klea Scott are among the stars.

Just as good, and maybe even more promising, is Michael Hayes, a new Tuesday drama starring David Caruso as a U.S. attorney with a conscience. Since the pilot (already strong) was shot, Paul Haggis has joined the show as a writer and executive producer. Haggis, the creative genius behind Due South and EZ Streets, is sure to keep the Hayes characters complex and fascinating.

Among the CBS comedies, Friday's The Gregory Hines Show harkens back to The Courtship of Eddie's Father with its mix of sweetness and smarts, while Monday's George & Leo brings back comedy veterans Bob Newhart and Judd Hirsch as squabbling in-laws.

There's little on ABC's schedule that will pull the alphabet network out of its creative free fall, but its programmers have come up with one sure thing: Dharma & Greg, a charming romantic comedy with Jenna Elfman (Townies) and Thomas Gibson (Chicago Hope). Snug in a Wednesday berth between Spin City and The Drew Carey Show, this show (and the entertaining Elfman) will be around awhile.

As for ABC dramas, the best of the bunch is Nothing Sacred, with Kevin Anderson as an inner-city priest struggling with his own lapses of faith as he ministers to his troubled flock. Alas, some religious groups have begun denouncing this series sight unseen, thus perhaps critically injuring the kind of show many of them really need to see. Sacred deserves better, especially in its deadly Thursday time slot.

Fox's new sitcoms should be taken out and shot. The network is touting Thursday's 413 Hope St., a drama set in a New York City teen-crisis center. Unsophisticated viewers may like this well-intentioned lump of cliches, but others won't be as kind. More hopeful is David E. Kelley's Ally McBeal, a wistful Monday drama about a young lawyer. As of this writing, nothing had been released for review – never a good sign.

THE ARTWORKS, owned and operated by artist Dennis Ruane, is located in the McHenry Plaza on Rt. 219 in McHenry, and can be reached by calling 301-387-2290.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

The Artworks

The Artworks, opened by Dennis Ruane, is an extension of the artist's 20 years as a woodcarver. Ruane has made his living as a woodcarver for 15 years, and has been at the new location in the McHenry Plaza for the past three months.

The gallery, which is artist owned and operated, offers a setting with high quality art and gift items, yet with a wide range of prices (from $3.00 to $3,000). Ruane was a resident artisan at the Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville for five years, and his work has been represented in numerous shops and galleries throughout the area for the past 12 years.

The Artworks offers a wide variety of wood sculpture derived from Ruane's 20 years of experience, including hand-carved Christmas ornaments, wooden spoons, bowls, relief carvings, and hardwood sculpture in-the-round.

Ruane says he established The Artworks to provide a conveniently located gallery setting for his own work, but as the business grows he would like to bring on the work of other artists in different mediums while always maintaining the quality of the work and a gallery atmosphere.

The Artworks, in the McHenry Plaza on Rt. 219, can be reached by calling 301-387-2290.

Literacy Council To Offer Tutor Training Session

The Garrett County Literacy Council will sponsor tutor training Sept. 13-14 at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

This 10-hour training begins Friday with a session from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. and concludes Saturday after the session from 9:15 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Literacy Council offers free reading assistance to adults on a one-to-one basis. The council is affiliated with Laubach Literacy Action, based in Syracuse, N.Y.

The teaching method used in this program allows adults with no teaching experience to tutor adults in reading. The method was developed by Dr. Frank Laubach, an educator and missionary.

This training is free and open to individuals interested in becoming tutors as well as tutors previously trained who would like to refresh their skills. Anyone wishing more information may call 301-334-8606.

Anyone wishing to refer someone for reading assistance may call the council office. Assistance is individualized and self-paced.

Finishes Health Careers Program

Holly Wilson, Swanton, was one of 18 students who completed the summer Health Careers Opportunity Program, which prepares high school seniors and new graduates for allied health careers such as physical therapy, occupational therapy, medical technology, and dental hygiene. Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) coordinated the residential program held at the Frostburg State University campus.

Students attended classes and special seminars, and shadowed health professionals. The program is a federally supported collaborative effort resulting from a partnership between West Virginia University and the Western Maryland AHEC to enhance the knowledge, skills and abilities of students to enter and graduate from health professions programs.

Former Swanton Resident Earns National Honors

Christina Riley, a Swanton native, recently received national honors for her achievements with Federally Employed Women (FEW) while serving as FEW High Plains Chapter president in Denver. Presented with the Barbara Boardman Tennant Award for Individual Achievement by National FEW President Dorothy Nelms, Ms. Riley was honored at the National Training Program (NTP) banquet of over 2,000 attendees on Thursday, July 10, at the Wyndham Anatole Hotel in Dallas.

According to a spokesperson for FEW, Ms. Riley's accomplishments while serving as chapter president over the past year were a result of focusing on a key national goal: to communicate the purpose and expand the visibility and credibility of FEW. "This focus led to probably the most significant presence of FEW on the World Wide Web--the High Plains Chapter home page (http://www.dimensional.com~hpcfew)," the spokesperson said.

The Barbara Boardman Tennant Award was established in 1974 to recognize the FEW member who has consistently rendered outstanding service to the organization. The award is named in honor of Ms. Tennant, a former National FEW vice-president, who died in 1973.

Riley is the daughter of Orval and Mareva Teets, Swanton. She graduated from Southern High School in 1980 and from Frostburg State College in 1984.

In addition to Ms. Riley's award, the High Plains Chapter was presented with four national FEW awards at the opening reception on Tuesday evening July 8. Awards were received in three chapter special emphasis areas. The chapter received a fourth award for chapter overall achievement.

For outstanding monthly programs and exceptional training results, High Plains was awarded the third place Chapter Program Award. High Plains also received the third place Chapter Membership Award for its more than 20% increase in FEW membership over the past year. The Chapter Special Project Award, second place, was awarded to High Plains primarily for its achievements in helping create a significant presence of FEW on the World Wide Web. Finally, second place in the Helen R. Dudley Chapter Overall Achievement Award was presented to High Plains to crown its year of successes in the three special categories, so for the other life that the trees help sustain.

JUNIOR 4-H TEAM PLACES 1ST - The Junior Food & Nutrition Bowl Team earned the top honors in a regional contest recently and now they prepare to head east to represent the area in a statewide competition to be held at the Maryland State Fair next week. State Sets New Record Spending Cash For Fun

Marylanders spent a record $599.3 million on taxable entertainment during fiscal year 1997, about 17.3% more than during the previous fiscal year, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. Fiscal year 1997 ended June 30, 1997. Almost all major taxable entertainment categories showed increases in spending.

"Entertainment spending is an indicator of how people are spending their disposable income," Goldstein said. "Marylanders spent more on athletic events, movie tickets, golfing activities, coin-operated amusement devices, and for theater and concerts. The comptroller noted that local governments received a total of $43,468,168 for FY 1997 from the admissions and amusement tax they levy, about 23.3% more than the $35,247,896 they received the previous year.

However, Garrett County showed a decrease, from the FY 1996 figure of $288,756 to FY 97's $272,853. Apparently last year's mild winter contributed to the loss for the local area, as spending for skiing and ski rentals showed a statewide decline of 22.2%.

Marylanders spent more than $142.3 million on athletic events in FY 1997, a 72.5% increase over FY 1996, reflecting the winning seasons, post-season play, the return of the NFL and season ticket sales. Statewide spending for movies in FY 1997 increased by 4.6% over the same period of the previous year to more than $92 million, reflecting the success of holiday and other blockbuster movies, according to Goldstein. Spending for live theater and concerts increased by 7.1%, to $14.9 million.

Golfers apparently took advantage of the mild weather throughout the year and spent about $61.3 million on golf greens fees and cart rentals in FY 1997, an 11.7% increase over FY 1996. Spending at driving ranges and miniature golf courses also increased by 17.9%, to $11.3 million.

Marylanders spent about $50.2 million on coin-operated amusement devices in FY 1997, up by 15.7%. Spending at amusement parks in FY 1997 also increased by about 12.6% over the same period of the previous year, to more than $12.2 million. State residents spent $14.3 million for boat rentals, rides, and excursions in FY 1997, up by 1.7%.

During FY 1997, the Maryland Stadium Authority received $6,891,721 as its share of admissions and amusement tax receipts.

While FY 1997 ended on June 30, final admissions and amusement tax figures were not available until last week, Goldstein noted. Businesses had until July 21 to remit admissions and amusement taxes they collected for the month of June. The comptroller's office collects the admissions and amusement tax at rates set by local officials and returns the money to local governments each quarter.

Goldstein's office recently sent checks totaling $10,849,148 to Maryland's counties, cities, and towns as their share of the admissions and amusement tax revenue collected for the fourth quarter of FY 1997. That distribution was 34.74% more than the $8,052,115 received by the subdivisions for the final quarter of FY 1996.

Grantsville Class Marks 66 Years Since Graduation

When the senior class graduated from Grantsville High School in 1931, diplomas were given to 18 students. The class consisted of 5 boys and 13 girls.

Recently, 66 years after leaving school together, six of those graduates met to reminisce. The mini-reunion was held at Hill Top Restaurant. Meeting for luncheon and conversation that day were Helen (Miller) Dixon, Laurel; Jennie (Durst) Stark, Lonaconing; Mildred (Paul) Loechel, Grantsville; Anna (Setzer) Wahl, Meyersdale, Pa.; and Ferne (Buckel) Beachy and Esther Opel, both of Accident.

The group made plans to meet again in 1998. Of the original 18 classmates, 11 survive today.

Dixon Promoted At First United

William B. Grant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer for My Bank, First United National Bank & Trust, has announced the promotion of John H. Dixon to commercial lending manager.

"I am very confident that John will be extremely competent in his new position," Grant said. "He has done an excellent job of serving commercial customers, and he is a strong component of our lending program."

Dixon began his career, with First United in 1973 as a note teller. He has held the positions of credit manager, mortgage loan officer, community office manager, and commercial services officer.

Dixon is a graduate of Terra Alta High School, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Morgantown Business College, Morgantown, W.Va. He has attended the American Bankers Association Compliance School and Maryland Banking School. He is a licensed life and health, as well as property and casualty, insurance agent in the state of West Virginia. He is also a graduate of the National Commercial Lending Graduate School, University of Oklahoma.

Dixon is president of Terra Alta/East Preston Alumni Scholarship Committee. He is also past treasurer of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Dixon and his wife Becky reside in Terra Alta. They have two children, Brian and Melissa.

Beware Of Post Cards Offering Unclaimed Funds

Maryland State Comptroller Louis E. Goldstein is warning Marylanders to beware of post cards appearing around the state that offer information about unclaimed funds for a $10 fee.

"We've seen these mass mailings before," Goldstein said. "Generally, all you get for your $10 is a listing of unclaimed property offices in the 50 states and a generic form. We'll give you the listing of other states' offices and check Maryland's files for you, and our service is free."

The post cards, which come from a Bohemia, N.Y., firm called Unclaimed Assets, have appeared in Allegany County and the Washington and Baltimore metropolitan areas. The cards don't specify that Maryland actually has unclaimed funds that belong to the recipient, but strongly encourages them to send a $10 check "for instructions and your Unclaimed Money Collection Form."

Residents who receive the post cards can get better service by simply calling the State Comptroller's Unclaimed Property Section at 410-767-1700 in Central Maryland or 1-800-782-7383 from elsewhere.

"We have records on about 250,000 accounts valued at approximately $68 million," Goldstein said. "Financial institutions, insurance companies, and corporations are required to report bank accounts, wages, insurance benefits, security deposits, stock dividends, contents of safety deposit boxes, and other funds if they remain unclaimed for five years or more. Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no statute of limitations on claiming the funds."

Persons may check the most recently reported unclaimed funds listing on their own computer through the comptroller's website, www.comp.state.md.us.

ATTEND NATIONAL CONFERENCE - Three local Pampered Chef kitchen consultants recently returned from the company's national conference, held at the Rosemont Theatre in Rosemont, Ill. The event was attended by several thousand of the company's top sales achievers from across the country. Pictured from left above are: Denise Haines, Oakland, who has been with the company for over three years and holds the rank of kitchen consultant; Doris Christopher, president of Pampered Chef; Linda Wilson, Frostburg, also a kitchen consultant who has been with the company for over a year; and Lisa Boner, Accident, who has been associated with the company for over six years and holds the rank of sales director. The conference featured the introduction of The Pampered Chef's fall product line, sales and leadership training, and a special appearance by motivational speaker Dr. Neil Mohney.

Jennings Randolph Holiday Weekend Activities Noted

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced the activities planned during Labor Day weekend at Jennings Randolph Lake.

Nature movies will be shown Saturday, Aug. 30, and Sunday, Aug. 31, 9 p.m., at the amphitheater, which is located in the Robert W. Craig Campground. The general public is welcome to attend.

For the campers' daytime use there is a sand box and playground, a 3/4 mile tree identification trail, and the Sunset Trail, which is a 2-1/4 mile trail leading to a panoramic view of the dam and lake.

Horseshoe pits, a basketball court, and a large picnic pavilion are also located in the campground. Sports equipment is available upon request.

Also scheduled on Aug. 31 are tours of the intake control tower from 2-4 p.m. Park rangers will be on hand at the West Virginia Overlook to explain how the Jennings Randolph Lake project operates to improve water quality along the North Branch of the Potomac River, to supply water downstream, and to prevent flooding.

Anyone wishing further information about the lake or camping may call 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Oakland Chapter Of Eastern Star Resumes Meetings

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet Tuesday, Sept. 2, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple in Oakland. This will be a regular stated meeting, and signs and passes will be reviewed under the direction of Worthy Patron Ted Raynovich and Conductress Wilda Hile. Thelma Henshaw, Worthy Matron, and Ted Raynovich, Worthy Patron, invite all members to attend the chapter meetings.

Operation C.A.R.E. To Be In Effect For Holiday Weekend

The Maryland State Police, in cooperation with other state police agencies throughout the country, will participate in Operation C.A.R.E. (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) during the Labor Day weekend.

C.A.R.E. has been in effect since the 1970s. Initially the effort focused only on Interstate 95. It now encompasses the state.

In Garrett County, the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, will target 1-68 for enforcement of the 65 mile per hour speed limit, seat belt laws, and child safety seat use.

Driving while intoxicated will be the focus of attention on all county roads.

Troopers will use Vascar, radar (including laser radar), and marked and unmarked patrol cars, along with unconventional vehicles, for enforcement purposes. Radar stop teams will maximize enforcement.

Aggressive drivers who follow vehicles too closely, change lanes unsafely, or commit other violations which could contribute to collisions will be issued citations.

Maryland has been able to maintain an accident ratio per million miles driven that is better than in many other states. The state police attribute this record to enforcement, highway design, and voluntary compliance with highway safety activities.

Program About Arthritis Set For Sept. 10

The Arthritis Foundation, Maryland Chapter, is sponsoring an educational public forum on practical approaches to living with arthritis on Wednesday, Sept. 10, in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Community Services Building. Presenters for the program will be Shauna Forentino, O.T., and Melvin Calling, P.T., both from Rehab-Solutions in Oakland. The forum is scheduled for 6 p.m. and is free to the public.

To register or to find out more information, persons may call the Arthritis Foundation at 301-334-2236, x 492 or 1-800-571-6761. People with arthritis, their family and friends are invited to attend. The Arthritis Foundation is an affiliate of the Combined Health Agencies of Maryland.

University Offers Technical Support For Md. Businesses

With such rapid advancement of technology, it is no wonder Maryland companies are looking to university experts for support in research and development.

The Maryland Industrial Partnerships (MIPS) program puts this assistance within reach. The program sponsors research partnerships between industry and the University of Maryland. MIPS provides matching funds for university-based research to help companies develop or improve their products or processes. The matching funds are awarded on a copetitive basis for projects that have the potential to stimulate the growth of industry in Maryland.

One such MIPS project is with Norris Electro Optical Corp., a company established four years ago in Ellicott City. Together, university researchers and the company are quantifying and improving the performances of an electro-optical product, Fogeye. The device is a combination of state-of-the-art technologies that allows a pilot to safely control the landing of an aircraft in fog. The system provides an image of the actual location of airport approach and runway lights with the same angular resolution as that of the human eye in very low visibility conditions.

Vic Norris, president of Norris Electro Optical, claims, "The MIPS program has been essential to my business because it is extremely difficult for an emerging technology company to obtain substantial funding. The MIPS program provided the necessary funds and research expertise for us to gain technical credence within the aviation conununity. I strongly recommend the program to others." Norris intends to establish worldwide headquarters and system operations in Maryland.

MIPS, with its parent organization the Engineering Research Center, is the gateway to the university's many experts and facilities. MIPS matches companies with researchers from any of the 13 institutions of the University System of Maryland.

In a win-win partnership, students and faculty are made aware of the needs of industry as they participate in addressing industry's problems. The center's programs help Maryland industry gain access to the expertise and research facilities it needs to stay competitive in today's technology driven environment.

The fall deadline for submitting applications is October 15. For more information on how businesses can qualify, those interested may call the MIPS office at 301-405-3891.

LOCAL PHYSICIAN AMONG THOSE THANKED BY AHEC - The Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) recently recognized 52 regional health care practitioners for the community based clinical training experience they provide as preceptors to students enrolled in health profession education programs. Among the 52 was Dr. Margaret Kaiser, an Oakland area physician. Several practitioners present for the 1997 AHEC annual meeting received certificates from Judy Emery, interim assistant dean for graduate medical education at the University of Maryland, Baltimore. Pictured left to right are Emery, Dr. V. Raul Felipe, Dr. Jane Fiscus, Dr. Kaiser, Dr. Victor Mazzocco, Jackie Snelson (nurse practitioner), Dr. Wayne Spriggle, and Jerry Stewart (pharmacist).

Walk-A-Thon To Benefit Park In Kitzmiller

In efforts to raise funds to upgrade the Kitzmiller town park, Rutledge Park, a walk-a-thon is being organized. The event will take place Saturday, Sept. 13, 9 a.m.-12 p.m. Entrants will meet at the pavilion in the park.

Nancy Brady, town council member and coordinator of the project, said that a couple of different routes will be marked to offer a choice to participants. One will be on the path along the exercise trail through the park. Huge trees in the park provide shade on much of this trail.

Though the event is not limited to students, Brady stressed, those students who take part in it can earn service hours for their participation in supporting the town program. One need not be a resident of Kitzmiller to join the walkers on this outing, she said.

"The funds raised by this walk-a-thon will be used primarily to rebuild a windmill in the park," Brady explained. The windmill was part of the botanical park when it was developed by Kitzmiller School students and dedicated in 1952.

Those interested in obtaining sponsor sheets or getting more information on the Kitzmiller park walk-a-thon may call Nancy Brady at 301-453-3193 or pick up a sponsor sheet at the Kitzmiller Elementary School.

This Week In History

On August 27, 1776, General Washington and his 10,000 men lost the Battle of Long Island and had to evacuate New York ... August 30, 1856, John Brown, a radical abolitionist, led his followers in an attack against Missourians at Osawatomie, Kansas ... August 27, 1859, the first commercially productive oil well was drilled near Titusville, Pa., by Edwin L. Drake ... August 27, 1950, on President Truman's order, the Army seized all railroads in order to avert a general strike ... August 28, 1963, 200,000 people marched on Washington, D.C., in support of civil rights for blacks; the highlight of the march was the speech in which Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said: "I have a dream that this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed, 'We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal'." ... August 26-29, 1968, Vice President Hubert Humphrey was nominated for president by the Democratic Party at the national convention in Chicago, which was marked by a clash between police and anti-war protesters ... August 25, 1994, Congress approved the $30.2 billion 1994 Omnibus Violent Crime Control and Prevention Act ... August 28, 1995, Governor Pete Wilson of California, whose presidential efforts had been delayed by throat surgery and a conflict over the California state budget, began his campaign anew with a speech in New York in front of the Statue of Liberty ... August 29, 1995, audiotapes of Detective Mark Furhman allegedly using racial slurs were played in court with the jury absent, stunning all present, including Judge Lance Ito ... August 31, 1995, despite the nature of the Fuhrman tapes, Judge Ito ruled that only two short excerpts could be heard by the jury ... August 29, 1996, Dick Morris, the architect of the strategy that moved Clinton to the center of the political spectrum, resigned after the New York Post reported that another newspaper, the Star, would soon reveal that he had been seeing a prostitute.

An American Hero
by Dr. Robert B. Pamplin, Jr. and Gary K. Eisler

JEAN-MICHEL COUSTEAU

For over 50 years, the Cousteau name has been a symbol of environmental concern. Jacques-Yves Cousteau brought an awareness of the oceans into living rooms around the world via television. Jean-Michel Cousteau, his eldest son, has carried this legacy into the Information Age with pioneering work in film and multimedia programming. Jean-Michel has been the producer and/or executive producer of 59 television specials, including the 39-part series, Cousteau's Rediscovery of the World, the Peabody Award-winning series, Cousteau's Amazon, and the Emmy Award-winning Cousteau/Mississippi. He continues to produce challenging documentaries, such as an upcoming special on the "obstacle course" run by California grey whales on their yearly migration, and a television special on the creation of an artificial reef.

Jean-Michel is an impassioned ecological educator and spokesperson. He authors a regular column of environmental commentary for the Los Angeles Times Syndicate that appears in over 70 newspapers and magazines worldwide. He travels the globe addressing students, industry groups and leadership forums about the need for environmental responsibility. He plays a prominent role in local and national ecological events such as Earth Day. And he devotes time and expertise to educational programs teaching ecologically sensitive dive techniques. Project Ocean Search, his ecological dive adventure, is now in its 24th season.

Jean-Michel is committed to active participation in organizations that further ecological understanding and conservation. From 1979 to 1993, Jean-Michel served as Executive Vice President of The Cousteau Society. He heads the Jean-Michel Cousteau Institute a non-profit organization dedicated to building cooperative partnerships in the search for solutions to environmental challenges.

Jean-Michel continues in his father's tradition of excellence on bringing these environmental matters to the fore. He is this week's American Hero.

Critic's Corner
by Rick Wilson

AIR FORCE ONE: Following on the heels of another fictional heroic president (Bill Pullam) in "Independence Day," Harrison Ford takes over the commander-in-chief spot with a panache that is breath-taking.

Ford portrays President James Marshall, a man with warmth and humor, able to ad-lib while speech-making, a genuinely compassionate man (no phony lip-biting here!), and a human being who is not out of touch with the "regular Joes" in the world.

Faced with a terrorist crisis, Marshall tells the world that under NO circumstances will the U.S. negotiate with terrorists — NEVER, EVER, EVER! Unfortunately for him, he soon finds himself having to live up to those words.

Aboard Air Force One, the president, first lady and family, advisers and the press are skyjacked by a terrorist with an axe to grind. A disgruntled Communist from Russia, Korshunov (Gary Oldman) wishes for a return to the "good, old days" when Stalin ruled with a bloody iron fist. His hope is to trade the president for the release of a leader of his cause, who is whiling away the days in prison.

At first, it seems that the president has escaped, since he's nowhere to be found on Air Force One. However, Korshunov is certain the president will reappear since, after all, he has his wife and daughter as hostages. And the "fun" begins! We're treated to a series of incredible "air"-obatics, political power plays and old-fashioned brainstorming as everyone on board the plane, as well as those on the ground, try to come to a successful conclusion of the crisis.

For his part, Ford is positively statwart. A close second to him, though is Glenn Close as the vice president, trying desperately to keep her cool. The rest of the cast (Wendy Crewson as the First Lady, Liesel Matthews as the First Daughter, William Macy, Paul Guilfoyle and Dean Stockwell) are wonderful as well.

Undoubtedly, this is the blockbuster for this sununer season. Go see it — you absolutely won't be disappointed!

Q. My straight-back chair has been in our family for many years. It is marked on the back: "L. Hitcheock. Hitchcocks-ville, Conn. Warranted R." Is it an original Hitchcock chair?

A. The letter "R" in the mark is a giveaway that your chair is a new one.

Lambert Hitchcock used that mark without the letter R on everything he made between 1825 and 1832. In 1949, The Hitchcock Chair Co. was formed to make Hitchcock-style chairs. It has used the mark you describe since 1952.

Q. My grandmother collected Fostoria glass in the Myriad pattern. She has a cigarette box, several small ashtrays and candleholders. She also had something she called a "lily pond." It looks like a tray to me. Could you give me any information?

A. George Sakier designed the Myriad pattern of Fostoria Glass.

Sakier, who worked for several glass companies, also designed packaging, furniture, bath fixtures and painted absuact landscapes. He was born in New York City in 1897 and died in Paris in 1988.

Myriad cigarette boxes sell for $60 to $90; individual ashtrays, $15-$20; candleholders, $100-$150 a pair; lily ponds, $75-$100.

The lily pond was used as a centerpiece.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Croston Promoted To Rank Of Major

James O. Croston Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Croston, Mtn. Lake Park, was recently promoted to major in the United States Army Reserve. He serves in a field artillery battalion in Tulsa, Okla., and is a veteran of Operation Desert Storm.

Croston was registered as a professional engineer in the state of Oklahoma in July and works with the Army Corps of Engineers.

The major lives in Tulsa with his wife Susan and their two children, Kaitlyn and Connor.

James B. McCroskey received practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) Advanced Camp at Fort Lewis, Tacoma, Wash.

The camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training. Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, Guard, or Reserve.

The cadet, a student at Frostburg State University, is the son of James A. McCroskey, Boiling Springs Road. His wife Jodi is the daughter of Daniel Elliett, Fingerboard Road. He is a 1991 graduate of Southern High School, Oakland.

U.S. Navy Airman Robert D. Beachy, son of Olen D. and Ada M. Beachy, Amish Road, Grantsville, recently completed a six-day port visit to Corfu, Greece, while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy, currently on a six-month deployment in the Mediterranean Sea and Persian Gulf.

During the port visit, Beachy and fellow crew members hosted more than 1,000 visitors and completed a community relations project. Sailors and marines from the carrier painted, repaired, and landscaped at the Evangelical Church of Corfu. In addition, they also cleared an acre of land infested with 18-foot-high bamboo and thorn bushes for preparations in the construction of a youth center. Beachy's ship's gospel choir also performed for the church's congregation.

Aircraft carriers like the USS John F. Kennedy are forward deployed around the world to maintain a U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis.

Beachy, a 1993 graduate of Northern Garrett High School of Accident, joined the Navy in January 1995.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

Green tartar sauce is super with any kind of fish. "Color" mayonnaise with lots of chopped dill, parsley and fresh chives. Add flavor with capers, shallots, cornichons and dijon mustard, plus salt and pepper to taste. Thin with good olive oil if needed.

Super summer salad mixes as many kinds of tomatoes as you can find: red and gold cherry tomatoes, halved, and flavorful big ones cut into chunks. Top with balls of soft goat cheese, plenty of basil, olive oil and balsamic vinegar. Toss gently. Mmmmmm!

Buttery-flavored Yukon Gold potatoes are wonderful mashed. Cook until tender, mash with a little chicken broth to moisten, then stir a dollop of sour cream and a pinch of ground nutmeg.

Did you ask peppercorns? Green ones, picked young, are soft with a mild flavor. Black pepper berries are picked slightly underripe and then sun-dried. They're strong and aromatic. Mild white peppercorns are mature berries with the outer skin removed.

Ask about delicious food, and you'll get the answer dine out soon at

A GENEROUS DONATION was made recently to Garrett County Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center by local business owners Linda and Frank Lancelotta. A check for $500 was presented to Brenda Arnold, left, on behalf of the center. A storage unit in Lancelotta's Garrett County Self Storage, McHenry, has also been provided for use by the center.

Chicken Dinner Planned To Help House Of Hope

To mark the Labor Day holiday a chicken barbecue will be offered on Monday starting at 10 a.m. beside the Lakeside Creamery at Deep Creek Lake. Barbecued chicken breast, a dinner roll, and potato chips will be available for $4. The proceeds of the meal will benefit the House of Hope.

An ecumenical, non-denominational support service in Garrett County, the House of Hope was established in 1978. The goal of the citizens that comprise this group is to provide emergency assistance to members of the community.

The House of Hope supplements services provided by other groups such as Garrett County Community Action, Inc., Garrett County Social Services, and Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center.

Not an agency of any arm of government, the House of Hope does not solicit or accept any federal, state, or county funds.

"Fund-raising events like this dinner are an important source of income. The money earned allows the House of Hope to step in and do quickly what needs to be done in an emergency," said Carol Slawson, board of directors member. She is coordinating the dinner and said she appreciates the support of the Oakland Lions Club, which is donating the grill.

Report Card Dates Noted

The Garrett County Board of Education issued a schedule of when report cards will be issued during the 1997-98 school year. That schedule is as follows for both elementary and secondary schools: November 3, January 22, March 30, and mailed home after the final day of school.

The Nov. and Jan. report cards in the elementary schools will be issued at parent conferences to those parents who schedule a conference.

The schedule for the second and third grading periods could be altered in the event a significant number of school days are missed because of winter weather.

Welch Receives Employee Award At GC Memorial

Cindy Welch, R.Ph., was named Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Employees' Choice Award recipient for the month of August.

A graduate of the West Virginia University School of Pharmacy, Welch has been employed as a staff pharmacist at Garrett Memorial for the past seven years.

"Working in a small-hospital setting provides the opportunity to work in many different areas of pharmacology. I really enjoy medicine and the amount of experience I've gained working at Garrett Memorial," said Ms. Welch.

Lance Rhodes, R.Ph., the hospital's director of pharmacy services, noted the efficiency and effectiveness of Welch's work.

"Cindy is always right on top of all pharmacy activities and assures that normal operations flow as smoothly as possible. She never hesitates to assume added responsibilities and takes the initiative to begin and complete projects," said Rhodes.

Rhodes added, "Cindy is very current in her knowledge and is a very strong, stable, and supporting influence in the pharmacy department."

Girl Scouts In Grantsville Set Registration

Registration for Junior Girl Scouts will be held at the Grantsville Elementary School on Sept. 9, beginning at 7 p.m. Connie Savage and Carole Frazee will be the troop leaders. Barb DeWitt is the troop secretary and Joyce Bowser is the cookie manager.

A $7 membership fee will be mailed to the Girl Scout organization headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa. Persons interested in becoming a scout or a volunteer are asked to come to the registration event, or to contact one of the individuals named.

Meetings will be held in the Grantsville Elementary School's art room on Tuesday afternoons.

Theresa Miller is the troop's sponsor representative from the Garrett County Roads Department.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Trembly is the son of Charles and stepson of Bertie Trembly, Terra Alta, W.Va.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

FALL FESTIVAL AT STEMPLE RIDGE

Saturday evening, Aug. 30, is the date for the annual Fall Festival at the Stemple Ridge. UM Church. Hot sandwiches, pies, cakes, and homemade ice cream will be available from 5 until 7:30 p.m., along with cake walks and crafts for sale. Everyone is welcome at the church located on the Stemple Ridge Road, south of Aurora.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

A spaghetti dinner will be served at the Aurora fire hall on Sept. 5 from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m. Donations are $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 12 and under, and the proceeds go to the new truck fund.

Raffle tickets for a half beef are being sold by Aurora VFD members. The winning ticket will be drawn on Nov. 14 at a planned elimination dinner, for which tickets also remain available.

POTATO FESTIVAL

At the annual Mt. Grove Potato Festival, set for Sept. 13 and 14, one of the activities is a cake decorating contest. This contest is open to anyone except firemen's families, and judges will be chosen at random. Three prizes will be awarded for a cake decorated in a festival theme: first prize, $100; second prize, $50; and third prize $25. For rules and further information, persons may call 304-735-6801, 304-735-3012, or 304-735-5247.

CRAFT BAZAAR

A craft and bake sale bazaar are planned for August 30 at the Red House Lutheran Church in the building behind the parsonage. Hours set are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., and a hot dog and beverage lunch will be available. Proceeds will go to the building fund for restoration of the stained glass windows.

AEROBICS CLASS

Beginning Sept. 3, there will be classes of low-intensity aerobics offered at the Aurora Community Building, tentatively scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week at 10 a.m. Objectives of these exercises will be for safe and effective exercise, mixed with fun. Persons may show up at 10 a.m. on Sept. 3, or call Linn Crowe at 304-735-3031 for further information.

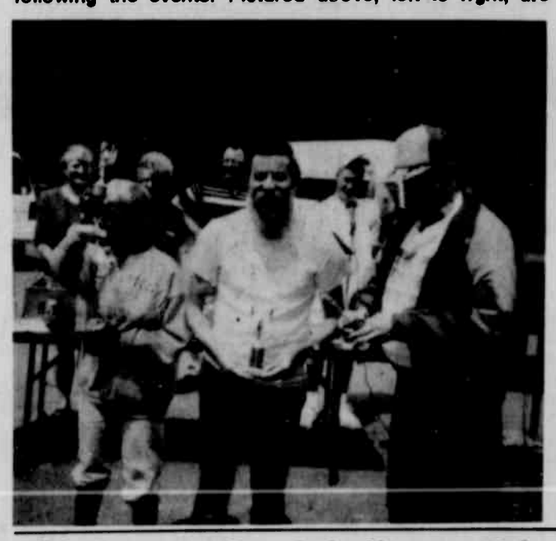
Accepted In Va. Nursing Program

Teresa Marie Dixon of Terra Alta has been accepted as a student in the associate of nursing program at Shenandoah University in Winchester, Va.

While attending classes, Dixon will be employed at the Winchester Nursing Home and the Winchester Rescue Squad.

Dixon graduated in 1994 from Preston High School and attended Garrett Community College and Potomac State University for her pre-nursing preparation. She received her associate's degree in education this past summer, and will graduate from Shenandoah University as a registered nurse in May of 1998.



Dixon is the daughter of William and Jereiene Dixon of Terra Alta, and the stepdaughter of Nellie Dixon, also of Terra Alta.

HOPEMONT HOSTS GERI-OLYMPICS - The annual West Virginia Northern Geri-Olympics event was held at Hopemont Hospital on Aug. 15, with 74 residents of area nursing homes demonstrating their skills in a number of contests. Each resident who participated was presented with a certificate and a medal, and a picnic dinner was served to participants, volunteers, and staff members following the events. Pictured above, left to right, are wheelchair obstacle course winners Daisy Helma and Jimi Jackson, both from Cuppett-Weeka, and Joe Ervin, first place, from Dennett Road Manor. In the photo above center are bean bag throw competitors. Shown left to right are Junior Miller, first (Heartland of Preston County), and Hazel Hall and Ella Price, both of Hopemont. The winner of the horseshoe pitch was Sidney Delrio (Hopemont), shown in the above right photo with Julia Johnson, second (Dennett Manor). In the below left photo are basketball competitors Cora Belton (Sundale), first place; and Ervin and Ernie Haller (Hopemont). Winners in the dice toss are pictured below center: Dorothy Parks (Sundale), left, first place; and Linda Coontz and Mildred Boggs (Cuppett-Weeka). In the bottom right photo are the bowling winners: Bobby Phillips (Hopemont) and Blanche Fredrick (Cuppett-Weeka), who won first place. Other participants winning trophies were Deasie Noe and Elva Snyder.

Third Annual Breast Cancer Benefit Slated

Alpine Lake Resort and Conference Center and the American Cancer Society will sponsor the third annual Breast Cancer Tournament on Sunday, Sept. 7. The Alpine Lake Resort, Terra Alta, is the site for this tournament, for women only, which will be a scramble with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. The fee is $45 per golfer, which will include prizes and a buffet dinner.

Foursomes are welcome, or persons may sign up individually to be included in a foursome. In registering, each person is asked to indicate her handicap. Checks are to be made out to the American Cancer Society and mailed to Shirley Young, Rt. 2, Unit 2, Box 10, Terra Alta, WV 26764. She can be reached by phone at 304-789-6912.

Along with this tournament, pink flags will be sold for $25 each. These flags may be purchased by anyone in memory of a friend or family member or as a salute to a surviving cancer patient. The flags will be placed on the putting green on the tournament day.

A half-hour presentation about breast cancer and the importance of self-examination will be given at about 5 p.m. on the tournament day. A buffet will follow, to which all are invited. The cost is $10 per person.

According to event organizers, approximately 100,000 new breast cancer patients are diagnosed each year. Of this number, 49,000 will not survive. Breast cancer is the second cause of cancer death in women, with lung cancer ranking first. About one of every eight women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime.

For more information or to register for the event, persons should contact Ms. Young (see above). Persons may also call Joe Lonigro at 304-789-2481.

CLASSES OF 1941-42

The Aurora High School classes of 1941-42 met together for their annual reunion at the Amboy United Methodist Church fellowship hall. Following the August 30 dinner, the following of the 1941 class and 1942 class enjoyed reminiscing and "catching up."

Those from 1941: Fred and Dorotha Forman, Gay and Ruby Rembold, Cumberland; Ray Rembold, and his daughter and son-in-law, Monroe Falls, Ohio; Cline and Zeta Schrock, Wadsworth, Ohio; Judy (Richter) Travis, Oakland; and Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Wotring of Fairmont. Class of 1942: James and Jean Arnett, Clarksburg; Stanley and Arva (Wotring) Baker, Mtn. Lake Park; Ronald Bolyard, Morgantown; Hancell and Mildred (Donham) Teets, local; Mary (Stemple) Jackson, Warren, Ohio, and her friends, Kathy Hardesty and Vesta; Ralph Lee, Oakland; and Mary Lee Mayle, Kingwood.

Letters from Arlie Slaughbaugh, Bernard McCrum, Virginia "Polly" Life and Jim Myers were also read.

An annual reunion is planned again for the fourth Saturday in 1998.

CLASS OF 1972

The Fairlea Restaurant was chosen by the Aurora High School Class of 1972 for its 25th year reunion. A dinner was served and highlights of members' lives shared.

Local attendees were Bill and Diane (Hauser) Bachtel, John Breedlove, Arthur and Janice (Wilt) Forman, Richard and Junell Harsh, Mike and Diane Lantz, Gary and Frances (Loughrie) Roth, Allan and Sebbie Simmons, and Fred and Janie (Adams) Tichnell.

Others attending were Tom and Debbie Martin, Rowlesburg; Larry and Janet (Stemple) Sigley, Swanton; Milton and Bonita Snyder, Union Bridge; Neil and Eileen Whitehair, Gormania; and teachers Jack Adams, Virginia Martin, and Martha Bolyard.

GNEGY REUNION

More than 100 people attended the annual Gnegy family reunion at the Dale and Mary Jane Gnegy farm on Aug. 24. It was decided at the business session that because schools begin so early, next year's reunion will be moved to the third Sunday in August.

MISSIONARIES AT MAPLE SPRING

David and Beverly Bassett and their sons, Daniel, Michael, and Stephen, spoke about their work in Venice-Mestre, Italy, at a Sunday evening meeting at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. The Bassetts work under the auspices of TEAM, The Evangelical Alliance Mission, and showed slides of the meeting place and some of the families and the activities they've begun. The family leaves Sept. 8 to return to Mestre to continue the work there after having spent the past year in the United States on furlough.

SMORGASBORD POSTPONED

Because of a conflicting date with the Potato Festival, the smorgasbord planned for September 13 at the Aurora UM Memorial building has been postponed until a later date, which will be announced soon.

LIPSCOMB/SMITH REUNION

The family of David Taswell and Iva Inez Lipscomb Smith will meet for a reunion this Sunday, August 31, at the Mt. Carmel Church on Limestone Road outside St. George. Dinner is scheduled to be served at noon. Relatives are urged to attend and all friends are also invited.

PERSONAL MENTION

Carl and Betty Fint returned recently from a vacation in New England. Their daughter Tina spent a week at Southampton, Long Island, in a marine science course. Her parents went to Cape Cod and Nantucket and visited in the Boston, Mass., area also. They also spent a few days in New Hampshire visiting with Betty's sister and her daughter, Dorothy Lyons, and Jennifer. They returned Aug. 16 to their home in Aurora.

Mary Lou Miller of Goldsboro, N.C., and her sister, Rita Sue Harsh, Amboy, visited last week with a classmate, Kathy Hardesty, and her mother, Beulah Hardesty, Aurora. Also visiting the Hardestys recently were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Elliott and two sons, Terra Alta, Helen Wilson of Mannington, David and Cathy Hardesty of Frametown, and Pat and Zack Dunkin of Deer Park.

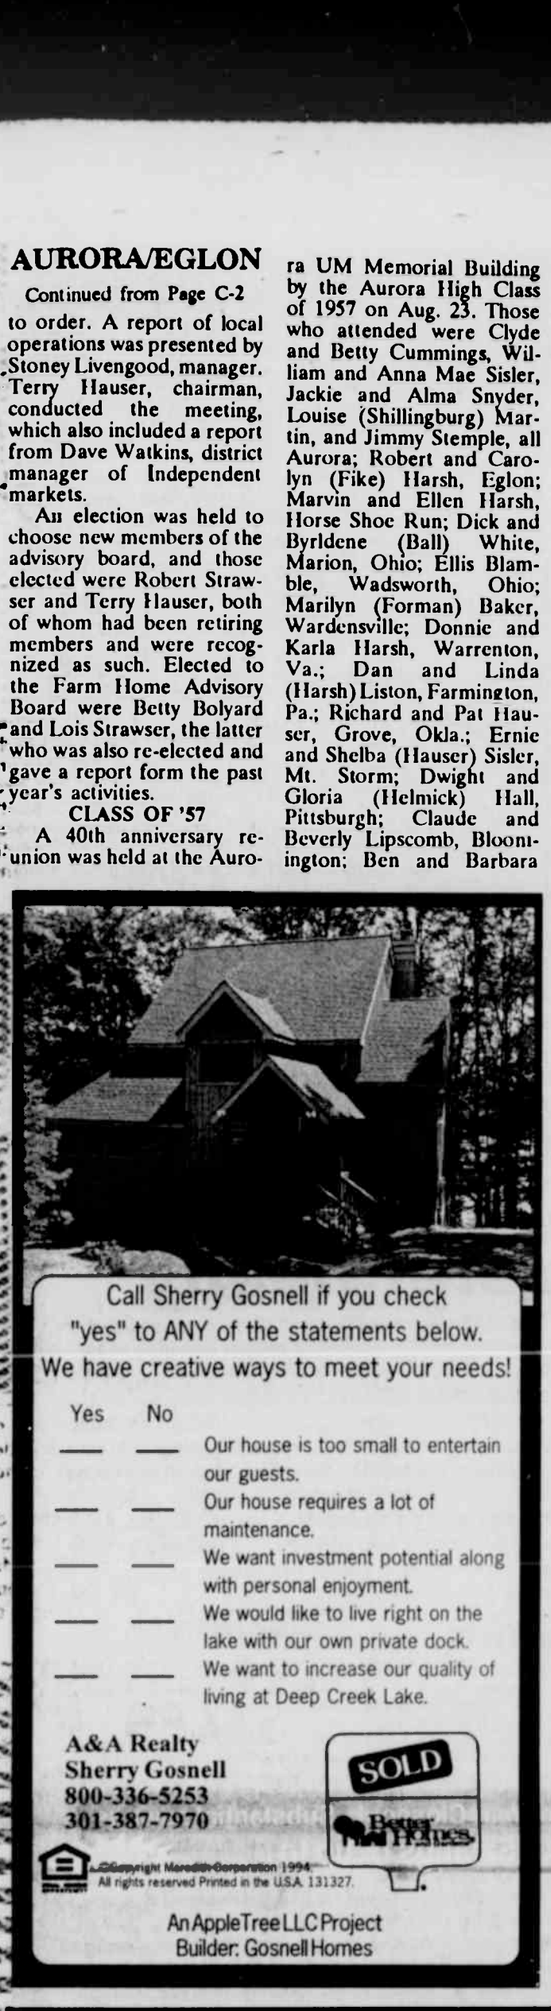
Gary and Julie Baker of Virginia Beach, Va., visited this past weekend with his family, Stephen and Carolyn Baker, Leah and Lauren, Terra Alta Pike, and with Julie's family, Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis, Eglon.

Bruce, Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold of Eglon visited Thursday to Saturday in Pittsburgh with Bruce's mother, Mrs. Eileen Rembold. Several area residents joined a bus trip to Jennerstown Playhouse to see a performance of "Moon Over Buffalo" on this past Sunday. Among those going were Dorothy Spaid, Thelma Simpson, Shirley Parsons, Keith and Delores Douglas, Lorain and Mary Jane Hanline, and Nancy Sisler.

Robert and Patience Myers of Seabrook, Texas, visited this week with his parents, Homer and Marguerite Myers, Aurora.

Saturday evening visitors with Ron and Avenell Parsons in Eglon were George, Rhonda, and Zack White, Abingdon, Md., and on Sunday, the Parsons family held a corn roast at the Aurora home of "Skip" and Jean Skipper of Kingwood.

David Layman of Eglon underwent eye surgery Monday at Morgantown.



Wilma Mae Teets, her daughters, Rita Sue Harsh and Mary Lou Miller, and her granddaughters, Maria Harsn and Jolena Slaughbaugh, went last Wednesday to Pittsburgh where they visited Mrs. Teets's sister, Eileen Rembold.

Sponsorship Of Meal Program Is Announced

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has announced the sponsorship of the Child and Adult Care Food Program for the local Head Start centers, located in Accident, Crellin, Friendsville, Jennings, Kitzmiller, and Oakland.

Eligibility for free or reduced-price meal reimbursement is based on family size and annual income from July 1, 1997, to June 30, 1998. Persons desiring specific details and wanting to determine whether or not they are eligible may telephone Sheila Bittinger at the GCCAC office, 301-334-9431, extension 125.

PIANO STUDENTS APPLY THEIR TALENT - Several students of local piano teachers plied their art last weekend in Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's first Student Piano Recital. Twelve young people, all at varying levels of training, went on stage to play pieces they had prepared and were met with appreciation from those in attendence. They were then presented with certificates from GLAF. The featured guest of the recital was Nancy McDill, a graduate of the Juilliard School and currently the rehearsal and performance pianist for the New York City Ballet. She also appeared as a featured pianist with the Symphony at Deep Creek this month. After her performance, Ms. McDill talked about her career and discussed the various paths open to pianists. She then answered several questions from the students and audience members. "We are very pleased to have been able to offer such an event," said Fred Stemple, executive director of GLAF. "An important part of our function is to enhance the education of our young people, and this is the kind of thing to do just that." Marcene Heubner, event organizer, noted that this will be an annual event and plans are already underway for next year. Student performers pictured above are, left to right, Nikoles James, Kera Rush, Erin Neil, Devon McClive, Angie Sincell, Crystal Yoder, Nathan Rawe, Cambrie Baylor, Miriam Sincall, Jennifer Sanders, Gina Powell, and Andrew Murray. Pictured below at the piano is Ms. McDill. Standing behind her, left to right, are Mrs. Heubner and piano teachers Rita M. Hart, Marianne Flinn, Elinor Benedict, and Susan Peterson (also a coordinator of the event).

BIRDHOUSES TO BENEFIT HOUSE OF HOPE - Local artisan Randall Glass is pictured here with birdhouses that he designed and handcrafted to be used as collection containers for donations to the House of Hope, a nonprofit organization located in Oakland. Founded in 1978 to fulfill the unmet needs of county residents, the House of Hope provides short-term emergency help for people when no other agency can assist, or when those agencies have exhausted their funds. The House of Hope operates four food pantries in the county, provides fuel assistance in limited amounts, and can also provide assistance with utility payments when a termination notice has been received. Materials to build the birdhouses were donated by Carol Slawson, owner of Just Us Styling & Tanning Salon, Accident. The birdhouses are currently at Lakeside Creamery, Deep Creek Lake, and Pizzazz Pizzeria at Wisp. Those wishing to contribute directly to the House of Hope may do so by mailing donations to P.O. Box 24, Oakland, Md 21550 or by calling 301-334-2357.

Garrett County Arts Council Honors "Friends"

The Garrett County Arts Council, Garrett County's official arts agency, recently recognized Ron Skidmore and Martin Heise as recipients of the council's annual "Friend of the Arts" award for "exemplary support" of the arts in Garrett County. Skidmore and Heise were each presented with a commemorative plaque and a gift of appreciation at the council's annual membership meeting.

Ron Skidmore is professor of art at Garrett Community College and past president of the Garrett County Arts Council. Since 1986, Skidmore has coordinated more than 100 exhibitions featuring regional artists at the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at GCC. He served as co-director of cultural events programming at the college for the past two years, and, for the past 10 years, he has coordinated informal Thursday evening meetings of local artists in the college's art room. Skidmore is an accomplished freelance artist with nearly 20 years of exhibition experience. Over the course of many years, he has volunteered time and expertise as judge and coordinator of numerous local and regional art displays and competitions.

Martin Heise, food and beverage director at the Will O' the Wisp and Wisp Resort restaurants, has been "a culinary friend" to Garrett County artists and presenters of the arts for many years, providing facilities and hospitality for recitals, benefits, unveilings, meetings, receptions, and special events. Most recently, he coordinated food and beverage service for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's benefit opening of the Garrett 8 Cinemas at Deep Creek Lake this past spring. Heise is an active board member of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and the House of Hope, as well as a member of the Garrett Choral Society and the Garrett County Arts Council.

Recipients of the annual "Friend of the Arts" awards are selected by the board of directors of the Garrett County Arts Council. Past recipients include Dorothy Leighton (1996) and Esther Yoder (1995).

Grantsville Man Convicted After Spotlighting Deer

A Grantsville man will be spending the next nine months in jail and must pay a $1,000 fine after being convicted this week in Garrett County District Court on charges of spotlighting with an implement capable of killing deer and driving while intoxicated (DWI).

David C. Wilburn, 40, had been charged after the Natural Resources Police (NRP) helicopter observed a spotlighting violation in a field near Bittinger on the night of July 5. Police on the ground stopped Wilburn and his passenger, Ivan J. Yutzy, and charged both men in connection with the violation. Wilburn was also charged with DWI.

In sentencing Wilburn on the spotlighting conviction, Judge Ralph M. Burnett handed him a six-month jail sentence, imposed a $1,000 fine, and placed him on two years of supervised probation. The DWI conviction netted Wilburn an additional one-year sentence, all but 90 days of which were suspended, to be served consecutively with the first sentencing. He was also ordered to attend addiction counseling while in jail and attend Alcoholics Anonymous for two years.

Yutzy's case was continued to a future date.

Domestic Assault Ends In Conviction Of Oakland Man

An Oakland man was sentenced to 30 days in jail after being convicted of assaulting his girlfriend in an incident that occurred at their Oak Hall Drive residence in May.

Steven Joseph McGreevy, 42, pleaded not guilty to second-degree assault in Garrett County District Court proceedings, but the guilty verdict passed by visiting Allegany District Court Judge Paul Stakem resulted in a 90-day sentence, 60 days of which were suspended. The judge also fined McGreevy $55 and placed him on two years of supervised probation.

The case stemmed from McGreevy's May arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies, who responded to a call from his girlfriend in which she reported that an allegedly intoxicated McGreevy had just punched her in the face with his fist and taken $400 from her in the course of the argument. An additional charge against McGreevy of felony theft resulted in a not guilty verdict.

In other district court news, a Kitzmiller man was sentenced after being convicted of a charge of resisting arrest.

Robert Eugene Johnson Jr., 32, was sentenced to 366 days in jail after pleading guilty to the charge, which stemmed from his actions when personnel from the sheriff's office and state police attempted to arrest him on a retake warrant. Johnson reportedly pulled away from the police as they attempted to take him into custody, attempted to run away, and was eventually subdued by the officers after a struggle. A second charge of resisting arrest was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Johnson also pleaded guilty to a traffic charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. He was handed a 30-day sentence for that conviction, to be served concurrently with the resisting arrest conviction.

Joshua Anthony DeWitt, 18, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop after an attended property damage motor vehicle accident. He was handed a 60-day sentence, 30 days of which were suspended, fined $55, and placed on three years of unsupervised probation. The case stemmed from DeWitt's July arrest in Mtn. Lake Park by sheriff's deputies after he reportedly walked away from an accident scene after striking a parked car. The charging statement also alleged that DeWitt had taken the vehicle he was driving without the owner's permission.

Additional charges of unlawful taking of a motor vehicle, felony theft of a motor vehicle, and felony malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

A probation before judgment (PBJ) was handed out in two cases that appeared in court last week, meaning that the cases will not reflect a criminal record if both subjects comply with all of the terms of their probation.

Angela Kathleen Kildow, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a PBJ, fined $225 and placed on 18 months of supervised probation after pleading guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and possession of marijuana. The charges stemmed from her March arrest by the Maryland State Police on Rock Lodge Road just off Route 219. After Kildow was stopped and charged with DWI, the subsequent search reportedly turned up a bag of marijuana in her coat pocket.

John Hayes Ambrose, 65, Oakland, was handed a PBJ, fined $55 and placed on 30 days of unsupervised probation after entering a guilty plea to selling alcohol to an underage individual in May. The state police filed the charge after Ambrose allegedly sold beer to a 20-year old man at J.G.'s Pub.

Several cases were dismissed by the court, as the charges involved were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Joseph Ray Kisselovich, 42, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on charges of felony theft and felony theft conspiracy, stemming from his January arrest in connection with a theft from an Oakland residence.

Daniel Raymond Scib II, 20, Dameron, was not prosecuted on charges of obstructing and hindering a police officer in the performance of lawful duties, and willfully contributing to, encouraging, causing and tending to cause an act which rendered juveniles delinquent. The charges stemmed from his arrest at a party on Pleasant Valley Road this past June involving underage drinking.

Finally, a DWI hearing resulted in a guilty plea from and a conviction for Rory Stephen Bernard, 23, Swanton. He was fined $305 and placed on one year of supervised probation.

A Clarification

In last week's report of district court proceedings, charges filed by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office against John Frederick Mellinger Jr., 70, and John Frederick Mellinger III, 43, in connection with an underage drinking party on the Mellinger farm near Swanton on Memorial Day weekend were correctly reported as being not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office; however, the account went on to state that the charges stemmed from the pairs' arrest by sheriff's deputies.

To clarify, the account should have stated that both men were served with criminal summonses by sheriff's deputies, rather than arrested.

Benefit Barbecue Slated For Monday

A chicken barbecue will be held on Labor Day (Monday, Sept. 1) at Lakeside Creamery along Rt. 219 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The barbecue will feature barbecued chicken breasts, rolls, and chips for $4 per person.

Sponsored by the friends of the House of Hope and the Lakeside Creamery, all proceeds will be donated to the House of Hope in Oakland. Use of the barbecue grill is being donated by the Lions Club.

Those wishing to donate to the House of Hope directly may do so by mailing a contribution to P.O. Box 24, Oakland, MD 21550, or by calling 301-334-2357.

SOCIETY CELEBRATES 40TH - Seventy people attended the 40th anniversary celebration of the first organizational meeting of the Springs Historical Society, which was held on August 22, 1957. Six of the original volunteers, pictured above, were present for the celebration, which was held Friday, 40 years to the day later than the first meeting. Pictured from left are: Alton Miller, Mildred Yoder, Bertha Rodamer, Dr. Alta Schrock, Della Miller, and Jean Maust Durst. Mrs. Durst related how volunteers scrubbed lard off the walls of an old butcher house to prepare the building to house some of the museum's first pieces. Alton Miller talked of the cooperation the group received from area residents who donated items to the society. The keynote address was given by Dr. Schrock, founder and executive director, who urged those present to continue to work toward preserving local heritage for upcoming generations. Joseph Bender, president, led the program and announced that the Springs Museum is open again after complying with all of the Department of Labor's requirements for an occupancy permit. There was a display of photographs and newspaper articles from the past 40 years, plus a tour of the museum led by Bender. Museum hours are: 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. In celebration of its reopening, the entrance fee is being waived.

4-H Club News

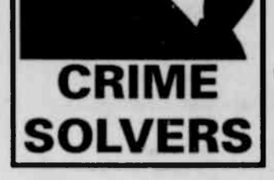
NORTH GLADE
by Emily Green, reporter

The regular monthly meeting of the North Glade 4-H club was held Aug. 21, with 13 members and 16 adults in attendance.

All members told about their entries in the Garrett County Fair and the ribbons they received. The Clovers won third place in the fair parade with their float. Our booth received a blue ribbon for soil conservation.

We decided to have a Harvest Social sometime in early November. Each family is to bring a cake for the cake walk and a baked good to sell.

Megan Bernard and Jesse Woods gave demonstrations concerning their cats. Snacks were served by Brenda and Megan Bernard.



Appreciation Corn Roast Scheduled

The Mtn. Fresh Producers' annual customer appreciation corn roast will be held this Saturday, Aug. 30, from 10 a.m. until noon at the Mtn. Fresh pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot. All are invited to attend, enjoy the free corn, and sign up for door prizes that will consist of market baskets donated by the Mtn. Fresh Producers.

CRIME SOLVERS

The case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers involves the theft of items from inside a vehicle.

Between the hours of 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. on July 17, someone entered a 1995 Dodge Dakota pickup, which was in the public parking area along Sang Run Road near McHenry. The person then removed several items from the truck, including clothes, prescription glasses, cash, and a knife. The loss is estimated to be about $880.

Persons who have information about this or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 301-387-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Senior Center Activities For September Noted

The activities of the Mary Browning Senior Center for the month of September are as follows. Tole painting will be taught by Louise Kitzmiller on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. until noon.

Exercises will be held every Wednesday and Friday 9-11 a.m., and craft classes are scheduled each Wednesday and Friday 9-11 a.m.

Larry Cosner of the Fort Pendleton Civil War Round Table will present The History of Garrett County During the Civil War on Wednesday, Sept. 3, from 11:30 a.m. until noon.

"Chair Dancing," an exercise video, will be offered for senior participation on Friday, Sept. 5, 11-11:45 a.m.

Jane Sickler of Senior Information and Assistance will offer information items and updates on senior issues on Wednesday, Sept. 10, from 11:30 a.m. until noon.

Blood pressure screening will be provided by Gail Dever of the Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach on Friday, Sept. 12, 10:30-11:45 a.m. She will also speak on nutrition for seniors.

A ride on the Evening Star on Deep Creek Lake is also scheduled for Sept. 12. Those participating will leave the center at 1 p.m.

"Oldies but Goodies," a sing-a-long, will be led by Pat Steyer at the piano. This music event will be held Wednesday, Sept. 17, from 11:30 a.m. until noon.

Anwar Eye Center outreach worker Megan Coleman, L.D.O., will conduct a seminar on eye diseases and their treatment on Friday, Sept. 19, from 11 a.m. until noon.

Diabetes, its symptoms, and complications will be discussed by Beth Newcomb, R.N., of Garrett Memorial Hospital on Wednesday, Sept. 24, from 11:30 a.m. until noon.

Improving memory with recall games will be the topic presented by Irmgard Kolcielniak, Garrett County Extension Office, on Friday, Sept. 26, 11-11:45 a.m.

The senior center is operated by Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging. Anyone wishing more information about the activities may call Liz Edgar, 301-334-9431, ext. 134.

A Senior Nutrition lunch is served at noon on Wednesdays and Fridays at the Mary Browning Center. Persons aged 60 and older and their spouses are encouraged to contribute as much towards the full cost of the meal ($3.25) as they are able. Reservations are necessary and can be obtained by calling 301-334-9431, ext. 131, two days in advance or by 9 a.m. on the meal day.

Menus are available at the Senior Center and also in the Senior Citizens' Menus column of The Republican.

Salisbury VFD Slates Dinner

The Salisbury, Pa., Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance will be sponsoring an all-you-can-eat buffet dinner on Sunday, Sept. 14, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Salisbury Fire Hall.

The main course for the meal is roast beef, served with a variety of side dishes, choice of beverage, and dessert. Takeouts are available. The cost will be $5.50 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and children under the age of five eat for free. For further information, interested persons may call 814-662-4354.

. . . but about the most trailblazing you'll be doing is finding your way from your back door to the tennis courts, enjoying an evening stroll down lovely wooded trails, or slipping over to your own private dock for some of the best boating in all of Maryland – skimming atop the tranquil, blue waters of Deep Creek Lake.

And though it may seem to be a world unto itself — with its peaceful setting and crisp, clean air — this little diamond in Garrett County's crown is literally just minutes from great shopping, two 18-hole golf courses, a movie theater, and all the fine dining that makes being on the mountain top so special.

Croston Promoted To Rank Of Major

James O. Croston Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Croston, Mtn. Lake Park, was recently promoted to major in the United States Army Reserve. He serves in a field artillery battalion in Tulsa, Okla., and is a veteran of Operation Desert Storm.

Croston was registered as a professional engineer in the state of Oklahoma in July and works with the Army Corps of Engineers.

The major lives in Tulsa with his wife Susan and their two children, Kaitlyn and Connor.

James B. McCroskey received practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) Advanced Camp at Fort Lewis, Tacoma, Wash.

The camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training. Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, Guard, or Reserve.

The cadet, a student at Frostburg State University, is the son of James A. McCroskey, Boiling Springs Road. His wife Jodi is the daughter of Daniel Elliett, Fingerboard Road. He is a 1991 graduate of Southern High School, Oakland.

U.S. Navy Airman Robert D. Beachy, son of Olen D. and Ada M. Beachy, Amish Road, Grantsville, recently completed a six-day port visit to Corfu, Greece, while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy, currently on a six-month deployment in the Mediterranean Sea and Persian Gulf.

During the port visit, Beachy and fellow crew members hosted more than 1,000 visitors and completed a community relations project. Sailors and marines from the carrier painted, repaired, and landscaped at the Evangelical Church of Corfu. In addition, they also cleared an acre of land infested with 18-foot-high bamboo and thorn bushes for preparations in the construction of a youth center. Beachy's ship's gospel choir also performed for the church's congregation.

Aircraft carriers like the USS John F. Kennedy are forward deployed around the world to maintain a U.S. presence and provide rapid response in times of crisis.

Beachy, a 1993 graduate of Northern Garrett High School of Accident, joined the Navy in January 1995.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

Green tartar sauce is super with any kind of fish. "Color" mayonnaise with lots of chopped dill, parsley and fresh chives. Add flavor with capers, shallots, cornichons and dijon mustard, plus salt and pepper to taste. Thin with good olive oil if needed.

Super summer salad mixes as many kinds of tomatoes as you can find: red and gold cherry tomatoes, halved, and flavorful big ones cut into chunks. Top with balls of soft goat cheese, plenty of basil, olive oil and balsamic vinegar. Toss gently. Mmmmmmm!

Buttery-flavored Yukon Gold potatoes are wonderful mashed. Cook until tender, mash with a little chicken broth to moisten, then stir a dollop of sour cream and a pinch of ground nutmeg.

Did you ask peppercorns? Green ones, picked young, are soft with a mild flavor. Black pepper berries are picked slightly underripe and then sun-dried. They're strong and aromatic. Mild white peppercorns are mature berries with the outer skin removed.

Ask about delicious food, and you'll get the answer dine out soon at

Farming In Maryland.....

Farm Bureau Supports ESA Policy Changes

Proposed policy changes to the Endangered Species Act that involve farmers and ranchers could benefit both species and landowners, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF).

In comments recently submitted to the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, the farm group said the government's proposed "safe harbor" and "no surprises" policies could create the type of "win-win" scenario for species and landowners that Farm Bureau has long advocated.

"Farm Bureau believes that endangered species protection can be more effectively achieved by removing disincentives and recognizing the efforts of private landowners and public land users who provide food and shelter for listed species, rather than by imposing land use restrictions and penalties," said Richard Newpher, executive director of AFBF's Washington, D.C., office. "Safe harbor agreements can help remove this disincentive."

Under the safe harbor plan, the landowner would be responsible only for the protection of a predetermined baseline number of species or size of habitat. The landowner would not be restricted or penalized under the ESA for any additional numbers of the species that might take up residence on the property. Any increase in species number or habitat resulting from the safe harbor agreement is an asset to the species, and the landowner retains some flexibility to use the land in the most productive manner, Newpher said.

Farm Bureau praised the plan to implement the safe harbor policy through landowner agreements instead of exclusively through habitat conservation plans (HCPs). Landowner agreements provide more flexibility and are less costly than HCPs, Newpher said. HCPs have not generally met the needs of private landowners, he added.

The "no surprises" policy provides regulatory certainty for landowners by protecting them from additional regulation under the ESA when they enter into an HCP, Newpher said.

"People who agree to take certain actions to protect listed species need to know that their commitments will be honored and that no new obligations will be placed on them," he said. "This is especially true for landowners, who may require a long lead time before committing to certain actions."

Farm Bureau also supports proposed candidate conservation agreements, which would allow farmers and ranchers to enter agreements that protect threatened species. But Newpher voiced concern that the government may not be able to deliver on its proposed assurances.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS - Eight local 4-H/FFA youth were recently awarded 1997 scholarships by the Garrett County Livestock Association. The selection process was based on a completed application, which included an essay and a personal interview by the selection committee. Students receiving awards and the colleges they will be attending were, pictured above, from left, seated: Kenneth R. Cumminga, Potomac State College; Adam Herbert (tie for second place), University of Maryland; Dawn Lohr, Garrett Community College; Jennifer Barnard (first place) University of Maryland; Wayne Mayfield (tie for second place), West Virginia University; and Clint Malone, Frostburg State University. Standing, from left, are members of the GC Livestock Association: Scott Harvey and Darvin Pysell, directors; Louise Pysell, secretary; Glenna Miller, president; and George Keller, vice president. Not present for the photo were Keith Cannon, association scholarship coordinator, and recipients Georgie Bolyard (Allegany College of Maryland) and Lisa Hutzel (Frostburg State University). The Association received donations of lambs purchased at the fair by Beckman Lumber Company and Buffalo Coal Company. Photo by Tom Holler.

Local Southern States Co-ops Plan Meetings

"Seventy-four years ago, farmers organized Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," said Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Southern States: The Cooperative Advantage," the theme of this year's local annual membership meetings, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improving farm inputs and services," added Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Southern States Oakland Cooperative, Inc., and Grantsville Ag Service.

At the Oakland Cooperative, board nominees are Ronald Brenneman, William Grose, W. Brooks Hamilton and Randall Lacy. The FHAC slate consists of Harriett DeBerry and Sandy Schmidt.

At Grantsville Ag Service, board nominees and FHAC nominations will be taken from the floor.

A taped report from Wayne A. Boutwell, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, will discuss the co-op's supply and marketing operations for the last fiscal year.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed. Local FHAC and board members completing terms will be recognized.

The Southern States Oakland Cooperative meeting is scheduled for 8:00 p.m., Friday, Sept. 12, at Pleasant Valley Community Center, Oakland.

The Grantsville Ag Service meeting is scheduled for 8:00 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 11, at the Grantsville Volunteer Fire hall, Grantsville.

Southern States Cooperative, headquartered in Richmond, Va., operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products, and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in West Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The cooperative's membership totaled about 190,000, and the annual volume was more than $1.1 billion last year.

Crop Prices Down In July

The prices received in Maryland and Delaware for crops have decreased from June except for all hay, baled, which showed a significant increase of 27%. The same trend seems to appear on the national level, with all crops showing a decrease.

Crop Condition Shows Improvement With Rainfall

The weather for the week ending on August 24 showed some improvements for crop development in Maryland, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. The rainfall in the early part of the week slightly improved crop conditions, with 53% of the field corn in either very poor or poor condition, while 47% was in fair to excellent condition.

Soybeans exhibited some improvement in condition, with 17% very poor, 16% poor, 28% fair, 32% good, and 7% excellent.

The sorghum crop was 27% very poor, 14% poor, 28% fair, 41% good, and 10% excellent.

Pastures continued to improve with 32% being very poor, 17% poor, 28% fair, and 23% good.

Hay supplies were 26% very short, 34% short, 39% adequate, and 1% surplus.

The orchards improved somewhat with apples at 1% very poor, 5% poor, 36% fair, 53% good, and 5% excellent. Peaches were 4% very poor, 10% poor, 44% fair, 34% good, and 8% excellent.

The rainfall early in the week created an average of 4.7 days suitable for fieldwork. The extra moisture came at a needed time and greatly improved the soil conditions. This can be seen by topsoil moisture showing 1% very short, 30% short, 65% adequate conditions, and 4% surplus. Subsoil moisture was 23% very short, 23% short, 49% adequate, and 5% surplus.

Md. Corn And Soybean Production Forecast Down

Maryland corn and soybean production are both expected to be down from 1996. Corn production, based on conditions on August 1, is expected to total 38.3 million bushels, down 40.8% from last year's 64.6 million bushel production.

An average yield of 85 bushels per acre is expected from 450,000 acres of corn. If the expected yield of 85 bushels is realized, it will be 54 bushels below last year's 139 bushel average.

Soybean production is forecast at 15.37 million bushels, down 13.5% from last year's 17.8 million bushel production. Soybeans are expected to average 29 bushels per acre, 8 bushels below the 37 bushel per acre yield in 1996. Soybeans are expected to be harvested from 530,000 acres, 50,000 acres more than the 480,000 acres harvested last year.

Maryland barley production, based on August 1 conditions, is expected to total 3.85 million bushels, 29% above last year's 2.99 million bushel production. The average yield is forecast at 77 bushels, 16 bushels above last year's 61 bushel average. Harvested acreage, at 50,000 acres, is 1,000 acres more than the 49,000 acres harvested in 1996.

Apple production for 1997 is expected to total 26.0 million pounds, 10.3% less than last year's 29 million pounds.

Alfalfa hay production for 1997 is forecast at 180,000 tons, down 36% from last year's 282,000 ton production. Alfalfa yield is expected to average 3.0 tons per acre for 1997, 1.70 tons below the 4.70 ton average for last year. Alfalfa is expected to be harvested from 60,000 acres, unchanged from the harvested area in 1996.

Other hay production for this year is expected to total 352,000 tons, down 15% from last year's 416,000 ton production. Yield for other hay is estimated to be 2.2 tons per acre, 0.4 ton below last year's 2.60 tons per acre. Other hay is expected to be harvested from 160,000 acres, the same as the previous year's harvested area.

DAYTON BROADWATER AWARD PRESENTED - The Dayton Broadwater Beef Citizenship Award was presented this year to Cody Brenneman, member of the Bittinger 4-H Club, for his participation in beef and beef-related activities as well as his encouragement to other youth showing beef products. He was given a certificate, a plaque, and a savings bond. This is the second year this award has been given. It is in honor of Dayton Broadwater, who was a life-long supporter of 4-H and FFA. Seated, left to right, are Kanya Knox (Broadwater family member), Cody Brenneman, and Kria Knox (Broadwater family). Standing in the same order are April Enlow, 1997 farm queen, and Broadwater family members Donna Knox, Klata Knox holding Beretta Liller, and Darla Liller.

Ag Statistics Service Reports On Egg Production

Maryland laying flocks produced 73 million eggs during June 1997, of which 66 million were table eggs and 7 million were hatching eggs. The average rate of lay was 71.4%. The average number of layers on hand during June 1997 was 3,410,000. On July 1, 1997, 11.0% of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 34.5% of all layers had been through a molt.

U.S. egg production totaled 6.27 billion during June 1997, up 2% from 6.17 billion produced during June 1996. Production included 5.25 billion table eggs and 1.02 billion hatching-type eggs. Hatching eggs included 958 million from broiler-type flocks and 57 million from egg-type flocks. The total number of layers during June 1997 averaged 299 million, up 2% from the average for June 1996.

June egg production per layer was 20.9 eggs, compared to 21.0 a year earlier. On July 1, 1997, 4.8% of the layers in the U.S. were being molted and 21.1% had been through a molt. Egg-type chicks hatched during June totaled 37.0 million, up 8% from June 1996. Additional egg-type hatching eggs in incubators on July 1 totaled 29.9 million, down 1% from the previous year.

Pullets hatched and intended for future placement in domestic egg-type hatchery supply flocks totaled 256,000 during June 1997, down 9% from the 282,000 replacements hatched in June 1996.

The June 1997 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 703 million, was up 5% from June of the previous year. There were 588 million broiler-type eggs in incubators on June 1, 1997, up 4% from June 1, 1996. Leading breeders intend to place 6.01 million broiler-type pullet chicks in domestic broiler-type hatchery supply flocks from chicks hatched during June 1997, down 3% compared to a year ago.

In Search Of Selbysport

Bustling Garrett County Town Displaced By Rising Waters

By Peggy Santamaria

Ask a group of Garrett County residents where Selbysport is, and some will answer, "It doesn't exist anymore. It is under water." But don't tell that to the people who live there.

Founded when the north part of Garrett County was still attached to Allegany County, Selbysport was named, it seems, for Evan Shelby, a military man who patented land in the area in 1773.

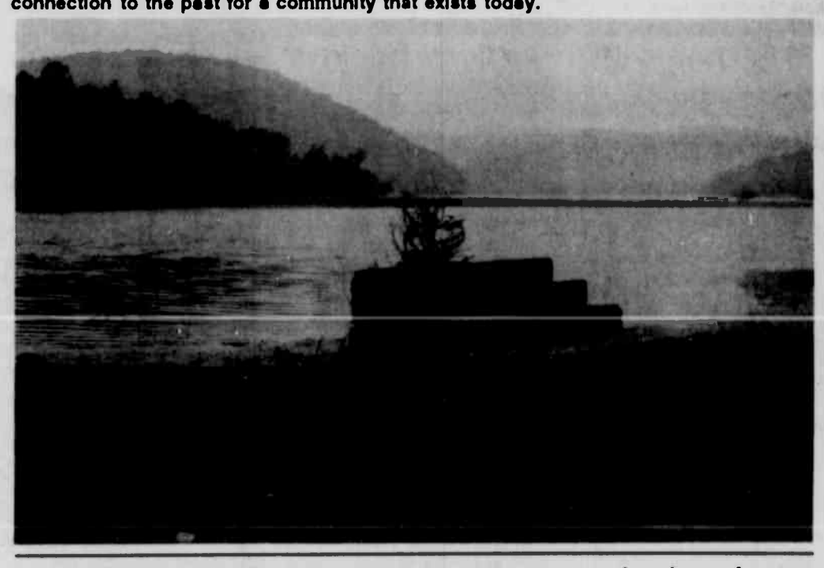
By 1800, 54 families lived in the thriving town, and by 1807 a wooden bridge spanned the Youghiogheny River to connect the eastern to western portions of the town that was rapidly growing there.

Selbysport boasted a post office, school, church, stores, and a stage coach route linking Morgantown to Cumberland and points east. The road that ran through the town and across the bridge at the river is known now as the Old Morgantown Road.

The railroad station in the town hosted a daily train stop even into the 20th century. The amount of commerce and travel to Selbysport necessitated it.

But the 18th and 19th century town-folk were not the first residents of the area. Several thousand years ago, on these same river banks, Native Americans established settlements. Those who have dug in the dirt along the banks have found much evidence of these very early inhabitants and their lifestyle.

To the north of Selbysport are Buffalo Run and Mill Run. To the south is Friendsville. This northwestern portion of Garrett County was bustling with life throughout the 19th and well into the 20th century. So what happened to Selbysport? Some will answer, "It flooded out."



It all goes back to St. Patrick's Day, March 17, 1936. Pittsburgh, Pa., flooded. Something would need to be done to control the flow of water through that area.

A ROAD LESS TRAVELED - Once a busy thoroughfare traveled by stagecoach and later by car, Old Morgantown Road now carries only local traffic. The sign, above left, by the roadside warns the unknowing, "Road Ends In Water." The waters of the Youghiogheny River were spanned by a bridge for over 140 years. Old Morgantown Road linked east and west banks of the waterside town of Salbysport. By crossing the bridge one could easily reach the post office, above right, on the hill west of town. Today, a traveler down this stretch of road will encounter ghosts of a former life and reminders of a time gone by. Where the Yough now spreads across the land forming a lake, steps to nowhere, pictured below left, rise at the water's edge. Salbysport Methodist Church, pictured below right, was built on high ground and stands as a connection to the past for a community that exists today.

The federal flood control authority began to examine and pursue the idea of a series of dams along the Youghiogheny River south of Pittsburgh that would contain the waters in a lake-like reservoir.

And so it began. The river god was to be appeased and, to accomplish this, communities along its banks, south of the dam at Confluence, Pa., would be sacrificed. Geise, Buffalo, Guard, Summerfield, Jockey Hollow, Watsondale, and Selbysport would provide the basin to hold the surging river.

Slowly the project developed. Several years' preparation went into the design and plans. Before construction of dams could begin, communities would need to be moved. Houses were torn down and residents moved. Construction of the dam at Confluence began in 1938. The flood control corridor progressed.

The venture was suspended during World War II but with the coming of peacetime, work continued.

In Selbysport, as in the other communities, houses were demolished or dismantled and moved. Railroad tracks were taken up. Families packed their belongings and left, some turning away from ancestral homes and going to other towns, some moving to higher ground, but not leaving the area.

The church, post office, and school had been built on high ground originally. They would be spared the rush of water. So, too, would homes built in the 1880s on the hills of Old Morgantown Road.

Stripped of vestiges of commercial viability and community life, Selbysport awaited the wash of river that would expand into a lake and cover most of what had been, for over 150 years, a town.

The waters did come and fill the valley between the lush mountains.

But the bridge remained. When the lake would seasonally recede toward the main river channel, the bridge would be passable. At other times, for reasons of safety, the bridge was to be closed.

A disagreement ensued as to which agency had authority over and responsibility for maintenance of the bridge. Responsibility for enforcement of regulations for use of the bridge were also a bone of contention. Whose problem was it?

A decision was finally reached. The problem would be most easily solved by being removed. The answer, it seems, was to remove the problem by removing the bridge. The tenuous connection of east and west Selbysport was severed in the 1950s. The bridge, which had been there in one form or another since 1807, was blown up.

By that time, like Job in the Bible story, Selbysport had been subjected to all manner of affliction. It had been dismantled, flooded, and dynamited. It is little wonder that many people think there is nothing left of it.

But, having dug its heels in, so to speak, Selbysport remained as a community, if not a full-fledged town.

GCC Offers Free Adult Basic Ed.

The Continuing Education Department of Garrett Community College is offering county residents the opportunity to complete their education through the Adult Basic Education (ABE) program.

Classes will provide assessment in math and reading to anyone over age 16 who is not enrolled in the public school system.

All lessons in this GCC program are self-paced and individualized. This allows students to enter at any time rather than on prescribed dates.

No pre-registration or application is required so students can walk in to any class. Those who wish may get more information before attending by call Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304 or the Continuing Education Division at 301-387-3069.

The ABE classes will be held in various communities in the county beginning the first week in September, after Labor Day.

In the Oakland GCC Center, classes will be held Mondays, 6-9:15 p.m.; Mondays and Wednesdays, 9 a.m.-12:15 p.m.; and Tuesdays, 6-9:15 p.m.

At the Deer Park Community Center students will meet on Thursdays, 9 a.m.-1:15 p.m.

Grantsville Elementary School will host a class on Mondays, 5:30-8:45 p.m.

Friendsville Library will hold a class on Wednesdays, 10 a.m.-1:15 p.m.

The ABE courses offered by GCC are supported by a grant from the Maryland State Department of Education and are free to all students.

GIVING OF THEIR TIME AND TALENTS members of the Students for Christ Club from Northern High School painted this mural for display at the Mountain Top Ministerial Association booth at the Garrett County Fair recently. Pastor Randy Nairn, who chaired the booth this year, said the painting, which symbolizes the past, present, and future action of the ministerial association, was unveiled at the vespers service held at the fair. "It was well received," he said. The painting will replace one that has been used for about a dozen years at the association's fair booth. The artists and their club advisor pictured left to right are Tonya Brenneman, Hannah Schmuck, John Brobst, advisor, and Levi Schmuck.

"The Tempest" To Be Presented At Frostburg St.

A presentation of a Shakespearean classic will mark the beginning of another semester at Frostburg State University, as the Cambridge University Amateur Dramatic Club returns to campus. The ADC will present "The Tempest" at 8 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 12, in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. Admission is free and open to the public.

FSU English professor Rochelle Smith will present an introductory lecture on "The Tempest" at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 11, in the Lane Center Greenhouse. The discussion, titled "From King Kong to Captain Kirk: Shakespeare's 'Tempest' and 20th Century Pop Culture," will give theatergoers a better understanding of the Shakespearean work and how it has been adapted for today's world. A reception with refreshments will be held following the talk and allow for interaction with some of the ADC actors.

The story of "The Tempest" centers around Prospero, Duke of Milan, and his daughter Miranda. They are set adrift at sea by Antonio, Prospero's brother, who wants Prospero's rightful place as Duke. With only minimum supplies and Prospero's literary books, the father and daughter wash ashore on an island inhabited by spirits and monsters. Using his mystical literary knowledge, Prospero becomes the lord and master of the spirits. When he encounters a ship of his old enemies, Prospero raises a tempest to strand the enemies on his island and holds their fates in his hands.

ADC's presentation of "The Tempest" is being directed by Paul King, who has experienced considerable theatrical success at Cambridge and has won awards for his direction at the National Student Drama Festival. The Cambridge Evening News has heralded King as "the university's most talented young director."

King describes his production of "The Tempest" as a "requiem to colonialism, revealing a despotic Prospero presiding over his decaying, magical empire." He promises a "visually stunning realization, combining dance, mime, and puppetry" including grotesque masks, wind-up children's toys, and magical illusion. The Cambridge theatrical crew calls the production a "fast, funny, and compelling show."

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

On Sunday mornings the white-spired Selbysport Methodist Church, on the corner of Addison-Friendsville and Old Morgantown roads, fills with neighbors gathering together in prayer.

To the south, the old Selbysport school house stands. It now serves as a family home.

Circling the seven miles through Friendsville to reach the west bank of the river, one can find the old post office, which is also now a residence.

Across the road from the post office, the oldest remaining house in Selbysport, built in 1882, stands. From its front porch is a vista of green sweeping down to the still silver waters of the lake. In the silent distance tiny boats glide by. Blue herons stalk on tall skinny legs along shallow shore-lines. Across the water the wooded mountains stretch north and south.

Mary Thornburg, resident of this house, rocked on her porch one recent August afternoon. She said this story shouldn't really be written because then more people will learn the secret. More people will find out, she said, that there is another lake in Garrett County, and it is pristine, unspoiled, and peaceful.

They will discover that there is a place where silence floats along the still waters and breezes are cool on bright summer days. This place is Selbysport on Youghiogheny Lake.

Off The Wall Coffee House

ARTIST MIKE HALE-COOPER is pictured performing at the Off The Wall Coffee House, located in the dining room of Dr. Willy's Seafood Restaurant at Deep Creek Lake. A number of diversified artists perform at the Coffee House, which can be reached for a schedule of performances or other information by calling 301-387-7380.

The Off The Wall Coffee House, owned and operated by Willy and Penney Hughes and located in the dining room of Dr. Willy's Seafood Restaurant, opened this past May at Deep Creek Lake.

The coffee house offers an acoustically dynamic room to enjoy and interact with various regional and local talent in a laid back and casual environment. All 30 plus seats in the coffee house/restaurant have a good view of the artist who performs from a 6-by-8-foot stage one foot off the floor.

Hughes says, "There is nothing quite like the Coffee House anywhere around here. The artist is the attraction and the food is great. No admission is charged at the door; however, donations are solicited for the artist, who receives all the contributions.

According to Hughes, discussions are under way to produce some small-cast plays this fall and get some diverse, even "off the wall," artists to perform.

For more information, interested persons may call Off The Wall Coffee House at 301-387-7380.

Frostburg State Theatre Announces 1997-98 Season

Frostburg State's University Theatre recently announced the shows for its upcoming 1997-98 season. This year's selections contain a blend of theatre classics and contemporary drama.

The season is launched with "Tales of the Lost Formicans" by Constance Congdon. The play will be presented on October 10, 11, 16, 17, and 18 at 8 p.m., with a 2 p.m. matinee on October 12. The play, often described as a "travel guide," centers on life in Middle America as viewed by aliens from outer space. The alien observation allows the playwright to dwell appropriately on the "human species" and the many concepts of "alien" and "alienation." Congdon's view of the human condition is "simultaneously provocative and compassionate." The play is directed by Linda McCulloch.

"Tartuffe," the most popular of Moliere's plays, will be presented on November 22, 23, and December 5, 6, and 7 at 8 p.m. and at 2 p.m. on November 24. "Tartuffe" opened in 1669 and was greatly influenced by the Commedia del'Arte. The farce shows how easily a person (or a society) can be "duped" as Orgon, the patriarch of a French family, falls for the "religious zealousness" of his houseguest, Tartuffe. Smitten with Tartuffe's "reverence," Orgon is willing to abandon his life and wealth to the man whose deception is obvious to others. Directed by Lynn Broderick, the play has been described as a "hilariously charming comedy."

The musical production this season will be Kurt Weill and Bertolt Brecht's "The Threepenny Opera," based on an 18th century work by John Gay. The production will be presented on March 11, 12, 13, and 14 at 8 p.m. and March 15 at 2 p.m. In 1928, "The Threepenny Opera" premiered in Berlin and has since been translated in 18 different languages and has appeared on the American stage since the 1950s. The story revolves around the underground world of Victorian London and exploits the notorious outlaw Mack the Knife. "Although the production encompasses the elements of a traditional musical comedy, it has a deeper message surrounding capitalism and modern morality," stated the director, Linda McCulloch.

The final production will be "You Can't Take It With You," one of the most popular comedies of modern times. The play will be held on April 24, 25, 30, May 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. and April 26 at 2 p.m. Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's work has become a classic American family comedy since its premiere in the 1930s. The story focuses on the antics of the eccentric and fiercely independent Sycamore family and their friends. "You Can't Take It With You" is directed by Richard S. Kagey, who will also serve as the designer for all four productions.

All plays will be presented in the Performing Arts Center on the FSU campus.

Season tickets for the 1997-98 season are available. To order season tickets or to make individual reservations, persons may call 301-687-4145 between 1 and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Tickets for all University Theatre productions may be purchased at the theatre box office before the performances.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. You may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Women's Bible Study To Begin

A weekly community Bible study for women will begin Thursday, Sept. 11, 9:30 a.m., at Oak Park Church of the Brethren across from Southern High School.

The discussion style, inductive Bible study, will examine the book of Acts. The Holy Spirit Unleashed in You, by Kay Arthur, of Precept Ministries, will be used to guide the group.

Childcare will be provided. All women of the community are invited to attend.

Anyone wishing more information may call Gail Getty, 301-387-7279, or the church office, 301-334-2243.

Mr. And Mrs. John Mellinger Jr. Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

John and Marie Mellinger of Swanton celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 2. A surprise reception was held for the couple during the weekend of the Mellinger family reunion, Saturday, Aug. 16.

Numerous relatives and friends assisted the couple's only child, John Mellinger III, and his wife Kim along with grandchildren, J.D. and Chad Mellinger, in hosting the reception. Approximately 125 guests attended the reception.

The cake was baked and decorated by John's sister, Ameila Wolf, and was topped with the ornament used at the 50th anniversary celebration for Vauda Mellinger and the late John Mellinger Sr., which was held Jan. 7, 1972.

John and Marie Mellinger were married Aug. 2, 1947, at the First Lutheran Church in Ellicott City by Rev. Hubert V. Payne. Henry Simmons and Jean Colaianni served as attendants.

The couple was also honored at a sit-down dinner hosted by Marie's brother, Henry Simmons and wife Ruth at Joseph's in Kingsville on July 26. The dinner was attended by several family members and friends who were unable to come to the reception.

Mrs. Mellinger, the former Marie Simmons, is the daughter of the late Henry and Emma Simmmons. Mr. Mellinger is the son of Vauda Mellinger and the late John Mellinger Sr.

The couple owned and operated Mellinger Enterprises in Deer Park before they retired in 1987.

John presented a gift of a trip to the Caribbean to his wife Marie as a highlight of the celebration. John and Marie said they appreciated all the efforts that made their 50th anniversary celebration special.

Miss Tasker Becomes Bride Of Mr. McClung In June Ceremony

Jennifer Mae Tasker, daughter of Randy and Sandy Tasker, Oakland, and Jason Michael McClung, son of Jerry McClung, Oakland and Kenny and Bonnie Termin, Friendsville, were united in marriage on June 14 at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland.

The Rev. Manning Smith and the Rev. Chip Lee performed the ceremony. Mrs. Betty Kehoe provided traditional organ selections. Vocal selections were provided by Mr. Tim Miller.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a white satin gown that featured long sleeves, pointed at the hand and puffed at the shoulders, with a high neckline adorned with hand-sewn pearls and sequins. The bride's headpiece was accented with roses and pearls, and the bridal bouquet was of white silk roses, accented with pearls and teal and pink ribbons. All of the wedding party's floral arrangements and pew bows were provided by Sue Ellen Sprouse.

Miss Lori Evans, friend of the bride, served as the maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Tonya Crosco and Mrs. Sandy Few, Oakland, friends of the bride.

The matron of honor wore a floor length teal gown, and the bridesmaids wore floor length pink gowns.

Amanda Cassidy, cousin of the bride, served as junior flower girl. Miss Britney Few served as flower girl.

Mr. Greg Few served as best man. Mr. Mark Britner and Mr. Jamie DeWitt, friends of the groom, served as groomsmen. Serving as junior groomsman was Mr. Joseph Garlitz and serving as ring bearer was Matthew Cassidy, cousins of the bride. Ushers were Kevin Tasker, brother of the bride, and Jesse Deniker, cousin of the groom.

The guest book, balloons, and bird seed packets were attended by a friend of the bride, Miss Linda Rice.

A buffet dinner was catered by Mr. Brian Shaffer, Corinth, W.Va. The reception was held at the Pleasant Valley Community building. The cake was decorated in pink roses with several tiers, stairways, and a fountain and was baked by Mrs. Shirley Roy, Oakland.

The bride is a 1994 graduate of Southern High School and is currently attending Garrett Community College. She will graduate in the spring with an A.A. degree in business management. Mr. McClung is a 1992 graduate of Southern High School and is currently an assistant manager at McDonald's.

Following a honeymoon trip to the Poconos in Pennsylvania, the couple established residence in Oakland.

Knox-Sanders Couple Announce Wedding Plans

Lois A. Knox and Frederick D. Sanders have announced their upcoming marriage.

Lois is the daughter of H. Charlene Knox, Oakland, and the late Clarence (Jr.) Knox. She is employed at Englander's Pharmacy.

Fred is the son of Gwendolyn C. Sanders, Oakland, and the late Lawrence N. Sanders. He has been employed with the Garrett County Election Board for the past 20 years.

The wedding will take place on Sunday, Sept. 21, 7 p.m., at the White United Methodist Church. A reception, immediately following the ceremony, will be held at the American Legion Post 71 in Oakland. Because alcohol sales are prohibited on Sunday, no alcohol will be permitted.

No invitations will be sent, but Lois and Fred invite all relatives and friends to attend and share in their joy.

Morgan-Maust Couple To Wed

Michele E. Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Morgan of Jonesborough, Tenn., and Randy D. Maust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Maust of Accident, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The wedding will be held at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident, on Friday, October 3, at 7 p.m. Invitations are being sent; however, all friends and acquaintances are invited to attend. A small reception will follow the ceremony.

Miss Savage To Wed Mr. Moon

Ronald L. and Rita Savage and James R. and Linda Moon announce the forthcoming marriage of their children, Misty Dawn Savage and Bernard L. Moon.

The wedding will take place at the Otterbine United Methodist Church in Swanton on Sept. 20 at 2 p.m.

Although some invitations have been sent, all family and friends are welcome to attend.

Miss Bolyard To Wed Mr. Evans

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight M Bolyard, Aurora, W.Va., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Stacey Michelle, to Robert Lee Evans Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Evans Sr., Horse Shoe Run, W.Va.

Miss Bolyard is a 1994 graduate of Tucker County High School and is employed by First United National Bank and Trust. Mr. Evans is a 1985 graduate of East Preston High School and is employed by Eglon Farm Service.

The wedding will take place at the Aurora United Methodist Church at 3 p.m. on Sept. 6. A reception will be held at the Elks Lodge in Oakland immediately following the ceremony. Some invitations were sent, but all friends and family are welcome.

WHAT COULD HAVE BEEN A REAL DISASTER ended up being mostly an annoyance for a visiting family recently. As their boat trailer was being unhitched, the vessel apparently slid off, aimed at a busy Rt. 219 near the Lakeside Creamery. The large boat did come to a stop before crossing the road, fortunately. No one was hurt and the boat was reportedly only slightly damaged in the mishap. The photo was taken by David Tasker and was provided courtesy of Donna Tasker.

Westvaco Notes Third Quarter Sales, Earnings

Westvaco Corporation this week reported fiscal 1997 third quarter and nine-month sales and earnings.

Sales for the third quarter ended July 31, 1997, were $738 million, a 3 percent decrease compared to the third quarter of fiscal 1996. Sales for the first nine months of 1997 were $2.2 billion, also a 3 percent decline compared to the year earlier period.

Third quarter 1997 earnings were $38 million, or 37 cents per share, a 14 percent decrease from 1996 third quarter earnings of $44 million, or 43 cents per share. Earnings for the first nine months of fiscal 1997 totaled $111 million, or $1.09 per share, a 29 percent decline from the $157 million, or $1.54 per share, earned during the first nine months of 1996. Earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of 1997 were negatively impacted by 6 cents per share due to the rebuilding of a tine papers machine in Luke, Md., and the more modest effect of beginning production at a new activated carbon plant in Wickliffe, Ky.

"Market conditions gradually improved during our third quarter, extending a trend that began earlier in the fiscal year," said John A. Luke Jr., chairman and chief executive officer. "Equally important, market indicators point toward more improvement ahead."

Luke added that prices for linerboard and coated papers remain well below peak levels despite recent improvement.

"While we're experiencing early recovery in our linerboard and coated paper businesses, demand in other segments of our company is good," Luke said. "The market for our Kraftpak unbleached folding carton board remains firm. Likewise, demand is strong for our unbleached saturating kraft products used in decorative laminates. Order backlogs for our Printkote bleached board are holding steady in a comfortable range. Our packaging business in Brazil is poised for improvement, and our Envelope Division remains a solid performer. In addition, our Chemical Division's sales are continuing to grow."

Westvaco also announced that its board of directors has authorized the periodic repurchase of the company's common stock to satisfy issuances under employee stock option plans. In recent years, annual stock option related activity has averaged approximately 900,000 shares, less than one percent of Westvaco's 102 million shares of outstanding common stock.

Westvaco is a major producer of paper, envelopes, packaging, and specialty chemicals. The company owns 1.5 million acres of timberlands in the United States and Brazil and has manufacturing facilities in those two countries as well as the Czech Republic. International business accounts for 25 percent of Westvaco's sales and the company has customers in more than 70 countries.

Radically Different? Your Bet!
Cool When It's Hot Warm When It's Not!
PANELCRAFT BUILDING SYSTEMS
These houses are built with Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).
Using SIPs requires less construction time and leaves the customer with a draft-free Energy Efficient Home at an affordable price!
At Panelcraft, these Panels go through a special bonding process to create a Structural Panel far superior to using just the insulation by itself in a conventional frame building.
The material used for the insulation is called Polystyrene, the same thing that is used for styrofoam coffee cups. Not only does 1/16 of an inch of Polystyrene protect your fingers from being burned from the scorching hot coffee, it also keeps them dry!
Now if only 1/16 inch will do this, imagine what 4 to 6 inches will do in your home to keep the warm and the dry inside and keep the cold and the dampness outside!
Oh! By the way all you carpenters and do-it-yourselfers, etc., no more itching and scratching and coughing while insulating a house!
Panel homes have withstood earthquake activity where others crumbled.
If you would like to know more about Panelcraft and why SIPs are one of the fastest growing building techniques in the industry, call or write:

Award-Winning Children's Author Wisniewski To Speak At FSU

Acclaimed children's author David Wisniewski, the 1997 winner of the Caldecott Medal, an award presented to the illustrator of the most distinguished American picture book, will present a lecture and book signing at Frostburg State University. The event will take place in the Lane Center multi-use room at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 16, and is sponsored by the FSU Children's Literature Center.

A trained clown, storyteller, performer, and puppeteer, Wisniewski has developed a unique artistic style in his cut-paper illustrations that is instantly recognized by his readers. His first children's book, The Warrior and the Wise Man, was chosen by Parent's Magazine, the New York Public Library, and the Library of Congress as one of the best of 1989. His other critically acclaimed books include Elfwyn's Saga, Rain Player, Sundiata, Lion King of Mali, and The Wave of the Sea-Wolf. His latest work, Golem, earned Wisniewski the Caldecott Medal. A native of Middlesex, England, Wisniewski and his family presently reside in Maryland.

Several of Wisniewski's books will be available for purchasing and autographing on September 16. For more information, persons may contact the FSU Children's Literature Center at 301-687-4420.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY
AT THE COURT HOUSE DOOR
203 South 4th Street
Oakland, MD 21550
Friday, September 5, 1997
AT 11:30 O'CLOCK A.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situate on the North side of Center Street in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, which on the Plat of Wilson's First Addition to said Town of Oakland is known and designated as Lot No. 35.

Being the same property conveyed by Gary L. Skipper to Pauline S. Skipper by deed dated August 15, 1988, and recorded in Liber No 517, folio 69, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property will be sold in an "as is condition, with all faults, and with no warranty, express or implied, as to the condition or description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $3,000 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certified check or other form as the Assignee determines acceptable. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. The Assignee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, with time of the essence as to the purchaser's payment.

If the purchaser defaults, the deposit will be declared forfeit, and applied as required by Maryland law, with the remainder, if any, to be applied at the discretion of the Assignee. In addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to the Assignee or noteholder, the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Further, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for any deficiency resulting from the resale, as well as all costs and expenses of the resale including, but not limited to, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Assignee. Unless the property is purchased by the noteholder, the purchaser shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate stated in the Mortgage Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Assignee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, water rent, condominium fees, and/or homeowner association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. A cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Assignee assumes no responsibility for security deposits, or other moneys paid by the tenants to anyone. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property is sold subject to all easements, conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable fee simple title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be the refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Assignee or the noteholder. The property will be sold without any express or implied warranty or representation with respect to the sufficiency of the recorded legal description, fitness of the property for any particular purpose or use, its structural integrity, construction, extent of construction, materials, workmanship, habitability, applicability of zoning and subdivision laws and regulations, if any, environmental condition, compliance with building codes or other laws, ordinances, regulations, or other similar matters. The Assignee, his attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be personally liable for any matters relating to the sale and/or the property.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE PROPERTY LOCATED AT DEEP CREEK LAKE, GARRETT COUNTY, MD. TIME SHARE INTERVALS.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a time share instrument and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 465, folio 64, et seq., the holder of the liens secured thereby having appointed W. McCauley Arnold, Assignee, by document duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. At the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Assignee will sell, in fee simple, at public auction, on the premises located at Lakewood Resorts, Rt. 219 at Bridge, Deep Creek Lake, McHenry, Maryland, on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1997, AT 10:00 A.M.

All those time share intervals located in Election District No. 6 (Tax District No. 18) of Garrett County, Maryland, and being described as follows:

Reference is made to the plats of Lakewood Resorts as recorded at Plat Book 2, page 182 of the Land Records of Garrett County and the Declaration by Lakewood Resorts, Inc., dated October 23, 1985, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 465, folio 64; the time share instrument dated June 30, 1986, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 477, page 598, et seq. (Phase II); the time share instrument dated March 11, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 492, page 16, et seq. (Phase III); time share instrument dated June 15, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 496, page 295, et seq. (Phase IV) as amended by Amendment dated July 31, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 499, page 55, and the plats described in said instrument and recorded as aforesaid in Plat Book 3, page 7; and the time share instrument dated July 27, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 536, page 583, et seq. (Phase V) and plats referred to therein as recorded in Plat Book 3, page 7.

The property being sold at foreclosure sale are the time share intervals listed below situate in the Lakewood Resorts Time Share as duly recorded as follows, to wit: Unit 1, Time Interval 52; Unit 2, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 4, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 9, Time Interval 52; Unit 10, Time Interval 36; Unit 11, Time Interval 30.

The above described real estate will be sold subject to all conditions, liens, easements, restrictions, rights of redemption, covenants, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the same.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash deposit, certified check or cashier's check in the amount of thirty percent (30%) for each unit will be required at the time of sale, except that if the lienholder or its assigns is the purchaser, no deposit or interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase price will be required. The balance is to be paid in cash at settlement, which shall be fifteen (15) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, unless the period for settlement is extended by the Assignee, time being of the essence. The properties will be sold in "AS IS" condition with the purchaser solely responsible for any and all other statutory or regulatory violations, if any, and without express or implied warranty as to the nature, description or condition of the title, land and/or improvements as contained thereon. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be limited to the refund of the deposit. In the event that the purchaser fails to complete settlement as required for any reason other than the Assignee's inability to convey good and marketable title, the deposit will be forfeited and the property or properties shall be resold at purchaser's risk and expense. Cost for any and all recordation and transfer taxes and document preparation shall be borne by purchaser. The Assignee and Lienhholder does not make any representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy of this information.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING

1270 GNEGY CHURCH ROAD
OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21550

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage dated April 14, 1987, and recorded in Liber 493, folio 167 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and modified by instruments recorded in Liber 558, Folio 369, and Liber 630, Folio 498, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid Mortgage having assigned the same by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the holder, the undersigned Assignee will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY
AT THE COURT HOUSE DOOR
203 South 4th Street
Oakland, MD 21550
Friday, September 5,1997
AT 11:00 O'CLOCK A.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Election District #8, Garrett County, Maryland, and described as follows:

Beginning at a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, in the southerly right-of-way limits of the Gnegy Church Road, said point of beginning lying South 47 degrees 56 minutes 20 seconds East, 831.50 feet from a fence post corner marking the southwesterly corner of the lands of Glen W. Gnegy (Liber No. 277, folio 360,) thence leaving said southerly right-of-way limits and with a new division line of the lands of Helen K. Wolfe (Liber No. 410, folio 431) South 01 degrees 32 minutes 30 seconds East, 351.82 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, thence continuing with said new division line, South 83 degrees 09 minutes 25 seconds West, 387.61 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, 2 feet from an 18 inch double cherry on top of the bank of a private drive, said point also lying 17.0 feet easterly of the centerline of said private drive, thence with a line parallel to the centerline of said private drive and 17.0 feet easterly thereof, North 01 degrees 32 minutes 30 seconds West, 344.58 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod, set, in the southerly right-of-way limits of the Gnegy Church Road, thence with said southerly right-of-way limits, North 89 degrees 19 minutes 50 seconds East, 151.64 feet to a 5/8 inch iron rod set, thence continuing with said right-of-way limits, North 77 degrees 30 minutes 10 seconds East, 238.68 feet to the place of beginning, containing 3.00 acres, more or less.

Being the same property conveyed by Helen K. Wolfe to Donald K. Wolfe, Jr., et ux, by deed dated April 18, 1986, and recorded in Liber No. 471, folio 589, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition, with all faults, and with no warranty, express or implied, as to the condition or description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certified check or other form as the Assignee determines acceptable. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. The Assignee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, with time being of the essence as to the purchaser's payment. If the purchaser defaults, the deposit will be declared forfeit, and applied as required by Maryland law, with the remainder, if any, to be applied at the discretion of the Assignee. In addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to the Assignee or noteholder, the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Further, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for any deficiency resulting from the resale, as well as all costs and expenses of the resale including, but not limited to, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Assignee. Unless the property is purchased by the noteholder, the purchaser shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate stated in the Mortgage Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Assignee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, water rent, condominium fees, and/or homeowner association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. A cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Assignee assumes no responsibility for security deposits, or other moneys paid by the tenants to anyone. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property is sold subject to all easements, conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable fee simple title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be the refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Assignee or the noteholder. The property will be sold without any express or implied warranty or representation with respect to the sufficiency of the recorded legal description, fitness of the property for any particular purpose or use, its structural integrity, construction, extent of construction, materials, workmanship, habitability, applicability of zoning and subdivision laws and regulations, if any, environmental condition, compliance with building codes or other laws, ordinances, regulations, or other similar matters. The Assignee, his attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be personally liable for any matters relating to the sale and/or the property.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland hereby give notice that they will hold public hearings on Ordinance No. 097-08, which has been introduced before the Town Council, prohibiting the use of engine brakes or "jake brakes," designating such use to be a misdemeanor and setting penalties therefore.

A fair summary of the Ordinance is as follows:

AN ORDINANCE to repeal and re-adopt Ordinance No. C94-02 prohibiting the use of engine brakes, also known "jake brakes," within the Town of Oakland, designating a violation of this Ordinance as a misdemeanor rather than a traffic violation and making no other additions or changes thereto.

This notice is in accordance with the policy adopted by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for the adoption of ordinances, and gives notice of the date and time of the scheduled public hearing of said Ordinance.

The full text of Ordinance 097-08 is available at City Hall Monday through Friday during business hours.

The Mayor and Town Council shall hold a public hearing on the said Ordinance on the 8th day of September 1997, at 7:30 P.M., at City Hall, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

PERSONAL

PERSONAL -- May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help for the hopeless, pray for us. Say the prayer 9 times a day for 9 days; then publish. Your prayers will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Thank you, St. Jude. RBM. 26-1t.

PERSONAL -- Prayer of the Blessed Virgin. (Never known to fail.) Oh most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh star of the sea, help me and show me here you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God. Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish it and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks. MK. 26-2t*.

To the Editor:

The controversy created by the proposed I-219 highway is enough to prompt me to write the following comments.

Mr. David Moe has expressed a view that, in my opinion, has been greatly misinterpreted. He is, I think, trying to tell people how to make our county more attractive to big businesses, period!

Recently, for example, a large company opened a distribution warehouse on I-81 west of Hagerstown. The result - 700 jobs! Why? Because of a north-south route that is convenient for moving their products up and down the east coast. Believe it or not, it's really that simple. We are off the "beaten track" for most companies that could supply jobs for the masses. It is very hard to find large employers that will move far from major highways, especially with our winter weather to consider.

Do I think his idea has merit? In the short to medium time frame, actually No! To me the notion of another interstate of that scale is a dream that will take many years too long to fulfill. In my opinion, we need to connect the Oakland area to I-68 somewhere near Grantsville with a 4 lane that goes nowhere near Deep Creek Lake, and do it soon!

But more importantly, we need our county and state government to commit the kind of financial incentives to businesses willing to relocate here that will tip the scales much more in our favor. If that means tax breaks or loans, so be it.

Let me be very plain, we need taxpayers. We have lost many of them lately! The fact that the county can find $10,000 to fund the study of an "adventure-sports" center should tell everyone something about the sad state of priorities that local government seems to have these days. These little deals speak for themselves. A high paid appointed director, a nice new taxpayer-funded building, a few jobs created at minimum wage, as we compete amongst ourselves to service the wealthy who can afford to come and play in our area if they choose.

These jobs will not support families and certainly will not support local government at the level that they have become accustomed to. We will soon see that this type of employment does not produce the revenue needed to finance the people currently employed by the county without large tax increases or more layoffs.

Shortly we will see the last of 1,100 workers from Bausch & Lomb drawing their final unemployment checks. At that point they may no longer show up statistically unemployed, but unfortunately that does not mean that they will have all found jobs! Let alone jobs that provide a "living wage" with benefits.

These workers plus the many hundreds of coal miners, like myself, now unemployed represent a huge group of ex-taxpayers who instead of pulling the economic wagon, are now or soon will be riding on it. As the money in the pipeline from their taxes runs out, the wagon will slow to a stop and the wheels will fall off completely unless something is done to reverse this trend. We need the kind of leadership and teamwork from our elected officials that this economic crisis demands, and I don't think that is what is happening right now!

From the commissioners office all the way to Annapolis they should address this situation with just as much alarm as they would if they woke up one morning and Deep Creek Lake was bone dry! I can tell you with confidence that more jobs with high pay and benefits have been lost in this area recently than if that "catastrophe" were to happen.

The letters and editorials against this road proposal are interesting to me in at least one way. As far as I can tell, they aren't written by anyone who has lost his job lately! In fact, some of the letters sound like they've been written by people who haven't had to "scratch" for a job at all.

The comments about Garrett County citizens wanting "more, more, more" are so far from reality under the current economic conditions that they hardly deserve a response. Unfortunately, we don't all live in "professional affluence" or aren't born into a family whose business guarantees us a lifetime position.

Yes, you all have the right to your opinion, but I wonder about one thing. Suppose we found out tomorrow that a large company like Toyota or General Motors wanted to locate here; what would you say? Would you celebrate, as most of the unemployed citizens of this county would, or would you begin to find fault, and question that development, just like you have this road proposal?

To me it all comes down to this, if it's your job, your health benefits, your mortgage payments, your children's future, you have a damn sight different viewpoint!

One writer says that they pray for the coal miners that are laid off. Well, we appreciates that, but its a lot like praying for someone who has appendicitis. That someone also needs a hospital with a surgeon who knows which side the appendix is on!

In closing, let me say that I agree that the citizens should be included in any future road decisions. Let's vote on it! But let's also vote, before one more nickel is spent, as to whether any "adventuresports" center is ever built here at taxpayer's expense. Let's see if the average Garrett Countian wants to spend hundreds of thousands of their tax dollars on one more monument to the Great God "Tourism" that makes lots of money for a few hundred business and real estate people and pays minimum wages with no benefits to the average worker.

I'd like to see how that vote turns out.

Jerry Plauger

Editor's note: The following letter which originally appeared in the Monroe Watchman of Monroe County, W.Va., notes concerns about a proposed super-highway project in that area. It was submitted for publication in this column by C.A.R.E. (Conservation Action for a Rural Environment).

To the Editor:

In the list of circumstances, which if they occurred would irrevocably change Monroe County forever, such as an atom bomb or the return of the Ice Age or drought turning us into desert, please include "Continental One," the (proposed) super interstate highway from Miami to Buffalo (terminating in Toronto). If it is built, you can kiss Monroe County good-bye.

Monroe County will never, ever be the same, nor will it be beautiful again. It will go instantaneously from "unspoiled" to "spoiled," and for what? To serve our needs? Not really. The Super Highway may not even have an exit or entrance in Monroe County. It will not serve us. We will serve it. Monroe Countians will probably manicure the shoulders, mow the dividing strip, and keep it free of trash. Even if they placate us with an exit in the county, so what? Is anybody running into a lot of 18 wheeler traffic going through Union or up 219 or down 219? No, Miami and Buffalo need it and possibly some stops along the way, but we're not one of them.

This country of ours is a finite entity. Therefore, it cannot be developed forever. I believe that one of the main problems to be solved in the next 10 to 20 years is how to limit development, not expand it. Our economic system has to deal with an economy that is not always growing, growing, growing -- likewise, we must accept reduced growth for population, cities, and roads. We have not solved that problem, but we can take a step by saying "no" to Continental One.

I call on Monroe Countians to become active and organize against the proposed Super Highway. I call on the county commissioners, mayors, and our representatives in the Congress and state legislature to take a stand against the Super Highway, or else we will end up like the Civil War soldier who took a ball in his chest and turned to his Confederate and said, "Oh yes, I am surely dead."

Barry C. Yates, M.D.
Union, W.Va.

To the Editor:

I have attended the three meetings held by C.A.R.E. (Conservative Action for a Rural Environment) and decided to become a member because I care about this community and the quality of life that must be maintained here. I have serious questions about the claim that the proposed international trade corridor connecting Canada to Florida will deliver the promised industry and an end to unemployment in Garrett County. I have serious questions about whether major industries really will move into this area as a result of this highway, or whether industrial growth, and its accompanying urban development, is even what the members of this community want.

C.A.R.E. is a citizens group serving as a forum for asking these tough questions and seeking rural answers. We must take a hard look at the fact that throughout the history of this country, this state, and even in this county, distant corporations exploit an area's resources than leave after the resources are exhausted. Present day centralized economic business entities do not come into rural areas to improve them by "creating jobs." They come to take as much of the value as they can take, as cheaply and as quickly as they can take it. They are interested in "creating jobs" only as long as the jobs can be done more cheaply by humans than machines or until they can move into an area where they can find the cheapest labor. The recent blow to the employees left by the vacating of the Bausch and Lomb factory is a classic case in point. Did Bausch and Lomb care about the welfare of those families, or where they more interested in the money they can now save by exploiting the immigrant workers in South Texas and the workers in Mexico and Ireland?

In our rush to "possibly" improve our personal income with the building of this interstate, we must ask the question at what cost? I agree that all of us have a different opinion of what "quality of life" means. However, I do know, in talking to a multitude of community members in the last few weeks over this issue, everyone agrees that "quality of life" is not overpopulation, highway noise pollution, and exploitation of the natural beauty of our area, all things that accompany rapid growth. When we make our trips to Baltimore, Washington, and the urban sprawl areas surrounding these cities, we cannot wait to get back to the beauty and serenity of Garrett County.

We need only to look at what rapid promotion and development of Deep Creek Lake has brought to Garrett County. Local residents don't want to go near the lake because of the congestion and overcrowding. I find it an interesting irony that many of the people who are professing the need to put in this interstate to handle the congestion around the lake area are the ones who supported this level of development in the first place. We are in serious danger of "killing our golden goose," if we have not already done so.

C.A.R.E.'s immediate goal is to stop the funding of this interstate at the congressional level until the voting members of this community can be properly educated, informed, and convinced that this is the best thing for our welfare.

Yes, we need jobs for our unemployed, but the building of Route 68 did not meet the claims for a desirable job market to Garrett County or Allegany County; why should we believe that this international trade corridor to connect Canada and Florida will be a panacea for Garrett County?

Members of C.A.R.E. are not against improvements to our available highway systems, but will be looking to work with other groups in the county exploring viable alternatives to interstate expansion and industrial growth; alternatives that can support our population, but that endorse the preservation of our natural, rural, and agricultural heritage.

This is not a time for apathy. We need to become "pro-active" so that we do not need to be "reactive." Please get involved so that you can help to make intelligent decisions about the future of our county and the quality of your life.

Sincerely,
Dana Shimrock

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter concerning the use of taxes for Pre-K classes in Garrett County. Mary Ann and William Brown do raise a valid point of not wanting to pay taxes to be used for classrooms, teachers, and transportation for Pre-K students, but do they want to pay taxes for students to be bused to Allegany County schools? This also takes away from the Garrett County students in the form of paying extra for teachers, classrooms, and transportation, and the sad part is, the money goes to another county.

My child and others like him attended Pre-K classes and were enriched by the teachers and opportunities alike that were offered to them. Granted, some parts of the county cannot offer these classes due to space, teacher availability, etc. I am very grateful I live in an area that chose to offer this early education.

I, for one, do not think it is fair that we have to pay for students to attend Allegany County schools, when they can just as easily attend the Garrett County school system and keep the extra funds in Garrett County to pay for any extra classroom space, transportation, etc. If the parents of the Pre-K students have to start paying for their children to attend these early classes, why can't the parents of the older students have to pay all the expenses for them to attend Allegany County schools?

Some children are not ready at the age of 4 to attend school, but for those who are, it offers a wealth of opportunity to begin a lifetime of learning experience. Again, this is not a grade that is required by the state of Maryland, but I fail to see the reasoning behind requiring taxpayers to provide the means for a select few to attend an out-of-county school when it is just as easy for them to get on the bus and attend a Garrett County school.

Sincerely,
Lori Keister

One Dead In Car Crash On Dry Run Road

A motor vehicle accident on Dry Run Road on the morning of Thursday, Sept. 4, claimed the life of one individual, according to the Maryland State Police (MSP).

The accident occurred shortly after 9 a.m. on Dry Run Road approximately 1½ miles off Route 495. Units from the Northern, Southern, and Bittinger Volunteer Fire Departments responded along with the MSP and Trooper 5, the MSP helicopter. One subject was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the helicopter.

No further details were available as of the time The Republican went to press today.

Car Hits FSU Cross Country Team Runner

A member of the Frostburg State University cross-country team was struck by a vehicle Tuesday while jogging on New Germany Rd.

A report filed with Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, stated that Matthew P. Augustine, Columbia, was running on the shoulder of the road around 5:15 p.m., when he was struck by a car driven by Sarah A. Fisher, 57, Swanton.

Northern Rescue Squad took Augustine to Sacred Heart Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Police have charged Fisher with negligent driving in the incident.

"WE CAN RUN AND WE CAN KICK -- even if we're not too sure of the rules, we're sure willing to give soccer a shot!" These little runners have in the past few weeks started on a journey of learning, not just about the game of soccer, but also about playing as a team, understanding leadership, and, of course, learning how to put on really cool shinguards. The Mountaintop Soccer Association involves over 400 local boys and girls, ages 5 to 14. The season officially opens Saturday. The big kids will start competitive play this week as well, with the Northern High School team taking the field this evening and the Southern booters opening on Saturday. MSA Coach Eric Malcolm is pictured in the left background as he watches over his giddy brood of athletes, the Blue Jays.

GCHD Begins Move To New Office Space

The Garrett County Health Department has started the process of moving out of the old section of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to a report from the department. The administration, vital records (birth and death certificates), and community health education/outreach departments are moving to the Southern Garrett Industrial Park this week. Offices for some of the personal health staff will move to offices in the GW Plaza by Friday.

All clinics, including WIC, family planning, immunizations, HIV/STD, audiology, neurology, orthopedic, and others will remain in the old hospital until the end of September. At that time, the clinics will move to the permanent location in the GW Plaza, which is located along Rt. 135 between Southern States and the Southern Garrett Industrial Park.

Phone numbers for all services will remain the same, according to the report. There are to be no disruptions in phone service at any of the new locations. However, if persons do experience any difficulty in reaching a particular department, they are advised to call the main number (301-334-8111) for assistance.

GCC Receives Site License For Advanced Software

"The Virtual Office System," a creation of Context Information Systems, Ltd., had its unveiling last week at Garrett Community College. Context awarded the college the first business site license, number 000001, for the state of the art computer software information management system, which has the potential of revolutionizing the modern office environment.

"Over 80% of the world's information is still contained and filed away on paper documents," said Dennis League, president of Context, Ltd., an Oakland-based company that is connected 24 hours a day via the Internet with its other offices in Winchester, Va., and Tampa, Fla. "The files in a typical corporate office are untouchable when the office is closed at night and on the weekends and holidays, which amounts to over 6,400 hours a year. All throughout those hours of downtime the company is still paying out good money for space, climate control, and security," he said.

"Plus," League continued, "the people who do actually use those documents waste more than 375 hours a year in bumper-to-bumper traffic commuting to get to those documents - if and when those smart people can actually find them in the maze of file cabinets where they are stored."

The Virtual Office System is designed to simplify the process of storing and retrieving information, by allowing huge amounts of information currently stored on paper in file cabinets to be scanned into a computer system, be more organized than a paper file system, and be accessible from virtually anywhere at virtually anytime. "We are talking about a new way to image, a new way to office, by using a computer to simplify, quantify, and organize order out of chaos," League said.

"The Virtual Office System is a computer file that's organized much the same as a paper file cabinet room," League continued, "but you can get through it much faster. You can also search by index, or make a key word/key subject search to help you gather as much or as specific information that you need. These opticscan files are permanent for 99 years in storage, while paper files usually have a life much shorter; Virtual Office documents are also fully legally acceptable as court-honored documents," he stated.

In a demonstration at GCC, League showed how the Virtual Office System worked in its most basic form. In seconds, he was able to connect with his files stored in a computer in Orlando, open a file and scan a document into it, and retrieve a second document from the file to be updated from his desktop in Garrett County. "The system runs off a menu with the use of a mouse, and is designed to be simple and user-friendly," League said. "The whole purpose is to make it quick and easy to get documents in and out,

Rabies Case Is Confirmed

The Garrett County Health Department has confirmed the nmth case of rabies for the year. A raccoon submitted for testing to the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Laboratory tested positive for the rabies virus on Aug. 22.

Apparently the animal was shot after it fought with a dog. The pet had been vaccinated against the disease, according to the report, and the dog owner did not touch the pet for at least two hours after the incident. The dog was given a booster shot and will be observed for 45 days.

CLINICS SLATED

The Garrett County Health Department will host low cost rabies vaccine clinics throughout the week of Sept. 15-20. The dates and locations are as follows (all times are 5-6 p.m. except on Sept. 20, when they are 10 a.m. until noon):

Monday, Sept. 15, at Friendsville Elementary School; Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the Swanton Community Center; Wednesday, Sept. 17, at Crellin Elementary School; Thursday, Sept. 18, at Grantsville Elementary School; Friday, Sept. 19, at Kitzmiller Community Center; and Saturday, Sept. 20, at Broad Ford Elementary School.

For more information, persons may contact the health department at 301-334-8980.

Sheriff Sines To Be Charged With Misconduct

The Maryland Office of the State Prosecutor filed a "criminal information" document in Garrett County Circuit Court today, charging Sheriff Randy L. Sines, Oakland, with one count of misconduct in office. Specifically, the sheriff is accused of using county funds to pay for personal expenses not required or incurred for the duties of his office as sheriff, according to the state prosecutor's announcement.

Misconduct in office is a "common law crime," according to the prosecutor. A Garrett County Circuit Court spokesperson said this morning that the crime is a felony, but there is no specific penalty for it, as opposed to other crimes that have prescribed punishments. The only prescription is that there should be no unusual or cruel punishment, the spokesperson said.

A criminal summons is to be issued and served upon Sines today. His first appearance in court is slated for Friday, Sept. 5, in circuit court at 3 p.m.

In the event that the sheriff resigns from his position, which is a possibility in light of the charge, the governor of the state will be required to appoint an interim sheriff to serve until the 1998 election.

Funny Farm Sewer Topic Of Meeting In Friendsville

A meeting was held in Friendsville last Thursday, Aug. 28, for review and discussion of the sewer application for the Funny Farm Convenience Store and gas station construction project.

Submitted by Friendsville resident Terry Spear, the application is in the process of review by the Department of Environment Water Management Administration. It was this regulatory body that conducted the meeting in the town hall for interested residents.

According to Sean McEwen of the Water Management Administration, the purpose of the meeting was to provide information about the review process itself, and to answer questions about the Funny Farm project as it relates to water management guidelines and regulations.

Fifteen or more interested residents gathered to take advantage of the opportunity to be informed. "There were some good questions asked," McEwen said.

Some of the issues raised, he explained, were not within the venue of the state to monitor or control, such as zoning matters.

Among the people present to raise questions was Crede Calhoun, owner of The Windrush Gallery in Friendsville.

Calhoun has spoken in

COVE YOUTH IS STATE CHAMP - 14-year-old Shawn Bender came home from the Maryland State Fair held in Timonium recently with a first-place trophy for winning the senior division of the compact tractor contest. The son of Alice and Robert Bender says a lucky break played a part in his championship win. "Usually I drive a farm tractor," Bender said, "but I broke my arm back at the end of spring and with my arm in a cast I couldn't do too many chores on our family's dairy farm. So for six week I mowed the grass with our riding mower." As Bender honed his driving skills on the small tractor, he also took the initiative to learn about how it worked. "I went down to our friend Tom Stemple's shop and watched him tear down a mower engine. That helped me get ready for the troubleshooting and parts identification part of the test." Bender is not the only area youth to gain honors at the state fair, as Jeremish Guard of Friendsville, also 14 years old, was runnerup in the junior division of the compact tractor event for the second consecutive year.

Visitors' Center 3-D Plan Unveiled; Promotion Council, Chamber Merge

Plans to combine the Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Promotion Council have come to pass, as the two organizations voted two weeks ago to merge. This merger comes at the same time as the completion of the three-dimensional model of the new Garrett County Visitors' Center, shown on Tuesday to the Garrett County Commissioners by Gary Mullich and Diane Wolfe. The former organizations have merged into the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Home of Deep Creek Lake, and the new entity will be housed in the new building. Construction is apparently to begin in about two months.

The building will be situated along Route 219 in McHenry, close to the Deep Creek Plaza. The $750,000 structure will house two art galleries, an information counter, a conference room, large bathroom facilities, a viewing deck accessed by sliding glass doors, and offices for the Chamber of Commerce employees. There will be 40+ parking spaces in the lot, Mullich said.

David Moe, president of the former chamber and now co-president of the new organization, publicly issued thanks to Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Mullich, and the county commissioners for their combined efforts to secure the state's financing of 50% of the project's cost, and in their success in moving the project along to fruition. James Hinebaugh, director of the economic development office, commended these individuals as well, and lauded the merging of the two promotion entities.

"This consolidation is as big as the building itself," Hinebaugh said. "This is a good indication that we have recognized how imperative it is that we work together to promote the county."

Because there are officers for both the promotion council and the chamber, these individuals will share their positions for the first year. For example, Moe and Jerry Geisler, former president of the promotion council, will share the president's responsibilities. Both men are volunteers in this work. Wolfe, the executive director of the promotion council, will continue to be a paid county employee in the position of tourism development director. An election will be held in approximately one year, at which time the offices will be held individually.

Moe also noted that the chamber will appoint 10 adjunct members from county organizations -- such as the Greater Oakland and Greater Grantsville business associations -- in order to create a homogenous group of individuals to represent all sectors of the county.

Mullich said the project will go out for bid in approximately 45 days and that he hopes to have the building "under roof" by winter. The design was completed by Phil Silkey of Polniaszek, Silkey Associates, Silver Spring.

RISING TO MEET THE CHALLENGE - The organizers of Our Town Theatre have initiated a fund-drive as of last week in an effort to rise to a challenge set before them by Paul Sprenger and Jane Lang, owners of Trader's Landing. The pair has offered a challenge gift of $10,000 -- if the theatre can raise that amount by Dec. 31 of this year, Sprenger and Lang will match it. Jane Avery, pictured center, said she was thrilled with the offer and immediately began the campaign by writing a letter to be sent out to residents. Assisting Avery in the photo are Barb Reed, left, and Jann Dehus, both of whom serve on the theatre's board of directors. A fund-raising event has been slated for Sept. 13 at the Oakland fire hall, where Tom and Susan Peterson, local musicians, will be joined by numerous other performers in a benefit show. See seperate story and pictures. For more information about the fund drive, persons may contact the theatre at 301-334-5640.

SEPTEMBER IS HABITAT FOR HUMANITY MONTH - The Garrett County Commissioners issued a proclamation Tuesday, declaring the month of September as Habitat for Humanity Month. The proclamation states in part that whereas the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity is a Christian ministry with the purpose of building new homes for families in need, and wtiereas the organization consists of a pool of volunteer labor and materials in the effort to give local individuals the chance for better lives, and whereas the organization has existed locally since 1983, having built 33 new homes and renovated 115 existing houses throughout the area, that the commissioners declare September as Habitat for Humanity Month and "urge all citizens to join the struggle of eliminating shacks in Garrett County." Pictured left to right are Barbara Briggs, Habitat representative, and commissioners Wayne Wilt, Roger Glotfelty, and Gary Fratz.

Petersons And Friends To Give Benefit Concert

In an effort to assist the Our Town Theatre in meeting a $10,000 challenge gift, Tom and Susan Peterson and Friends will present a benefit concert on Saturday, Sept. 13, in the Oakland fire hall. The show will begin at 7:30 p.m. The Petersons will be joined by several other musicians in the program. Tickets will be $5 for adults and $2 for students, with all proceeds going toward the theatre.

Tom and Susan Peterson have been publicly performing various types of music together since before they were married 25 years ago. Friends of the couple from years past will join them for the event, which will include a variety of musical styles, including folk, soft rock, country, piano bar, Broadway tunes, jazz, and barbershop quartet harmony.

The Friends will include several musicians from Wooster, Ohio: Tommy Taylor, Genny Dinger, and Dave Hider, playing acoustic guitars, percussion, and bass; Dr. David Sheets, well-known local musician who will perform on the keyboard; Mike Broderick on country fiddle; Barbara Farmer, who will join Susan Peterson in a piano "gallop"; and David Peterson, the couple's son (a vocal performance major at West Virginia University), who will join with his father in a duet. The finale will feature the popular Men of Accord barbershop quartet.

The Our Town Theatre is located in Oakland along Center Street. The building was purchased this spring by Jane Avery, who has plans to create a performance stage for regular theatrical entertainment. She and the theatre's board of directors are working to renovate the facility in order to begin regular use of it by fall. Paul Sprenger and Jane Lang, owners of Deep Creek Lake's Trader's Landing, have offered the $10,000 challenge gift, to be presented to the theatre if that same amount can be raised by December 31.

A fund-raising effort is now underway, according to Avery, with this benefit concert to be a major part of the drive. Advance tickets are available at Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland and at the Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry. They will also be available at the door at 6:45 p.m. on the day of the show. Refreshments will be available for purchase.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-8367.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE SLATED FOR "OUR TOWN" - In an effort to help raise a needed $10,000 for the Our Town Theatre, local musicians Tom and Susan Peterson and Friends will present a program of music on Saturday, Sept. 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Oakland fire hall. The Petersons will be joined by several other musicians in the program, including singers from Ohio, the Men of Accord barbershop quartet, local keyboard virtuoso David Sheets (pictured at right), fiddler Mike Broderick, and the couple's son, David Peterson, who is currently a vocal performance major at West Virginia University. The tickets will be $5 for adults and $2 for students, with all proceeds going toward the amount needed for the theatre to match a challenge gift offered recently by Trader's Landing. See story. The Petersons are pictured above, and below are the members of the barbershop quartet: Charlie Pitrola, tenor; Dr. Jack Harvey, baritone; Ron Leaf, bass; and Peterson singing lead.

One Injured In Accident At Rt. 135/Gorman Rd.

A Gormania, W.Va., woman was injured in a car accident on the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 31, on Route 135 at Gorman Road, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The accident occurred just after 4 p.m., when a vehicle driven by Carl Whitehair, 43, Gormania, W.Va., pulled out onto westbound Route 135 from Gorman Road. A vehicle traveling eastbound on Route 135 driven by Thomas Tusing, 18, McHenry, allegedly ran a red light and struck Whitehair's vehicle.

Eileen Whitehair, 41, a passenger in Whitehair's vehicle, sustained minor injuries. She was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Board Of Ed. To Hold Regular Monthly Meeting

The first regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education will be held Tuesday, Sept. 9, at the board office, Oakland.

The meeting will open with a brief public session at 3 p.m., followed by an executive session.

At 5 p.m. the public portion of the meeting will resume. A public comment time is scheduled at 7 p.m.

Among the issues to be discussed or voted on are the programs of studies for science and mathematics; CTBS/5 test results; and transfer of Loch Lynn and Red House elementary schools to local government.

The meeting is open to the public. Anyone wishing more information may contact the board of education office at 301-334-8901.

G.C./C.A.R.E. Notes Meeting

G.C./C.A.R.E. (Garrett County/Conservative Action for a Rural Environment) will hold a meeting Wednesday, Sept. 10, 7 p.m., at Garrett Community College, Room 314, the Continuing Education Building, McHenry.

The group is comprised of county residents who are opposed to the pending federal legislation to fund and construct a four-lane continental trade highway, Corridor One, that would run through Garrett County.

The purpose of the meeting is find additional volunteers to assist in fact-finding research and petition circulation.

Anyone who shares the concerns about the impact of such a highway on the environment, economy, and quality of life of Garrett County residents and wishes to offer support for its opposition its invited to attend the meeting.

Traffic Stop Leads To Arrest For Drugs, DWI

A traffic violation stop by state police on Saturday resulted in arrests for possession of drugs and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

According to the police report, when a vehicle driven by Joel D. Taylor, 34, Beltsville, was stopped for a violation on Route 219 near Spear Rd., he gave the officer a false name.

Both Taylor and a passenger, Joseph A. Silberstein, 35, College Park, were arrested. Taylor was charged with DWI, possession of marijuana, and possession of cocaine. Silberstein was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, the report said.

Both men were taken to the Garrett County Jail and later released on $2,000 bail each.

B&E/MDOP

A Grantsville business was the scene of a break-in and malicious destruction of property last week.

Police reported that at the Grantsville Car Wash, sometime between 8 p.m. on Aug. 28 and 7 a.m. on Aug. 29, unknown suspects broke into the garage.

A door to a storage room was then pried open, and a torch was used in an attempt to gain access to a bill changer coin machine. Sets of keys were stolen along with several other items, the report said.

Police have asked that anyone with information concerning this incident contact Tfc. A.P. Mason at the McHenry barrack, 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville

Area residents are encouraged to "be a Holiday Hero" and give blood on Monday, Sept. 8, when the American Red Cross holds a bloodmobile from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall.

Leslie Nicholson, Donor Resources Development representative of the Johnstown ARC Region, said, "We need to collect at least 100 units to help ensure adequate blood supplies after the holiday."

She added, "As can be expected during the hectic Labor Day holiday, fewer people donate blood. In addition, vacations can impact our ability to collect enough blood to meet patient need. We ask you to work a miracle for accident victims, cancer patients, surgery patients, and others this holiday season--give blood."

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals can give blood every 56 days. Individuals with specific questions may contact the Red Cross toll-free at 1-800-54BLOOD.

Local residents and patients are among those served through American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region. The Johnstown Region directly services hospitals, patients, and donors at Garrett Memorial, Sacred Heart, and Memorial hospitals, and also supports blood need experiences by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through Red Cross Blood Services.

THANK YOU

The Gorman VFD would like to thank Doug Fitzwater of Doug's Auto for donating two hogs to our department and also Rich Marple of R&R Trucking for donating a sheep to our department. These animals were purchased from the Garrett County Fair and will be used for fund-raisers. Again, we thank both Doug and Rich for supporting our company; it is greatly appreciated.

ARE YOU AN IN BETWEENER?

Are you stuck in between?

Let me explain.

Your job provides a steady income--a problem because your take-home pay is just enough to make you ineligible for any government aid programs. But your take-home pay won't let you qualify for help from a standard lender.

You're in between.

Think about where you live. What about space? Do more than two children share a bedroom? How about the roof and ceilings? Exposed wiring? Plumbing? Any standing water? A clean, constant water source? Heat? Insulation?

You get the idea.

Just one more question: Do you live or work or worship in Garrett County? Yes?

Then read on.

If some of these comments and questions describe your situation, and you and your family and friends are willing to work hard, Habitat for Humanity may be able to help you buy and build a solid, affordable home.

Two Accidents On Lake Result In Injuries

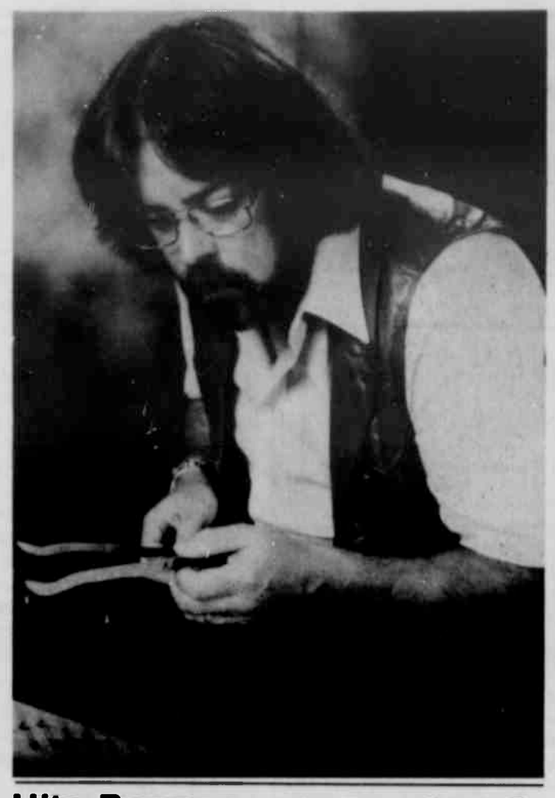
Two accidents on Deep Creek Lake involving personal watercraft sent a total of three people to the hospital over the recent holiday weekend, according to the Natural Resources Police (NRP).

In the first accident, which occurred at 10:50 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 30, two personal watercraft collided in the congested McHenry Cove. Anthony Kingsler Ceasar, 35, Baltimore, and David F. Webster, 34, Washington, D.C., were both traveling on seperate personal watercraft into the cove to return their rented personal watercrafts. Webster swerved to avoid a third personal watercraft coming in his direction and struck Ceasar's personal watercraft, which he hadn't seen.

The operator of the third personal watercraft, Duncan Allistair, responded quickly and pulled Webster from the water and placed him on his personal watercraft until units from the NRP, Deep Creek Lake Fire and Rescue, and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene.

Webster was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad with a fractured pelvis and internal problems. He was then flown to a Baltimore area hospital, where he is still recuperating from his injuries.

The second accident occurred on Cherry Creek Cove on Monday, Sept. 1, at 5:21 p.m., when Craig Versatti, 21, Munhall, Pa., drove his personal watercraft into the side of a 1978 Century boat owned by James Garner. No one was injured in Garner's boat; however, Versatti and a passenger, Lisa Ann Lesko, no age given, of West Mifflin, Pa., were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Northern Rescue Squad. Lesko was treated for a broken arm and multiple cuts and bruises and released, while Versatti was treated for multiple cuts and bruises and released.



Versatti was charged by NRP for operating a personal watercraft in excess of six knots within 100 feet of another vessel, operating a vessel in a negligent manner, and was given a warning for violation of inland rules of the road.

Two Juveniles Face Charges In Thefts From Cars

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has announced that two juveniles have been charged through the Department of Juvenile Justice in connection with a series of thefts from parked cars in the southern portion of the county.

A 17-year-old Accident male and a 16-year-old Oakland male have each been charged with 18 counts of theft and 18 counts of tampering with a motor vehicle, according to Deputy Jeff Murphy. Over the past month wallets, purses, and miscellaneous items had been taken from cars parked at the Broadford Park ballfields and along Sang Run Road at the Sang Run Pavilion. Preliminary estimates put the total amount of stolen items at approximately $5,000.

Both juveniles have been released into the custody of their respective parents, and the disposition of the case will be made by the Department of Juvenile Justice.

Southern Garrett Rescue transported him to Garrett Memorial Hospital where, he was admitted for treatment.

Police have charged Beckman with DWI, failure to reduce speed on a curve, and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

not to turn everyone into computer experts. Computers are here to simplify our lives, not make them more complex.

"A whole corporation or a government agency could store their files on computer using The Virtual Office System," League continued. "You can literally put hundreds of thousands of documents on this system. The potential is limitless, for any size company."

In listing some of the many practical applications he envisions for his product, League mentioned one that would be of particular interest to many Garrett County businesses. "For example, building contractors using The Virtual Office System could easily access all documents and files pertaining to a construction project by using a laptop computer at the site. They could read topographic maps, spec documents, contracts, enter change orders, do anything that is required to move the project along efficiently and accurately without having to travel from the site or spend precious time on the phone with the secretary in the office," he said.

In presenting Garrett Community College with the first of what he feels will be many site licenses granted by Context, Ltd., for the use of The Virtual Office System, League commended the efforts of the college in helping pave the way for companies like his to take full advantage of the information revolution. Jim Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Office, echoed League's sentiments. "Garrett Community College has taken the lead in incubating start-up businesses, and five more businesses are in the process of negotiating to join the GCC incubator plan. It's open to a wide range of businesses, especially those that deal with informational processing.

"We need an infrastructure that includes a skill base upon which to build," Hinebaugh continued, "and Garrett County's skill base is increasing rapidly with the leadership GCC has shown in the new information technology fields."

Context, Ltd., invites interested persons to visit its computer web site on the Internet for an introduction and overview of The Virtual Office System at www.hallent.com.

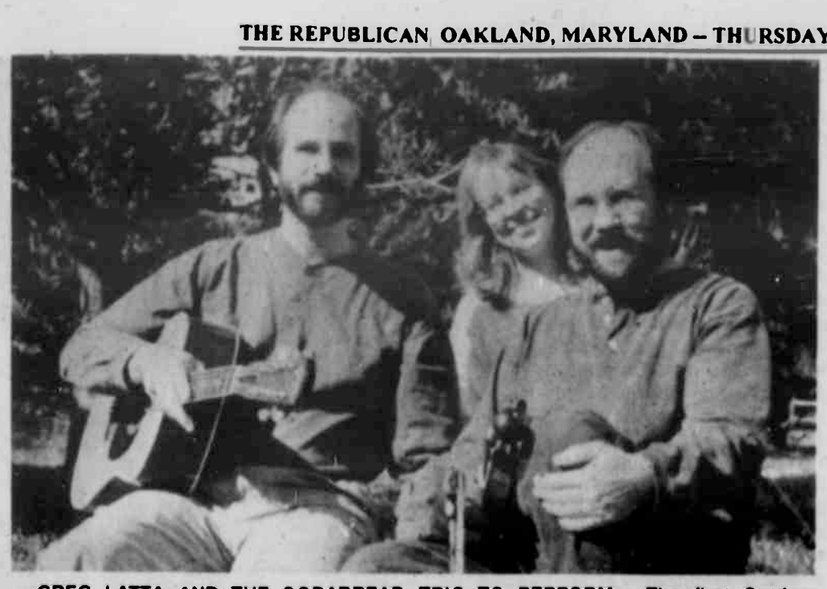
other public forums about his opposition to this project. His concerns included contamination from discharge of gas and oil into the Youghiogheny River by way of the outfall that will empty from a stormwater management pond into Minnow Creek, a tributary of the Youghiogheny, resulting in degradation of the trout waters.

Listed among his other concerns are dangers to public health and the economy of the town.

McEwen described the sewer project, laid out by John Sanders, as a good design. He went on to say that according to this plan, the sewer project will not permanently degrade Minnow Creek. "I believe this project doesn't impinge on anything we regulate," he said.

The impact upon the environment from installing the necessary underpinnings for the system have been judged by his department to be temporary or minimal by known standards.

McEwen emphasized that no permit had been issued yet. He also stated that other regulatory agencies, such as those that deal with wildlife, fisheries, and endangered species, have been given multiple opportunities to respond with comments to the application.



Matthew Reams Earns Commission

At a recent ceremony conducted at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., former Garrett County resident Matthew Garrett Reams was commissioned as an officer in the United States Navy. He will report to the Naval War College in Newport, R.I., for training in surface warfare.

Prior to receiving his commission, Ensign Reams had been a preventive medicine technician/hospital corpsman stationed at the Naval Air Station, Sigonella, Italy. He and his wife Susan lived in Motta, Sicily, for his three-year tour of duty.

Ensign Reams, 27, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Reams, Niantic, Conn., and the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Garrett and the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bliss Reams, who were Garrett County residents.

GREG LATTA AND THE SODABREAD TRIO TO PERFORM - The first Outdoor Concert in the Park at Spruce Forest Artisan Village will be held this Saturday, Sept. 6, in the village, which is located at Penn Alps, Grantsville. The concert, to begin at 7 p.m., will feature the musical talent of Greg Latta, shown at left, as well as the Sodabread Trio, pictured above. The concert is being sponsored in part by Byco Enterprises and the Maryland State Arts Council. Children 12 and younger will be admitted free, and tickets for all others are available at four outlets: the Spruce Forest Artisan Village Office, Penn Alps Craft Shop, Main Street Books in Frostburg, and the Book Center in Cumberland.

Who Killed the Princess?...

The world was truly shocked at the violent death of Princess Diana of Wales last weekend, and there seem to be plenty of feet at which to lay the blame for such a tragedy.

The most obvious culprit in the minds of many was the driver of the automobile in which the princess was a passenger, since his blood alcohol level was some four times above the legal limit.

Others taking considerable heat, and we believe rightfully so, are the photographers, known as paparazzi, who were allegedly chasing the vehicle with hopes of capturing the princess and her companion on film, which brings us to the primary point of this column.

There are laws against stalking and harassment, and yet they do not seem to apply to photographers who constantly stalk and harass celebrities. There was almost no privacy for Princess Diana, as she could scarcely step outside without having to contend with these people. They were always there. For some reason, it's accepted that well-known persons are fair game for this type of abuse.

It is odd to us that, if a person sets foot on private property, he can be arrested for trespassing. Yet, he can stand just outside of that boundary and invade the same property, and the private lives of the property owner, with a camera lens, and there is no law against it.

Then, of course, there are the editors and publishers of the tabloids, who offer millions of dollars to these photographers for their invasive photos. Such a prize would be extremely difficult to resist even for the photographer with the utmost integrity.

But some of the blame must also go to the hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of citizens who purchase these garbage publications, for the editors/publishers would not have millions with which to reward the paparazzi if persons refused to buy their product.

The pursuit of the almighty dollar is, once again, at the bottom of some of the worst of human behavior, which in this case has led to the tragic loss of a young, caring mother of two, a beautiful woman who was making a positive difference in the lives of thousands of people. It's a truly pathetic reflection of humankind.

SPIKE SEQUEL
By Melodee Hill

For those of you who can remember, last month--I know, I know, I'm not asking you to remember what you had for lunch today or what happened yesterday, but a month or so ago--I wrote a column about how we accidentally wound up as dog parents. I actually meant to write about what it is like being dog parents, but with one tangent or another, I ran out of space right after we took our cute puppy home. So I never really got around to writing about what a nuisance, I mean joy, having a dog can be, or how weird and neurotic our dog is. Uh-oh, things are beginning to look a little fuzzy. I guess I need to go get my glasses, which are not in my convenient pouch, but are out in the car in my cumbersome pocketbook. I'll be right back.

Oh, no she won't! Hi! Spike here. It's going to take Mom some time to figure out how to get back in. They really shouldn't leave that wooden bar so close to the sliding door--a little nudge with my nose, and privacy at last! This place is always crawling with those upper-level mammals and sometimes a guy-dog just needs his territory, or space, if you will. Now, let's just see what Mom was writing about me. Hmm, dog parents...cute, that's good, wait a minute--Weird! Neurotic! Is Mom talking about me? No, she can't be, she must be confusing me with one of those two-legged omnivores who tear through the house like hungry hounds after rabbits. And speaking of omnivores, the food in this place stinks like an old shoe. Hard dry pellets mixed with water twice a day get pretty boring after awhile. Mom does try though, and sometimes she adds tasty little bits of food when they are finished eating, but sometimes a guy just has to have the satisfaction of hunting up something for himself.

I have to admit that the rest of the pack (being guys themselves) must realize how important this is to a guy-dog's self-esteem and how awful the meals are around here, and they leave little surprises around the house for me. That's why I love to explore the rest of the house when someone forgets to put the gate up. There are always delicious Kleenex in the tiny, water room. A growing, guy-dog needs his fiber. Ball Tosser always used to leave me chewy plastic toys that tasted exactly like eating a burger and fries--all that was missing was the milkshake! He hasn't been leaving me any of those lately, though; I wonder why. And Scratcher could always be counted on for brightly colored, crunchy sticks that had a smooth, licoricy center. These treats would roll off his desk and I would wait until he left the room before I would help myself, because even I know it's not polite to eat in front of someone, if they're not having some also.

Best of all though is Bigfeet. He doesn't leave me surprises very often, but they are usually better than the others. There is this plastic container in the food room where the pack saves the most treasured treats and morsels (which they hardly ever share with me), and when that gets too full they add it to the metal can outside for safekeeping. Sometimes, Bigfeet will let it get too full just for me and then I can choose my own treat right off the top! Once Bigfeet and in-law Bigfeet were eating the biggest piece of mooer that I'd ever seen. The aroma was intoxicating! Finally, they decided to go inside and left the rest for me on the outdoor food dish. I felt like I had died and gone to the Milk-bone warehouse. But it must have been some new game I wasn't familiar with, because pretty soon both Bigfeets were chasing me around the yard, whooping and hollering. This dog hasn't had that much fun since the cute golden retriever from across the road came over to play.

You know, I still can't believe that Mom thinks I'm weird and neurotic. I thought she liked me. Maybe she likes Ball Tosser better, or Scratcher. What's a dog to do? Is it weird to want Mom to file my nails when she is filing hers? Is it weird to want that noisy sucking hose to scratch my back when all she is doing with it is scratching the rug? Does it seem strange to come running when one of the pack mashes the moo-juice container? All I want is to lick out the last drops of moo-juice. Can I help it if they forget and leave my treat in their backpacks or pocketbook and I have to get it myself? Is it neurotic to throw my 70 pounds into Mom's lap or arms when the sky booms white? Or to poke my head through the screen so she'll take me with her, instead of leaving me alone with that little purring meower? I don't think so, but I'll let you be the judge. Uh-oh, I think I hear a key ring jangling. Now would probably be a good time for a nap under the comfy chair. May all your surprises be T-bones and Kleenex!

Whew! The bar accidentally got wedged in the door and after I got my glasses I had to go get an extra key from a friend and we got to talking, and anyway, sorry it took so long. I don't remember writing so much, but I'm glad I did because I can hear that cute, cuddly "puppy" rooting around in the trash can, so we'll get back to the subject of Spike at a later date.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Jane and Harold Greenburg's letter to the editor on Aug. 28th talked about vegetation in Deep Creek Lake. I also noted this growth and have been alarmed at how fast it has multiplied. In fact, in a boat ride around sections of McHenry and Beckman's Peninsula, I fouled my propeller on this stuff in supposedly deeper water (how deep I don't know).

In the 41 years I have been coming here to Deep Creek Lake, I don't remember this kind of problem occurring. Is this a result of a changing lake environment as suggested by the Greenburgs? I'm curious as to what the DNR or area biologists have to say. What has changed? Is this just a cyclic phenomenon or something new? I'd like to see an article on this subject in The Republican.

Sincerely,
Gary Wotherspoon
Beckman's Pennisula

Dear Gary,

See Bob Yonke's "Garrett County Outdoors" column in our sports pages. Bob offers a possible explanation for this vegetation in the lake.

Editor

To the Editor:

People who claim simple profiteering is the motive behind the drive for a north/south four-lane highway in Garrett County are wrong. Almost all road boosters genuinely believe a new four-lane improves Garrett County's competitiveness in tomorrow's commercial markets. The road's public supporters tend to be successful, proactive people with traditional progressive vision; people who move on their thoughts, people who know how to get what they want, and people who attend to the details to achieve their objectives.

The idea that roads upgrade commercial prospects is older than recorded history. A road is good. A crossroads is better. However, a quarter century after completion of I-48/68, less than one thousand jobs in Garrett County exist solely because it does. That works out to about $300,000 cost per job for I-68 (in 1996 dollars). About five cents of that money originated here, and working class residents got about five cents of benefit despite promises then (as now) of high paying jobs. I-68 is proof that a four-lane-limited-access highway is no guarantee of high paying jobs. Nearby crossroads Morgantown, Hagerstown, and Cumberland defeat any idea that a crossroads here is going to be a big deal.

While I don't share CARE's concerns for public lands and endangered species, and I don't share their apparent desire to demonize proponents of the new four-lane, I am increasingly convinced they are onto something when they claim a new four-lane might do more harm than good. Noise levels are addressed in this month's issue of The Atlantic. If stress levels double in urban areas close by new highways, what multiple will apply here where at night most of us listen to the wind through the trees? I've rejected better paving work in urban areas to tive here. Many of us have. I've tried to find the facts to date about the road by discussing the issue with informed officials.

Conversations in July with Delegate George Edwards, and John Nelson and Jim Torrington of the county planning and zoning office, indicated that their definition of limited-access highway looks like Rt. 40 between LaVale and Frostburg and not at all like I-68. The main difference from two lanes to four lanes in the vision these officials described is that all homeowners and some business patrons will need to turn right out of driveways and then find a legal turn around to travel in the other direction. No official offered to guarantee that even bypasses would be closed to developments. Repeat, limited-access to them in July did not mean an I-68 type of highway, even in bypass areas.

Furthermore, each of them was very specific, and very clear that the planned path for the new highway is south from Keyser's Ridge on through Red House. John Nelson was clear it is the desirable path because it accommodates smart growth (and the plan to zone the entire county soon). Close your eyes and imagine with me, if you will, a four-lane highway in that corridor that does not encroach upon Deep Creek Lake's ambiance. Eight to the acre zoning in the 1970s reduced Deep Creek Lake (and Garrett County) from a potential billion dollar wilderness resort for real money to a grazing ground for whiny first generation professionals and overpaid government workers from the megalopolis. Deep Creek is about 10 franchises from being a pretty average McGetaway. Building the proposed four-lane through the Deep Creek corridor can enhance the comfort of traditionless exurbanites inhabiting sylvan-themed and government zoned condos by destroying remaining vestiges of uniqueness around the lake. The effects of Garrett County's devolution on me is similar to that of witnessing a horror; I want to look away, but my eye is drawn to it.

The present day bottom line on all this is, why is anyone still wondering what limited access means and which corridors are preferred when clear statements from officials could move us to the next phase of the debate? Am I wrong, or is it one of the duties of public officials to inform the public about public issues? With all due respect for our public officials, isn't it about time to put some facts on the table? Facts like what exactly is limited access? Facts like, what exactly is the planned roadbed? Facts like, if bypasses are built, are they going to be closed to development?

Sincerely,
W.L. Welch
Gortner

To the Editor:

We wish to congratulate the members of Garrett County C.A.R.E. (Conservative Action for a Rural Environment) for their coordinated effort in the August 28th issue of The Republican newspaper to try to set public policy via their repeated letters to the editor.

Unfortunately, in their zeal to oppose transportation-based economic development infrastructure measures, they have deliberately sought to mislead members of the public, have outright libeled our state delegate and sought to slur and ridicule the motives of the elected mayors, town councils, business organizations, county promotional organizations, and county elected and appointed officials.

Their mission statement is that they are "opposed to the building of another four-lane interstate highway in Garrett County, Maryland, in order to sustain and preserve our natural, agricultural and rural heritage."

That is fine. Nobody expects a 100% agreement on everything. That would be dull.

However, Ms. Dana Shimrock stated that the meetings of the C.A.R.E. group "do not require that people come to the meetings with their minds made up." With all due respect, Ms. Shimrock, that is exactly what your group represented in the August 21st issue of The Republican concerning your group's meeting at Garrett Community College on August 22nd. Jaime Alvarez's letter to the editor stated that anyone with an opposing viewpoint was specifically requested not to attend. (Ltrs. Page A-12).

The organization states, "There is a big difference between targeted road improvements that are designed to benefit people who live here, versus the concept of putting a restricted access, four-lane highway right through the middle of the county to make it easier for interstate traffic to pass through without stopping, except at a McDonald's or an Exxon." We assume this means your organization doesn't recognize that an Exxon service station or a McDonald's restaurant is a perfect example of a family-owned and operated, small and medium size business which your group states it wishes to support as opposed to "...outposts of large national and foreign-based companies and trucking warehouses..." which your group does not support.

Your group has indicated that "local residents should have the opportunity to provide input" regarding this transportation issue with the suggestion that your group has not.

We can recall at the end of May 1996, a Rt. 219 stakeholders conference held in Somerset, Pa., and attended by reporters and reported on in The Republican newspaper, our local radio stations and the Cumberland Times-News. We can also recall a bus trip to Washington, D.C., in March of 1997, attended by a local reporter and reported on in The Republican newspaper, our local radio stations, and the Cumberland-Times News.

The suggestion that local residents or groups such as C.A.R.E have been shut out of the process and blind sided by other groups with opposing positions is a perfect example of "a dog that won't hunt." This public effort was reported on in May 1996. C.A.R.E. was just recently formed as a group with an opposing viewpoint.

Representatives of C.A.R.E. and local residents could have and still can approach the mayors and town councils of Grantsville, Accident, and Oakland, area business organizations and property owners associations as our group has and present their case. All they have to do is take the time and effort to call and request to make their case. Our group did. As a result of taking the time and effort to sit down with the elected representatives of those municipalities and the elected boards of directors of the Greater Grantsville Business Association, the Deep Creek/Garrett County Promotion Council, the Garrett County Development Corporation, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Oakland Business Association and the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, we received resolutions from them endorsing the concept of a limited access, four-lane, divided, north/south highway through Garrett County.

A citizen who agrees with C.A.R.E.'s point of view is Mr. Crede Calhoun of Friendsville, MD, who recently opposed the installation of a small, family-owned convenience store business in Friendsville. He met with the Friendsville town council, the Garrett County Sanitary District officials and the Garrett County Office of Planning & Zoning trying to convince them that this type of family-owned small business was not appropriate in the town of Friendsville. He did not prevail. Is that an example of C.A.R.E.'s support of small, family-owned businesses?

Mr. Crede Calhoun implies he knows where this road will go when he states, "Delegate George Edwards has a gas station at the proposed junction of I-68 and this new interstate."

Nobody knows where the proposed highway will be located or even if it will be constructed and funded Because if it does not receive federal funding it won't receive any state funding and nothing will happen.

Therefore Mr. Calhoun's comment is simply not true and is an intentional lie seeking to undermine the integrity of Delegate Edwards.

Mr. Calhoun owes Delegate Edwards a written, public apology for his remarks attacking his integrity. Delegate Edwards has and continues to work extremely hard in the state legislature for the benefit of the citizens of Garrett County. As a matter of fact, Delegate Edwards has specifically asked the State Highway Department to examine an area just east of the existing 219 North which is proposed Corridor N, for connection with Route 219 in Pennsylvania because there is nothing there but reclaimed surface mines and fields, which means there would be less disruption to any of the existing homes in that area.

Meal, Parade, Oktoberfest, Bingo Among OVFD Festival Events

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will open Garrett County's 30th Annual Autumn Glory Festival with a variety of events on Thursday, Oct. 9, in downtown Oakland.

The first event will be an Oktoberfest meal served at the Oakland fire hall on Third Street from 4 to 7 p.m., featuring German-style food and drink.

The Firemen's Parade, which will get underway at 7 p.m., will feature bands, drill teams, fire equipment, antique fire apparatus, and rescue apparatus traveling over 200 miles from throughout the tri-state area. Participating departments are judged in several categories, as firefighters from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and other areas are invited to join the parade. Prior to the parade, apparatus judging will be held at the Farmer's Market parking lot on Route 219 north of Oakland from 5:30 p.m. until parade time.

Wrapping up this evening will be the OVFD's annual Oktoberfest Celebration at the fire hall immediately following the parade. The celebration includes German-style food, drink, a live "Oompah" band, and presentation of the Fireman of the Year Award by the Garrett County Firemen's Association. There is no admission charge.

On Friday, Oct. 10, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Elks Lodge on Elk Street in Oakland, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and the Oakland Elks will host "Big Bucks" Bingo. Tickets are $30, which includes all regular games, and are available from any fire department or Elks member or from Jeff Kurilla. Participants must be at least 18. Refreshments will be available. For tickets and information, persons may call 301-334-3535 or 301-334-3820.

For more information on these events or a free festival brochure, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone 301-334-1948, E-Mail GCTourism@garrett.ncin.com.

COMMISSIONERS WELCOME GERMAN DANCERS - The Markgroningen Schaferlauf Dance and Music Group from Germany came to tha United States for the first time last week and were greeted by the Garrett County Commissioners on Thursday. This past Saturday, the group performed in Oakland during the Artists Street Fair, and again at the Deep Creek Lake State Park as part of a Garrett Lakes Arts Festival event. The group then traveled on to Washington, D.C., and other famous U.S. sites. Ruth Beitzel, a McHenry resident, was a member of the dance troupe when she was a young woman, living in Germany. The group stayed with Ruth and her husband Wendell for the duration of their stay in the county. The commissioners presented them with a county flag and other items, and they gave the commissioners souvenirs of their homeland. The commissioners told the visitors that many local residents are of German descent, noting that all three of their names are German -- Wilt, Glotfelty, and Fratz. The dancers are pictured as they meet with the local officials. Photo by John McEwen.

Snowblowers Stolen From Snowy Creek

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating a burglary from a storage shed belonging to Snowy Creek Motor Sports and Equipment in which three snowblowers were taken.

The identical Husqavarna snowblowers, valued at $829 each, had been stored since this past May in a shed behind the Cumberland Electric Store building on Route 219. Snowy Creek employees conducting an inventory last week discovered that the snowblowers were missing. They are each described as an orange Husqavarna, model 724, seven-horsepower, 24-inch cut snowblower.

The sheriff's office is also investigating a burglary of a residence that occurred in the 400 block of H Street in Mtn. Lake Park on the night of Friday, Aug. 29. The perpetrator(s) reportedly appeared to have gained entry by forcing the front door open with a flat pry tool, possibly a screwdriver. Food, cigarettes, and $300 in cash were taken from the residence.

A window was broken out of an apartment at 44 Buena Vista Drive in Mtn. Lake Park on the night of Thursday, Aug. 28. The damage figure is estimated at $150.

Any persons with information on these or any other crimes are encouraged to call the Crime Solvers number at 301-334-1975 or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

In other sheriff's news, several warrants were served recently by sheriff's deputies. Gary Wayne Paugh, 31, Elk Garden, W.Va., was served with a theft warrant; Richard Allen Liller, 41, Oakland, was served with a warrant charging him with theft and trespassing; Michael Robert Reams, 37, Oakland, was served with a warrant charging him with assault; Brian Keith Bolyard, 25, Friendsville, was served with a warrant charging him with failure to pay deferred fine; Jeremy Lee Perando, 21, McHenry, was served with a bench warrant charging him with violation of probation; Alan Eugene Sisler III, 28, Oakland, was served with a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear for a hearing.

Three subjects were charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) by the sheriff's office: Edgar Markwood Browning, 46, McHenry; William Hayes Dignan Jr., 29, Friendsville; and John Earl Denison, 37, Daisytown, Pa. Denison was also charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Mettiki Helps Agency Install Water System

A new water system was recently made available through the cooperative efforts of Maryland Department of the Environment, Garrett County Sanitary District, and Mettiki Coal Company.

The Garrett County Sanitary District has announced completion of construction of the new Gorman Water System. This new water supply eliminates the need to purchase water from West Virginia.

The new system consists of two new water wells, a 100,000 gallon water storage tank and transmission line from wells to tank control building, and new water line along Route 50.

Three separate construction contracts were awarded for the project. Robert Beitzel Excavating installed the water line and control building. Dutchland, Inc., constructed the storage tank, and Wayne's Water 'N' Wells developed the new wells.

The total project cost $711,000. The Maryland Department of the Environment provided a $450,000 grant. Mettiki Coal Company contributed $260,000 for the project. The remaining funds were provided by the sanitary district from water system reserves and will be repaid by future connection fees to the system.

The new ground water supply for the system replaces a surface water source from West Virginia. "The water quality is excellent and the only treatment required by the District is the addition of chlorine to prevent bacterial contamination," Wendell Beitzel, administrator of the sanitary district said.

Dorothy Leuba, chairperson for the sanitary commission stated, "This is a very good example of cooperation between the local water authority and a private company. The cooperation made it possible to make major improvements to the Gorman Water System without any cost or debt for the users of the system."

"It is very seldom that a business makes such a large contribution to a community. Mettiki is to be commended for their support for the project," Beitzel added.

The water system improvement project has been placed in service. In addition to the Gorman water users, the people along Route 50 west of Gorman are receiving the benefit of the project.

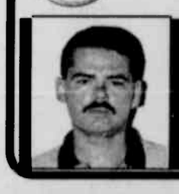
GET FACT:



CONTINENTAL HIGHWAY 1

10 BASIC FACTS

1. A new highway is being planned and built from Toronto in Canada, through Buffalo, NY, all the way to Miami, Florida. This international trade corridor, called CONTINENTAL ONE, is part of NAFTA.
2. Plans call for building 40-50 miles of multi-lane highway right through Garrett Co. from the PA border to the WV border, running north-south.
3. No specific route has been planned yet, as to where CONTINENTAL ONE might be built in our county. Existing U.S. Rt. 219 may or may not be part of the plan.
4. This highway project is not to be confused with any proposed U.S. Rt. 219 bypass plans around towns.
5. CONTINENTAL ONE will give preference to traffic going through our area by highly limiting the access. With interchanges 10 or more miles apart, this highway is not intended for local traffic. It will move traffic through here.
6. Highways do not necessarily bring more long-term jobs to an area. There is no guarantee!
7. Maryland taxpayers will spend over $7 million per year for 11 years, totaling $80 million dollars, to build this highway, IF it is allowed to go through.
8. This project is still in the "scoping stage" here. Studies will be done. Need will be considered. Funding is not certain.
9. The bill, NECTEA of 1997, is being considered by Congress this fall to provide federal funding for part of the CONTINENTAL ONE project. Funding can be stopped here.
10. We are at a crossroads. We have a choice. Do we open the door to ugly urban sprawl and never-ending overdevelopment or will we stand by the divine natural gifts we have been endowed with— beautiful wild lands and rural communities-- and let them be?

OBITUARIES

Floyd Clifford Hetz, 81, Grantsville, died Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1997, at his home.

Born Oct. 10, 1915, at Cove, he was the son of the late Henry Adam and Marie (Jones) Hetz.

He was self-employed as the owner/operator of Hetz Trailer Sales and Hetz's Place. He was a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Grantsville.

Survivors include his wife, H. Ruth (Weimer) Hetz; three sons, Ronald C. Hetz and Kevin E. Hetz, both of Grantsville, and D. Allen Hetz, Cumberland; three daughters, Janice M. Gauntz, Meyersdale, Pa., Rosalyn R. Dukes, Library, Pa., and Barbara J. Miller, Baltimore; one sister, Mabel Clark, Duluth, Minn; and 11 grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. today, Thursday. A service will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday, Sept. 5, at 3 p.m. with Pastor Brenda Shreve officiating. Interment will be in the Grantsville Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

CATHERINE M. LEE

Catherine Marie Lee, 64, Westminster, formerly of Randallstown, died Saturday, Aug. 30, 1997, at the Carroll County General Hospital, Westminster.

Born June 20, 1933, in Green Spring, W.Va., she was a daughter of the late Floyd and Ethel Huffman. She was also preceded in death by three brothers and three sisters.

She is survived by her husband, George Lee; one son, George Wesley Lee Jr., Westminster; three daughters, Nancy Baker, Westminster, Linda Sue Blake, Owings Mills, and Deborah Ann Rutter, Hanover, Pa.; two brothers, Marion Huffman, Cumberland, and Floyd Huffman, Jarrettsville; one sister, Dorothy Cogar, Fairmont, W.Va; and nine grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Pritts Funeral Home and Chapel, Westminster. A service was conducted Tuesday at St. David's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Hanover, with the Rev. Kevin T. Shively officiating. A graveside service and interment were held Wednesday, Sept. 3, at St. Paul's Lutheran Cemetery, Accident.

The family suggests that expressions of sympathy be directed to the Maryland Chapter of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation, P.O. Box 39582, Baltimore, MD 21212-9582.

TWILA V. BACHTEL

Twila Virginia Bachtel, 95, Oakland, died Thursday, Aug. 28, 1997, at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born April 3, 1902, in Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., she was the daughter of the late George and Florence (Winters) Houser. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Mark O. Bachtel, in 1973; and a daughter, Geneva Junkins.

Survivors include three sons, Clifton Bachtel, Horse Shoe Run, Eugene Bachtel, Eglon, W.Va., and Kenneth Bachtel, Oakland; three daughters, Pauline Best, Riva, Juanita Blamble, Port St. Lucie, Fla., and JoAnn Gehman, Lititz, Pa.; two brothers, Earl Houser, Oakland, and Kenneth Houser, Willowick, Ohio; 20 grandchildren; 25 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, on Sunday, Aug. 31, with the Rev. William Connelly officiating. Interment followed in St. John's Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to St. John's Lutheran Church.

Small Business Connections Slated At GCC

Small Business Connections is the first in a series of business classes offered through the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, McHenry.

The class will provide a learning opportunity for anyone interested in starting a business or who is currently operating a small business and is considering growth or change. The Small Business Development Center at GCC will sponsor the class, which is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 18, 6-9 p.m.

The evening class will begin with brief presentations by area professionals on topics relevant to starting and expanding a small business. Speakers will include Julie Hill, First United National Bank & Trust; Clay Garland, accountant; David Martin, Clerk of Courts; Mimi or Dave Demaree, Demaree Inflatable Boats, Inc.; Donald Goldbloom, attorney at law; and Beverly Wilson, a specialist in home-based businesses, a real estate professional, and an insurance representative.

Immediately following the presentations, there will be an informal period offering participants the opportunity to meet and talk with the speakers.

A $5 registration fee is required for this event. Anyone wishing to pre-register or get additional information may contact Sandy Major at 301-387-3101 or Cathy Fazenbaker at 301-387-3080. Seating in the class will be limited.

Bloodmobile Nets 145 Units During Oakland Visit

A release by the American Red Cross went out last week seeking immediate blood donations to assist in meeting the blood supply needs of local communities nationwide. At the Oakland bloodmobile, 145 units of blood were collected to help stem the shortage in the local area. Combined with donors who turned out at the extra O-type drive in July, over 200 people showed up to help by donating over the summer.

First-time donors were: Cheryl C. Delprato, Jason W. Hale, Cynthia A. Moatz, all of Swanton, and James E. Steyer, Patricia Tusing, and Junior Uphold of Oakland.

Those donating for the eighth time to reach the one-gallon mark were: Kay Baker, Cheryl Bittinger, Naomi Kinsinger, Tony Lewis, and Cindy Storck. The two-gallon milestone was reached by Frederick L. Fitzwater, Harriett Moon, H. Donald Moss, and Tammy Skiles.

Samuel D. Peachy and Harold Wildesen topped the four-gallon mark, and the five-gallon milestone was reached by Jeff Gregory and Linda Riley. Thomas E. Bittinger reached the seven-gallon milestone, and Rayetta Beitzel topped the eight-gallon mark. The top donor was Janet Hardesty, who donated for the 112th time to reach the 14-gallon mark.

"Our appreciation goes out to all of our donors, our canteen sponsor, the Garrett County Farm Bureau, Junior Ferguson for donating cookies, Lakeside Creamery for donating ice cream, WKHJ for lending us their air-waves, the Coca-Cola Company of Cumberland for donating drinks, and our great staff of volunteers, including the Deep Creek Lake Lioness Club and St. Peter's Confirmation Class. The Red Cross would not exist without the willingness of these people to help out wherever needed," said Elizabeth Huxford, GCARC blood services chairman.

Those volunteers making the bloodmobile possible were: Rosalie Baker and Artie Dixon, greeters; Elizabeth Huxford and Barb Sweitzer, registration, Clara Anderson, Kathy Edwards, Marie Frigon, Marjorie Funk, Ellen Habarth, Jackie Johnson, Marie McCarty, Penny Merkle, Shirley Panther, Nita Roberts, M. Sue Shockey, Tiddle Wheeler, and Phyllis Winklevoss, all members of the Deep Creek Lake Lioness Club; Jean McConnell, Joyce Ridder, and Jonathon Wildesen, canteen; Caine Chorpenning, Darwin Dimick, Junior Ferguson, Anne Forrester, Jim Hart, Russ McConnell, Wayne Paugh, and Josh Rodeheaver, walkers; and Harold Wildesen, teardown.

School closings and family vacations over the summer months have contributed to a decline in blood donations. Garrett County is in the Johnstown Blood Services Region, which currently has a 1.5 day or less supply of O positive and O negative blood. Ideally, the Red Cross prefers to have a three-to-four-day supply

While the Red Cross encourages all healthy people to donate blood, people with O blood type are particularly needed because O is the most common blood type and is always in demand. Additionally, in emergency situations, blood type O can be safely transmitted to recipients with other blood types.

The Red Cross is urging first time and repeat donors to donate blood. September bloodmobiles scheduled for Garrett County are Grantsville fire hall, Monday, Sept. 8, and Friendsville fire hall, Friday, Sept. 19.

To donate blood, one must be healthy, at least 17 years old, and weigh at least 110 pounds. For further information on donating, persons may contact the Red Cross at 1-800-54BLOOD.

FRIENDSVILLE

LIONS CLUB NEWS

The regular meeting of the Friendsville Lions Club was held at Twila's Old Mill Restaurant on Aug. 28 with 32 persons in attendance. There were 14 members and wives and 18 guests.

President Barry Frazee called the meeting to order and the prayer was given by Mary Friend. Guests included Carrol Smith of the Beaver Creek Lions Club, who serves as district governor and council secretary of District 22W., Egon Elsner of the Middletown Lions Club, Wayne Johnson, vice district governor of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, Richard Holt, cabinet treasurer of the Cumberland Lions Club, and Tom Jefts of the Potomac Valley Lions Club.

District Governor Carol Smith spoke to the group about the meaning of Lionism and some of the programs that the Lions will be sponsoring through the remainder of the year.

The Friendsville Lions Club awarded four scholarships to students from Northern High School. Mindy McCarty, Josh Robinson, Tyler Smith, and Amy Fikes, each of Friendsville, were the recipients.

A banner was presented to the Friendsville Lions Club for "Proud, Past and Future in Lionism."

Deal Family Meets For 30th Reunion

The 30th annual Deal family reunion was held Sunday at the Grantsville Community Park.

Approximately 40 relatives and friends gathered for a covered dish picnic, conversation, and the traditional raffle, in which many prizes go to many winners.

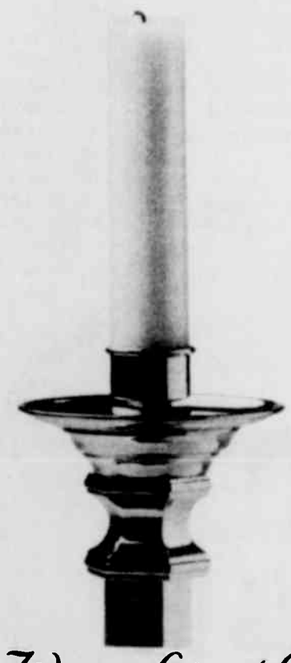
The following family members were elected officers for the upcoming year: Ed Deal, president, Lisa Schlosnagle, vice president, Diana Deal, secretary, and Bev Deal, treasurer.

Plans are already underway for next year's get-together. The 1998 reunion will be held Sunday, Sept. 6, at the same location. Lunch will begin at 1 p.m.

Lisa Schlosnagle and Carla Swearman will be in charge of the raffle. There will also be a brown bag auction.

Vetter To Speak At Garden Club

Resident recycling assistant Tanya Vetter of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, will speak at the next meeting of Mountain Laurel Garden Club. Her topic will be recycling and composting at the county landfill.



Vetter will be the guest speaker at the meeting to be held Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the Will O' the Wisp.

Club members worked during the summer landscaping, weeding, and feeding the garden in front of the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland.

Flower beds at the Accident branch of the library were designed and nurtured by club members with the help of local businesses.

Meetings of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club are held the third Tuesday of the month at 10:30 a.m. New members are welcome to attend. Anyone wishing more information may call Barbara Sanders, 304-789-6450, or Judy Finkel, 301-387-5488.

Arthritis Forum Set For Sept. 10

The Garrett County Arthritis Advisory Board will host an Arthritis Forum on Wednesday, Sept. 10, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services Center. The evening's topic, "Living with Arthritis: Practical Approaches to Everyday Situations," will be presented by occupational therapist Shauna Forentino and physical therapist Melvin Calling, both of Rehab Solutions. Individuals with fibromyalgia are invited to attend.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-2155, ext. 492.

Grantsville Group Plans Kick-Off For Crime Watch

The grass-roots Neighborhood Crime Watch program will be kicked off in Grantsville on Sept. 13.

The crime watch meeting will be held at the Grantsville fire hall beginning at 6 p.m. and will be sponsored by the Grantsville Community Hot Spot Committee.

Judy Lipscomb, who chairs the committee, said the purpose of this gathering is to discuss ideas, listen to speakers, ask questions, and begin to organize crime watch in Grantsville.

Lipscomb said she hopes many of the area residents will take advantage of this opportunity to become part of the solution to the growing problems caused by increased crime in the area. "Residents' attendance at this meeting will help determine the future success of our program," she stated.

By attending and participating in the development of the crime watch, Lipscomb said, she believed people would be taking a positive stand against crime in the community.

Speakers slated to participate in the kick-off meeting are representatives from nearby crime watch programs and local law enforcement agencies.

Grantsville was recently named as Garrett County's Hot Spot in a statewide crime prevention initiative. State funds were granted for various crime-deterrent programs in each Hot Spot across the Maryland.

Open House Set For Tuesday At Southern High

Southern High School will host an open house next Tuesday, Sept. 9, from 6 to 8 p.m. Parents are invited to visit the school to gain an awareness of their children's educational program.

The evening will begin with light refreshments in the foods classroom and an opportunity to meet with the administrative staff to discuss issues or concerns. Teachers will be available in their classroom to discuss course outlines and expectations, grading and discipline policies, and student prog ress.

In the main lobby interested parents will have the opportunity to meet with a Balfour representative concerning class rings. Various school booster organizations will be available to answer questions and acquire comments and support. The school store will also be open for business.

Letters

Documentation of this is available at the Garrett County Office of Planning & Zoning.

The members of the C.A.R.E. group and reporters of The Republican need to contact and interview business owners in the Grantsville and Keysers Ridge area and ask them what the impact of Interstate 68 had on their businesses and thus their families and their employees.

The members of C.A.R.E. need to refrain from hysterical arguments without supporting facts that a north/south highway through the county will divide us. The citizens of Grantsville and Keysers Ridge can get across Interstate 68 to Deep Creek Lake and vice versa.

Some of their members are concerned about possible air pollution from truck traffic that would use this proposed highway. We believe they need to address the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency with their request for modifications of automotive emission standards. However, they might want to visit the Diesel Institute in Keysers Ridge, Wagner Trucking in McHenry, Sister Lumber and Wood Products in Oakland, to name a few, and interview the operators and students to seek their view on this proposed highway and emission standards.

Other letter writers hint of environmental concerns regarding this proposed highway construction and if it would pass through state forests and across trout streams and rivers.

If our observation is correct Interstate 68 travels through Green Ridge State Forest and it also crosses the Casselman River, one of the best trout waterways on the East Coast and there don't seem to be any detrimental effects. In fact 1-68 provides access for hunters, fishermen and visitors to these natural resources. Why would proponents of this highway want to ruin that?

The business organizations, the municipalities, and the property owners associations seek to protect and grow our natural resources and hospitality industries which impact approximately 20% of our county's employment and 15% of its annual payroll. To advocate a project designed to destroy it would be committing economic suicide! To enhance it and enable it to grow while also seeking to provide a diversified county economy is the goal of the proponents of this highway project.

A significant number of Canadians, New Yorkers and Pennsylvanians travel to the south and Florida back and forth every year. Imagine the impact on our economy if they stopped in Garrett County for the evening or weekend to visit our beautiful county!

Thirty years from now, if this highway is complete, the ability to grow our hospitality industry win have increased geometrically along with our ability to attract other types of businesses to balance our economy.

The proposed north/-south highway win take decades to construct. It will be subject to an environmental impact statement that win take years to prepare. There will be years of highway location planning and an abundance of public hearings seeking input.

This is a long-term project that won't proceed without federal backing and funding. Like Interstate 68 and the Northern Industrial Park, it will provide the ability for the economic diversity of our county's economy and not sole reliance on one industry or one employer.

This project won't bring massive, instantaneous, major, industrial development just like 1-68 hasn't brought massive, instantaneous, major industrial development.

However, coupled with industrial parks it will bring and help grow small- to medium-size firms in our county, as has happened with the Northern Industrial Park. It only opened in June of 1993 and now has two occupants, Hobby House Press, a distributing company, and New England Truss & Joist, a light manufacturing/assemblycompany. Both companies have expanded since they moved into the park and so has their number of employees. This is an example of the type of growth and diversity our economy needs.

In short, this is an extremely long-term economic development project designed to enhance and expand our county's economy over the long run without reliance on one industry sector or one major employer. We made that mistake once; let us not repeat history.

Veteran SHS Soccer Team Aiming For Winning Season

Judging from the Southern High School varsity soccer team's performance in a pre-season tournament and a scrimmage with Westmar this week, this could be the year that the Rams record their first winning season, although Coach Tom Powers is not one to make any such predictions.

The Rams, who will open their 1997 campaign this Saturday at home against Allegany, not only have 14 players back from last season's 5-8 squad, but are also a far more experienced team, as many of the players participated on a spring traveling team coached by Southern assistant Mel Menker. Starting seniors back on the roster this year include Steve Allison, Karlo Gesner, Jeff McDaniel, Steve Pariseau, and Mike Tressler. Members of the junior class who started last season include: Nick Glotfelty, Bo Jonson, Chad Lovett, John Menker, and Jonathan Price.

Top players lost to graduation were first-team All-Area pick Matt Sincell, Jesse Ashby, Justin Helbig, and Cory Friend.

The Southern varsity and junior varsity teams participated in a pre-season round-robin tournament at Williamsport High School last Saturday, along with seven other varsities and six junior varsities from a three-county area. The Ram varsity finished with two wins, three close losses, and two ties, including one deadlock with reigning state champion Williamsport. Southern defeated South Hagerstown, 1-0, and Flintstone, 5-0, also tied with Fort Hill, 0-0, and lost to Urbana, 2-0, Mt. Savage, 1-0, and North Hagerstown, 1-0.

Meanwhile, the junior varsity finished with a 2-3-1 mark.

In a scrimmage Tuesday night at home against Westmar, the Ram varsity recorded a 5-1 victory and the Southern jayvees won 2-0.

"Our team is very solid in the four starting defensive positions, with John Menker anchoring as sweeper, Steve Pariseau providing support at stopper, Nick Glotfelty at left fullback, and Bo Jonson at right fullback," stated Coach Powers. "All four possess excellent speed and passing skills."

The starting midfield positions will be filled by McDaniel, Gesner, Lovett, and Allison, while Andrews, a second-team All-Area pick last year, and Mark Ludwig will start at the forward positions and Price will return as starting keeper.

Others expected to see considerable action are Tressler, Chris Friend, Derrick Nelson, Ricky Vecchioni, and freshman Andrew Grant.

"Our fourth year (last year) showed a marked improvement in the program," Powers said, "as five wins was our best ever. If our pre-season play is any indicator, we believe six or eight wins are certainly possible, and we should be highly competitive in the WMIL."

Also assisting again this year with coaching chores is Bill Lovett.

The junior varsity contest Saturday evening against Allegany will get underway at 6 p.m. and the varsity match will kick off at 7:30.

The Rams will travel to Northern next Tuesday evening.

Steelers Edge Indians In OT

The Northern Steelers edged the Morgan County Indians in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action Saturday afternoon, 18-12, in a game played at Northern High School.

Travis Higgins paced the Steelers offensively, as he rushed for 175 yards and three touchdowns on just 13 carries.

Higgins accounted for all of the first-half points, as he broke loose for a 63-yard touchdown run in the first quarter and scampered 72 yards for a second score in the second quarter to give Northern a 12-0 halftime lead.

After a scoreless third period, the Indians rallied to tie the score in the fourth stanza, as Andy Omps scored on a 12-yard carry and then connected with Chase Andrews on a 42-yard scoring pass to make it 12-12.

The Indians had the ball first in the overtime period, but the Steeler defense stopped them short of the goal line. Higgins then ended the game when he scored his third touchdown, this time on a six-yard carry.

Defensive standouts for the Steelers were Jeremy Layman, Trey Brenneman, and Tony Durst.

The Northern Division II team was also victorious, as the Little Steelers hammered the Division II Indians, 53-6. Aaron Mitchell rushed for five touchdowns for the Steelers and passed to Jesse Rawley for two more. Petey Stein also scored one rushing touchdown.

The Steelers are slated to host Ridgeley this Saturday.

Bingo To Benefit GCC Volleyball

The GCC Volleyball team will host a Bingo fund-raiser at the Oakland fire hall on Saturday, Sept. 20, at 6:30 p.m. The agenda will be the same as that operated by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. All proceeds will benefit the GCC Volleyball Scholarship Fund. Payoff amount is dependent upon the crowd.

The GCC Volleyball Program officials note their appreciation to the Oakland VFD "for their support and guidance" in running the Bingo fund-raiser.

Husky Booters, Coach Ables Confident About '97 Campaign

The Northern High School soccer team won four matches last year, tied another one, and lost seven, many by a single goal, and with 11 seniors and seven juniors back, Coach Tom Ables is anticipating a better mark this year.

"We have the same tough schedule," Ables said, "but with the best group of returning veterans in our short history of soccer (four seasons), we're pretty excited about our prospects this year."

The Huskies will open their 1997 season this evening at home against Beall.

Anchoring the defense this year for the Huskies will be All-Area goalkeeper Matt Fritz. A re-built front line will be comprised of veterans Zack Rawe, Matt Fletcher, and Dustin Swiger, while the midfield will be built around Joe Weimer, Jimmy Warnick, and Jeremy Reed.

Also starting on defense will be junior Lee Railcy, while the center will feature Doug Weimer, Jeff Fulk, and Eric Neubert.

Also expected to see considerable plying time in reserve roles will be Josh Henderson, Jesse Shimrock, Josh Neubert, Pete Brosnihan, and Josh Gilpin.

Assisting Ables with coaching are Ned Holloway and Fernando Fajardo.

After tonight's contest with Beall, the Huskies will host county-rival Southern next Tuesday evening and travel to Mt. Savage next Thursday. Varsity matches will get underway at 7:30 p.m., and be preceded by the junior varsity games that will begin at 6 p.m.

Husky Golfers Nip Beall By Single Stroke

The Northern High School golf team opened its 1997 season with a one-stroke victory over host Beall last Thursday, 189-190, on a match played at the Maplehurst Country Club course.

Matt Settle led the Huskies and won low medalist honors by carding a 44 in the nine-hole competition, while Justin Heslop was just one stroke behind at 45. Greg Speicher finished with a 48 and Rob Taylor recorded a 52.

Leading the Mountaineers (0-1) were Derek Yates and J.C. Armstrong, who each finished with a 46. Jeff Klinetob carded a 47 and Sarah Parker recorded a 51.

Garrett Alumni Game Saturday

The annual Garrett Community College alumni baseball game will be played this Saturday, Sept. 6, beginning at 1 p.m. Persons desiring information about the event are invited to contact GCC Coach Ed Wildesen at 301-387-3025.

Golf Tourney Set To Benefit Research Group

The recently formed Western Maryland Prostate Cancer Research Group will hold its inaugural benefit on Friday, Oct. 10, which will take the form of a golf tournament titled "Day of Hope Prostate Cancer Research Golf Tournament for Johns Hopkins Medical Center." It will be played at the Golf Club at Wisp course.

A member of the group, who recently underwent successful prostate cancer treatment at Johns Hopkins, has come to know well the successful research of Dr. Donald Coffey, director of oncology research at Johns Hopkins, and Dr. Jonathan Simons, inventor of a gene therapy vaccine.

"Dr. Simons's gene therapy vaccine has already shown success, and with continued research, a major breakthrough in this field is imminent," stated Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett. "I and others in our area who have fought this disease feel a sense of urgency in supporting this research."

Board members of the Western Maryland Group, besides Judge Burnett, are Dr. Daniel Koch, Dr. Bob Dewaters, Jerry Polansky, Gary Yoder, Bill Saltysiak, Chase Burnett, Sull McCartney, Jerry Thayer, T.R. Janes, Daryl Walters, Jerry Geisler, and Fred Warther.

The board has already received commitments from seven major sponsors for the tournament, including ProCom, Inc., Sisler Lumber Company, Mettiki Coal Company, Westvaco Corp., First United National Bank & Trust, Beitzel Corp., and Railey Realty. Additional special sponsor commitments have been made by Western Maryland Health Systems and Garrett Mortgage Company.

John Steadman, longtime sports editor of The Baltimore Sun, will be a guest speaker at the awards dinner following the tournament. Additional celebrities and sports figures are currently being enlisted to lend their support.

The tournament format will be a pro-am Captain's Choice Scramble. Club professionals from the Tri-State and Mid-Atlantic sections of the Professional Golf Association will compete for a cash purse along with an accompanying five-person amateur team that will play for a variety of prizes.

More information about the event may be obtained from Clay Carlton, tournament coordinator, Bill Cox, tournament director (301-387-4911, ext. 2102), or from any of the above-listed board members.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest sponsored by Johnny's Bait House and the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council for the week ending August 31 are:

Smallmouth bass, 3 lbs. 1 oz., 18½ inches, caught by Jeff Nelson Jr., Monessen, Pa.

Chain pickerel, 1 lb. 3 ozs., 17½ inches, caught by Hal Wendling, McHenry.

Crappie, 9 ozs., 10¼ inches, caught by Ina Jean Selby, Friendsville.

Yellow perch, 12 ozs., 11 3/4 inches, caught by Luke Selby, Friendsville.

Walleye, 2 lbs. 8 ozs., 20 inches, caught by Doug Bittel, Swanton.

Weekly winners are awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch.

Spruce Forest Sets 5K Run/Walk

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, has scheduled its second annual "My Heart's in the Arts" 5K Run/Walk. The event will take place Saturday, Sept. 27, 9 a.m., rain or shine.

Bill Workman of Queen City Striders, which is affiliated with the Road Runners Club of America, is working with race director Trish Morgan to officially measure the course and prepare it for the nearly 150 participants expected to turn out for the race. "The course distance will be verified by the Queen City Striders, who will also serve as race coordinators and provide finish line services and split times," Morgan said.

Entrants who register as "early-birds" by Sept. 10, will pay $12 to enter the race. The cost per person after the early-bird deadline is $15.

The first 100 people to register will be entitled to a hand-thrown mug, crafted by village potter Lynn Lais. The mug will be forest green, dated 1997, and signed by the artisan. All proceeds from the race will benefit the nonprofit Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

Awards will be presented to the first male and female 5K Run finishers and the first three finishers in each of the following groups: men and woman under 19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-59, and over 60. Plaques will be given to the top male and female walkers and certificates to the top walker in each group.

Refreshments will be provided following the race. At the awards ceremony a drawing will take place for door prizes handcrafted by local artisans.

The grand prize will be a custom-built chest donated by Casselwood Furniture, Grantsville. The hand-forged hinges will be made by village blacksmith Jody Best.

McDONALD'S SUPPORTING SOCCER - The Deep Creek Lake McDonald's is a new sponsor for the Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA). The restaurant recently donated funds to support a local team. Pictured at right is the restaurant manager Irene White as she hands over the check to Ron Petrella, president of the MSA.

The race is sponsored in part by the Maryland State Arts Council and the Spruce Forest Artisans' Guild. Anyone wishing more information may call Trish Morgan at 301-895-3332 weekdays.

Depleted Husky Team Banking On Quickness And Desire

The 1996 football season for the Northern High School was somewhat disappointing, as the Huskies finished with a 4-6 record, although two or three of those losses were by only one or two points. The prospects for the 1997 season are perhaps even more challenging for new head coach Phil Carr, however, as the Husky ranks were basically depleted by graduation.

"We lost a number of excellent players, such as Herman Arndt, Cody Brenneman, and Zack Leverenz," Carr said. "All three of them won post-season honors last year. Plus, our overall numbers are down."

Currently, the varsity and junior varsity rosters combined total only 43 players. In terms of physical size, the Huskies are also considerably smaller than in recent years, as only three of the varsity players weigh in excess of 200 pounds.

"Our weaknesses obviously include a lack of experience and a lack of size," Carr said. "But we do have some strengths, too, such as quickness and desire."

Carr took over the job of head coach after Coach Tom Vent announced his resignation from the post after last season. Although it's a new job for Carr, he says the transition has been smooth since he was an assistant on Vent's staff for eight seasons as offensive coordinator.

"It really helps that I've been here for that many years," Carr said, "and the kids also know me from other sports." Carr is also the head baseball coach.

"I am going to use all the good things I learned from Tom and add a few of my own ideas, but the fans aren't going to notice any major changes in our program," he said.

Northern Varsity Football Schedule

Date	Opponent	Loc.
Sept. 6	Bishop Walsh	A
Sept. 12	Westmar	H
Sept. 19	Tucker County	A
Sept. 26	Hancock	H
Oct. 3	Beall	A
Oct. 10	Turkeyfoot	H
Oct. 17	Berkeley Springs	A
Oct. 24	Petersburg	H
Oct. 31	Mapletown, PA	A
Nov. 7	Southern	H

Among the offensive starters back from last season are senior tight end Jeremy Hoover (5-9, 155), senior running back Jimmy Green (5-8, 155), senior flanker Matt Houser (5-9, 140), senior guard Andy McKenzie (5-8, 155), and senior quarterback Scott Sisler (6-0, 170), who took over the signal calling job midway through last season.

On the defensive side of the ball, returning starters include Hoover at corner, Houser at safety, senior tackle Gary O'Brien (6-0, 190), and senior Joey Wilhelm (5-7, 175), who has moved from nose guard to linebacker.

The Huskies will open their season this Saturday in Cumberland against Bishop Walsh, another team that is small in both size and numbers, but played well in a 24-18 loss to Clay-Battelle last Friday.

Expected to start on offense in their opener are Sisler at quarterback, Green and Wilhelm in the backfield, Houser at flanker, Hoover and senior Dennis Martinez (5-8, 155) at tight end, junior Corey Sisler (6-0, 170), junior John Carey (6-0, 215) and McKenzie at guard positions, and O'Brien and senior Jesse Deniker (5-9, 200) at tackle spots.

Green, an All-Area honorable mention pick last year, was the second leading rusher on the team behind Leverenz, with 354 yards and a team-best 5.2 yard-per-carry average.

"We've made some slight changes to our offensive plan to try to take advantage of our quickness," Carr said, "and we've simplified things a little bit since we have so much inexperience."

Starters on defense will most likely be sophomore Ryan Savage (6-2, 215) at nose guard, Deniker and O'Brien at tackle spots, sophomore Nathan Resh (6-1, 185) and McKenzie at the ends, Corey Sisler, Wilhelm, and Green at linebacker positions, Hoover and Houser at defensive back, and sophomore Adam Brenneman (5-8, 145) at the safety spot.

O'Brien had 57 tackles to his credit last year, while Hoover, an All-Area honorable mention selection, finished with 50 tackles and five interceptions.

"Defensively we really aren't changing much of anything," Carr said. "Again, it will be our quickness rather than size that we are going to have to try to capitalize on."

In the Huskies' opener, Carr believes that the Spartans' best player is probably their quarterback, three-year starter Brett Blanco (6-2, 190). "He runs and throws very well," Carr said, "and he has a lot of experience."

Blanco recorded touchdown runs of 11 and 78 yards against Clay-Battelle last week. He completed 67 of 174 passes last season.

Other strong returnees for Coach Pete Kelley include All-City end Chris Greise, a 6-2, 185-pound junior, who pulled in 19 passes for 246 yards last year as a split end. He has been moved to tight end this year.

"Size-wise and number-wise, we match up pretty well," Carr said, "but they have a little more experience overall than we do."

Carr said his primary goal for this season is to get his players to "commit for the entire season."

"The past few seasons we seem to have started out with a great attitude, but as the season wore on, the kids really let down," he said. "We want to get back the attitude we had in the early '90s when we went to the playoffs for three straight years. We want to finish what we start in terms of desire and attitude.

We also going to have to do our best to avoid injuries, because we can't afford to lose a single player."

Assisting Carr are returning coaches Jon Houser, Joe McKenzie, Frank Ewing, John Wilson, and Bob Moranduzzo, and newcomers Steve Savage and Jamie Workman, plus Frostburg State University student intern Kerry Phalen.

The Huskies' first home game will be Friday, Sept. 12, against Westmar. Saturday's kickoff against Bishop Walsh will be at 1:30 p.m.

HUSKIES TO OPEN SATURDAY - The Northern High School varsity football team will open its 1997 campaign this Saturday afternoon in Cumberland against Bishop Walsh. Young Ram Squad To Open With Golden Tornado Friday

With only three returning starters on offense and three on defense, most football coaches would be crying the blues, but such is not the case with Coach Tom Woods of Southern High School, as his young Rams' team prepares to open its season this Friday night at home against Keyser.

While the likes of punishing running back Aaron Newcomb, bone-crushing tackle Seth Tressler, and offensive lineman Shawn Durst were among those lost to graduation, Woods has a lot of confidence in his younger players, most of whom saw considerable action last year. He is also blessed with another large turnout of players (75), which is affording him the opportunity of having only three players going both ways.

"We usually have six or seven kids who have to play both offense and defense, but right now it looks like we have only three, and maybe just two," Woods said, "which is the best we've had in my 18 years of coaching. It's a big plus, particularly late in the game when stamina becomes a factor, and it also reduces the chance of injury when your players aren't on the field the entire game."

The returning fulltime starters on the Rams' offense include senior quarterback Chad Warnick (6-1, 174), senior tackle Kenny Myers (5-10, 225), and junior guard Billy Stoner (6-1, 195), while the returnees on defense are Stoner at end, junior cornerback Jason Weaver (5-9, 165), and junior tackle Tommy Diehl (6-0, 261).

Another atypical plus for Coach Woods and his team this season is an offensive backfield that features not the usual one outstanding runner (i.e. Aaron Newcomb), but three or four players who each has the capability of recording some 100-plus-yard games.

"Our offense usually centers around one strong back, but because we have several strong backs this year, it's going to give us a lot of diversity on offense that we don't often have," Woods said. "That means it will be tougher for our opponents to defend against us since they really won't be able to key on just one back."

Those backs include Weaver at tailback, sophomore Josh Bosley (5-9, 170) at fullback, junior Nick Dolan (5-9, 160) at slot, and Warnick at quarterback. Sophomore Jordan Uphold (5-8, 140) is a fifth back who will see considerable action.

The rest of the starting offense will include: junior Keith Parks (5-9, 143) and senior Josh Perando (5-6, 158) rotating at split end; Myers and senior David Lantz (5-11, 228) at the tackle positions; Stoner and junior Robert Unger (6-0, 190) as the guards; and senior Steve Shiflett (5-9, 185) at center. Also expected to see a lot of playing time on the offensive line, particularly at center, is junior Tommy Crosco (5-11, 195).

Tommy Diehl will be the place kicker and Warnick will handle the punting chores.

"Our size and strength are down a little bit, but our offensive speed is somewhat better," Woods said.

Woods said that, while his offense will be primarily run-oriented, the unit has also worked a lot on its passing game. "Chad's a little inconsistent with his passing at times, but we have a lot of kids who catch the ball very well, so we hope to capitalize on that," he said.

Expected to start tomorrow night on defense are: junior Josh Teets (6-1, 245) and senior Seth Sanders (5-10, 163) at the ends; Diehl and junior Ryan Channel (6-0, 228) at the tackle spots; senior Jeremiah Johnson (6-3, 243), sophomore Mike Lantz (5-8, 180), or junior A.J. Marucci (6-2, 248) at nose guard; seniors Josh Helbig (6-3, 178), Andy Seib (5-10, 155), and John Ayers (6-0, 180) at the linebacker positions; Weaver and Dolan at corners; and Uphold at safety. Stoner will also see a lot of time at defensive end, while Parks and sophomore Christian Warfield (5-9, 140) will also see action in the secondary.

"Our biggest concern is our lack of experience," Woods said. "When you lose eight or nine starters on each side of the ball, and when you are starting eight underclassmen on defense, there are a lot of unknowns. We will know a lot more after a couple of games. I think we may be pleasantly surprised with how well our younger kids play."

In looking at the Rams' nine-game schedule, Woods says that Fort Hill is "far and away" the best team on the slate. "They have 30 seniors and everyone says that they should coast to a state championship," he said. The Rams recorded one of their biggest wins in history last year when they defeated the Sentinels, 8-6. Although Southern was one of the state's top-rated Class A teams, the Rams were unable to qualify for the playoffs and settled for an overall record of 7-3.

Musselman, the Rams' second opponent, is once again ranked among the top teams in West Virginia. Preston, now a much larger school, is back on the Southern slate after a number of years of absence.

"Besides Fort Hill, the rest of the games on our schedule look like they are, at worst, toss-ups," Woods said. "But that all depends on how the uncertainties we have about our team are answered in the first few games."

Friday night's opponent, The Keyser Golden Tornados, will come to Oakland with a game, and a win, under their belts, as they defeated Tucker County in their opener last Friday, 21-7.

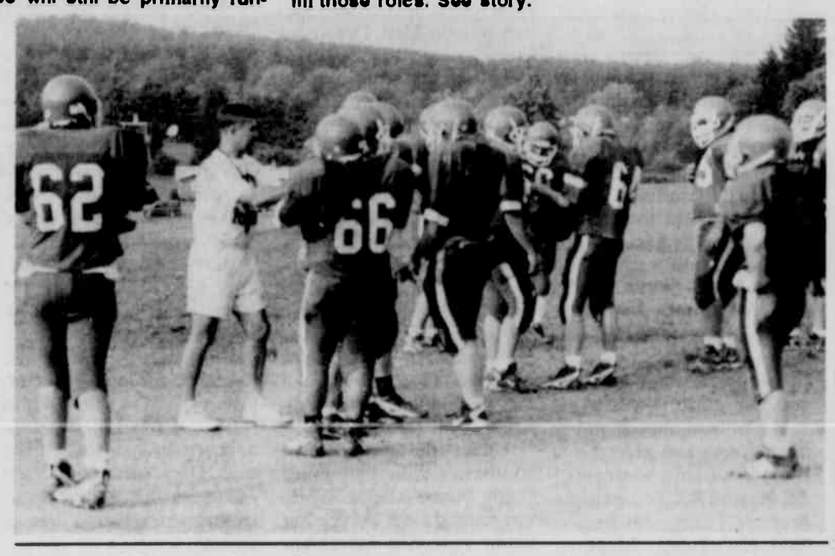
Much like Southern, Keyser lost nearly all of its starters to graduation, including all 11 offensive players and nine defensive starters. They also tragically lost their coach, Kelly Day, who drown this summer in a kayaking accident.

However, Tom Preaskorn stepped into the job of head coach and, according to Woods, has "done an excellent job" in helping the team overcome the tragedy and put their first win on the board.

Leading the Tornado's wing-T offense are junior fullback Rodney Twyman (6-1, 190), senior quarterback Jeremy Swick (5-10, 165), who moved from the secondary, senior split end Brian Wilt (6-3, 165), and senior tailback Aaron DuPont (5-10, 175).

"These kids are very skilled players, and their offense is built around them," Woods said.

Defensively, Keyser uses a 4-4, high-pressure defense, with Twyman and sophomore Parker Whiteman (6-0, 190) as standout linebackers, and the secondary led by junior Lajavious Fagan (5-9, 150).



"Our team speed is comparable, our level of experience is about the same, and size-wise we are just slightly bigger, so it should be a very exciting football game," Woods said.

There will be two pregame events at the Southern stadium Friday evening. At about 7:15 p.m., there will be a check presentation to the family of the late Kelly Day, to be placed in a scholarship fund established in his memory. That will be followed by the announcement of the 1997 inductees in the SHS Football Hall of Fame (see separate story).

ONLY SCRAPPING WITH EACH OTHER will come to an end tomorrow evening for the Southern High School varsity football team when the Rams will host Keyser in their season opener. Above, senior quarterback Chad Warnick prepares to fire a pass over the middle, although Coach Tom Wooda says his offense will still be primarily run-oriented. Woods, who has amassed an impressive 18-year record of 132-52, is pictured below giving instruction to his recruits. While the majority of starters from last season's 7-3 team were lost to graduation, Woods and his staff have lots of confidence in the players who have stepped up to fill those roles. See story.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

Yes, cucumbers are cool! A thermometer reading found the inside of a cucumber in the field on a warm day is about 20 degrees cooler than the outside air.

Rub chickens or game hens with a mix of freshly ground coffee beans, chopped fresh sage and minced garlic. Brown the birds, then roast until done. Super with a mushroom ragout.

What a pretty salad: watercress with orange slices and thin rounds of red onion! There's orange juice in the dressing, too.

Dijon mustard made in France is regulated almost as strictly as French wine. The spicy black, brown or hollow seeds of the mustard plant are ground and mixed with vinegar or wine, salt and spices.

The very best honeydew melons are heavy for their size, greenish white to yellow, with a flowery fragrance. Store on a counter until the aroma is irresistible and the blossom end yields to gentle pressure. Best eaten right away, but it will keep a while.

Laker Netters Will Begin '97 Season This Saturday

Garrett Community College's women's volleyball team will open its campaign this Saturday, Sept. 6, with a tournament hosted by Essex Community College. Also participating in the tournament will be Potomac State, Charles Community College, and Essex.

The Lakers are coached by Margaret Quinn, who enters her 12th season as head coach. She is assisted by former GCC standout and '89 graduate Stacy Sines.

The 1996 women's volleyball team concluded the season with a third-place finish in the Region XX tournament, and posted an impressive overall record of 21-10. In the semi-final round of the tournament, the Lakers were eliminated in a heart-breaking loss to second seed, Frederick Community College, by scores of 15-10, 15-17, and 4-15.

Returning from last year's team are Erica King and Shelly Landman. Newcomers include three local women: Mindy McCarty, of Northern High, and Allison White and Sindy Niner, both of Southern High. Other team members include: Andrea Barrick, Erica McBride, Alexis Nogle, and Jamie Murray.

As a freshman member of the team last year, Erica King, Bradshaw, was named All-Region XX Tournament Second Team, All-Region XX Honorable Mention, and GCC Best Defensive Player. She was second on the squad in kills and hitting efficiency, with 175 kills and 18.6%, respectively. She averaged 2.1 kills/game, 91.9% service efficiency including 32 aces, 17 solo blocks, and a 59.6% reception efficiency.

Shelly Landman, a three-year starter for Connellsville Area High School, was a member of the 1995 WPIAL AAA Sectional Championship team and was named Best Defensive Player.

During her senior year at Northern, Mindy McCarty led the team in attacks with 117 kills, and was the recipient of the team Outstanding Attack trophy. Other impressive statistics included: 85% serving efficiency, and 93 service points including 29 aces. She was selected Area Student Athlete for September 1995 by the Cumberland Times-News, All-Area Team 1995, and was nominated to the All-Area Team for 1996.

Under the direction of Southern's volleyball coach Cindy Stem, Allison White was named Best Server her senior year. She enters her second year as a student at GCC.

Sindy Niner, a '97 graduate of Southern, compiled an impressive list of honors including: Most Valuable Player 1997, Best Spiker 1997, JV Most Valuable

SHS Football Hall Of Fame To Induct Four

The names of four Southern High School alumni to be inducted into the school's Football Hall of Fame will be announced at Friday's football game against Keyser High School. The men to be honored are Jerry Fike, Jeff Hinebaugh, Steve Liller, and Brad "Doc" Upole.

Jerry Fike, a 1967 graduate, has been called the fastest football player ever to play at Southern, according to David Mayfield, assistant athletic director. Fike's speed enabled him to run away from most teams to score on long touchdown runs. He recorded over 100 points in his senior year, leading the tri-state area in scoring.

A game against Morgantown's St. Francis High School (W.Va.) demonstrated Fike's unique running ability, Mayfield said. With Southern in its own territory in the second quarter, Fike broke loose around the right end for a 52-yard touchdown run. However, the play was called back because of an offsides penalty. On the very next play, Fike ran the opposite side for a 57-yard touchdown run. Again the play was called back because of a penalty. The third time proved successful, as Fike ran up the middle for a 62-yard score. In that game, the runner totaled five touchdowns and 200 yards rushing.

Fike received the Most Valuable Offensive Player Award in 1966 and helped the team to a 6-2-1 record, which at that time was the best in Southern's history.

Fike retired in 1990 from the Baltimore County Fire Department after 21 years of service. He earned numerous certifications throughout his fire fighting career. He is currently the chief executive officer for a real estate firm in Baltimore County. He lives in Kingsville with his wife Sharon and daughter Jennifer, who is a sophomore at Villa Julie College.

Jeff Hinebaugh, a 1979 graduate, "was one of the most durable and versatile players ever to wear a Ram uniform," Mayfield said. He was a three-year starter, 1976-1979, and played offensive guard, inside linebacker, outside linebacker, defensive tackle, and fullback. His numerous awards include being named first team to the Highland Football Conference, the Potomac Valley Football Conference, and to the Times-News All-Area Football Team.

Hinebaugh was chosen in 1977 as Southern's Best Offensive Lineman, and in 1978 as the Best Defensive Lineman. He was Athlete of the Year in 1979. The player is remembered for being a "bruising lead fullback," opening holes for GOING FOR A FIFTH CONSECUTIVE STATE TITLE are the members of the Southern High School boys' cross country team, and pre-season reports indicate that the Rams will again be the Class A team to beat in the state, as Coach Carl Booth has several All-State performers back from last year. The Southern girls' team, coached by Louis Newcomb, which also won the state championship last year for the first time, also looks very strong for the 1997 season. Pictured above, kneeling, from left, are: Sean Conroy, Eric Rexrode, Rusty Strubin, Ted Wolfe, Dan Shafer, Richard Cornelius, and George Tichnell. Standing, same order, are Coach Booth, Dan Sincell, Casey McBee, Pete Porcaro, Andrew Slaler, Mike Bittinger, and Beau Gibson. The girls' team, pictured below, includes, kneeling, from left: Erin Lucas, Megan Conroy, Aniesa Jamison, Nicole Frazee, Jody Bowser, Mariah McBee, Katelyne McBee, Annie Neville, Maria Hines, and Katie Moomau, and standing: Amanda Pagenhardt, Elizabeth McDonald, Devon McClive, Kristen Spurrier, Beth Sauder, Rilene Lloyd, Erin McClive, Erin Hoalcraft, Christy Hoalcraft, Coach Newcomb, and Amy Snyder. Not present for the photo was Angie Sincell. The teams will open their seasons next Tuesday at home in a 4 p.m. meet against Preston at Broadford Park.

Lions To Host Run, Walk For Autumn Glory

The Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will host a 5K Run - 2-Mile Walk for Sight on Saturday, Oct. 11, as part of Garrett County's 30th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. The run and walk will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Broadford Lake Park and will cover a mostly flat course.

This competition will be divided into the following age groups: 13 & under; 14-19; 20-29; 30-39; 40-49; 50-59; and 60 & over, with awards given to the top three finishers in each age group. A $100 bond will be given to the first male and first female runners and walkers, with no duplication of awards. Race participants will be eligible for prize drawings, which include two grand prizes: a Trek mountain bike and a mini ski or golf vacation for two at Wisp Resort.

The registration fee is $15 if received by October 1, and souvenir sweatshirts will be given to the first 150 entrants ($2 extra for XXL). After October 1 and the day of the race, the registration fee is $16. Registration begins the day of the race at 7 a.m., and packets may be picked up that day from 7 to 8:30 a.m.

For race information, persons may contact Paul Shockey, 920 Broadford Road, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone 301-334-4287; or Katie Kane at 301-334-8599.

Sailboat Racing

On Deep Creek Lake

Labor Day weekend may not be the last of sailing on Deep Creek Lake, but it is crammed with intense racing activity. The Commodore's Regatta, held over the weekend, consisted of five races, two on Saturday, two on Sunday and one on Monday. The race was run by the two commodores of the Deep Creek yacht clubs at Deer Haven and at Turkey Neck.

The rules were a bit different for the regatta. In the regular weekend races the boat is scored no matter who is in the boat; in a regatta the skipper must not change, the total number in the crew must not change and a crew member can be changed only to a similar crew member and with the permission of that fleet's captain.

The weather this weekend was great for a Labor Day weekend, but the wind was problematic. The first race on Saturday had a fair breeze, but the second race was cancelled due to no wind. Sunday the wind was really funny. At times it blew hard and then would drop off to almost nothing. Monday's race was, again, canceled; there wasn't a breath of air.

The thing that was most exciting about this regatta, however, was the performance of the youngsters. In the Laser B Fleet Eric Silverman, 13 years old, took first in both the Commodore's Regatta and the July/August Series. Also sailing in Laser B, Rachael Schubert, 13 years old as well, took second in the July/August Series; and Lauren Spinnenweber took second in the regatta. Meredith Dodd, 12 years old, sailing with her grandmother, Barbara Meredith, took third in the Flying Scot B Fleet, while Brian Spinnenweber (I wasn't able to find out his age but he's pretty small) took first with his dad as crew. Our future is in our youth.

A word about some of the season awards. The Fleet Championships are given to the skippers with the best scores qualifying for both the June and the July/August Series. The National Flying Scot Fleet Award is given to the fleet with the best combined scores in the Flying Scot National Regatta. The Captain Bligh award is given to the skipper who is hardest on his or her crew. This year was unusual - it was given to a crew who was hard on their skipper, Bruce Spinnenweber.

COMMODORE'S REGATTA

Flying Scot A - John and Jennifer Meredith, first; Don and Barbara Griffin, second; Dick Gregory and Allison Felix, third; Dave Mahan and Alice Schubert, fourth.

Flying Scot B - Brian and Bruce Spinnenweber, first; Dave and John Frank, second; Meredith Dodd and Barbara Meredith, third; Al Caretto and John Skoog, fourth.

Laser A - Tom Johnson, first; Gordie Clefton, second; Keith Spinnenweber, third.

In an age "when families are being shaken and torn apart," this special "Heart to Heart" Rally with Larry and Gloria Lundstrom comes as a breath of fresh air. They are a "real couple" who will be addressing issues on the home and relationships. Their unique style and down to earth presentation of the Gospel combined with music, humor and ministry has made them a "family favorite" from coast to coast.

Miss Guthrie Weds Mr. Hinebaugh

Sonya Kay Guthrie and John Allan Hinebaugh were united in marriage on Dec. 14, 1996, at the New Life Christian Church near Oakland. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Harold Harman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Marvin Guthrie, Oakland. The groom is the son of Mrs. Freda Hinebaugh, Oakland.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride was attired in a traditional white satin gown with a Victorian high neck collar. The tight fitted bodice was enhanced by hand sewn pearls. The full skirt was held afloat by a circle hoop. The cathedral train fell from the skirt in billowing ruffles and lace. The fingertip veil was held from a crown of pearls with crystal sprays. She carried a bouquet of fresh cut carnations highlighted with burgundy and hunter green, baby's breath, and greenery, and accentuated with cascading satin ribbons.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor was Christie Dawson. She wore a tea-length silk hunter green dress. Amanda Tikey, a friend of the bride, served as senior bridesmaid. Her dress was identical to the matron of honor except it was burgundy in color. Sarah Hinebaugh, daughter of the groom, was junior bridesmaid. Her dress was identical to that of the matron of honor, including the color of hunter green. Trista Guthrie, niece of the bride, also served as junior bridesmaid. Her dress matched the one worn by the senior bridesmaid in the burgundy color. Flower girl was Kayla Dawson, niece of the bride. Kayla wore an ivory lace dress with matching hair bows and stockings. The bride's attendants all carried bouquets of fresh cut flowers accented with hunter green and burgundy highlights, baby's breath and satin ribbons.

Norman Guthrie, brother of the bride, served as best man. Groomsman was Cameron Younce, friend of the groom. Ushers were Adam Smith and Gregory Smith, cousins of the bride. The groom and all his attendants were attired in black tuxedos. The groom wore a vest of white on white paisley. The groom's attendants each wore a vest of either hunter green or burgundy with gold accents that matched the dress of the bride attendant they escorted. Kodie Dawson, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. He was attired in black slacks, a white shirt, and a paisley vest matching the groom.

Peggy Lambert was the organist. Soloist was Karen Tyree, who performed "The Best Thing That Ever Happened." At the bride's request, a song titled "Daddy's Little Girl" was dedicated to her father at the beginning of the ceremony.

Attending the guest book was Jennifer Smith, cousin of the bride. Programs and bird seed packets were distributed by Shannon Smith, cousin of the bride. Flowers were placed on the altar in memory of the groom's father, Mr. Earl Hinebaugh, and the bride's grandfather and grandmother, Mr. John Guthrie and Mrs. Christine Smith.

Photographs were taken by Missy Smith, cousin of the bride. Patti Smith, aunt of the bride, assisted with the photography and coordination of the day's events. Video recording was done by Quintin Guthrie, brother of the bride, and Tabby Lewis, friend of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at Wisp Resort. The three-tier wedding cake was decorated with ivory & burgundy accents. The cake was cut and served by Catherine Wilt, a friend of the families. Prayer was offered by Father William Melody, and a toast was made by Norman Guthrie. DJ entertainment was provided by Gerald Smith, uncle of the bride, and Bill Thomas, friend of the families. A bridal shower given by Christie Dawson was held in the bride's honor at Pizza Hut.

The bride is a 1990 graduate of Southern High School and a 1993 graduate of Garrett Community College. She graduated from Alderson Broaddus College, Philippi, W.Va., in 1995 and holds a degree in sports medicine. She plans to continue her education. The groom is a 1980 graduate of Southern High School and is currently employed at Family Rental Center, Oakland.

Following a weekend stay at Wisp Resort Hotel, the couple established residency in Oakland.

Miss Rinker Weds Mr. Bittinger In June Candlelight Ceremony

Nicole Michelle Rinker, daughter of Earl Rinker, and Darlene Hartman, both of Oakland, and William Lee Bittinger, son of Shirley and the late Robert Bittinger, Loch Lynn, were united in marriage on June 28 at Crellin Assembly of God.

The Rev. Roger Zimmerman performed the ceremony. Mrs. Elaine Bateman provided traditional piano selections. Vocal selections were provided by Mr. Jerry Ferguson and Mrs. Sheila Filsinger.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father.

The bride wore a princess silhouette gown of European satin with a semi-portrait collar featuring Alencon lace with pearls and sequins. The back was accented with a butterfly bow with streamers descending the chapel-length train.

Lace appliques with pearls and sequins were scattered on the skirt and train. The hemline was trimmed with Alencon lace, pearls, and sequins. The bride's headpiece was a band of flowers with pearl sprays, rhinestones, and sequins, with an elbow-length, rolled-edge veil.

Mrs. Kerrie Thrift, friend of the bride, served as the matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Bridget Hartman, sister of the bride, Mrs. Shelli Hill, friend of the bride and groom, and Cheryl Friend, cousin of the bride.

Miss Jenna Bittinger, niece of the groom, served as flower girl.

Mr. Joe Healy, friend of the groom, served as best man. Serving as groomsmen were Mr. Mike McGoldrick and Mr. Ty Miller, friends of the bride and groom, and Mr. Rick Bittinger, brother of the groom.

Ushers were Mr. Scott Bittinger, brother of the groom, and Mr. Lowell Bittinger, nephew of the groom. Serving as ring bearer was Mr. Shane Weaver, friend of the bride and groom.

The guest book and bird seed packets were attended by Mrs. Sheila Bittinger, Miss Kayleigh Bittinger, and Miss Alayna Shaffer. All are relatives of the bride and groom.

During the ceremony, a candle was lit in memory of the groom's father. All three sons participated in the lighting of the candle.

A buffet dinner was catered by Goehringer's Catering, Accident. The reception was held at the Pleasant Valley Community Building.

The three-tiered wedding cake was set above a burgundy-tinted illuminated fountain. The cake was decorated with draped garlands, swirls, and burgundy sweet-heart roses. It was accented on each side by heart-shaped tiers connected by filigree stairways.

The cake top was a porcelain bride and groom standing beneath a lace heart arch. The cake table was decorated with ivy and burgundy roses. The cake was baked and decorated by Alice Wilt.

Following a honeymoon in Las Vegas, Nev., the couple established residence in Mtn. Lake Park.

Correction To Wedding Article

In last week's edition of The Republican some information was not included in the description of the wedding ceremony of Jennifer Mae Tasker and Jason Michael McClung.

The article should have included the tollowmg: All of the wedding party's floral arrangements and pew bows were created by Betty Dewitt, Oakland. All other flower arrangements were provided by Sue Ellen Sprouse.

Sereno Couple To Celebrate 50th

Harold and Betty (Lipscomb) Sereno will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Sept. 15.

Life-time residents of Terra Alta, W.Va., the Serenos were married at St. Matthew's Church, Oakland.

After Mr. Sereno completed military service, he returned to Terra Alta, where the couple operated a dairy farm until they retired.

To honor the Serenos, a reception will be held Saturday, Sept. 13, 1-5 p.m., at the Terra Alta Senior Center.

The celebration will be hosted by their daughters, Carolyn Annie Steyer and Janet L. Wood, and their families. Friends and family members are invited to attend and join in the festivities.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Many fishermen and boaters using Deep Creek Lake noticed a significant increase in underwater vegetation this year. The growth has been particularly noticeable in the shallower, silt bottomed bays, although it is also showing up in the deeper sections of the lake as well.

The immediate effect is that it fouls anchors, stalls electric trolling motors and other low powered engines, snags lures, and generally makes it more difficult to employ conventional fishing tactics.The question nagging many users of the lake is, what has caused this vegetation explosion and what are the implications of its continued growth?

Some local fishermen believe that they first noticed the increased vegetation about seven years ago in the vicinity of the state park docks. The predominant theory is that it was introduced to Deep Creek Lake by boats coming here from probably the lower Potomac or Susquehanna Rivers. Apparently, it is very similar to hydrilla and milfoil that is present there.

The growth probably has no negative effects on lake fish population. In fact, since it does provide cover for fish both large and small, the result could be an increase in size of both, if it doesn't affect the spawning grounds. The negative side of it is how it affects boats, docks, and access for fishermen to shallow, grassy areas. Consequently, it is forcing a modification of fishing techniques, requiring fishermen to move to deeper water.

MARYLAND BASS FEDERATION QUALIFYING TOURNAMENT

The Maryland Bass Federation will be holding its western region qualifying tournament on Deep Creek Lake this coming September 27 and 28. Of the entrants to this event, the top 44 fishermen will go to the state qualifier next May at Smallwood State Park on the lower Potomac.

BLACK POWDER ADDED TO SHADY DELL SHOOTING MATCHES

The new shooting range on Shady Dell Road in Pleasant Valley has added black powder rifle matches to its events. Now, the Saturday matches, which start at 6 p.m., will be for shotgun and black powder firearms. The black powder firearms used must have open sights. The .22 rifle matches are held on Sunday afternoons (1-4 p.m.).

Both adult and youth participation is invited. Instruction is offered for beginners and the main objectives, according to program sponsors, are safety and marksmanship.

BEAR SIGHTINGS

Bear sightings in Garrett County continue their frequency. Talking to a local archer of some repute, I was informed that there are five bears known to be roaming the Sky Valley area off Rt. 495 and there are at least 37 individual bears inhabiting the area north of Meadow Mountain towards Friendsville. Also, there is one large sow with four cubs that has been seen in the Swanton area.

another Hall of Famer, Paul Cornish.

Hinebaugh attended Allegany Community College and Frostburg State College. He is a registered nurse and is the nurse manager in the emergency department of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He has attended home SHS football games for many years as a member of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and is also the coach of the newly formed Oakland Ravens of the Youth Football League.

The inductee lives in Oakland with his wife Patty (nee Gnegy) and their 17-month-old son Derek.

Steve Liller, also a 1979 graduate of Southern, is considered one of the best male athletes ever to attend the school. He was a three-year starter in basketball and football from 1975 to 1978. In those three years, Liller caught 76 passes for over 1,000 yards and had 12 touchdown receptions.

At the end of Liller's senior year, he was chosen to the First Team Highland Football Conference, First Team Potomac Valley Football Conference, and First Team Times-News All-Area Team. The inductee is also the second all-time basketball scorer at SHS, was the Athlete of the Year at Frostburg State College in 1982, and holds receiving records at Southern that have yet to be broken.

Liller works for Professional Communication and lives in Oakland. He is the son of Betty Liller and the late Gene Liller.

The fourth inductee, Brad "Doc" Upole, is considered one of the original "hard-nosed" Southern players. A 1967 graduate, he was the anchor of the Rams defense in his lineback position, Mayfield said. An all-conference player in the Tri-County Conference, Upole is remembered by his coach Leroy Bolding as a tough and dedicated player.

"He loved physical contact," Bolding said. "His ability to read plays made him extremely valuable."

Upole was a four-year varsity player. After graduation, he entered the United States Army and served in Vietnam for 13 months with the 173rd Airborne Brigade. There he received the Bronze Star for Valor.

The inductee has worked for Mettiki Coal for 19 years. He resides in Oakland with his wife Paula (formerly Railey) and their son Vincent.

The four men will be honored during the pregame activities at approximately 7:20 p.m.

A 1997 graduate of Keyser High School, Andrea Barrick was named Best Defensive Player for the 1995 season, served as team captain in 1996, and participated in Junior Olympic Volleyball in 1994. She was a member of the National Honor Society and Mu Alpha Theta.

During her senior season at Hampshire High School, Erica McBride broke the school record in kills, was a member of the WV All-State Volleyball First Team, and was the recipient of VFW Outstanding Athlete Award. In addition, she was named All Potomac Valley Conference for volleyball, track and field, and basketball.

Alexis L. Nogle, of Smithsburg High School, was named 1995/1996 All-Washington County Second Team, All MVAL Second Team, and was the recipient of the United Steel Workers of America Scholarship. She attended Mid-Maryland Volleyball Camp, Global Volleyball Camp, and Washington County Junior Camp.

Jamie Murray, a 1997 graduate of Allegany High School, was named Athlete of the Month for September by the Cumberland Times-News, and was a member of the National Honor Society. She has a solid background in running both the 6-2 and 5-1 offense, and her quickness will make a definite contribution to the offense, according to Coach Quinn.

"We look forward to the season and working with a talented group of student athletes," remarked Quinn. "Each possesses specific abilities that will contribute to a total team effort and a successful season."

Employment Skills Training Program Slated

The new Employment Skills training program of Garrett Community College has been postponed one week in order to finalize registration. It will start at GCC on Monday, Sept. 15. According to Sandy Major, program coordinator, this 630-hour program is designed to quickly prepare program completers with the skills needed to assume positions in various work settings. The program addresses the needs of those with limited job experience, as well as those of laid off or displaced workers who need training in order to transition into a new field.

Major said that the specialty areas that will be a part of the program have been selected because they offer the most immediate employment opportunities. The nursing assistant specialty will prepare students for nursing assistant and geriatric aide positions in local health care settings. The office skills training will prepare participants for positions in small business office work. The small business management will be valuable for those wanting to start their own small businesses, she said.

The training will begin with approximately 300 hours of core skills training in math, language, computer applications, problem solving, fitness, and interpersonal and job-keeping skills. Simultaneously, students will be trained in one of the following specialty areas: nursing assistant training; small business management; or office skills. After completion of the specialty training, students will be placed in work sites for practical on-the-job training.

Upon the successful completion of the work-site experience, students will be awarded short-term training certificates and will be assisted by their job coach in obtaining employment.

This program is being developed and implemented by the small business programs area of the Continuing Education Division of GCC. Those interested in learning more about this program are invited to contact Major at 301-387-3101.

Earn Honors At Hood College

Two students from Garrett County communities were awarded Convocation Honors at a ceremony held at Hood College, Frederick, to celebrate the opening of its 106th academic year.

Rhonda Schwinabart, Accident, daughter of Vivian and Richard Schwinabart, was one of the local honorees. She is a sophomore and a 1996 graduate of Northern Garrett High School.

The other local honoree is Melissa Sines, Oakland, daughter of Susan and Russell Sines. She is a senior and a 1994 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

To be eligible for Convocation Honors, a Hood College student must complete at least 12 credit hours per semester for the preceding academic year, with a grade point average of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

What makes grandparents happy? Their grandchildren, of course. Why? Because they bring out the "best of both worlds" in their grandparents.

Today, most grandparents still possess the enthusiasm of their youth. They are able to appreciate more than ever those musky baby folds, bright-eyed grins and soap-sweet bedtime hugs. Coupled with the hindsight of age, grandparents are unique individuals, anxious to share the best of both worlds with those precious little ones. Their love is one of a kind.

This year on Grandparents Day, experience the best of both worlds as you also visit your chosen house of worship. God has a one of a kind love waiting for you.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A MESSIAH UNAWARE
September 7, 1997

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 44.21 through 45:8
Devotional Reading:
Jeremiah 37:1-9

It may come as a surprise to many Christians to learn that in the Bible the word 'messiah' is not limited to Jesus Christ.

Meaning literally the "anointed," this term appears in the Old Testament thirty-nine times and is usually applied to the current king of Israel or Judah. It relates to the ancient practice of anointing someone who was set apart for a very special role as king or priest. It was only in New Testament times that the 'messiah' was seen as someone whom God would send to vindicate Israel. Christians appropriated this title for Jesus, the 'anointed' translated into Greek as Christ's and in English Christ. So Jesus Christ means Jesus the anointed one.

Now for the biggest surprise of all: there is even one place in the Bible, the Old Testament to be exact, where the title of messiah is given to a non-Jew. Isaiah writes: "Thus says the Lord to his anointed [Messiah], to Cyrus, whose right hand I have grasped to subdue nations before him and ungird the loins of kings..." (Isaiah 45:1).

So who was this Cyrus? Actually, the Cyrus to whom Isaiah is referring is Cyrus II, 6th century BC founder and ruler of the Persian Empire, the largest empire the world had known. Although he conquered many lands and people in putting together his empire, he was known for his clemency to the peoples he conquered. In the Old Testament he is remembered primarily because he permitted the captive people of Israel to return to Jerusalem.

A REASONABLE TYRANT

Therefore, we can probably call him a reasonable tyrant or even a humane conqueror! He killed a lot of people with his invasions, but after the fighting was over, he generally treated his captives reasonably well. But that is a big jump from 'humane conqueror' to God's 'messiah.' In Isaiah 44:28, the prophet reports that God says of Cyrus, "He is my shepherd and shall fulfill my purpose." Then, just a few verses later, Isaiah called Cyrus God's "anointed" or messiah; in Greek Christos, in English the Christ.

God speaks to Cyrus at some length in Isaiah 45:1-8. He tells Cyrus that it is he, the only true God, who is enabling him to experience phenomenal military and political success in putting together his vast empire. The purpose is twofold: (1) "for the sake of my servant Jacob and Israel my chosen" and (2) "that men may know, from the rising of the sun and from the west, there is none besides me: I am the Lord, and there is no other" (45:6).

So God has "anointed" Cyrus, not to honor the Persian king, but for the sake of his own purposes. God is working in the world through Cyrus. Through him there will be a change in the plight of Israel—an opportunity to return to Jerusalem and rebuild it. God fulfilling the covenant he made with Abraham and his descendants. All this God will accomplish through Cyrus.

WHY CYRUS?

Did Cyrus know that he was God's "anointed"? We cannot be certain, but it is very unlikely that Cyrus knew that God had chosen him. In fact, Cyrus probably didn't even hear God speaking to him as we find in Isaiah 45:1-8. So Cyrus, Emperor of the Persians, was God's 'messiah' even though he didn't know it, just as in Moses' day God had used the pharaohs to unconsciously accomplish his purpose.

But why Cyrus? I believe God anointed Cyrus to do his will because he was in a position to accomplish what God wanted. God chose him, not because he was necessarily a virtuous man, but because he was in a position of power. I also believe God anointed him because, whether or not Cyrus knowingly heard his voice, God knew that the Persian king was open to his influence. There must have been in Cyrus' personality some opening through which God could work.

All of this serves to remind us that God does not sit back and watch history unfold: his is part of it, working often through servants who are unaware that they are serving him. He is the Lord of history. And, as the saying goes, "He can strike a mighty blow with a crooked stick." The "crooked stick" doesn't have to be aware!

Our Legacy From the Medicine Man

Who would ever think on entering today's streamlined pharmacy that many of the medicines available had their early beginnings with the medicine man. Of course, they have undergone many changes and refinements. In early days Indians chewed on roots (or leaves) of certain plants in order to extract a "magic substance." This later evolved to a "more sophisticated" technique of cooking the roots for hours and then boiling down the resultant liquid.

Thousands of years have passed since these earliest processes were begun. Our contemporary drugs may bear little resemblance to their crude ancestors. But many of the basic chemical substances do date back to the medicine man.

COVER STORY

Life of Miss America not just fun in the sun

By Kelly Barclay
©TVData Features Syndicate

Leonard C. Horn

The Miss America Pageant gets a face lift and tummy tuck for its 77th anniversary broadcast Saturday, Sept. 13, on ABC.

In an effort to rejuvenate and modernize the annual event, which started out as a "bathing beauty" contest in 1921, the organizers have some major changes planned for this year.

"The Miss America Organization is the largest scholarship program in the country exclusively for women," reigning Miss America Tara Holland says. "(In 1996), the organization gave out $32 million in scholarships."

In tune with making the pageant more scholastically oriented, a professional broadcast journalist is asking the top five contestants unscreened, unstaged interview questions, instead of the pre-planned questions asked in past years.

"The journalist is the most important change," Holland says. "It will show the American public what Miss America does. It's all about going to press conferences."

"We've made a studied effort to create a new, exciting, cutting-edge environment," says Leonard C. Horn, president and CEO of the Miss America Organization and executive producer of the Miss America telecast. The broadcast has been too predictable in past years, he says, "and change is extremely important."

The change most people are talking about is in the rules of the swimsuit competition. Instead of a one-piece bathing suit traditionally supplied by the Miss America Organization, contestants have a choice between one- and two-piece bathing suits selected by themselves off the rack. Horn says this move is designed to stress the distinct personality of each different contestant.

"(This change is) in an effort to display their individuality, their taste, the way they would go to a pool or a beach or a lake where they come from, and not have to go get all dolled up in something which is artificial," he says.

Holland says the Miss America Pageant showcases women who are talented, intelligent and physically fit. "Miss America has evolved as women have evolved," she says. It advocates the women of the '90s, "and I am proud to represent such an organization."

What sets Miss America apart from other beauty pageants, Holland explains, is the emphasis placed on each contestant's platform: how, if chosen, she will help alleviate a problem facing the country. Holland's platform is literacy.

"I spend 95 percent of my time making speeches, mostly to charity and not-for-profit organizations," Holland says. "As Miss America, I could bring attention to the problem nationally."

This civic-mindedness, Horn says, is part of what makes the Miss America pageant more important than ever. "These are women who care about others," he says. "In today's world, we don't seem to have too many role models. This organization takes young, intelligent college women ages 17 to 24, and gives them the opportunity to articulate opinions and display talent, to become true wholesome role models for young people."

IN FOCUS

Calista Flockhart plays a young attorney practicing in a small Boston firm in Ally McBeal, a new series premiering Monday, Sept. 8, on Fox.

Though Ally (McBeal) has joined a law firm run by her law-school nemesis (Greg Germann), she maintains complete control over her professional life.

Her personal life is another matter: Ally discovers one of her new colleagues is a former boyfriend (Gil Bellows) who is now married.

Sister Wendy spreads the gospel of fine art

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: What's black and white and likes Andy Warhol?

A: Sister Wendy Beckett, the "art nun."

Though she insists her hands are practically useless – she can't sew, cook or draw, she says – and she doesn't sing or fly like some film and TV nuns, Sister Wendy does possess the gifts of sight and insight.

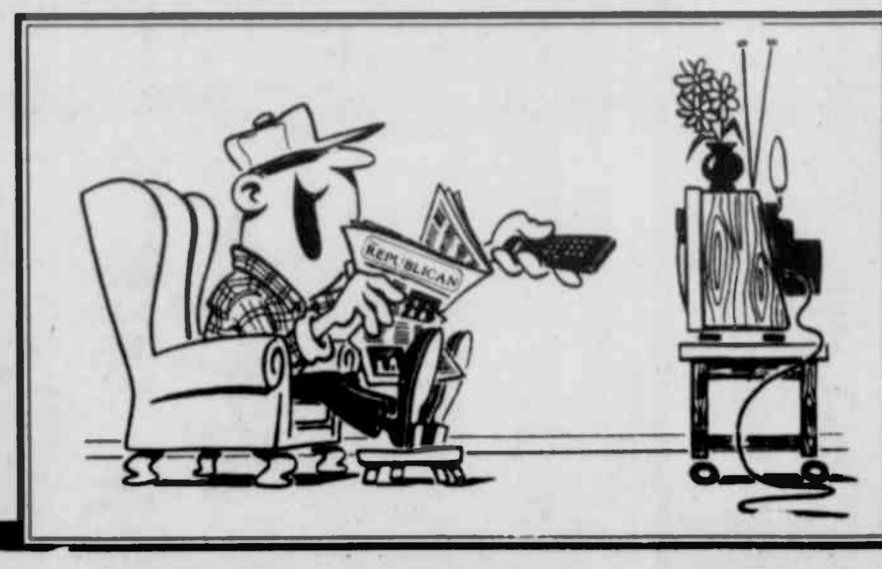
She unveils great works of art in Sister Wendy's Story of Painting, a five-week series premiering Sunday, Sept. 7, on PBS (check local listings).

Born in South Africa and educated at Oxford, Sister Wendy was coaxed away from her quiet, contemplative existence in a trailer outside a Carmelite monastery in England by the vocation of inspiring those not interested in viewing or appreciating art.

Her 30,000-mile art odyssey stretches from the cave paintings of France to the New York School. Along the way, she caresses the Book of Kells, contemplates the Mona Lisa's smile and studies what she calls "the greatest painting in the world" (surprise, it's a Velazquez).

"Art is just another way of being exposed to beauty," Sister Wendy says. "All creativity shows the hand of God. Certainly, in art it's very clear that (the artist) has been privileged to look, as it were, into the divine depths and bring something back to us."

Fifty years in holy orders haven't made Sister Wendy a prude or a cultural fish out of water. She knows some viewers will marvel at her ability to laugh and make jokes, but says it would break her heart if viewers didn't concentrate on the paintings as they are discussed.



The "art nun" gives a tour of some of the world's greatest works of art in Sister Wendy's Story of Painting, premiering Sunday on PBS (check local listings).

IN FOCUS

Elizabeth McGovern stars as a white woman who marries into an African-American family in Clover Wednesday, Sept. 10, on USA Network.

When Sara Kate (McGovern) is reunited with her old sweetheart, Gaten (Ernie Hudson), and the couple wed, they begin their new life amid concerns that his family, especially his daughter, Clover (Zelda Harris), will not approve of her. But when Gaten is killed, Sara Kate and Clover must begin to rely on each other.

Locally Brewed Ale Headed For National Fest

Ten cases of Deep Creek Golden Ale will be heading to Denver this Friday for the 16th annual Great American Beer Festival. The festival is held in Denver every year and starts October 4. Deep Creek Beer Works is one of 400 breweries invited to take part in the "three-day salute to brewing's best." More than 30,000 beer lovers from around the world will descend on Denver to sample from more than 1,700 different beers.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for our beer and the Deep Creek area to get national exposure. We believe that this ale has a chance of earning a medal in the golden ale category," stated Dave and Lee Saba, owners of Deep Creek Beer Works.

The Festival's Professional Panel Blind Tasting evaluates attending beers and awards gold, silver, and bronze medals recognized around the world as symbols of brewing excellence. This year, beers will compete for medals in 50 different styled categories. Deep Creek Beer Works will enter Deep Creek Golden Ale in the competition.

Deep Creek Beer Works, which was established in November 1996, has sold over 2,000 cases of Deep Creek Golden Ale in Garrett and Allegany counties.

The awards ceremony for the longest running beer festival in the United States will be held Thursday, Oct. 2. The public tastings are scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

GCC Announces Free Workshop On Total Image Skills

A special workshop focusing on total image development skills for women in Garrett County will be presented at Garrett Community College on Thursday, Sept. 11.

The program will begin at 1:00 p.m. in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building and is free and open to the public.

In her presentation, Rebecca Knox-McKenzie, image consultant for BeautiControl Cosmetics, will include an actual demonstration of makeup, color and style analysis.

Knox-McKenzie, along with program participant Deanne Donnelly, will evaluate Donnelly's most complementary choices of makeup, colors and clothing.

After considering Donnelly's lifestyle and budget, they will create her total image, which she will model at the workshop.

Persons attending the workshop will be encouraged to ask questions about the ideas shared by Knox-McKenzie and about their own personal image concerns.

In addition to her 10 years' work as an image consultant, Knox-McKenzie manages a team of eight consultants, teaches classes for the Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College, and works at Garrett Memorial Hospital in the Health Information Management Department.

The image workshop at GCC is sponsored by the New Dimensions Program, the New Horizons Program, and The Caring Connection Program of the college under the direction of Barbara Frey.

For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact either Barbara Frey at 301-387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, intake counselor specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection programs, at 301-387-3103.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College.

Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the New Horizons Program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning. This amount is approximately 90% of the total program budget. GCC contributes an additional $5,300, which is approximately 10% of the total budget.

The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources.

"Heart To Heart" Rally Scheduled

The Lakeside Assembly of God will host a "Heart to Heart" rally with Larry and Gloria Lundstrom from Sisseton, S.D.

The couple combines the gospel with music, humor, and ministry that is designed to appeal to the entire family.

The event is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 10, 7 p.m. Lakeside Assembly of God is located two miles south of Deep Creek Lake on Route 219.

Anyone wishing more information may call 301-387-9242.

County Facility Available For Social Events

The Grantsville Senior Center, owned by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., is now available to the public for rental.

Located on Durst Court, off Pennsylvania Avenue, Grantsville, the center offers several rooms which could meet the requirements of groups in need of a meeting location, or agencies wishing to schedule a conference.

Individuals who are looking for a location for a wedding reception, family or class reunion, or any other social event may find the center appropriate for their needs.

The Area Agency on Aging, which operates the center on a daily basis, is prepared to cater events and has developed a menu of dinner options. Prices are based on groups of 50 or more; however, other accommodations are possible.

A brochure listing the prices for facility use as well as prices for catering be obtained by contacting the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 140.

Glendale Church Notes Homecoming

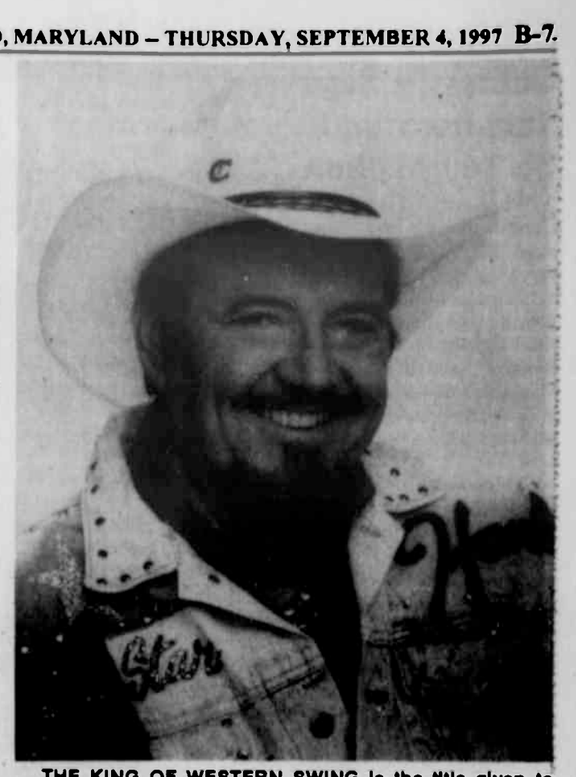
Annual homecoming at the Glendale Assembly of God Church will be held Sunday, Sept 7.

Services and Sunday school will begin at 10 a.m. A covered dish luncheon on the church grounds will follow the services.

A concert by the Royal Sounds will be presented at 1:30 p.m.

The Glendale Assembly of God Church is located on Glendale Road at Deep Creek Lake, off Routes 219 and 495. Pastor Paul Goldizen has invited the public to attend.

Wheat First To Be Acquired By First Union Corp.



First Union has signed a definitive agreement to acquire Wheat First Butcher Singer, Inc., a full service investment banking, brokerage, and asset management company based in Richmond, Va. According to a spokesperson for First Union, the acquisition will accelerate First Union's ability to provide equity underwriting to its growing corporate client base, while also expanding its services to individual investors.

Founded in 1934, Wheat First is employee-owned and operates 126 offices in 19 states and the District of Columbia, including an office in Oakland. The firm has nearly 3,000 employees corporate-wide.

Upon closing, Wheat First will operate under the name Wheat First Union, a division of First Union Capital Markets Corp., First Union's Section 20 subsidiary. Its asset management subsidiary will continue to operate under the name of Mentor Investment Group.

The acquisition will be accounted for as a pooling of interests and is expected to close during the fourth quarter of 1997, pending Wheat First stockholder approval and regulatory approval, as well as other customary conditions of closing.

First Union Corporation is a full financial services provider and the nation's sixth largest banking company.

THE KING OF WESTERN SWING is the title given to Hank Thompson, who will be providing a benefit concert for Garrett County Lodge #99 Fraternal Order of Police. Thompson has also been called an original, a trendsetter, and a legend. In 1947 he signed a contract with Capitol Record and recorded hits including "Humpty Dumpty Heart," "The Wild Life," and "A Six Pack To Go." With sales of over 30 million records to his credit, Hank Thompson will surely attract a large group of his fans when he appears at Northern Garrett High School, Accident, Sunday, Sept. 7, 7 p.m.

Goldstein Says Surplus Should Be $60 Million

When Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein sat down with the three major bond rating agencies in Annapolis Tuesday, he told them that while final figures on all state financial activities aren't available yet, he expects the state to show an unobligated surplus of about $60 million for fiscal year 1997, which ended June 30, 1997. He also projected that the revenue situation looks good for the remainder of the current fiscal year and for fiscal year 1999, which begins July 1, 1998.

Goldstein also told the bond rating agencies that the recently enacted federal tax bill has some provisions, such as expanded IRA availability, increased estate tax exemptions, and increased deductions for school expenses, which will result in lower state revenues. "Other provisions will act indirectly to boost our revenues," Goldstein said. "Lower capital gains tax rates should actually result in higher income tax revenues as investors sell stocks and bonds to take advantage of profits at a lower federal tax rate."

The comptroller notes that in recent quarters, the pace of economic growth in Maryland has matched overall U.S. growth for personal income, retail sales, and employment, which he says is an important change from recent years.

"General Fund revenues reflected this healthy economic performance, increasing by a strong 5.6% to $7.6 billion in fiscal year 1997," Goldstein said. "General Fund revenues exceeded estimates by about $108 million, thanks in large measure to an 8% growth in personal income tax revenue during the last fiscal year." Net state revenues from personal income taxes totaled nearly $3.8 billion for the year after local income taxes were paid to the counties, cities, and towns.

Income tax revenues benefited from job and wage growth, as well as the extraordinary rise in the stock market, which fueled a 20% growth in capital gains reported by state income taxpayers in each of the past two years.

The state's second largest source of General Fund revenue, the sales and use tax, produced $2.09 billion during fiscal year 1997, up 4.7% from the year before. "The strongest gains came in building materials and capital goods, reflecting surging construction activity and spending on computers as consumers and businesses continue to upgrade personal computers," Goldstein said.

Corporation income tax revenue grew by 5.4% to $266 million in fiscal year 1997, thanks to improved productivity, low interest rates, and solid demand.

Lottery revenues, the third largest source of General Fund revenue, recovered from a slow start and sales grew steadily throughout the fiscal year. Net lottery revenues totaled $356 million.

Among other significant General Fund revenues, taxes, and fees levied on insurance companies were nearly $10 million less than expected and death taxes were $5 million lower than estimated.

Counter Terrorism Class Slated For Rescue Personnel

A special two-day seminar entitled "Awareness and Preparation for a Terrorism Incident" will be held Sept. 13-14 for fire, emergency management services, and police personnel.

The seminar will originate from University of Maryland Baltimore County and will be broadcast to three interactive sites across the state. In Allegany and Garrett counties participants will attend the program at the Frostburg State University interactive site.

The seminar will address many of the terrorist concerns generated by today's unsettled political and social climates.

Students will be familiarized with the basic concepts of planning, resource assignments, and responding to an incident. Those attending the training will have the opportunity to plan a response to an incident using their local resources.

Anyone wishing more information may contact the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute at 301-220-7240 or 1-800-ASK-MFRI.

"BECOMING AN OUTDOORS WOMAN" - Members of the canoeing and water safety class, above, take to the water as part of the Department of Natural Resources "Becoming An Outdoors Woman" workshop. One hundred women came to the 4-H Camp from all corners of the state recently to participate in the 3-day event, learning the basics of a variety of outdoor skills. Filled to capacity, the workshop provided the opportunity for women to learn what have traditionally been male-dominated outdoor pursuits in a serious, but relaxed atmosphere. At right, Suzanne Wenzel, a legal secretary from Harford County, learns the art of archery and basic bowhunting. "The weekend has been fantastic," she said. "I've done some camping in the past, but this is a great way to learn the basics of a lot of different things. I'm thinking of buying my own bow and using it at a target range back home, and I'd like to come back and take other some other classes, especially fishing and firearms." Below, Elizabeth Dooling of Oakland, one of the two participants from Garrett County, takes aim at a clay pigeon in the shotgun skills class. "I'd highly recommend this workshop to all sports-oriented women, especially because it's directed to our strengths; for instance, women can tend to be very detail-oriented, and the map and compass course was exactly that. There's also a large population of people in the county who hunt and fish, and a class like this makes it possible to meet, learn, and make new friends with other like-minded women." As for herself, Dooling is ready to continue practicing her newly learned shotgun skills. "I have a 16-gauge Mossberg that I bought a year ago, but haven't had much opportunity to use. I've already had a firearms safety course, and after this shotgun course I feel even more comfortable with it. Eventually I want to take up hunting, because I like to use my hands and I love the outdoors." Participant Linda Kirkpatrick (not pictured), who left her two small children in her husband's care back home in Bel Air to attend the workshop, was one of many who had high praise for the experience. "It's very well run, and the instructors are very professional as well as enthusiastic, which is really important as not everyone is on the same level of experience. Also, it seems easier to learn without a lot of men around, because women so often feel like outsiders when men are talking about hunting and fishing," she said. Kirkpatrick's new skills will enable her to join in some family activities she hasn't tried before. "I took the basic firearm safety and handling class, and the rifle skills class, specifically because my father and my grandfather are expert marksman. Now I feel comfortable enough to ask to go with them when they shoot, whereas before this class I didn't. What a great feeling!"

This Week In History

On September 5, 1774, the First Continental Congress convened in Philadelphia, protesting British actions and calling for civil disobedience ... September 3, 1783, the U.S. and Great Britain signed a peace treaty ... September 5, 1795, the U.S. bought peace from Algerian pirates by paying $1 million ransom for 115 seamen captured by them, followed by annual tributes ... September 7, 1797, the Constellation was launched in Baltimore, Md. ... September 4, 1886, the Apache Indian, Geronimo, surrendered to U.S. authorities ... September 5, 1939, the U.S. declared its neutrality in the European war ... September 3, 1940, the U.S. announced the transfer of 50 overaged destroyers to Great Britain ... September 1, 1951, the U.S., New Zealand and Australia signed a mutual security pact ... September 4, 1951, transcontinental television was inaugurated with President Truman's address at the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference in San Francisco ... September 4, 1957, Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus called out the National Guard to bar nine black students from entering previously segregated Central High School in Little Rock ... September 3, 1976, the Viking II set down on Mars' Utopia Plains ... September 7, 1995, Senator Bob Packwood (R-Ore.) announced that he would resign from the Senate after the Senate Ethics Committee voted, 6-0, to recommend his expulsion for sexual misconduct and other charges ... September 1, 1996, in a 30-minute TV "infomercial," Ross Perot, the Reform Party's candidate for president, warned that Medicare and Medicaid were headed for insolvency, and that Social Security should be privatized if it was to be saved ... September 1, 1996, UN Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali froze an agreement under which Iraq was to be allowed to sell some oil to relieve a shortage of food and medical supplies ... September 2, 1996, Iraqi forces began to pull out of Arbil, the Kurdish city they had seized to assist the Kurdish Democratic Party which had come under attack from another faction ... September 3, 1996, the U.S. launched 27 missile attacks against Iraq; Defense Secretary William Perry said that the targets had been chosen because the policies of Saddam Hussein threatened oil-producing countries south of Iraq.

Q. I have an old 7 1/2-inch silver fork with two tines that point out. It is useless to stab pickles or olives. I was told it is actually a baked potato fork. How was it used?

A. Victorian dinner parties were more elaborate than some of our state dinners. There were about 12 courses. Each course had special utensils for serving and eating. A complete silver tableware set for 12 could have as many as 1,900 different pieces.

There was an asparagus fork, an ice cream fork, a pickle fork, a lemon fork and many more, including a baked potato fork.

Your fork was used to puncture the potato and place it on a dinner plate. Some experts call it a "sandwich fork," although how it might have been used to serve a sandwich is a mystery.

Eating out in Victorian times was an important social event. Those who had been brought up with "old money" and experience at large parties knew the correct fork to use. If you didn't know the proper silver piece to use, it indicated that you were not well-bred.

Today a fashionable table might be set with some of the odd serving pieces, but it is considered clever to use the server any way that works. A sugar sifter could be used for grated cheese, for example, or an asparagus server for small rounds of pizza bread.

A pair of sterling silver baked potato spoons sold recently for $225.

Q. Why is it called "costume jewelry"?

A. It is said that the name came from a rehearsal of the Ziegfeld Follies. Flo Ziegfeld used jewelry designed by William Hobe, who made realistic jewelry for use in the movies.

At one dress rehearsal, the costumes were ready but the jewelry was missing. "Where is the jewelry for my costumes?" Ziegfeld asked, and the term soon became "costume jewelry."

AIR BUD: Some of you may be wondering why I chose this particular movie for this week. The answer is simple: I love dogs! And this particular dog, Buddy, is a true star, proving W.C. Fields right in his admonition to fellow actors not to work with children or animals. They always upstage you.

Kevin Zegers portrays Josh, a lonely boy who has just lost his father and has been moved to a new town by his mom. He has to adjust not only to death, but to a new environment and school as well. Basketball is his passion, and he gains a spot on the team. However, he's just the kid who supplies the towels. He doesn't actually play.

Things begin to turn around when Josh finds a scraggly stray dog. The two immediately bond and Josh finds out that this is no ordinary dog. Buddy can play basketball like nobody's business! When the rest of the team finds out, Josh is elevated to playing status, aided by his beloved dog.

All cannot remain sweetness and light, however. Enter Michael Jeter, the dog's abusive original owner. Jeter is intent on getting his dog back, if only to torture the poor creature and Josh as well. Does this have a happy ending? You tell me. It's a Disney flick.

The most astounding thing about this delightful family film is that the dog really does all those stunts. No computer gimmickry is involved here. What you see is, well, what you see!

Bill Cobbs does a nice turn as the guy who steps in to coach the team when their original, by-the-book coach takes a hike. It is he who provides Josh with the father-figure he so desperately needs.

Charles Martin Smith, an actor-turned-director, really proves himself in this flick. He takes what could be a rather maudlin, predictable subject and manages to turn it into a sensitive, heart-tugging film that will most certainly please its target audience — preteen kiddies. Not only that, the adults in the family won't be disappointed by it either.

If you love dogs (and even if you don't), don't miss "Air Bud"!

IF THE HAT FITS — I came up with a way to dry my husband's baseball-style caps wrinkle-free.

My husband works outdoors and gets a lot of hats dirty in a short amount of time. I wash them in either the dishwasher or washing machine but don't have enough bowls the right size to fit them over to dry. I even bought some of those special cap washers, but some hats would still get wrinkled.

Then I bought some latex balloons. By blowing a balloon up inside the cap, it stretches out and gets rid of all the wrinkles. When the cap is dry, I let the air out of the balloon and the cap looks like new. Viola M., Phoenix, Ariz.

SAFE AND SECURE — I drive a tall metal stake in the ground next to where I set my outside trash can. I then place the handle over the stake.

This keeps the wind from blowing the can over and also animals from upsetting it. Mary C., Menominee, Mich.

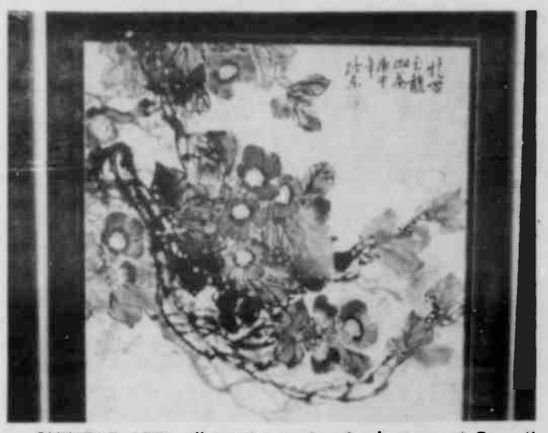
GCC To Host Gallery Talk On Chinese Art



The Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College will host a presentation on Chinese Art with guest speaker David Eyer on Monday, Sept. 8, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The gallery talk is in conjunction with an exhibition of Chinese watercolor paintings from the collection of David and Irene Eyer on display Sept. 3-26.

The Eyeres have visited China eight times since 1979. They have traveled throughout most of China, from the east coast to the western desert; and from the southern tropical region to the northern snow areas.

The couples' collection of Chinese watercolors includes a variety of styles and subjects. There are examples of traditional brush drawings of bamboo, plum, and pine, as well as the colorful floral patterns and more abstract modern images.

The people of China, their activities, the land, and cultural aspects are all depicted in the paintings.

CHINESE ART will be the topic of a lecture at Garrett Community College's Bausch & Lomb Gallery on Monday, Sept. 8, 7:30-9:30 p.m. David Eyer, who will present the gallery talk, shares with his wife Irene a large collection of Chinese watercolors that are currently on display at the GCC gallery. The display runs Sept. 3-26.

Among the famous artists represented in this collection are Song Buyun and the contemporary painter Chen Baodi.

Eyer's gallery talk will include his observations on museums and artists in China, how he gathered his collection, and stories of his travels in China. The lecture will also illustrate the relationships and the influences of Chinese art on Western art.

Formerly of Berks County, Pa., David and Irene have been residents of the Oakland area of Garrett County for about a year. David serves on both boards of directors for the Garrett County Arts Council and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

The public is invited to view the exhibition during regular college hours, and to attend the presentation and reception on Monday evening. This program is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

GCC Initiating New Supplemental Instruction Effort

Garrett Community College students will have a new service to help them succeed in difficult courses when the supplemental instruction program is implemented this fall. This service will be offered at no charge to the students and will be administered by the office of Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs.

In the supplemental instruction program, a good student who has previously passed a particular academic course is employed to sit in on class sessions, then review the lectures and lead study groups for students who need help. According to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development, a number of other colleges have found supplemental instruction an effective strategy for helping students complete their programs.

"This program will not only benefit students who are struggling," Crawford said, "but it will also give good students the experience of teaching and should be a great benefit for education majors."

The supplemental instruction program will be available in addition to GCC's other academic support services--peer tutoring and instructional labs. "These services show that GCC is serious about encouraging students to succeed," Crawford said.

Hochstetlers To Be Studied At Annual Meeting

The history of the Hochstetler family of Somerset County, Pa., is the focus of the annual meeting of the Casselman River Area Amish and Mennonite Historians of Grantsville this year. The public is invited to this meeting at the Grace Brethren Church, in the village of Summit Mills, two miles southwest of Meyersdale, on Mt. Davis Rd., September 19-20.

John, son of European migrant Jacob, was the first of this Hochstetler family to live in the Summit Mills area, having arrived there in 1784 when about 51 years of age. He had crossed the ocean and arrived in America as a 3-year-old with his parents in 1736. His father Jacob is the progenitor of the Hochstetler genealogy by Harvey Hostetler, published in 1912.

The annual meeting speakers are Daniel E. Hochstetler, Goshen, Ind.; J. Virgil Miller, Sarasota, Fla.; Dr. Alta Schrock, Grantsville; and David I. Miller, Irwin, Ohio. Daniel Hochstetler is co-founder of the Jacob Hochstetler Family Association, is editor of its Newsletter and of the newsletter of the Michiana Anabaptist Historians, and is author of numerous articles published in historical periodicals. J. Virgil Miller has done extensive genealogical research in Europe and has written numerous articles published in historical journals and other releases. Alta Schrock's career in genealogy and local history includes the founding of the Springs (Pa.) Historical Society; founding and editing its publication, Casselman Chronicle (now in its 36th year), and writing numerous published articles. David I. Miller, a native of Grantsville, serves on the executive committee of the Casselman River Area Amish and Mennonite Historians, and edits its paper, The Historian.

The program will include input on the Hochstetler European origins, their eastern Pennsylvania experiences (including the massacre), the spread west to Somerset County and beyond, Summit Mills experiences of the line of John Hochstetler who pioneered from Berks County to Somerset County, Pa., and the history of the village of Summit Mills and its Amish and Brethren churches. A tour is offered to local sites of Hochstetler history. A printed program and other information are available by writing or calling The Casselman Historians at P.O. Box 591, Grantsville, MD 21536; telephone 301-895-4488.

Oakland Church Plans Open House

An open house has been planned at the Oakland Church of the Nazarene, located at 203 South 8th Street, on Sunday, Sept. 14. The public is invited to attend the regular Sunday School, beginning at 9:45 a.m. for all ages, and/or the service, which begins 10:45 a.m.

To continue the open house, a dinner will be served at noon, and at 2 p.m., a concert will be given by Mike and Tina Smith.

"Come and get to know us," said a church spokesperson. The pastor of the church is Joe Ward. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-9161.

Christian Center Notes Anniversary

Western Maryland Christian Center, Friendsville, will celebrate its second anniversary Sept. 6-7.

On Saturday Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. Rev. Chuck Margraf of Radically Saved Ministries, Coral Springs, Fla., will minister. Margraf is a biker-turned-evangelist, who specializes in revivals, gang prevention seminars, drug and alcohol seminars, and youth evangelism training.

Sunday, Sept. 7, 10 a.m., Pastor Mike Robinson, who has served the Western Maryland Christian Center for two years, will celebrate his seventh year as an ordained minister.

At 6 p.m., Sept. 7, David Lindsay, Cumberland, will minister. He and his wife Jackie are founders of Resurrected Life Ministries. Lindsay has founded several churches in the tri-state area, including the Western Maryland Christian Center.

The public is invited to attend the Western Maryland Christian Center for this occasion. The center is located at 827 First Avenue, Friendsville.

A Message to all Garrett County Medicaid Recipients

In the near future, you will be asked to select a managed care organization through which you will receive your healthcare benefits. There are currently four managed care organizations approved by the State of Maryland in Medicaid's HealthChoice program.

At the present time, the FreeState Health Plan and Maryland Physicians Care - MCO are the only managed care organizations that will pay for inpatient and outpatient services for Medicaid recipients at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Until you are enrolled in a HealthChoice managed care program, the availability of inpatient and outpatient services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital will remain unchanged.

GCC Foundation Gives Scholarships

Jessica Stemple

Amy Fickes

Erica Stahl

Catherine Dixon

Four 1997 graduates of Garrett County high schools have been awarded scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation to attend college this fall.

Jessica Stemple, daughter of Tom and Debbie Stemple, Accident, has received the Michael Vaughn Vitez Memorial Scholarship and the Move-Along-A-Thon scholarship from Northern High School. In high school Ms. Stemple was president of the National Honor Society, an officer in Student Council, a gold medal winner in state and national competition for VICA, and recipient of a competency certificate in business data processing. At GCC she will major in business administration and plans to become an administrative assistant or secretary. Her interests include NASCAR stock racing and collecting fire-fighting memorabilia. She is a member of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary and recently attended the National VICA Skills USA Championships in Kansas City, Mo. She has also received a scholarship from the Sons of the American Legion, Squadron No. 214, Grantsville.

Amy Fickes, daughter of George and Deborah Fickes, Friendsville, has received the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship and the Friendsville Lions Club scholarship. At Northern High School she participated in mock trial, peer counseling, and the Schools to Careers program. At GCC she will major in early childhood education toward her goal of having her own day care service. She enjoys working with young children and helping others, and she has earned service learning hours by working with the Friendsville Rotary Club.

Erica Stahl, daughter or Dennis and Linda Stahl, Oakland, has received the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship and the Ronald Hugh Sisler Memorial Scholarship. A graduate of Southern High School, she is enrolled in the general studies program and plans to study hospitality management. She is secretary of the Otterbein United Methodist Youth Group.

Catherine Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon, Oakland, has received the GCC General Scholarship and the McDonald's scholarship. At Southern High School Ms. Dixon participated in mock trial and National Honor Society. She attended GCC her senior year as an Early College Admissions student. She is enrolled in the math/science program and is sophomore class representative to the Student Government Association. Her hobbies include hiking and reading.

Northern GOP Women Convene

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met Friday at Hill Top Inn in Grantsville. Carolyn Ganoe, president, introduced the guest speaker, Garrett County State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, who spoke in detail about her job, which she has had for 14 months. She noted that Pat Kelly, private investigator, was recently added to her staff.

Following a question and answer session with Thayer Welch, the club business meeting was held. A report on the picnic held in July with the Southern women's club was given. At that event an afghan was given to Bonnie Parish, state president, by the two local clubs. A thank-you card from Ms. Parish was read.

Cora Bowser, Orpha Miller, and Carolyn Ganoe worked at the Republican booth at the Garrett County Fair, and Cora and Carolyn also attended a meeting at Point View Inn with Ellen Sauerbrey, gubernatorial candidate.

It was announced that a fund-raiser was held for Delegate George Edwards on Aug. 30 at the fairgrounds.

The fruit basket was won by Connie Burdock.

Others present at the meeting, besides those named, were Cleda Baker, Zeola Robeson, Leanna Layman, Louise McKenzie, Hazel Margraff, Mary Durst, Lillian Crowe, and Stella Edwards.

Garrett County School Board Chairman Charlotte Sebold will be the guest speaker at the next meeting, slated for Sept. 30. Carolyn, Connie, Mary, and Lillian will provide the fruit basket.

State To Award Child Abuse Prevention Grants

Maryland's Governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families has announced the availability of grants to community organizations who submit innovative proposals for child abuse and neglect primary prevention programs.

"Keeping Maryland's children healthy and safe is our top priority," said Governor Parris Glendening. "These grants provide communities an opportunity to focus resources on child abuse prevention as part of a comprehensive strategy to ensure the health and well being of Maryland's children."

By working with grassroots efforts, communities, religious groups, and businesses, the state is seeking to create caring circles for children to support their healthy development.

"Abuse must not be tolerated," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. "We must work with parents and communities to ensure that all children are safe, secure, and succeeding in life."

The grants are administered through the Maryland Children's Trust Fund and are designed to support programs that emphasize parenting education, public awareness, training for professionals, sexual abuse prevention, and life skills training.

Community-based organizations interested in presenting a proposal to the Children's Trust Fund are encouraged to apply for six competitive awards. The grants are in the amount of $25,000 each. Proposals should be received by September 12, 1997. In addition, a $25,000 evaluation grant is available to an organization or institution interested in performing data collection and analysis of Children's Trust Fund funded programs.

The Maryland Children's Trust Fund was established in 1987 and provides grants to community-based organizations for primary prevention efforts. The Trust Fund is committed to preventing child abuse and neglect before it occurs, and receives funding through private donations and proceeds from the sale of commemorative birth certificates. Contributions are tax deductible. Since its inception in 1987, the Children's Trust Fund has awarded over $620,000 to more than 60 community organizations to prevent child abuse and neglect, a spokesperson said.

For more information about the current round of grants from the Maryland Children's Trust Fund, persons may call J.C. Shay or Jacqueline Scott at 410-767-4160.

Promotion Booth Hosts Hundreds Of Area Visitors

During the four day Labor Day weekend, the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Information Booth on Route 219 provided hundreds of visitors with information.

A total of 878 people stopped by the booth over the holiday. The visitors were from 12 states and 5 foreign countries. The majority of the 1,872 inquiries received at the booth were for directions, especially to recreational facilities, lodging, and restaurants.

The booth will remain open seven days a week through Autumn Glory, and will close Oct. 12. The facility, operated by the Deep Creek-Garrett County Promotion Council, was staffed during the summer by Edgar Bender and William Sipple of Grantsville.

Introducing Panelcraft Building Systems
The House of Tomorrow is Here Today!
Cool When It's Hot, Cozy When It's Not!
Customer satisfaction is our #1 goal.
(Residential, Commercial, Churches—ICBO, BOCA & SBCCI Approved)

PANELCRAFT
BUILDING SYSTEMS, INC.

These houses are built with Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).
Using SIPs requires less construction time and leaves the customer with a draft-free Energy Efficient Home at an affordable price!
At Panelcraft, these Panels go through a special bonding process to create a Structural Panel far superior to using just the insulation by itself in a conventional frame building.
The material used for the insulation is called Polystyrene, the same thing that is used for styrofoam coffee cups. Not only does 1/16 of an inch of Polystyrene protect your fingers from being burned from the scorching hot coffee, it also keeps them dry!
Now if only 1/16 inch will do this, imagine what 4 to 6 inches will do in your home to keep the warm and the dry inside and keep the cold and the dampness outside!
Oh! By the way all you carpenters and do-it-yourselfers, etc., no more itching and scratching and coughing while Insulating a house!
Panel homes have withstood earthquake activity where others crumbled.
If you would like to know more about Panelcraft and why SIPs are one of the fastest growing building techniques in the industry, call or write:
Panelcraft Building Systems, 948 O'Brien Rd., Swanton, MD 21561

Begins Studies At Pa. Bible College

, Melissa R. Hauser, a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, has begun studies in Christian ministry and vocal performance at the Export Free Gospel Bible College in Export, Pa.

The daughter of John and Carolyn Hauser of Oakland, Hauser's parents are founders, and John Hauser is the director, of the Mt. Top Food Pantry, a non-profit food bank that provides assistance to residents of Garrett County and the nearby West Virginia region. Her paternal grandparents are Erma Hauser of Oakland and the late Edgar Lee Hauser, and her maternal grandparents are the Rev. Eugene and Iris Friend of Loch Lynn.

Hauser has volunteered in the community and is a member of the Glendale Assembly of God and the Terra Alta, W.Va., Assembly of God churches, where she has taught Sunday school classes and has worked closely with the youth of both congregations. She also sang at both churches and was a regular participant in the Pleasant Valley Community Hymn Sing each month.

Legion Auxiliary Names Townsend Woman Of Year

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend this week received the 1997 "Woman of the Year" Award from the American Legion Auxiliary, in recognition of her successful effort to make Maryland the only state in the nation to require its high school students to participate in community service projects in order to graduate.

Lt. Governor Townsend accepted the award at the organization's 77th Annual National Convention, held at the Orange County Convention Center in Orlando.

"I am very proud to nominate you as our 1997 Woman of the Year in recognition of your successful efforts to foster the spirit of service in high school students in your state," said Auxiliary National President Phyllis Bachman. "The community service requirement for high school graduation in Maryland is a model I hope all states will replicate."

Maryland requires that students complete 75 hours of community service in order to receive their diploma. Last year, the statewide completion rate for this requirement was over 99 percent.

"We are working to instill the notion in our youth that community service is a critical part of being a citizen in democracy, rather than a burden imposed by it," Townsend said. "I am honored that the American Legion Auxiliary has chosen to recognize the contributions of our youth and our efforts to spread student service across the nation.

The American Legion Auxiliary is an organization of one million women devoted to improving the quality of life in their communities and in the nation. The group's primary mission is one of service to America's veterans and children.

A "MARYLAND RANGER WITH HEART" - Tom Blakeney, right, owner of Snowy Creek Motor Sports and Equipment, was presented recently with a certificate recognizing him as a "Maryland Ranger with Heart." DNR Ranger Richard Sines is shown making the presentation to Blakeney for Snowy Creek's part in providing Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area with two Yamaha Waverunners during the 1997 summer season. The personal watercraft were used for survey work, covert operations, safety training, and traffic studies. Yamaha made the craft available at no charge through their LE Loaner Program.

Food Pantry Seeking Clients And Volunteers

The Mt. Top Food Pantry, a non-profit food bank, has announced that it has room on its list for new clients. The service organization is also seeking volunteers to help with a remodeling and expansion project.

Serving residents of Garrett County and the nearby West Virginia region for the past 14 years, and currently sponsored by the Terra Alta Assembly of God Church, the pantry is expanding its facility at 447 Old Crellin Road. Volunteers with construction and building skills are sought, as well as people willing to donate their time in sorting and bagging groceries.

Persons interested in volunteering and/or receiving services are encouraged to call John Hauser, director of the Mt. Top Food Pantry, and Carolyn Hauser at 301-334-3588.

Awarded Degree

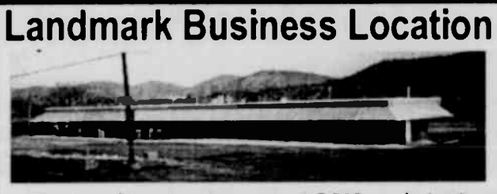
National-Louis University announces the recent graduation of Ernest J. Wolf of Oviedo, Fla., who earned a bachelor of science degree in management from the university's College of Management & Business. Wolf's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Wolf, reside in Mountain Lake Park. Wolf is a graduate of Southern High School, and is now living in Florida.

The university has more than 16,000 undergraduate and graduate students served on five campuses in the Chicago area. National-Louis University was founded in 1886 and is comprised of three colleges: National College of Education, College of Arts and Sciences, and College of Management and Business.

Low-Interest Mortgage Loans Offered By Md.

The state of Maryland currently has $77 million in new low-interest mortgage loans, according to a statement from the Office of the Governor. The loans are to help first-time buyers purchase a house, according to the statement.

"We are helping to make mortgage loans affordable to those who may have thought buying a home was out of their reach," said Governor Par is Glendening. "We anticipate that this program will make about 939 mortgage loans available."



The loans are available through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's (DHCD) Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP), initiated on Sept. 2. DHCD is making the funds available through the issuance of tax exempt revenue bonds, according to the report. This arrangement enables local governments to take advantage of the state's bond rating and to benefit from the centralized administration of the program.

State regulations for use of these funds set the maximum purchase price for a newly constructed or existing home at $110,000. In Garrett County, the maximum price is $85,500 for a new or existing house. The income limit for a single person is $46,240 and $59,910 for homes with two or more people.

To apply for a loan under this program, persons must be first-time home buyers, except in federally targeted areas, and must have a signed sales contract on a home that meets the program's price requirements before contacting a lending institution. Mortgages are made available to the public through commercial lending institutions -- not DHCD. To date, according to the report, over 43,000 families or individuals have received MMP funded mortgage loans, totaling over $2.5 billion.

Program brochures with lists of participating lenders and county-by-county eligibility requirements are available by calling the MMP at 410-514-7530 or toll-free at 1-800-638-7781.

Farming In Maryland.....

Double-Crop Small Grains To Alleviate Feed Shortage

Late August rains did not come in time to save drought-stricken corn crops in many parts of the Mid-Atlantic area. But they offer opportunity for beef producers and dairy farmers to reduce the likelihood of serious livestock feed shortages this fall and winter.

How? By sowing small grains now for late fall and early spring emergency grazing and for fall or spring silage harvest.

That's the word from Lester Vough, forage crops specialist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service. Dr. Vough pointed out that winter small grains also serve as a cover crop to control soil erosion.

And new fencing technologies make it economically feasible for livestock producers to fence their fields for grazing, he notes--something that wasn't readily available during previous drought seasons like 1986 and earlier.

Vough recommended that spring oats be sown immediately (not later than August 31), since it can be counted on to provide more grazing this fall than any other small grain. Oats also make a good fall silage crop. However, oats won't survive over winter as do wheat and rye.

For that reason, it's a good idea to sow a mixture of small grains (other than oats) around mid-October. This will extend the grazing season and make ensiling time less critical, since the various small grains have different maturity times.

Combinations of rye and triticale, or rye-wheat-barley, are good bets for spring silage harvest. Triticale also works well for hay when no-tilled into an existing alfalfa stand.

Hairy vetch and field peas sown with small grains make an excellent forage crop for use as silage next spring. But they will not withstand fall grazing, Vough cautioned, and they should be sown by October 1.

He warned farmers to be careful about sowing small grains in fields that were planted to corn this spring. Because of the drought, carryover of atrazine and other herbicides is greater than normal. This could cause adverse effects for small grain and forage seedings this fall.

Vough agreed that early fall seeding of small grains--particularly wheat--could result in damage by the Hessian fly, crown and root rot diseases, and various mosaic viruses. But this concern is lessened by increasing the seeding rate 50 to 100 percent and remembering that the goal is to produce forage, not grain.

Also keep in mind that rye does not suffer damage from the Hessian fly. And grazing reduces the incidence of diseases and viruses that otherwise may occur with early seedings.

Farm Service Agency Election Deadline Announced

Michael R. Kozier, director of the Garrett and Allegany Farm Service Agency, has announced the date for filing nomination petitions for election to the Farm Service Agency County Office Committee election, and urged every local resident involved in a farming operation to contact their local FSA office to be sure they are on the list of eligible voters and participants.

"This election is critical to FSA operations here in Garrett County and in Allegany County," Kozier said. "We want to urge every eligible participant to get actively involved."

Kozier said the deadline for filing nomination petitions for the election is October 27. Before then, by October 2, the county office will have completed a list of area farmers eligible to vote in the election, and will issue a public notice announcing the election and the boundaries of the area served by the Garrett County and Allegany County Office Committee.

"All local farmers are eligible to vote in the election," Kozier said. "All a producer needs to do is get his or her name on the list of eligible voters at the county office. All farmers eligible to vote are eligible to run for the county committee."

The FSA County Office Committee is the most direct link between USDA farm programs and producers. The county committee system helps shape nationwide programs into programs that work at the local level on things like commodity price support loans and payments, and allotments, yields, and marketing quotas for some crops. FSA county committees also make eligibility determinations for farm loans and conservation programs, as well as disaster assistance.

"It's important that the committee represents all of the agricultural interests in the area," Kozier said. "The Farm Service Agency works with all kinds of farmers--small and large operators, truck farmers, growers of specialty crops."

The Farm Service Agency was created three years ago as part of the reorganization of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, combining farm programs from several predecessor agencies.

"Other USDA agencies had county committees--committees that represented their customers," Kozier said. "The Farm Service Agency is reaching out to those people we work with to make sure that their interests are represented in the decisions we make. That way FSA programs meet the needs of our customers."

For more information, those interested may contact the Garrett County Farm Service Agency Office at 301-334-6954, of the Allegany County Farm Service Agency Office at 301-777-1536.

Emergency Loan Assistance To Be Available

The Garrett and Allegany Farm Service Agency announced that emergency loan assistance will be available from the USDA Farm Service Agency in Allegany County. To qualify producers must be recognized as operating a family-size farm and be unable to obtain credit elsewhere at rates and terms he/she can afford, after taking all assets into consideration. Depending on the producer's net worth, he/she may be requested to contact some banks outside their immediate area.

A producer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss in a single enterprise to qualify. The loan will not exceed 80 percent of the producer's loss after crop insurance is considered, or $500,000, whichever is less. The total outstanding emergency loan limit is $500,000 and the interest rate will be 3.75 percent. The term of the loan will be from one to seven years in most situations.

Each qualifying producer must develop a feasible plan of operation that shows a positive cash flow.

Security requirements will vary depending on the loan purpose and amount.

It is to be noted that the emergency loans are only offered after an area is designated a disaster area by the president or the secretary of agriculture. This will be highly publicized in the counties affected and producers will have eight months to apply for assistance.

Producers do not need to have crop insurance to participate in this program.

Fall Webworm Damage is Mostly Aesthetic

All of those tents that you see on the end of tree branches are the works of the fall welworm. The fall webworm first appeared in July; however, they were so small they went unnoticed. Later in their lives they start spinning a silken web around the leaves they feed upon. The web helps protect them from natural enemies and insecticides. Webworms will feed upon many kinds of shade trees; however, the leaves of wild cherry and fruit trees seem to be their favorite food.

Although the fall webworm can defoliate trees it usually does not severely damage established trees. The injury is more aesthetic than actual. Insecticides should be applied before the caterpillars enclose themselves in their web. Unfortunately, they are very small at that time and usually not noticed. Affected branches of smaller trees can also be cut and destroyed. Burning the web on the trees does more harm than the caterpillar. Nothing will control this insect in larger trees after the caterpillars have constructed their web.

You're Invited---Garrett County Agronomy Field Day--September 19

Mark Friday, Sept. 19, from 10:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. on your calendar. Willie Lantz and I have put together an educational field day to show you the results of several demonstration projects that have been conducted at the Garrett Community College.

Program Features

* Alfalfa Fertility and Harvesting Management

Dr. Les Vough, Extension forage specialist, University of MD, will review the results of the 5-year research demonstration plots at GCC. The on-site research studied alfalfa and alfalfa/grass plantings' response to different fertilization applications and cuttings up to five per season.

* Nitrogen Benefits from Alfalfa Residue

Willie Lantz, agriculture instructor, GCC, will provide you with a first-hand view of how the corn responded on the different areas of the former alfalfa demo plots.

* Soybean Production in Garrett County

Dr. German Bollero, Extension crops specialist, University of MD, will cover the general management practices for soybean production in Garrett County. Several county farmers are successfully growing soybeans.

* Garrett Community College Research Projects

Visit the soybean test plots featuring Roundup Ready Soybeans on trial with different row spacings. Hear why buckwheat could be a good cash crop and see how some West Virginia grown seed potato varieties yielded.

* Hog Roast ---12:30 p.m.

Enjoy a Hog Roast with all the fixin's. Cost $3.00 per person.

Reservations Due: Monday, Sept. 15, by calling either the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960 or Garrett Community College at 301-387-3021.

The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age or national origin.

Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program Begins

Michael R. Kozier, director of the Garrett and Allegany Farm Service Agency, announced that the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) provides crop loss protection for growers of many crops for which federal crop insurance is not available.

Kozier said that producer benefits are local. Assistance is not dependent on multi-state crop losses requiring passage of emergency legislation in Washington, D.C.

Kozier said that it's funded. Potential NAP payments are anticipated and federal funding is assured.

Kozier said that the price is right, no administrative fees. The only cost is the time it takes to annually report acres and yields to the FSA office.

Eligible crops are commercial crops grown for food and fiber. Also included are floriculture, ornamental nursery, Christmas tree crops, turfgrass sod, seed crops, aquaculture (including ornamental fish), and industrial crops. Also, losses resulting from natural disasters not covered by the crop insurance policy may be eligible for NAP assistance. NAP does not include trees grown for wood, paper or pulp products.

NAP crops are eligible when the expected "area yield" is less then 65 percent of normal. NAP payments are made to eligible producers when individual crop losses are in excess of 50 percent of the individual's approved yield at 60 percent of the crop's average market price (determined by FSA). Producers must report losses within 15 days of the crop loss. Payments to any one producer under NAP cannot exceed $100,000 for any given crop year. The payment rate will be reduced for any crop which is unharvested or prevented from being planted, to reflect the decreased costs incurred.

NAP yields are an average of actual yields for a four to 10-year period. A minimum of four consecutive yields is needed to calculate an NAP approved yield. If acceptable production records are not provided, a yield will be assigned. Most producers will find the assigned yield to be low. For most producers, providing production records will increase NAP protection.

There are three ways the state FSA office may define an area for the NAP: (1) a county (2) at least 320,000 acres or (3) acreage on which the value of all crops grown is $80 million or more. These three specifications give FSA the flexibility needed to target assistance where needed.

Unlike previous disaster assistance programs, producers must file an acreage and production report with the local FSA office prior to the crop reporting date. If acres and yields are not reported on time, producers may not be eligible for NAP assistance.

For further information, interested persons may call the Garrett County FSA office at 301-334-6954 or Allegany County FSA office at 301-777-1536.

The revolving memorial plaque, new this year, was established by the Garrett County Chapter of the Maryland 4-H All-Stars. The late Mr. Butler, who was a former 4-H leader and superintendent of the 4-H Booths Department at the fair for 25 years, had been inducted into the Maryland 4-H All-Stars in 1996. Pictured from left, seated are: Susan Steyer, organizational leader of the Ryan's Glade club; and Christina, Michael, and Carrie Steyer, all club members. Standing, same order, are: Pam Butler and Tom Butler, children of Harold Butler; Janet Tichnell, leader of the Ryan's Glade club; and Katie Steyer, Ray Cummings, and Heather Boyce, all club members.

Crop Conditions Show Improvement With Rainfall

The weather for the week which ended on August 31 showed some improvements for crop development in Maryland, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Sixty percent of the field corn was in very poor to poor condition, while 40% was in fair to excellent condition.

Pastures continued to improve with 19% being very poor, 24% poor, 32% fair, and 25% good.

Hay supplies were 26% very short, 28% short, 44% adequate, and 2% surplus.

There was an average of 6.0 days suitable for fieldwork. The moisture early in the week came at a needed time and greatly improved the soil conditions.

"Through The Years" Is Theme Of 56th Annual Buckwheat Festival

"Through the Years" is the theme chosen for the 56th Annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival, set this year for Thursday through Sunday, Sept. 25-28, in Kingwood.

Sponsored each year by the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department, the four-day event will feature amusement rides and concessions by Shaw & Sons Amusements; three gigantic parades: the Firemen's Parade on Thursday evening, the School/Community Day Parade on Friday afternoon, and the Farmers' Day Parade on Saturday; arts and crafts displays; livestock showmanship contests, judging, and a sale; produce and canned goods; commercial, school, and club exhibits; a coronation of Queen Ceres LVI Jennifer Martin and King Buckwheat LVI Nickoli Riggins; and a wide variety of food, including Preston County's famous buckwheat cake and sausage dinners.

Other planned activities include a display of antiques at the Craig Civic Center, antique car/rod and custom show, a draft horse pull, the Heritage Day Classic Bike Race, a banjo and fiddlers' contest, a performance by the Wheeling Symphony, a variety of performers on stage each day, a band spectacular, and a turkey calling contest.

New to the festival this year will be a NASCAR simulator, sponsored by Mountaineer-Preston Contractors, Tri-County Hardwoods, Preston Distributors, WKMM Radio, and East Preston Tire.

Also new this year will be the traveling Vietnam Veterans Memorial, a one-half scale replica of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., sponsored nationally by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Turner Network Television, and locally by Bruceton Bank. Designated as "The Wall That Heals," the memorial was constructed to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in Vietnam. The 260-foot traveling memorial, like its counterpart in the nation's capital, is etched with each of the 58,202 names of United States veterans who lost their lives during that conflict. It will be on display on the Central Preston Junior High School athletic field throughout the week.

Begun in 1938, the festival was designed to be a homecoming celebration of the plentiful harvest of the buckwheat grain. An estimated 120,000 people are expected to visit Kingwood during the four-day event to "celebrate our heritage as seen 'Through the Years,'" according to a spokesperson for the event.

Watch future editions of The Republican for more detailed information about Buckwheat Festival activities. A special pull-out section, featuring a schedule of events and a map of the Kingwood area, will be printed in the Sept. 25 issue.

AURORA COMMUNITY BUILDING

A meeting for those concerned with the Aurora Community Building will be held at the building on Tuesday, Sept. 9, 7 p.m. Those present will discuss pertinent business.

POTATO FESTIVAL SEPT. 13-14

The Mt. Grove VFD is sponsoring the annual Potato Festival Sept. 13-14 at the Mt. Grove Community grounds beginning at 10 a.m. daily. Persons may come for food, entertainment, fun, and available crafts. Entries are needed for the potato contest and the cake decorating contest.

SPAGHETTI DINNER AT AURORA VFD FRIDAY

A spaghetti dinner is being served Friday, Sept. 5, at the Aurora Fire Hall from 4:30 until 7:30 p.m., with proceeds going toward the new fire truck. Donations for spaghetti with meat balls, salad, garlic bread, cake and beverage will be $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 12 and under. Persons may also purchase raffle tickets for a half beef to be given away Nov. 14.

FIELD DAY AT REALLS

A forage production and chicken litter utilization field day was held Tuesday, Aug. 26, at the Carl Reall farm on Terra Alta Pike. It was sponsored by the West Virginia Soil Conservation Agency and the West Virginia Cooperative Extension Service. Joe Hatton, grassland specialist, explained the WVSSCA forage program, and Dr. Ed Rayburn and Tom Basden, WVU Extension specialists, conducted the chicken litter and rotational grazing demonstrations. Dr. John Hinz, WVU weed specialist, spoke about biennial and perennial weed control in pastures.

Following lunch, provided by the WVSSC and served by Union Ambulance Service, Andy Walker, an environmental specialist, told of availability of poultry litter from the Potomac Valley and explained its value, how it is made, and its use on the farm. Dr. Bill Shockey, Preston County Extension agent, concluded the meeting with discussion of timing and harvesting forages to provide the most nutrient value.

There will be a field day on Sept. 27 from 10 a.m. until noon for those who are interested in the control of multiflora rose. For further information, persons may contact Joe Hatton at 304-285-3150 or John Hinz at 304-293-2219, ext. 4206. The field day will be held at a Monongalia County location.

SEVERE THUNDERSTORM THURSDAY

Early in the morning hours of Aug. 28, a severe thunderstorm ripped through the area causing electrical and wind damage. Trees were blown down. David Stemple lost six cows when lightning struck a tree under which they sheltered. The home of Bruce and Mary Rembold at Eglon received extensive damage from a lightning strike, which made holes in the roof, shattered glass in pictures and mirrors, cracked plaster, and shredded ceilings, in addition to blowing the telephone entrance box from the outside of the house. The storm damaged most of the interior wiring, including blowing electrical outlets from the wall.

EDEBURN REUNION

On Sunday, Aug. 31, children and families of the late H.E. and Dottie Edeburn of Eglon met at the Amboy home of Joyce and Bill Dixon for a family reunion. Those attending were Neva Edeburn of Cairo; Barbara and Ron Neely, their son Joe, and Patty Neely and two children, Clarksburg; Linda and Harris Zinn, Jeremy, Nathaniel, and Corey, Marietta, Ohio; J.H. Edeburn, Dunbar, Pa.; Marjorie Ingram, Elizabethton, Tenn., her son, Billy and Ann Ingram, Elizabethton; Norman and Ruby Edeburn, West Milford; Bill and Virgie Edeburn, Fairmont; Harry Buckley, Oakland; Hobart Vought and his daughter, Patty Campell, Kearns, Utah, his son, Charles Vought, Connecticut, and his friend Frank; Elwood Edeburn, Eglon; Joyce and Bill Dixon, David and Virginia Dixon, and Lori, Scott, and April Dixon, Zack and Hayley, Mike, Leona, and William Dixon, Gary, Cheryl, Shane, and Jonathon Dixon, all local; Ruth Marin, Baltimore; Dortha and Bill Beall, Merril Goudy, all from Aurora; and Shannon Goudy, Baltimore.

Mrs. Ingram remained for a week to visit with her sister's family (the Dixons). The Vought family visited in the area with friends before going to Romney to stay overnight with Hobart's sister Blanche and Yearl Arnold. They returned to Connecticut on Monday.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Dorothy Spaid, Aurora, was surprised on Monday evening, Sept. 1, with a birthday party planned by her family and held at the Maple Spring Church for family, friends, and co-workers. Many of those present were former students or associates from her years of teaching and administrative work, in both Preston County and Garrett County.

PERSONAL MENTION

Visiting with Mrs. Jessie Winters at Eglon Aug. 22-25 were her brother and sister-in-law, Delbert and Madeline Sims, Warren, Ohio.

David Stemple's misadventures last week included the loss of six cows to lightning, and also the fracture of his elbow.

Carl and Nancy Winters were Saturday and Sunday guests of his parents, Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon. The family gathered for dinner on Sunday.

Emily Lewis, South Charleston, was a weekend visitor with her family, Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis, Eglon.

Judy and Jim Highberger, Goosecreek, S.C., visited last week with her mother, Mrs. Louella Fike, Aurora. Gary, Cleta, and Brian Fike, Terra Alta, were Wednesday evening visitors there. Norman Fike and Carolyn, Belington, were Friday evening visitors.

Roy Lewis, Horse Shoe Run, underwent gall bladder surgery last Thursday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Ellis and Marie Teets returned last Friday to their home at Silver Lake. She spent the week visiting with their daughter and her family, the Don Shepherds, at Salem, Va. Mr. Teets accompanied a group from the Church of the Brethren to Orangeburg, S.C., where they are helping with the reconstruction of the Butler Chapel, a church that burned in March 1996.

Marrel and Effie Biser, and their grandson, Gene Biser of Fort Myers, Fla., came to the area for the Harsh reunion, and stayed for a visit as guests of Mrs. Biser's sister, Wilma Rembold, Aurora, from where they visited area relatives and left Monday to return to Florida.

A Schrock bus tour to Boiling Springs, Pa., on Saturday was joined by Dale and Mildred Stemple, Aurora; Beatrice Ball, Gladys Hauser, Wilma Mae and David Teets, Horse Shoe Run; Virginia Bolyard, Eglon; and Eileen Rembold of Pittsburgh, Pa. They went to the Allenberry Theater, where they saw the musical "The Will Rogers Follies," which is a biography of the life of the well-known humorist. Lunch was at Fairfield Hall.

Paul and Karen Teets, Horse Shoe Run, made a Friday to Monday trip to Montreal, Canada, where they visited briefly with a former student-friend and took in many of the sights there.

Hazel Durst, chairperson of the IMP committee, attended the West Virginia Retired School Personnel conference in Charleston from Tuesday to Thursday of this week. The IMP committee prepares a memorial service each year for those who have died during the past year. Mrs. Durst is in charge of arrangements.

A weekend guest of David and Wilma Mae Teets at Horse Shoe Run was Mrs. Teets' sister, Eileen Rembold, Pittsburgh.

The body of the Rev. John Weaver was brought to Eglon Tuesday for burial in the Maple Spring Cemetery. He was the husband of Flora Harsh Weaver, who survives in Palmyra, Pa.

Mrs. Twila Bachtel, 95, Red House, died Aug. 28 at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. Services and burial were at St. John's Lutheran Church on Aug. 31.

Faith Women's Group Celebrates 25 Years Of UMW

Members of the Faith United Methodist Women, Cranesville, met Aug. 22 at the church to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the United Methodist Women's organization.

The local group invited other ladies in the church, along with those from its sister church at Lake Ford, Md., to join them for the evening. Several past members of the organization were also present, including a surprise guest and past president, Donna Pifer, who currently lives in Martinsburg.

President Corile Wilhelm offered a welcome to those present, and member Janet Sisler led the ladies down "memory lane" with a history of the local organization and a review of projects the group had been involved in over the years.

Entertainment was provided by soloist Rhonda Metheny. Group singing was also included during the evening.

Refreshments were provided to those present, following the program. Jo Friend, Janet Sisler, and Thelma DeWitt served as members of the committee to organize the celebration.

Blood Screening To Be Available

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will conduct its final mobile blood screening for the year on Wednesday, Sept. 17, from 7 to 9:30 a.m. at the Aurora Squad Hall in Aurora, W.Va. The cost for the screening is $30. The prostate cancer (PSA) test will be available to men over age 50 for an additional $12. A 12-hour fast is required to ensure accuracy of test results.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-2155, ext. 411 or 408.

Real Life Decisions . . .
Real Life Solutions

Banking for real life.

"I am doing something that I have always enjoyed doing!" said Bill Sisler of Bill's Marine Service.

Everyone at the Lake knows Bill—the name you need to know! He takes pride in his work and it shows. Bill and his two brothers, Kenny and Dale, own and operate Bill's Marine Service located on Garrett Highway at Deep Creek Lake.

Bill and his brothers started their business in 1958 with a small floating dock, and a shop at the Glendale Bridge. First United is proud to say that we knew Bill when . . . Bill appreciated the hard work, dedication and quality service that the First United staff has shown him time and time again. "First United has been able to provide the support, the products and the services to meet the needs of our business over the years", Bill commented. The company now has over 35 dedicated employees.

It is all about people helping people. And that's First United's philosophy when it comes to helping people in their communities. First United is happy to play a part in the success of businesses like Bill's Marine Service. Throughout the decades their business has flourished and the relationship that was built many years ago between First United and Bill Sisler continues today, stronger than ever.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearig on September 18, 1997, at 7:30 p.m. In the Planning Commission Meeting Room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases.

1) Docket VR-408; an application made by Mr. Walter Finkelstein for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it allects the front yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow an existing foundation to remain at 32.66 feet from the front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located on Lake Spur Road In The Ridge Subdivision (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-409; an application made by Mr. and Mrs. James Fischer for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard set-back requirement for residences. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition which would extend to within 6.2 feet of the rear (Penelec) line. The property is located at 38 Bethel Park Lane (Zoned LR).

3) Docket INTP-12; an application made by Mr. Richard Browning for an appeal from the decision of the Zoning Administrator regarding an Order to establish a parking area exclusively for use by customer vehicles on the Quality Marine property and leased parking area. The interpretation advanced by the applicant is that the determined parking area is insufficient parking for the Marina and that the operation should be curtailed. The property is located on Deep Creek Drive (Zoned TC).

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FEE SIMPLE PROPERTY LOCATED AT DEEP CREEK LAKE, GARRETT COUNTY, MD. TIME SHARE INTERVALS.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a time share instrument and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber No. 465, folio 64, et seq., the holder of the liens secured thereby having appointed W. McCauley Arnold, Assignee, by document duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. At the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Assignee will sell, in fee simple, at public auction, on the premises located at Lakewood Resorts, Rt. 219 at Bridge, Deep Creek Lake, McHenry, Maryland, on SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1997, AT 10:00 A.M.

All those time share intervals located in Election District No. 6 (Tax District No. 18) of Garrett County, Maryland, and being described as follows:

Reference is made to the plats of Lakewood Resorts as recorded at Plat Book 2, page 182 of the Land Records of Garrett County and the Declaration by Lakewood Resorts, Inc., dated October 23, 1985, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 465, folio 64; the time share instrument dated June 30, 1986, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 477, page 598, et seq. (Phase II); the time share instrument dated March 11, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 492, page 16, et seq. (Phase III); time share instrument dated June 15, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 496, page 295, et seq. (Phase IV) as amended by Amendment dated July 31, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 499, page 55, and the plats described in said instrument and recorded as aforesaid in Plat Book 3, page 7; and the time share instrument dated July 27, 1987, and recorded as aforesaid at Liber 536, page 583, et seq. (Phase V) and plats referred to therein as recorded in Plat Book 3, page 7.

The property being sold at foreclosure sale are the time share intervals listed below situate in the Lakewood Resorts Time Share as duly recorded as follows, to wit: Unit 1, Time Interval 52; Unit 2, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 4, Time Interval 21 and 37; Unit 9, Time Interval 52; Unit 10, Time Interval 36; Unit 11, Time Interval 30

The above described real estate will be sold subject to all conditions, liens, easements, restrictions, rights of redemption, covenants, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the same.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash deposit, certified check or cashier's check in the amount of thirty percent (30%) for each unit will be required at the time of sale, except that if the lienholder or its assigns is the purchaser, no deposit or interest on the unpaid balance of the purchase price will be required. The balance is to be paid in cash at settlement, which shall be fifteen (15) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garratt County, unless the period for settlement is extended by the Assignee, time being of the essence. The properties will be sold in "AS IS" condition with the purchaser solely responsible for any and all other statutory or regulatory violations, if any, and without express or implied warranty as to the nature, description or condition of the title, land and/or improvements as contained thereon. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy shall be limited to the refund of the deposit. In the event that the purchaser fails to complete settlement as required for any reason other than the Assignee's inability to convey good and marketable title, the deposit will be forfeited and the property or properties shall be resold at purchaser's risk and expense. Cost for any and all recordation and transfer taxes and document preparation shall be borne by purchaser. The Assignee and Lienhholder does not make any representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy of this information.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland hereby give notice that they will hold public hearings on Ordinance No. 097-08, which has been introduced before the Town Council, prohibiting the use of engine brakes or "jake brakes," designating such use to be a misdemeanor and setting penalties therefore.

A fair summary of the Ordinance is as follows:

AN ORDINANCE to repeal and re-adopt Ordinance No. 094-02 prohibiting the use of engine brakes, also known "jake brakes," within the Town of Oakland, designating a violation of this Ordinance as a misdemeanor rather than a traffic violation and making no other additions or changes thereto.

This notice is in accordance with the policy adopted by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for the adoption of ordinances, and gives notice of the date and time of the scheduled public hearing of said Ordinance.

The full text of Ordinance 097-08 is available at City Hall Monday through Friday during business hours.

The Mayor and Town Council shall hold a public hearing on the said Ordinance on the 8th day of September 1997, at 7:30 P.M., at City Hall, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

Being the same property conveyed by Helen K. Wolfe to Donald K. Wolfe, Jr., et ux, by deed dated April 18, 1986, and recorded in Liber No. 471, folio 589, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition, with all faults, and with no warranty, express or implied, as to the condition or description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certifed check or other form as the Assignee determines acceptable. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. The Assignee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, with time being of the essence as to the purchaser's payment. If the purchaser defaults, the deposit will be declared forfeit, and applied as required by Maryland law, with the remainder, if any, to be applied at the discretion of the Assignee. In addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to the Assignee or noteholder, the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Further, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for any deficiency resulting from the resale, as well as all costs and expenses of the resale including, but not limited to, attorneys' fees and all other charges incurred by the Assignee. Unless the property is purchased by the noteholder, the purchaser shall pay interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate stated in the Mortgage Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Assignee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, water rent, condominium fees, and/or homeowner association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. A cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Assignee assumes no responsibility for security deposits, or other moneys paid by the tenants to anyone. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. The property is sold subject to all easements, conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any. If the Assignee is unable to convey good and marketable fee simple title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be the refund of the deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Assignee or the noteholder. The property will be sold without any express or implied warranty or representation with respect to the sufficiency of the recorded legal description, fitness of the property for any particular purpose or use, its structural integrity, construction, extent of construction, materials, workmanship, habitability, applicability of zoning and subdivision laws and regulations, if any, environmental condition, compliance with building codes or other laws, ordinances, regulations, or other similar matters. The Assignee, his attorneys and/or the noteholder shall not be personally liable for any matters relating to the sale and/or the property.

Child Care Block Grant Is Denied By State Dept.

The Maryland Department of Human Resources contacted Duane Yoder, director of the Community Action Committee, Inc., this week to inform him that a Child Care Development Block Grant that has been received for four years will not be awarded this year. The $40,000 in grant money has been used for four years to provide child care for approximately 60 families, allowing the parents of these children to be removed from welfare or other government subsidy programs and enter the work force.

"I was surprised by this," Yoder told the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday. "We have a very good program that has truly helped many local families. There is day care from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m., allowing parents to work and also be able to afford day care."

The program is set up with a sliding fee scale, with parents paying up to $2 per hour for the care, depending on a family's income. With the loss of the grant money, Yoder said the current program can be stretched to about the end of October or early November, after which it will be discontinued.

"This is of course going to directly affect these families," he said. Yoder went on to comment about the YMCA in Cumberland, which received three grants totaling approximately $136,000.

"The 'Y' has some pretty innovative programs. I don't know if that's why the money went to them or not," he said.

Commissioner Roger Glotfelty stated that he feels the county has "great grant writers" and that the program addresses some of the same concerns -- about children and working parents -- of Maryland Governor Parris Glendening.

"We shouldn't be penalized for something we do well," Glotfelty said.

Yoder noted that the grant funding is competitive, with agencies across the state vying for allotments. Neither Garrett nor Allegany County's fiscal authorities received any funding in this recent round.

The commissioners asked Yoder to pen a letter to the Department of Human Resources asking for a possible reconsideration. Yoder agreed to do so and also noted that he has already asked for a debriefing with the decision makers to find out why the request was denied.

WELCOME TO MY WORLD - This doe was one of about five browsing at New Germany State Park yesterday, where staff photographer John McEwen quietly snapped pictures of the graceful creatures. Wildlife in all forms can be viewed at the state parks of the county, where all visitors are invited this month by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to take the "Healthy Habit Challenge." This contest encourages residents to visit at least three parks in the county and fill out questionnaires at each park. Correctly answered questionnaires will be put together and a drawing will then take place. Those accepting the challenge will be in the running for a myriad of prizes, such as overnight accommodations, rounds of golf, dinners, and other gifts. See story in today's issue. And while one person may see this as a pleasing portrait, another may "take aim." Bow hunting season opens Monday in the state, for those who are of that mind.

G.C./CARE Meeting Draws Over 70 Citizens Opposed To New Highway

"Congressman Bartlett has been supportive of local efforts in asking that interstate highway construction in Garrett County be considered in the new highway bill as part of the proposed Continental One Trade Corridor. The information he has received to this point from local residents (of Garrett County) has been very supportive of this long-term highway project; however, he would like to emphasize that it is his long-term belief in inviting and encouraging input from the public, and his decision-making process will be influenced by public input. He believes that open public discussion and debate helps lead to wise policy-making decisions" -- Spokesperson for Congressman Roscoe Bartlett's office, in a phone conversation with The Republican on Tuesday, Sept. 9.

"Urban sprawl is a reason to seek the confines of Garrett County. The Toronto to Miami route (if it runs through our sparsely populated and fiercely loved area) will bring the sprawl to us and make coming here no escape. I trust your judgment and know you listen to your constituents. I am no opponent of progress. I am a vehement opponent of stupidity." -- From a letter to Congressman Bartlett written by Jack DuBose of Grantsville, an instructor at Garrett Community College (GCC).

Congressman Bartlett's office, as well as the offices of Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes, each of which have made statements in the past in favor of "Continental One," a proposed project which would put a new interstate highway system through Garrett County, may be opening a great deal of mail on the subject in the next few weeks, if the latest meeting of Garrett County/Conservative Action for a Rural Environment (G.C./CARE) is any indication of public sentiment in Garrett County.

G.C./CARE held a publicly announced meeting at GCC this past Wednesday night to mobilize into action to fight the proposed interstate highway project in Garrett County. The turnout at the meeting increased more than threefold from the grassroots citizen group's last meeting of two weeks ago. Nearly 70 people filled the college lecture hall, and the numbers were made greater by the group of listeners standing in the hallway outside the packed room's open door.

The meeting began with a call for volunteers to staff various committees, and much of the group appeared ready to participate. "There is no such thing as a 'private citizen' in a matter like this," one participant said later. "This issue affects the entire

Grant Given For Expansion Of SG Industrial Park

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has announced the awarding of a $584,000 grant to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to provide for the expansion of the Southern Garrett Industrial Park. Elected officials of the state, including Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski, all announced the grant award on Tuesday.

The industrial park, which is located about five miles east of Oakland along Rt. 135, presently occupies 90 acres. The proposed expansion area is adjacent to the park's eastern property boundary and will provide an additional 54 acres for industrial development, according to reports. These funds will be used for the extension of water and sewer lines, provision of electric, telephone, and fiber optic lines, stormwater drainage, street lighting, and land acquisition. The expanded park, when complete, will be ready to accommodate an estimated 350 new workers in various industrial occupations.

While the elected officials used the 350 figure prominently in their press releases, local officials have noted that there are no imminent prospects to fill the expanded facilities. However, the expansion will most likely make the area more inviting to prospective occupants.

"This is a major boost for the growth of the Industrial Park, and for economic development in Garrett County," said Mikulski. "It means jobs now while the park is being built, and it means jobs for the future when the park is open for business."

According to the press release from the senators, the federal Economic Development Administration will provide a $1,000,000 grant, and $485,000 will be contributed locally for a total of $2,069,000.

"This is a project that has been on the books for probably 10 to 12 years," said James Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Of-

BOE To Deed Vacant Schools To County

After considering alternative options, the Garrett County Board of Education agreed to transfer ownership of two elementary schools to the county government.

Michael Sines, director of building maintenance for the school system, reported to those present of considerations of possible uses for the buildings at Loch Lynn and Red House, once they are vacated by students transferring to the new Yough Glades Elementary School.

Ideas and comments were solicited from several sources during this consideration process, he explained. "We explored the idea of moving Swan Meadow to Redhouse," he said. That concept along with others was discarded as not feasible. "We can find no identifiable use for Redhouse," he stated.

Conferring on possible uses for the Loch Lynn facility, Sines also said the group had arrived at no alternative use. "The consensus is that Loch Lynn school is a liability," he stated.

Concerning this building, Sines cited the need to

Glotfelty Extends Thanks To Public For Care, Concern

Commissioner Roger Glotfelty made a public statement this week at the Garrett County Courthouse, thanking the people of Garrett County for support given to him during his recent bout with leukemia.

"I am continuing to be monitored by physicians at the West Virginia University hospitals in Morgantown, W.Va., and I have also been examined by cancer specialists at Johns Hopkins Hospital for their opinions," Glotfelty said.

He explained that a bone marrow transplant was one option, but would require approximately six months of recovery and offers only about a 20% chance of putting his system into remission from the illness. The commissioner stated that he has decided to "opt out of that," and has also chosen not to undergo any more chemotherapy, which offered even less than a 20% chance of helping him to achieve remission.

"At this time, no one but God knows what time will determine for me. I plan to continue to devote myself to my family and dedicate as much time as required to my elected position as

READY TO RIDE across Maryland, a distance of approximately 300 miles, were these nine bikers, who departed Garrett County from the Maryland Salem Children's Trust home near Finzel on Monday and are expected to arrive in Ocean City this Friday. The annual effort raises money for several non-profit children's homes throughout the state, including Salem, for which Garrett County resident Tom Ruckert is riding. Pictured from left are: Chris Kelly, riding for Associated Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Washington, D.C.; Tom Badley, riding for Cedar Ridge; Tom Ruckert; Brad Wassermen, riding for Baptist Home for Children and Families; Ellen Savoy and Bruce Anderson, riding for San Mar Children's Home; Tim Snyder and Wes Stein, riding on behalf of New Dominion; and Lenny Daulbaugh, also riding for Cedar Ridge. The goal of the project, called OutSpokin' for Kids, for the Salem Home this year is $15,000, and persons may send contributions to the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Inc., at 905 Salem Drive, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Local Woman Killed As Truck Strikes Tree

Bermetta May Murphy, 84, Swanton, was killed Thursday when the vehicle in which she was a passenger traveled off Dry Run Road and struck a tree.

The driver of the 1984 Ford Ranger pick-up truck, Catherine V. Green, 57, Swanton, was taken by helicopter to Cumberland Memorial Hospital and then to University of Maryland, Shock Trauma Unit, Baltimore, where she was reported in serious but stable condition.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that the seatbelts in the truck had been tampered with prior to the accident and were unusable.

Mrs. Murphy was born Nov. 25, 1912, in Addison, Pa., the daughter of the late Jasper and Emma (Durst) Hileman. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Allen S. Murphy, on Dec. 27, 1990.

Survivors include one son, Ronald S. Murphy, Swanton; and one brother, Ervin Hileman, Australia.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville. A service was conducted at the Dry Run Mennonite Church on Saturday, Sept. 6, with the Rev. Sanford Bender and the Rev. Owen Preston officiating. Interment was in the Murphy Cemetery.

Test Results In Garrett County Students Pass National Average In All Areas

Garrett County students scored above the national average in Comprehensive Testing of Basic Skills (CTBS/5) administered in March.

The results of scores were presented to the Garrett County Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday evening by Dr. Patricia Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation, and information.

Mullinix projected bar graphs onto a screen to depict the levels of ability demonstrated by the students of grades 2, 4, 6, and 11, who were tested last March.

Of the approximately 330 students tested, all exceeded the national norm. "Results in every grade for every test area were above the expected 50th percentile level," she reported.

The Garrett County students who scored low on the tests showed positive results in national comparisons. "Many of the students whose achievement is in the lowest 25% locally are functioning at an average level when compared to the achievement of students nationally," she said.

In another form of data interpretation, Mullinix provided grade level equivalents represented by the test scores. "The grade 11 scores hit the ceiling," she said, in describing the grade level equivalents earned by those students.

The data on the 11th graders runs to the top of the graph for grade levels. This indicates that in all test areas, these students achieved a 12.9, or last month of 12th grade education level.

The other grade equivalents, though less dramatic, are also above actual grade level in all test areas.

Grade 6 scores in all areas are 7.0 or over. They range up to 7.9 (end of grade 7) Scores in grade 4 are all the equivalent to grades 5 through 7, depending on subject area. Scores achieved by grade 2 students equate to grade levels from 2.8 through 3.7.

Mullinix stated with a smile that she was pleased to be starting out a new job giving a report on such excellent test results.

FEMA To Fund Major Part Of Friendsville Flood Control Project

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has approved funds for a flood protection project in Friendsville.

Flooding by the Youghiogheny River and Bear Creek, resulting from heavy rains and snow melt, have damaged the town's water and sewer systems, the elementary school, and private properties several times in past years.

Over the last several years, town officials, including Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, have worked to achieve relief in this situation. "Two years ago we met with Sen. Hafer, George Edwards, and the Corps of Engineers to try to get help with this," Sara Sines, town clerk explained.

Historically the area has been subject to flooding. The severe impact of the 1996 floods did bring the prospect of relief through FEMA.

Since the town applied for this help, Sines said, the operation of and reponsibility for the water treatment plant transferred from the town to the Garrett County Sanitary District.

Wendell Beitzel, who is administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, explained the chief problem that results from plant flooding is the damage done to equipment in the building. "The sump pumps in the facility can't handle the flooding," he said.

The motors in the equipment used to produce clean drinking water are ruined in flood conditions. They need to be repaired or replaced after the waters recede, Beitzel stated.

In previous floods, members of the Friendsville VFD and all available town residents would join forces to sandbag the treatment plant. This flood control project should eliminate the need to do this, he added.

"These federal funds will help reduce the threat of flood damage to public and private properties in Friendsville as well as help ensure the integrity of the town's water supply," Sen. Paul Sarbanes said recently.

The funds approved will be used to build a flood control wall. The estimated cost of the project is $31,250. Federal funding will supply $23,437.

Sanders Sheriff After Resignation, Sentence Of Sines

Paul Richard (Dick) Sanders is the acting sheriff of Garrett County, per law, after Randy Sines resigned this past Thursday from the office he had held for nearly three years. "It's time to move on and put this matter behind us," Sanders said. "The actions of one individual are in no way a reflection on the personnel of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office as a whole."

The day after his resignation, Sines appeared in Garrett County Circuit Court and was handed a three-year suspended sentence, fined $2,500, and ordered to pay at least $4,463 in restitution to the county after pleading guilty to a charge of misconduct in office.

The charge against Sines stemmed from a series of unauthorized credit card purchases, beginning in April 1995 by Sines on two credit cards issued to him by the county. The bank statements associated with those credit cards, which had been were earmarked for official expenses, outlined a number of purchases which appeared to have been related to personal, rather than official, expenses.

Included in the agreed statements of facts reached between Sines and the State Prosecutor's Office, and signed by both parties, credit card statements included charges made at hotels and restaurants, such as the Hard Rock Cafe in San Antonio, Tex., and Planet Hollywood in Myrtle Beach, S.C. A number of charges for personal articles of clothing and equipment appeared in the statement as well.

In sentencing Sines, Washington County Administrative Judge Fred C. Wright commented, "I don't mean to lecture Mr. Sines from the bench, but he is a public servant and has the public's trust. As the chief law enforcement officer of a county, I would say that the sheriff is the second most important person in local law enforcement after the judiciary."

Acting sheriff Sanders echoed Wright's sentiments.

Oakland Police Intervene In Assault Cases

Oakland police intervened to two separate cases of assault on Saturday.

When responding to a disturbance at 6:30 p.m., the officer learned that David Troshak had struck the victim twice, the police reported stated.

Troshak was arrested for domestic assault, charged with second degree assault, and taken to the Garrett County Jail. He was later released on his own recognizance.

A complaint of a disturbance was received by Oakland police at 9:10 p.m. that same evening.

An investigation at the scene of the disturbance revealed that Brenda Bittinger had struck several family members, police reported.

Bittinger was later served with two criminal summonses charging her with second degree assault.

THEFT

A theft of services and property from the Town Motel, Oakland, Aug. 29, resulted in an arrest last week.

Oakland police reported that an investigation revealed that two-days' lodging, phone calls, and linens had been stolen from the motel.

On the strength of an arrest warrant, Lawrence McGovern was arrested and charged with misdemeanor theft, the police said.

He was later released on his own recognizance.

DWI

Oakland police reported the arrest of John Brodbeck, Aug. 20, for driving while intoxicated.

ATTENTION SOUGHT FOR MARYLAND'S HIGH POINT - The highest geological point in Maryland is located in Garrett County and a couple from Silver Spring has been working hard to bring some attention to that fact. Gene and Lillian Elliot, both members of the national Highpointers Club, a group whose members attempt to reach the high point of each state, have been working on the state to recognize the site. Several states have monuments, permanent markers, and clear signage at their highest summits, but the Maryland spot, located approximately five miles southwest of Red House along Rt. 219, has been virtually ignored by the state. The Elliots have taken it upon themselves to clear a pathway to the summit, affix signs (many of which have been stolen), and set up a mailbox containing achievement certificates for all who make it to the top. Last week they met with the Garrett County Commissioners to ask for help in maintaining the area and to explore the possibility of signs being placed along the roadway and perhaps a monument at the base of the site. They would like to see a volunteer organization, possibly named "Friends of Backbone," which would tend to the grounds a few times each year. Also meeting with the local officials were two men from the West Virginia Department of Transportation, who are willing to discuss signage along the portion of Rt. 219 that is in their state. See feature story in next week's issue of The Republican. Pictured left to right are Don Hall and Phil Loah, both WVDT representatives; the Elliots; and Commissioners Wayne Wilt, Gary Fratz, and Roger Glotfelty.

Annual Autumn Glory Festival Kick-Off Event Slated Oct. 9

The traditional kick-off reception for the 30th Annual Autumn Glory Festival will be held at the McHenry House at Wisp Resort on Wednesday, Oct. 8, beginning at 8 p.m.

This year, once again, a special Honorary Golden Ambassador will be honored during the reception and Autumn Glory Queen Chelsea Frickey will be crowned. Following the announcement of the Honorary Ambassador and crowning of the Festival Queen, there will be a live musical performance at approximately 9:15 p.m. For $150 per couple or $100 for a single ticket, supporters of the festival are designated as "Golden Ambassadors" and receive an honorary card offering the following benefits: admission to the Festival Kick-Off Cocktail Buffet Reception, Antique Show and Sale at the National Guard Armory, Sport Card, Comic Book & Memorabilia Show, Oakland fire hall, "Official" Maryland State Banjo Championship & Jay Armsworthy & Eastern Tradition Bluegrass Band concert, "Official" Maryland State Fiddle Championship, and Western Maryland Tournament of Bands; prize drawing during the reception for one set of 1998 Golden Ambassador tickets, reserved bleacher seating at the Grand Feature Parade, pins designating participants as 1997 Golden Ambassadors, priority purchase of 1998 Golden Ambassador tickets, and public recognition as a special patron sponsor of the Autumn Glory Festival.

The sale of tickets will be limited to 300 patrons and no guest tickets will be given. The public is invited, and those who wish to purchase a ticket are encouraged to respond as early as possible. The Grand Feature Parade is sponsored by First United National Bank & Trust, and the Official Maryland State Banjo & Fiddle Championships are sponsored by American Trust Bank and funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Kick-Off Reception tickets may be purchased by cash, check, or credit card from Festival Headquarters, Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550-1581, telephone 301-334-1948.

DNR Stresses 911 Is For Emergencies

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds citizens that the use of the 911 emergency telephone number is for life-threatening emergencies only. Recently, calls have been received through the 911 line from citizens wishing to report bear sightings or bears rummaging through their trash. These calls are a cause for concern on the part of emergency management officials, as true emergency calls cannot get through when 911 lines are otherwise occupied.

A DNR spokesperson stated, "Bear sightings or bears in trash are not considered an emergency. If people wish to report bear sightings, they should call DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division in Garrett County at 301-334-4255 during working hours, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday."

Van Collides With Truck; Four Injured

The driver and three passengers were injured Monday when their car ran into the back of a Garrett County Roads Department truck.

A report filed at Maryland Stated Police, Barrack W, McHenry, states that Linda G. Hartman, 53, Swanton, was southbound on Sand Flat Road about 5:30 p.m. when the incident occurred.

The county truck, driven by Thomas E. Holland, 37, Oakland, was also southbound on Sand Flat Road at that time, engaged in sweeping the roadway.

Hartman passed warning lights on the hill and approached a cloud of dust in the road. She turned on her headlight but was still unable to see, the report said. Hartman tried to stop her vehicle but ran into the brush and truck.

Southern Rescue Squad transported Hartman and three passengers to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Police charged Hartman in the accident.

Bloodmobile To Visit Friendsville

An American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the fire hall in Friendsville Friday, Sept. 19, from noon until 6 p.m.

The ARC says that during the summer months, blood of all types is needed because fewer people donate because of vacations and hot weather. Leslie Nicholson, of ARC Blood Services, said, "We have a real need for type O positive and all negative types. However, we urge people of all blood types and first time donors to participate on September 19. Blood is needed 365 days a year."

The goal of the Sept. 19 visit is to collect 40 units.

For more information, persons may call the Morgantown Red Cross Blood Center toll-free at 1-800-732-0383.

Convicted Burglar Sent To Prison For 18 Months .

An Oakland man accused of breaking into the Pleasant Valley home of Robert and Marjorie Gnegy will spend 18 months in prison. Dwight H. Clary, 19, was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last week by Judge James Sherbin.

Clary faced the charge of first degree burglary, to which he pleaded guilty at a June hearing. Sherbin sentenced him to three years in the Maryland Division of Corrections, and then suspended all but 18 months. Upon his release, Clary will be on supervised probation for two years, with conditions that include restitution to the Gnegys in the amount of $7,314.

Clary and Jeffrey R. Henderson apparently entered the home in January and removed cash and personal documents. Henderson is currently awaiting sentencing, slated for later this month, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County.

A third individual, Julie D. Loughrie, charged as an accessory after the fact for providing transportation to the two men, was to be tried Friday but the proceedings were continued.

Stanton Mill Bicentennial To Be Celebrated In Song And Story

The Spruce Forest Artisan Village and the Little Crossings community in Grantsville will celebrate the bicentennial of their mascot, Stanton's Mill, situated between the Old National Pike and the Casselman River. The program, set for Saturday, Sept. 13, at 2 p.m., will take place in front of the old mill, with spectators seated on a grassy area near by. Guests are asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets.

A cast of approximately 100 singers, narrators, and impersonators will present the pageant of Little Crossings, highlighting the drama of one of the earliest communities in Western Maryland. Singers from throughout the county as well as from Cumberland and Springs, Pa., are slated to combine their talents as the Bicentennial Choir and will sing in front of the mill under the direction of Garrett Choral Society director Nancy Learey.

Allen Emerick of the Cumberland Choral Society and the Frostburg State University music department will also share his talents and his singers. David Yoder, Morgantown, W.Va., will conduct four songs by the Mennonite singers of the Springs-Grantsville area. Bryon Miller will accompany the soloists and Larry Bender will coordinate the sound during the performance.

The Mennonite singers will represent the early German and Pennsylvania-German immigrants. Through solos, duets, and trios, the singers will depict the Swiss, English, and Scotch-Irish strands in the tapestry of the early settlers, an event spokesperson said.

The singing of "No Man is an Island" by the Bicentennial Choir will illustrate the spirit of togetherness that characterized the area's pioneer ancestors and helped them survive in the untamed wilderness, the spokesperson said.

The pageant will include impersonations of the miller and the innkeeper who served the community, the builder of the 1813 stone arch bridge, and the drover of the cattle on the old pike.

Stanton's Mill was built by Jesse Tomlinson in 1797 on what was then the only road through the Western Maryland wilderness. It was a hub for the pioneers, used as a place for voting, bartering, and news gathering, besides being a source of food for the residents and their animals.

The builders of America's first national road -- the National Pike -- had by 1813 reached Little Crossings and constructed the largest single span stone arch bridge in the country across the Casselman River. This gave new life to the community and the mill, the spokesperson said.

Five years later, the road was completed through Wheeling (then Virginia) and the pike became the busiest highway in Ameri ca. Inns and taverns were ra ip- idly built along the ros id, one of which was the Lit tle Crossings Inn, built in 18 18 by Jesse Tomlinson. Th ne building is now Penn Alps.

Although the mill w as built by Jesse Tomlinson o n land he purchased from th e Stanton family, it was re s turned to that family' y ownership in the earl y 1860s. It was operated b e the Stanton family for fiv e generations, over about 13( ) years. Robert Bender, the son of Mary Stanton Bender, was the last Stanton miller at Little Crossings, remaining there for a period of 25 years.

Parking for the event will be provided behind the Village Church. Traffic will be directed. In case of rain, the pageant will be presented at the Maranatha Assembly of God Church on Springs Road, approximately one mile from Penn Alps. There will be no admission charge to the show. A free will offering will be collected.

All pageant participants are reminded to attend the essential dress rehearsal at Maranatha on Friday, Sept. 12, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Oakland Couple Arrested For Drug Possession

An Oakland couple was arrested early this past Monday morning after a search by Garrett County sheriff's deputies acting on a tip from a citizen reportedly uncovered marijuana and drug paraphernalia during a search of their residence in the 5100 block of Gorman Road.

Jerry Lee Paugh, 34, and Katheryn Danielle Cline, 20, were each charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

After their arrest, each subject subsequently posted a $5,000 bond and was released from jail.

In other Garrett County Sheriff's Office news recently, an Oakland man is being held on a $5,000 bond after deputies arrested and charged him with malicious destruction of property this past Tuesday night.

Jeffrey Alan Koton, 19, was arrested after deputies were called to a residence in the 100 block of Tannery Road. Koton, who allegedly had been drinking, reportedly had destroyed some furniture at the home.

In other sheriff's reports, one-vehicle car accident arly Saturday morning on Youghiogheny Drive resulted in a citation being filed gainst Jack Kight Jr., 19, ltn. Lake Park.

TRAVEL REQUEST

Two teachers from Southern High School request approval to plan a trip for students.

Charles Harkins, Spanish teacher, and Diane Marks, biology teacher, proposed a trip to Costa Rica for 6-12 students for a combined study of the two subjects.

The teachers noted November as the time for the trip in order to reduce the number of class days that would be missed.

The board approved the plan.

PROGRAMS OF STUDIES

The mathematics program of studies and the science program of studies 6-8 were approved by the board members.

Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of curriculum development PreK-8, reviewed these teaching tools with the board members. She had presented these guides to members for review at last meeting.

These programs of study had each been available for public comment for one year.

The board also approved use of the textbook suggested by McCartney to supplement the science program.

02. The new highway bill proposed by Bud Shuster (R-PA) would extend the 1991 Intermodel Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) and allow for $103 billion of highway and transit spending over the next 3 years. This is in direct violation of the balanced budget agreement worked out by Congress and the President, in that it exceeds the spending limit by $17.3 billion.
03. ISTEA expires on Sept. 30, 1997. If a new Federal Highway Bill is not passed by Congress, CONTINENTAL ONE will not get the funding it needs to be built.
04. CONTINENTAL ONE is one of three NAFTA trade corridors supported by Representative Shuster, and one of seven proposed for the whole country of the United States.
05. Since the adoption of NAFTA, many U.S. jobs and resources have been siphoned off to cheaper labor markets outside our borders.

TO EXPRESS YOUR STAND ON THIS ISSUE of whether or not to build this multi-lane highway through Garrett Co., please take any combination of the following steps:

a. Write a letter to the editor
b. Come to a G.C./C.A.R.E. meeting
c. Sign one of the petitions opposing CONTINENTAL ONE
d. Write to your commissioners, governor, & representatives in Congress. Briefly tell them where you stand and why before SEPT. 30. (See Addresses Below)

Restore This Grant...

There are many reasons that families are on the welfare rolls in this country, and one of them has to do with having pre-school children who need day care so the parents can go to work. Parents who have two or more pre-schoolers and only minimum wage jobs simply cannot afford day care.

A nighly successful program in Garrett County, operated by the GC Community Action agency for the past three years and subsidized via a community block grant from the Maryland Department of Human Resources, has been an affordable day care center for such families. This center has served approximately 60 families, many of whom had previously been on welfare. These parents have become productive members of the local workforce because of this program.

It was learned this week, however, that the MDHR has not funded the approximately $40,000 grant for the coming year, and unless the powers-that-be of that department change their minds, the program will cease to exist within the next few months. We are outraged by this decision, for its sheer stupidity in terms of the financial angle, and for the fact that it is a major slap in the face of those parents who have been willing to work for a living, but may now have to return to the welfare rolls.

From the financial angle, it would cost taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in welfare to these families, and there is no return in the form of work productivity. The math is exceedingly simple: hundreds of thousands vs. $40,000, a mere drop in the bucket for the state of Maryland; a state whose governor, like our president, has made a worthy commitment to try to enable citizens to get off welfare and enter the workforce.

Securing and maintaining a job also has much to do with one's self esteem, and heaven knows, a large segment of our population suffers from low self esteem. Among the worst results of not having a job, or worse vet, losing one's job, are alcoholism, spousal and child abuse, and suicide.

The state awarded the Cumberland YMCA $136,000 to initiate its day care program. Surely, surely the state can find an additional $40,000 to keep Garrett County's program functioning. (They are willing to commit $80,000,000 toward the interstate highway project through Garrett County.)

We know that our county commissioners are writing a letter of protest to the MDHR. We hope they also get on the telephone to the governor's office (don't bother with the MDHR) and use whatever words are necessary to get this funding restored.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am increasingly impressed by your editorials! Keep up the good work! I applaud the CARE group and I wish them success. I would have loved to attend the public meeting the 10th at 7 p.m, but it coincides in adjacent rooms, with our regular monthly meeting of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill and my first allegiance is to the AMI.

I want to especially thank Ronald Fike, who was so very kind to assist me last Friday morning when I had a flat tire on the remote detour Friendsville-Bear Creek-Accident Road, a mile from any residential area. He was indeed a "Godsend" to me! A very gracious, compassionate man. Thank you immensely, Ronald Fike.

For all the cars who passed me and my white flags, I feel sorry for you and your lack of caring for a woman in distress. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

We feel the people of Garrett County owe a big thanks to all the people involved in the conviction of our sheriff. Although we don't feel the punishment was severe enough for the amount of taxpayers' money that he misused, we are pleased with Isabel Cumming (from the state prosecutor's office) and Judge Wright's conviction. We understand there may be more charges and he is on supervised probation for 3 years. As the judge stated, the sheriff is supposed to be the most trusted, most looked up to, elected individual in the county.

Good luck to Mr. Sanders or whoever takes over this position in regaining the trust and confidence of the people again.

We feel sorry for ex-sheriff Sines' family, and hopefully they can work things out. A word to Anita Coddington in reference to her letter to the editor May 1, 1997, where she called Mark Proulx an instigator and told him of wrongfully accusing people and where it got him. Anita, take another look and see who was wrong and where it got your brother, the ex-sheriff. We hope you can make amends since Mark is part of your family, too.

Thank you, Mark Proulx!

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Murphy
Mtn. Lake Park, Md.

P.S. People should remember the old saying when you do wrong to people, "what goes around comes around."

To the Editor:

I have the feeling that some of the people of Garrett County have the idea that the proposed Interstate 219 is going to be just a road improvement, a four-lane highway.

The truth of the matter is that it isn't. It will be like running a wall down through the county. Take a good look at I-68. For four lanes of traffic it averages eight lanes wide, with two lane-sized shoulders, four traffic lanes, and a median at least two lanes wide. Folks, that's a lot of real estate per mile.

You cannot cross it. If you have business or just want to visit friends on the other side, you will have to go to the nearest clover leaf or underpass, which might be 10 miles or more just to get to the other side.

I'll not go into all the negative things that go along with an interstate or international trade route; others have done a good job of describing the fumes and noise of thousands of overland trucks and cars, plus all the other so-called "benefits" of an international trade corridor.

The whole concept of running an interstate right down the ridge of the Alleghenies, through some of the worst weather conditions in the east, seems rather ludicrous.

Contact CARE, P.O. Box 780, Grantsville, MD 21536, and make your protest known.

Charles P. Evans

To the Editor:

September 12 - Defenders' Day was a very important day for the state of Maryland, especially the city of Baltimore, during the War of 1812.

James Madison was president during that war. The British had already burned the White house and the Capital was lost. Baltimore was their next target.

On Sept. 12-13-14, 1814, the british troops landed at North Point and part of their fleet sailed up the Patapsco River to bombard Fort McHenry and capture Baltimore.

Major General Samuel Smith was commander-in-chief of Maryland's defense forces during the war.

Major George Armistead was commandant of Fort McHenry and had Commodore Joshua Barney and Brigadier General John Stricker order the "largest battle flag" (15 stripes and 15 stars - two more states had been admitted into the Union, adding to the original 13.) They went to the home of Mary Pickersgill, in 1813, since she was a maker of flags, as was her mother, Rebecca Young, who had made the Grand Union Flag in Philadelphia for General Washington. Mary, her mother, and her own daughter, Caroline, with two nieces, made the huge 30x42 ft. flag, at a cost of $405.90. They lived at 60 Albemarle St., later changed to 844 E. Pratt St., which is now The Star Spangled Banner Flag House, a national shrine. The original flag is on display at the Smithsonian.

Francis Scott Key was born in Carroll County in 1779. He was a lawyer and poet and practiced in Baltimore, Washington, and Frederick. He died in 1843 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Howard. A church is presently at the site on Mt. Vernon Place in Baltimore. He is buried in Frederick.

As a lawyer, he had gone to seek release of his friend, Dr. Wm. Beane, held a prisoner by the British. He was not allowed to return on the 13th, 1814, as the bombardment of Fort McHenry had already started. It was not until "the dawn's early light" on the 14th that he saw that "our flag was still there." As a poet, it inspired him to write the words of The Star Spangled Banner.

He was about 35 when he wrote his poem, later set to music and first performed at the Holliday St. Theater in Baltimore on Oct. 18, 1814. It was not until March 3, 1931, through the efforts of two Maryland Congressman, that it was officially declared our National Anthem.

This Friday, Sept. 12, from 9 to 10 p.m., with a repeat on Wednesday, Sept. 17, 10 to 11 p.m., Maryland Public TV will present a special called "The Lives That Shaped A City." Baltimore got its start in 1729 and was incorporated in 1797. The documentary tells the story of extraordinary individuals.

On Saturday, Sept. 13th, the actors will portray Mr. and Mrs. Francis Scott Key at a tea at the Flag House, from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

The Flag House and Fort McHenry welcomes visitors.

Life Member and Former Secretary at The Flag House

To the Editor:

I realize that I am about to make myself vulnerable to more than a few jokes, and at the risk of sounding sanctimonious. But I stand by my convictions.

Unquestionably, there is growing enmity between those who support and those who oppose the international trade corridor expressway, Continental One, in Garrett County.

I am calling upon every minister and every church who is interested in the county's welfare; for that matter, anyone who believes in praying, to do just that: Pray for the ultimate good of Garrett County as it relates to this issue. Frank-

Proposed Rte. 219 Expansion: A View from Washington

The proposed Route 219 expansion through Garrett County, with its price tag of at least $300 million, should raise a few eyebrows here in Washington D.C. As an isolated project, this proposal is clearly a waste of precious taxpayer funds. As a segment in the larger $6 billion Continental One Trade Corridor, the idea is downright preposterous.

Every year, Taxpayers for Common Sense, a national budget-watchdog organization, along with Friends of the Earth, compiles the Road to Ruin report. Road to Ruin lists the most wasteful and destructive proposed highways in the country. This year we included 37 proposals in 22 states, illustrating that pork barrel road schemes do not respect geography any more than they respect local communities or the taxpayers forced to pay for them.

In addition to wasting taxpayer dollars and harming the environment, a common theme in the report is that all of these projects face significant and organized local opposition, just like the grassroots fight that has been launched against Route 219.

In reading the flood of letters submitted to The Republican in recent weeks, it is clear that the citizens of Garrett County have seen through the smoke screen of the highway proponents. A new interstate will not guarantee the benefits promised by supporters and will exact a tremendous cost on the treasury. Garrett County residents will ultimately be taxed three times by Route 219 expansion, as county, state and federal dollars will be required to underwrite the high cost of the project.

The experience of other communities fighting similar highways is instructive. In neighboring West Virginia, a 1995 economic analysis of the proposed Corridor H highway concludes that project proponents fail "to establish that the [highway] will be an effective employment generator."

In Indiana, where a rural highway (considered a portion of a "Mid Continent" trade corridor) threatens family farms and small communities, a cost/benefit study resulted in a potential loss of $115 million. The study included such variables as tourism, transportation efficiency, safety, and business attraction.

These local examples are echoed by findings in the economic literature. A 1990 paper titled "New Highways as Economic Development Tools," authored by the West Virginia Regional Research Institute, stated that "the main beneficiaries of the interstate system in terms of economic growth have not been isolated rural regions" such as Garrett County.

This fall, Congress will debate reauthorization of important federal transportation policy. It is unclear whether the highway lobby has been successful in requesting a special earmark for Route 219, but one thing is perfectly clear: as Congress and the Administration grapple for ways to balance the budget, pork-barrel projects like Route 219 should be the first items on the chopping block. The citizens of Garrett County, and the nation, deserve better than to see their hard-earned dollars wasted on this obvious "Road to Ruin."

TO EVERYTHING THERE IS A SEASON

By Peggy Santamaria

It was not with feelings of tragic sadness that I heard of the death of Mother Theresa. It was with the sadness of enormous loss. At 87 years old, this small Indian woman had lived fully and with a dynamic strength.

She spent decades in doing the work she had chosen. She gathered hundreds of followers and prepared them to continue her labor among the impoverished. So my sorrow was not because the death of Mother Theresa was untimely or because her work was unfinished.

In a world wearied by political posturing, self-serving agendas, and broken promises Mother Theresa delivered the goods. Plunging in amid the devastating results of humankind's will to power, she tended sick and broken bodies. She didn't ask anyone's political or spiritual affiliations, she asked only the nature of the need.

As the pastor of our little chapel community reminded us recently, "It's not enough to talk the talk, folks, we've got to walk the walk." Mother Theresa did. She lived and acted on her belief that we are responsible, each for the other.

It isn't the people of every generation or even every century who pass their time on earth with a person of such heroic proportion. Many of us have seen the film footage of Mother Theresa walking onto the floor of the United Nations General Assembly to thundering applause as all those present spontaneously arose in respect, if not love, for this woman.

Going about her daily work, Mother Theresa bore the standard for all who work for peace and the alleviation of suffering. I am very thankful to have been able to watch this remarkable woman, even if from a great distance. I mark her passing with silent resignation and, also, with the realization that such a person may not walk among us again in my lifetime.

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

SCHOOL IS NOW IN SESSION

There are two conditions of life: life oriented to the school calendar and life not oriented to the school calendar. I have lived in both conditions, and have been surprised how different are the rhythms of the two.

When I was born (in 1955), society had not yet taken years of infancy. For my first six years there was life without school (I was the eldest), followed by 20 years in school. Then for a decade I lived as an adult who was not oriented to the school calendar.

During those non-school years I could take vacations whenever I wanted. I usually chose the early autumn when the weather is still beautiful and the prices are lower because everybody is staying at home.

Then in 1992 I married a woman who not only had three school-age children, but who was herself a teacher. After five years together the school calendar begins to feel again like a permanent fixture.

Everything is planned around not only the basic school schedule, but all the other activities and meetings pertaining to school. We attended our first girls' junior varsity soccer game last Friday night. It started at 5:15 p.m., which is great for parents who need to get home from work in order to watch their daughters.

Along with that convenience was the inconvenience of having to figure out supper 24 hours in advance. To eat anything more than a sandwich or leftovers meant that food preparation had to be done in such a way that supper awaited our arrival home.

My wife made good use of the Crockpot. For my part, I left the house for the game with a pot of potatoes and a steamer of green beans sitting on the stove, ready to be turned on the moment of our arrival after the game. As any school family knows, such planning and preparation is standard operating procedure during the school year.

The tensions and challenges of school's start this year were exacerbated by the fact that all three of our children were attending new schools. There were new schedules involved, new physical environments, and new sets of teachers and fellow students.

There are substantial differences between being one of the people going to school and having much of one's schedule determined by family members going to school. After a summer of constant hustle-bustle, there is an almost eerie calm at 6:45 a.m. when everyone (except for me) has headed out the door.

Though my own student days are now far behind me, once in a great while I still have an anxiety dream left over from long ago. In the dream I am at school, but don't have any clothes on, or I am giving a speech to the class, and can't think of anything to say.

I also have similar dreams about preaching, but then being a pastor is my current life. Isn't it strange how the memory of apprehensions experienced at school linger more than 15 years since the last occasion I had to make a class on time?

Between 6:45 a.m. and 3:10 p.m. I see what I can get done: farmwork, housework, community work, writing and, of course, pastoral work. If I yanked the telephone off the wall I would get even more work done, but that is another story.

The first week that everybody went back to school was an emotional time for me, too. The kids are big enough not to need (or want) me to walk up the lane with them. They become more independent, which is healthy and right, but a little sad nonetheless.

School is in session again. The lives of my family and of countless others are played out according to the metronome of bus schedules, of school bells and buzzers. While my wife and children move through the whirlwind of the day, I have a little time for a reverie.

Miss Ford To Wed Mr. Martin

Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne E. Lewis of Swanton announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Rhonda Rebecca Ford to James David Martin II of Aurora, W.Va, son of James David Martin I, Aurora, and Sue Ann Rohrbaugh, Terra Alta, W.Va.

The marriage will take place at Aurora United Methodist Church on Saturday, Sept. 20, at 2 p.m. Reverend Joseph Robinette will perform the ceremony. All friends and family are invited.

Miss Bittinger To Wed Mr. Wright

Willard and Lois Bittinger of Grantsville announce the engagement of their daughter Elonda Bittinger to Kevin Wright of Frostburg.

Miss Bittinger is a 1991 graduate of Northern Garrett High School and a 1995 graduate of Alderson-Broadus, Philippi, W.Va. She is employed as a registered nurse at Moran Manor Nursing Home, Westernport, and Hospice of Garrett County.

Mr. Wright is the son of Marlene Broadwater, Mt. Savage, and Edward Wright, Frostburg. He is a 1989 graduate of Beall High School. He served in the U.S. Army for three years and is currently employed by Stein Bros. Construction, Grantsville. He is also employed by Joe and Nick Pace of Maryland.

A candlelight wedding will take place on October 4, 5:30 p.m., at Meyersdale Church of the Brethren. The reception at the Salisbury fire hall will follow the ceremony. Although some invitations have been sent, all friends are welcome.

Mt. Top Assembly Notes Pastor's 40th Anniversary

The 40th wedding anniversary of Reverend Gail and his wife Irene Hixon will be marked at the Mt. Top Christian Assembly of God church on Sunday, Sept. 14, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Pastor Hixon, who has ministered in Garrett County for the past 35 years, will receive family and friends in an informal fashion at the church located on Route 135 east of Oakland. For more information, interested persons may call 301-387-8292 or 301-334-8422.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN

A meeting of the mayor and town council was held Monday, Sept. 8.

- Linda Meara of the Municipal League in Annapolis addressed those present on the purposes of the league and the benefits to participants.
- Bids for street repairs have come in and road paving will begin shortly.
- Reports were given on the extensive work done and progress made on the installation of the new sewer system. Taps are currently being installed.
- The town picnic for Loch Lynn residents will be held Saturday, Sept. 20. Games and entertainment have been planned.
- Applications are being accepted for the office of mayor and council members. The terms of the mayor and two council members are due to expire. Applications must be received by Sept. 29. If a sufficient number of applications are received, a primary election will be scheduled.
- The O'Donnell property has been purchased and work is underway for construction of the town recreation area.
- There was discussion of the dangerous intersections on Route 560 and possible measures that could reduce risk to drivers.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 6.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The meeting of the mayor and council was held on Tuesday, Sept. 9.

- Lt. Pratt, who has provided patrol service to the town, announced that he will no longer perform that duty. He introduced Deputy Tom Smith, who will assume the duty to patrol and report to the town.
- Complaints were submitted about young people skateboarding in the road on Oakland Drive.
- Since the town will no longer burn brush, there was discussion of renting a chipper to be used for brush disposal.
- Inspections of the sewer lines have been scheduled.
- An application was approved for a building permit to construct a motel on Route 135. The application was submitted by former town residents Richard and Rebecca Williams.
- The purchase of some new equipment for the town was approved.

OAKLAND

The Oakland town meeting was held Monday, Sept. 8.

- The public hearing on use of "jake brakes" resulted in approval of recision of the old ordinance and adoption of a new town ordinance.
- Various outdated ordinances were introduced to be considered for recision. The ordinances have either been replaced by state law, have been found to unenforceable, or are no longer applicable.
- The mayor and council members met with the board of the Oakland Country Club to discuss the club making improvements to its irrigation system. The land is rented from the town.
- A community development block grant was signed making the money available to begin rehabilitation of Highview Apartments.
- The last fall foliage train from Cumberland is scheduled to arrive Oct. 4.
- The prototype arts pavilion project will open an additional section this weekend. Crafts people will be demonstrating the skills. There is no admission fee.
- S.O.S. (Save Oakland Station) will begin Oct. 4 to offer commemorative Christmas ornaments for sale. These were designed by Laura Stutzman to be sold to raise funds to help purchase the station.
- A new water line is being installed on Bradley Lane.
- Broadford Park will remain open through Autumn Glory.

Garrett County School Enrollment To Decline By '06

Garrett County's public school population is one of eight of the 24 state school jurisdictions, that is projected to decline by 2006.

The public school enrollments forecast was released recently by the Maryland Office of Planning. The statewide population is projected to peak by 2006.

When the data in the report is broken down by jurisdiction, Garrett is shown to peak in 1998, with an enrollment of 5050, and decline over ensuing years to 4990 by 2006.

Elementary school enrollment across the state is calculated to grow slowly in the 1990s and decline slightly in the first decade of the century. This is associated with the projected reduction in birth rates.

Secondary school enrollment statewide shows an upward trend. "Throughout the remainder of the 1990s and during the next decade, public secondary enrollment will increase significantly in most jurisdictions," the report states.

Garrett County, however, is listed as one of the jurisdictions that does not fit this profile. "Only four jurisdictions, Baltimore City, Allegany, Garrett, and Somerset counties, are not expected to experience an increase in secondary enrollment from 1996 to 2006," it reports.

Details and further information on the school enrollment projections are available. Persons may contact Mike Lettré at 410-767-4450.

the past month have had an effect on the office and on the citizens of the county. It is my strong desire to move forward and respond to the needs of our citizens in every way possible. Our office is staffed by well-qualified personnel who are willing and more than able to serve the citizens of Garrett County in an efficient and professional manner."

The 58-year-old Oakland resident has an extensive background in law enforcement in Garrett County. A retired 23-year veteran of the Maryland State Police (MSP), eventually retiring as a lieutenant, Sanders spent 10 years of his MSP career as an investigator for the Maryland Public Defender's Office in Oakland. He also owned and operated Sanders Security for a decade. Sanders joined the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in December of 1994, where he held the rank of major prior to becoming acting sheriff.

fice of Economic Development. "I'm really excited that we are finally getting it off the ground. This expansion is probably going to add about 23 building sites. When you're dealing with business prospects, everyone is in a hurry. We have to have something ready to go. So this expansion, combined with our now aggressive and proactive marketing, should bring positive results. It's very helpful to have the utilities and infrastructure in place. This expansion should accommodate our growth for the next 10 to 15 years."

RAYMOND G. GEORG

Raymond George Georg, 91, Accident, died Friday, Sept. 5, 1997, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born Dec. 20, 1905, at Accident, he was the son of the late John Edward and Anna Georg. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Margaret Anna (Richter) Georg, in 1968, and one son, Richard Georg, on Aug. 9.

He was a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident.

Survivors include three sons, Francis Georg, Arlington, Va., Edward Georg, Nokesville, Va., and Thomas Georg, Accident; one sister, Lillie Burkhart, Miami, Fla.; and two grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, McHenry. A service was conducted at the Zion Lutheran Church on Sunday, Sept. 7, with the Rev. Wilfred Karsten officiating. Interment followed in the Zion Church Cemetery.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to the Zion Lutheran Church or the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

BEULAH P. DEWITT

Beulah P. DeWitt, 81, Corinth, W.Va., died Saturday, Sept. 6, 1997, at her home.

Born Nov. 13, 1915, at Amboy, W.Va., she was the daughter of the late Charles G. and Emma M. (Stahl) Dawson. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Ivan A. "Ivy" DeWitt Sr., in 1987; one daughter, Ruby Ringer; and two sons, Charles DeWitt and Harry DeWitt.

She was a member of the Terra Alta (W.Va.) Church of the Nazarene, and was retired from Hopemont State Hospital.

Survivors include three sons, Ivy A. DeWitt Jr., Terra Alta, Larry DeWitt, Baltimore, and James DeWitt, Corinth; one daughter, Patricia Glotfelty, Baltimore; one brother, Chester Dawson, Oakland; 18 grandchildren; and 34 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Arthur H. Wright Funeral Home in Terra Alta, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Sept. 9, with the Rev. William E. Anderson officiating. Interment was in the Oak Grove Cemetery, near Terra Alta.

LESLIE J. QUIMBY

Leslie J. Quimby, 34, Palm Bay Fla., formerly of Oakland, died Aug. 31, 1997, in Grant, Fla., from injuries she sustained in an automobile accident.

Born Jan. 16, 1963, in Trenton, N.J., she was a daughter of Peter P. Quimby, St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

She had been employed in the deli department of Publix, Palm Bay, for the past month.

In addition to her father, she is survived by her husband, Christopher Medeiros; two brothers, Ralf Quimby and Jay Quimby, both of Palm Bay; and two sisters, Diane Quimby, Palm Bay, and Irene Bork, Stillwater, N.J.

Friends were received at the South Brevard Funeral Home, Melbourne, Fla., where a service was conducted Wednesday, Sept. 3.

SAMUEL L. BOWMAN

Samuel Lincoln Bowman, 81, Mtn. Lake Park, died today, Sept. 11, 1997, at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born Sept. 8, 1915, in McHenry, he was the son of the late Henry and May (Bowser) Bowman. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Ethel Marie (Nelson) Bowman, and one daughter, Margaret (Bowman) Friend.

Prior to his retirement, he owned and operated Deep Creek Disposal and Sam's Place.

Survivors include three sons, Gilbert H. Bowman, Samuel P. Bowman, and Marvin S. Bowman, all of Swanton; three sisters, June Edgar, McKeesport, Pa., Sara Lou Kilgore, Clyde, Ohio, and Mabel Sines, Crellin; nine grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Durst Funeral Home in Oakland from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 12. Funeral arrangements were incomplete at presstime.

RUTH A. LOWRY

Ruth Adelbert (Warner) Lowry, 88, Santa Clara, Calif., died Monday, Sept. 1, 1997, at her home.

She was born April 4, 1909, in Conemaugh Township, Pa., a daughter of the late George Holtsberry Warner and Maggie Ellen Campbell. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Arthur Lowry, and a son, William Lowry.

She and her husband were originally farmers in Shelocta, Pa. In 1946 they moved to Grantsville where they became owners of the National Hotel on Rt. 40. The Lowrys lived in Grantsville until they moved to California in 1961. She was employed for eight years by the Del Monte Corp., in California. During recent years, she served as a hospital volunteer at the Santa Clara Kaiser Permanente Hospital, where she volunteered 2,169 hours.

She was a lifelong Presbyterian, and had been a member of the Santa Clara First Presbyterian Church for more than 30 years.

Survivors include two daughters, Thelma Miller, Santa Clara, and Carol Jones, Austin, Texas; two sons, James Lowry, Santa Clara, and Robert Lowry, San Jose, Calif; one sister, Louise Bleakney, Elderton, Pa.; six grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Lima Family Santa Clara Mortuary, where a service was conducted Thursday, Sept. 4, with the Rev. Dr. Asa Collins, a former pastor of Mrs. Lowry's at Santa Clara First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in the Mission City Cemetery, Santa Clara.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the following organizations: Columbia Homecare and Hospice, 2025 Gateway Place, Suite 270, San Jose, CA 95110; Diabetes Society of Santa Clara Valley, 1165 Lincoln Ave., Suite 300, San Jose, CA 95125; or the American Cancer Society, Silicon Valley Central Coast Region, 1715 South Bascom Ave., Suite 100, Campbell, CA 95008.

SHIRLEY L. O'BRIEN

Shirley L. O'Brien, 61, Swanton, died Wednesday, Sept. 10, 1997, at Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Born June 28, 1936, in Vindex, she was a daughter of the late Robert and Maude (Rowan) Rohrbaugh. She was also preceded in death by two brothers, Oliver R. Rohrbaugh and Donald K. Rohrbaugh.

She was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain.

Survivors include her husband, Everett E. O'Brien; two daughters, Lisa Broadwater, Grantsville, and Sherry Martin, Wheatfield, Ind.; one son, Donald O'Brien, Swanton; three sisters, Jacqueline O'Brien, Rawlings, Mona Schultz, Loch Lynn, and Karen Strain, Hampton, Va.; three brothers, R. Leo Rohrbaugh, Valdosta, Ga., Glenn Rohrbaugh, Lovettsville, Va., and Richard Rohrbaugh, Hampton; and nine grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. on Friday. A service will be held at St. John's Lutheran Church, Meadow Mountain, on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Mark Klawonn and the Rev. Dave Childs officiating. Interment will be in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

Friends may call at the church one hour prior to the service.

MADELINE E. WILLIAMS

Madeline Elizabeth Williams, 66, Bayard, W.Va., died Wednesday, Sept. 3, 1997, at her home.

Born Oct. 4, 1930, in Kempton, she was a daughter of Daisy Mae Cogley, Oakland, and the late Walter Simmons. She was also preceded in death by her first husband, John T. Gordon, in 1968.

In addition to her mother, she is survived by her husband, Ralph Williams; one son, Thomas Gordon, Bayard; four daughters, Linda Bosley, Mt. Storm, W.Va., Debra Craver, Oakland, Melinda Williams, Bayard, and Belinda Williams, Deep Creek Lake; one stepson, Ralph Williams, Pennsylvania; two stepdaughters, Rosemary Ruoiz, Kileen, Texas, and Sharon Davy, Elmore, W.Va.; two brothers, Marshall Simmons and Walter Simmons; two sisters, Alice Chapman, Oakland, and Nancy Gordon, Front Royal, Va.; six grandchildren; five step-grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

At Mrs. Williams' request, her body has been cremated. A memorial service is planned at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, at 2 p.m. today, Sept. 11, with the Rev. Donald Matthews officiating.

"ARE YOU LOOKING FOR ME?" This sweet-faced pup was found this week along Mayhew Inn Road wearing no collar. She is an unknown breed and she insists on keeping her age a secret. Sandy in color, the dog is very friendly, her foster parents reported. For information about her, persons may call 301-334-2401 or 301-334-0588.

In Loving Memory of
who passed away on Sept. 14, 1988

In a lonely cemetery where the gentle breezes blow
There is a dear and precious one I loved and treasured so.
I think of him in silence and often say his name
But all that's left to answer me is a picture in a frame.
It broke my heart to lose him but he didn't go alone.
For a part of me went with him when God called him home.
God gave me strength and courage to bear the parting blow.
But what it meant to give him up no one will ever know.

Huskies Record Opening Win Over Spartans For New Coach

In his first game as head coach of the Northern High School football team, Phil Carr came out a winner, as his Huskies whipped the Spartans of Bishop Walsh, 30-20, Saturday afternoon in Cumberland. The Huskies rallied from a 6-0 deficit in the first quarter by putting 17 unanswered points on the board in the second stanza behind a 100-plus-yard rushing performance by Jimmy Green.

The Huskies traveled down off the mountain with only 20 players for the contest, while the Spartans, also suffering from low numbers this season, fielded 24 players.

The game began with a Northern miscue, as the Huskies fumbled on the opening kickoff and BW's Joe Cironi pounced on the loose ball at the Huskies' 27-yard line. Senior quarterback Brett Blanco capped the short, one-minute drive with an eight-yard carry for a touchdown. The kick for the extra point was no good.

Northern	0	17	7	6	-30
Bishop Walsh	6	0	0	14	-20

BW - Brett Blanco 8 run (kick failed)

No - Jimmy Green 27 run (Matt Houser kick)

No - Dennis Martinez 13 pass from Scott Sisler (Houser kick)

No - Houser 21-yard field goal

No - Jeremy Hoover 4 run (Houser kick)

BW - Jim Sechler 81 pass from Blanco (run failed)

No - Green 12 run (kick blocked)

BW - Sechler 26 pass from Blanco (Sechler pass from Blanco)

The Huskies quickly recovered and mounted their first scoring drive, which was concluded by Green on a 27-yard touchdown run. Matt Houser's successful kick for the conversion put the Huskies on top for good.

The next Northern score was set up by an interception by Joey Wilhelm deep inside Husky territory, and Wilhelm returned the ball 48 yards to the Spartan 38. A 13-yard pass several plays later from Scott Sisler to Dennis Martinez was good for a touchdown. Houser again booted the extra point to give the Huskies a 14-6 lead.

With just 39 seconds left in the first half, Houser tacked on three more points with a 21-yard field goal.

The Huskies took their biggest lead of the evening, 24-6, when Jeremy Hoover scored on a four-yard run in the third period and Houser kicked the extra point.

Bishop Walsh did not quit, however, and Blanco fired an 81-yard scoring strike to Jim Sechler with 10:23 remaining in the game. The run for the two-point conversion was stopped by the Husky defense.

Northern answered with a touchdown, this time on a 12-yard run by Green to conclude the Huskies' scoring, as Houser's kick for the conversion was blocked.

The Spartans recorded a final touchdown when Blanco hit Sechler again, this time with a 26-yard scoring pass, with just 38 seconds left in the game. The two also combined on a successful pass for the two-point conversion.

The Spartans finished with an edge in total offense with 222 yards, compared to 196 for the Huskies. The Northern defense against the rush gave up only 45 yards, while all but 32 yards of the Huskies' offensive output was on the ground, with Green getting most of it. Wilhelm also had some key runs for Northern and finished with 51 yards.

"I think the biggest key to winning the game was that we executed very well offensively," stated the new Husky coach. "It was the first time we had ever beaten Bishop Walsh on their field, so it felt pretty good," Carr said.

The first-ever win by Northern over BW was last year in overtime at the Cove.

"We did make some mistakes, which was expected in our first game," Carr said. "We had a couple of opportunities to really put the game away when we were inside their 30 twice in the third quarter and it was 24-6, but we were stopped twice on fourth down plays. Then when they turned around and scored, it woke us up."

Carr said he was pleased with the running of Green and Wilhelm, and on defense he noted the efforts of Gary O'Brien, Ryan Savage, and B.A. Sisler.

"We have had trouble in recent years being able to generate much offensively, so it was nice to be able to move the ball as well as we did and put a significant number of points on the board," Carr said.

"I was also pleased with how our kids didn't panic when we fumbled away the opening kickoff," he added.

The Huskies will no doubt face a tougher test this Friday evening in their home opener when they host Westmar, a team that lost to Williamsport last week, but is still looking to make a third straight trip to the Class A playoffs.

The Wildcats are led offensively by their senior quarterback, Joey Langham (6-4, 180) and senior running back/tight end Seth Glass (6-1, 195), who also excels on defense at linebacker. Another strong running back is senior fullback Ross Metts (5-11, 195).

"The size of their backs poses some real problems for us," stated Coach Carr. "They are all big and strong. Langham just loves to run the ball, but he throws very well, too.

"On the line, we match up pretty well, and we are fairly even in terms of quickness," he said, "so it will depend on how well we are able to handle their big backs."

Langham is also an outstanding punter, having been named to the All-State second team last season with a 43.3 yard average.

The Wildcats finished with an 8-2 record last year and lost to Elkton in the first round of the playoffs, 35-20. Coach Gary Marsh lost a dozen starters to graduation from that team, including the entire offensive line.

Carr said that Husky fans may see a few minor changes on the defense this week, but offensively he plans to stick to what worked last week, at least in the early part of the game. "We moved the ball well last week, so we will try to do the same things to move the ball this week," he said. "Our players believe in our offense right now."

He said that his team is generally healthy, with the only notable injury being a sprained ankle of Andy McKenzie, but McKenzie is still listed as "probable" for Friday night.

"The Westmar game has always been sort of a stepping stone for us, or at least a game that helps tell us just where we are and what kind of talent we have," Carr said, "and our kids really gained a lot of confidence in the BW game. We hope to keep building on that this week."

The kickoff at Husky stadium this Friday is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Husky Alumni Game Postponed

The Northern High School alumni football game, which was originally scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 27, has been postponed until Saturday, Oct. 18, according to Jason Rush, one of the organizers of the event.

Rush said that the postponement was necessary because the Northern High School marching band's annual field show tournament is slated for Sept. 27.

Former Northern players who wish to participate in the game should register by September 22. Those wishing to register and/or desiring more information may contact Rush at 301-387-2523.

'Husky Jayvees Blanked By FH

The junior varsity football team of Northern High School fell to 0-2 on the season this week by being blanked by visiting Fort Hill, 32-0, Monday evening.

Brian Cecil scored two rushing touchdowns for the Sentinels, on three- and 10-yard carries, Mike Thomas rushed for one on a seven-yard jaunt, Randy Welsh rushed five yards for a touchdown, and Dirk Bass scored on a 37-yard pass from Travis Holliday.

The Huskies will play again Monday at Westmar.

Husky Netters Open With Win Over Frankfort

Eighteen service points from Chelsea Frickey and 15 from Laurel Wolf led the Northern High School volleyball team to victory in the season opener last night against Frankfort. It was a three-game sweep for the local netters, with scores of 15-12, 15-4, and 15-3.

Wolf also logged six kills, as did Jane Williamson. The leading scorers for Frankfort were Marsha Kirk with five points and Andrea Flanigan and Chandra Dixon scoring four each. Terra Parsons charted eight kills and four blocks.

The Huskies also won the junior varsity match, with scores of 15-0, 10-15, and 15-5, with Melanie Harvey serving for 22 points. For Frankfort, Julie Inge garnered eight points and Sarah Ely had four.

The Huskies will host Allegany High School on Monday, Sept. 15.

Steelers Fall To Ridgeley In Youth Encounter

The Northern Steelers were blanked, 32-0, by visiting Ridgeley in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action on Saturday.

Dustin Bosley and Justin Jenkins each scored in the first quarter for the Ridgeley Rams, on respective runs of 11 and 20 yards. Jason Sidaway added a six-pointer on a six-yard run in the third quarter, and Richard Kimble recorded a 12-yard touchdown run, also in the third stanza. Jenkins successfully kicked all four point-afters.

Leading the Steelers' defensive effort were Travis Higgins and Jeremy Lahman, while Seth Weakley, Richard Kimble, and Trey Corwell paced the Rams' defense.

Two Types of Heart Medicines in the News

Medicines used to treat and/or prevent heart disease continue to dominate the news. Although heart disease declined 71 percent in the United States between 1958 and 1992, heart problems continue to be the leading cause of death. A recent report indicates that strokes and heart attacks claim the lives of some 450,000 Americans each year. One of the major risk factors is blood cholesterol levels that are too high. A recent issue of FDA Consumer reports that 35 percent of Americans need to lower their cholesterol. Another factor related to heart attack deaths is clogged artenes. Cholesterol lowering medicines and aspirin may help save lives.

Cholesterol lowering drugs include those that interfere with the production of LDL, one of the most dangerous types of cholesterol. Some drugs prevent the production of cholesterol. Others lower cholesterol levels by binding with bile acids. Earlier this year, a government panel recommended allowing aspirin manufacturers to label their products for the prevention of heart attack and stroke. One group of British researchers estimates that thousands who die each year from these conditions could be saved with aspirin therapy due to its blood thinning properties. Before starting daily aspirin, talk with your physician.

Rams Falter In Second Half, Lose To Keyser

The Rams of Southern High School had possession of the football for almost 20 of 24 minutes in the first half of their opener Friday night against visiting Keyser, but when the half ended, the score was knotted at 6-6. The frustration of that situation took its toll in the second half of the game, and the end result was a 26-22 loss, as the Golden Tornado put 20 points on the board in the fourth quarter.

Keyser's only drive of the first half was just after the opening kickoff, but after marching deep into Ram territory, the Southern defense held and took possession for the rest of the half. The Ram offense then went on an 83-yard, 16-play scoring drive that was capped by a four-yard touchdown run by senior quarterback Chad Warnick. The pass for the conversion was incomplete.

The Rams enjoyed that lead for only about 12 seconds on the game clock, as Aaron Dupont broke through the middle of the Southern defense on the ensuing kickoff and raced 73 yards for a touchdown. The conversion kick by Jason Riggleman was blocked.

Southern responded with another long drive, which covered 76 yards in 20 plays and ate up most of the clock in the second quarter, but the effort yielded no points, as Warnick was stopped on a fourth-and-one at the Keyser four-yard line with just 33 seconds left in the half.

The second half turned into a nightmare for Warnick and his offense, as Keyser's LaJavious Fagan, Rodney Twyman, Brian Wilt, and Thad Burner each picked off a Warnick pass, with Wilt's being returned 70 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter. Another Southern drive was stopped when the center accidently snapped the ball on a fourth-and-one when the intention was to not snap the ball, but to try to draw the Keyser defense offsides.

The third quarter also featured a blocked punt that put the Rams in still another scoring position, but they were unable to capitalize.

The fourth-quarter combined scoring of 34 points began with 11:01 remaining in the game, when Keyser's Jeremy Swick scored on a quarterback sneak to give the Tornados the lead for good. The opportunity was made possible by Twyman's interception. Riggleman's conversion kick made it 14-6.

The Ram defense then seemed to fall apart, as Keyser needed only four plays to go 75 yards for a touchdown on its next possession. Twyman, who finished with 77 yards on just seven carries, scored on a 47-yard gallop at the 7:44 mark. Riggleman's conversion kick made it 20-6.

Wilt's interception and 70-yard return of a Warnick pass at the Keyser 30 with 2:27 sealed the Rams' fate and gave the Golden Tornado its second win in as many starts. The kick for the conversion was no good.

Southern did not throw in the towel, however, and scored 14 points in that final two and one-half minutes, with Jason Weaver recording an eight-yard touchdown run, reserve quarterback Justin Liller sneaking for the two-point conversion, and Warnick capping another quick drive with a 13-yard scoring dash as the clock expired.

Bosley finished with 100 yards on 20 carries to lead the Southern rushing effort. The Rams finished with a 290-190 advantage in total offense.

"The fact that we dominated the game the entire first half and had only six points to show for it at halftime was downright alarming," stated Coach Tom Woods. "If we had been able to score on our drive just before the half ended and gone to the locker room with the lead, it probably would have made a big difference in the second half. I'm sure they were thrilled to go in tied at the half after having the ball for only about four minutes."

Woods said a significant turning point in the second half was when the Rams were unable to score after the blocked punt.

"We were called for a clip and just made too many mistakes," he said, "but that's what a young team does, and as they get more experience, we will make fewer and fewer mistakes."

Woods said he was pleased with how his team bounced back this week. "They seem to have put Friday night behind them, because we have had a very good week of practice," Woods said last night.

The Rams will need more than just a good week of practice if they hope to put their first win on the board this week, as they must travel to Musselman to take on the highly ranked Applemen, who are currently 2-0.

Historically, the Rams have been a real spoiler for Musselman coach Denny Price and his teams, as Coach Woods and staff have on many occasions figured out a way to upset the always strong Applemen. In fact, of all the teams on the Musselman schedule, which includes the likes of Martinsburg, Hedgesville, and Jefferson, Southern is the only one that has a winning edge over Price and the Applemen.

An upset this year would be a major accomplishment, given the level of talent on each of the two squads. The Applemen have somewhat abandoned their usual wing-T offense and are running a wide-open offense that features both excellent running ability and a strong passing game by three-year starting quarterback, senior Matt Price (6-1, 175), the son of Coach Price.

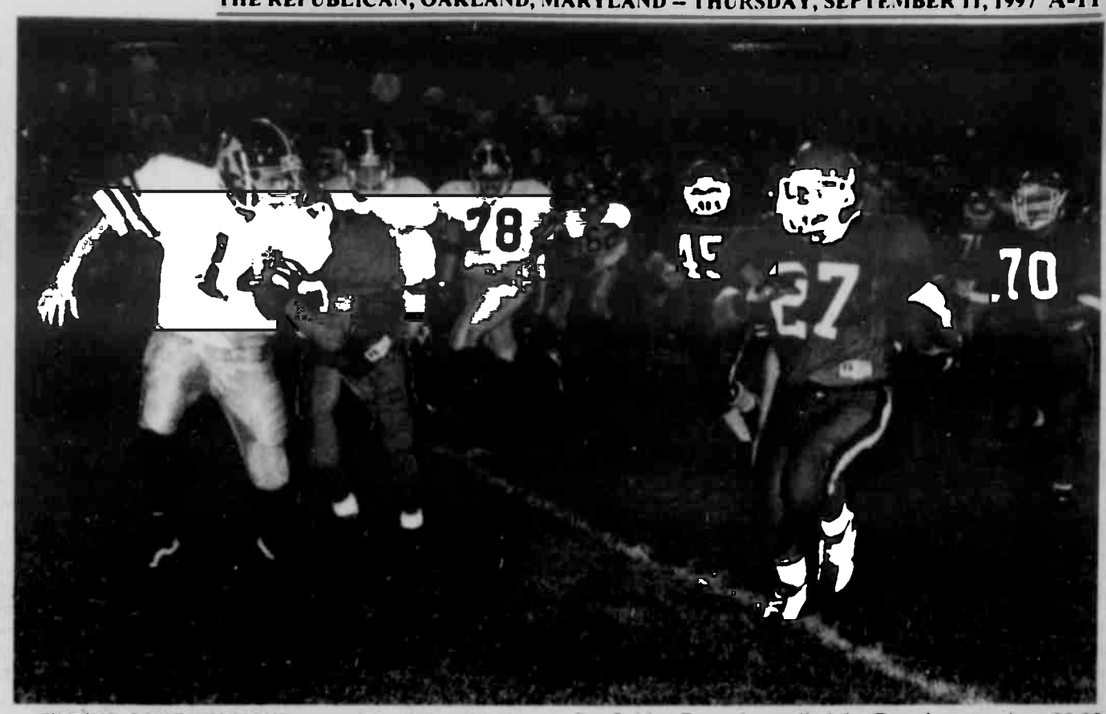
"Matt Price is one of the best quarterbacks we've seen in a long time," Woods said. "He's the principle running back on the team, but he can also throw the ball very well."

As a sophomore, Price led his team to a state championship.

Also outstanding in the Musselman offensive backfield are senior fullback Matt McJilton (6-0, 230), one of the strongest, yet quickest, backs the Rams will see this year; and senior slot back Jim Abshire (6-0, 185).

The huge Musselman offensive line, which features four sophomores and averages about 235 pounds, is anchored by senior center Ryan Agony (6-3, 260), "and his name is an appropriate description for his play on the field," Woods said.

"They have a lot of power and excellent team speed on offense," he said, "but a key for us will be to contain their passing game and force them to run the ball. We believe we might be able to defend pretty well against the run, but if they can connect on their passing, it will open up their running game and we will be in trouble."



The Musselman 4-4 defense is led by Price, an All-State safety, McJilton and sophomore Todd Mosby (6-2, 180) at linebacker positions, and Agony at defensive end.

"In order for us to have a chance to win, we are going to have to set the tempo of the game and maintain possession of the ball as much as possible, just like we did in the first half against Keyser," Woods said. "We have to keep it a low-scoring game."

Woods added that he has a lot of faith in the Ram secondary to limit Musselman's passing attack. "Our secondary players read and react very well," he said.

Woods said that Musselman, now a triple-A team in West Virginia, is the second most talented team on the Rams' schedule, with highly touted Fort Hill being the ultimate.

Friday's kickoff at Musselman is slated for 7:30 p.m.

FINDING SOME DAYLIGHT around the left end is Southern High School running back Jason Weaver (#27), as he follows a lead block by quarterback Chad Warnick during Friday night's game between the Rams and Keyser. The Golden Tornado spoiled the Rams' opener by a 26-22 margin. Also identifiable in the photo for the Rams are #45 Nick Dolan and #70 David Lantz. The Rams will play again this Friday at Musselman.

TWO PRE-GAME CEREMONIES, one somber and one cheerful, were held Friday night at the Southern High School athletic field prior to the Southern-Keyser football game. Above left, Coach Tom Woods expresses his sympathy to Dawna Day, widow of the late Kelly Day, who was Keyser's head coach, and their son Daniel. Coach Day drowned in a kayaking incident this summer, and a memorial scholarship fund for Daniel and his brother Michael was established. Southern High School presented a check for $500 to that fund. Making the presentation to Mrs. Day with Coach Woods was Lynn Bell, school principal. Standing behind Mrs. Day in the photo is the new Keyser coach, Tom Preaskorn. Pictured at right are the four new members of the Southern High School Football Hall of Fame, who were inducted that evening. They include, from left, Steve Liller, Jerry Fike, Jeff Hinebaugh, and Doc Upole.

Fly Fishing Class Set At New Germany

An introductory level fly fishing seminar, sponsored by the AdventureSports Institute (ASI) of Garrett Community College and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will be held on Saturday, Oct. 18, at New Germany State Park.

The morning agenda will cover the basics of fly fishing, while the afternoon session will include an outing to the Casselman River, improving casting techniques, and reviewing Maryland rules and regulations. The seminar is being geared to provide personalized instruction with a 5-to-1 ratio of students to each instructor, and Gary Yoder will be coordinating the instruction for the class.

Lunch and equipment are provided; however, participants are encouraged to bring their own gear if available. The cost of the program is $50 per participant, and persons wishing to register or seeking more information may call the ASI at 301-387-3032, or New Germany State Park at 301-895-4154. Informational brochures are also available at area state park and state forest offices, and at many businesses in the Grantsville, Deep Creek, and Oakland areas. Deadline for registration is October 12, and space is limited.

TINY GYMNASTS TRAIN IN EARNEST - Elizabeth Walker and Danielle Brenneman completed a summer of gymnastics training at Frostburg State University. Their instructor was Elena Hristova of Bulgaria, who has won many awards for her gymnastic skills. The two Route 40 Elementary Schoolers began training with Hristova in March, but she has recently moved to California to pursue her coaching career. The youngsters will continue taking instruction at the West Virginia Gymnastics Training Center in Morgantown. Pictured here with Hristova are first-grader Elizabeth, left, and seconder-grader Danielle, right.

BROTHER, SISTER PACE RAMS - The Southern High School boys' and girls' cross country teams, both of which are the defending Maryland State Class A champions, opened their seasons Tuesday by defeating visiting Preston County at the Broadford Park course. Dan Sincell, pictured above right, was the overall male winner, as he completed the 3.1-mile hilly course in 17 minutes and 15 seconds, while his younger sister Angie, pictured crossing the finish line in the photo at right, won the girls' race in 21:47, 70 seconds ahead of the second-place finisher. The Rams will compete again this Saturday at the Mt. St. Mary's Invitational. The Sincells are the children of Ben and Beverly Sincell, Spring Glade Road.

Southern Runners Open With Victory; Sincells Set Pace

The cross country teams of Southern High School, both of which are the reigning Class A Maryland state champions, opened their seasons in winning fashion Tuesday afternoon by disposing of visiting Preston County at the Rams' Broadford Park course.

The Southern boys, coached by Carl Booth, finished with 21 points, while the Knights recorded 40 points, while the Southern girls, coached by Louis Newcomb, won by a 23-36 margin. The brother and sister team of Daniel and Angie Sincell were the top individual runners of the day, as Dan completed the 3.1-mile course with a time of 17 minutes 15 seconds, and Angie recorded a time of 21:47, over one minute faster than the second-place finisher, Cheryl Gibbs of Preston.

Preston's Derek Clark placed second with a time of 17:42, followed by Eric Rexrode and Sean Conroy of Southern, Preston's Jesse Metzger, and Beau Gibson, Mike Bittinger, Casey McBee, and Ted Wolf, all of Southern.

Placing third behind Angie Sincell and Gibbs in the girls' race were Joanie Chambers of Preston, Beth Sauders, Katelyn McBee, Christy Hoalcraft, and Katie Moomau of Southern, Kristen Nestor of Preston, and Jody Bowser of Southern.

Two of Southern's All-State runners were unable to compete in the event, as junior Amy Snyder had the flu and sophomore Erin Hoalcraft continues to nurse an ankle injury.

The Rams will compete again this Saturday in the Mt. St. Mary's Invitational. They will host Preston, University, and Morgantown high schools in a meet next Tuesday at the Broadford course.

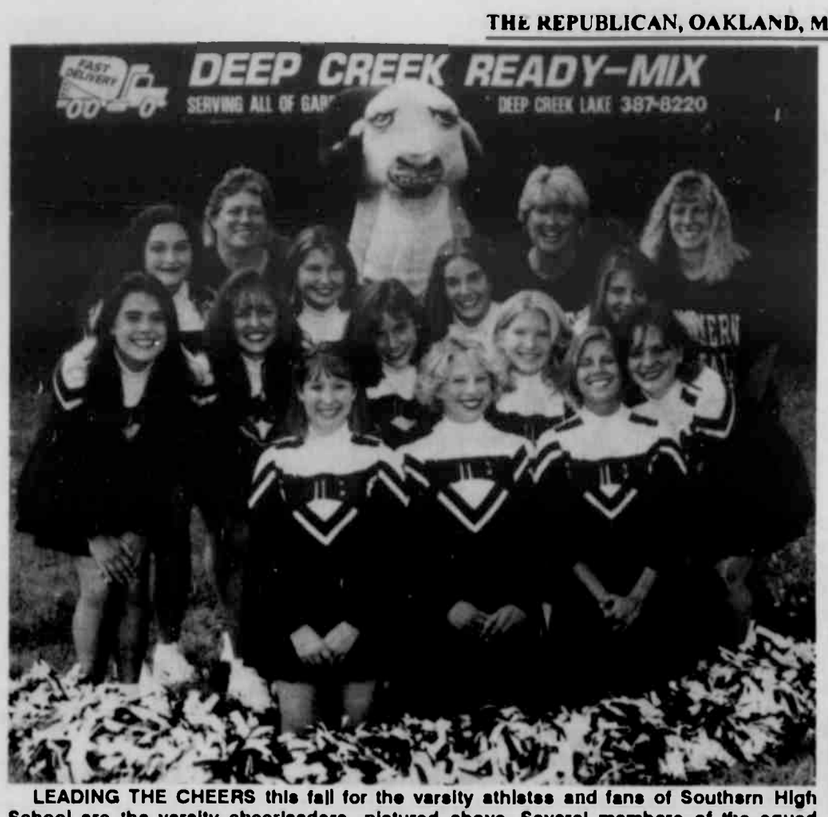
Laker Women Win Two, Lose Three At Nets

The women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College opened its season by hosting a four-team tournament. Charles Community College emerged as the top finisher by defeating the Lakers, Potomac State, and Essex CC.

The Lakers were topped by Charles, 15-7 and 15-8. Andrea Barrick paced GCC with six service points, including one ace, and also had 12 attacks and one kill. Mindy McCarty, former Northern High standout, was 11-for-15 in attacks, Erica McBride went 10-for-15 with three kills, and Alexis Nogle finished 27-for-35 in sets and had six assists.

The Lakers lost to Essex, 11-15, 16-14, and 15-8. Erica King went 18-for-18 in serving with three aces for Garrett, while Nogle was 13-for-13 and recorded 21 attacks and seven kills. McBride had 10 service points and McCarty was 15-for-22 in attacks with 10 kills.



The Lakers defeated Potomac State, 15-9 and 15-3, behind a nine-point, three-ace, 14-attack, two-kill effort by Nogle. McBride added nine service points and King finished with eight.

The Lakers played again last night in a tri-match at Monaca, Pa., with CCAC-South and Beaver CC. They defeated CCAC-South, 15-0 and 15-9, before losing a close match to Beaver, 3-15, 15-10, 16-14.

In the CCAC-South match, Nogle was 10-for-10 in serves with four aces, King went 9-for-10 with two aces, McBride was 8-for-9 in attacks with three kills, and King went 14-for-19 in sets with five assists.

McCarty was 14-for-16 with four aces against Beaver, Sindy Niner also went 14-for-16 with three aces, Nogle was 17-for-18 in attacks with 11 kills, and McBride posted an 18-for-23 effort with eight kills. Nogle was also 22-for-29 in sets with nine assists.

The Lakers, now 2-3, will play again this Saturday in a 2 p.m. match at CCAC-South.

LEADING THE CHEERS this fall for the varsity athletes and fans of Southern High School are the varsity cheerleaders, pictured above. Several members of the squad attended a camp sponsored by the National Cheerleading Association, at which they earned numerous blue ribbons for excellence and were voted by the other participating squads to receive the Harky Award, presented to the squad that shows an outstanding ability to work together to achieve its goals. They also earned several spirit sticks. In the front row above, from left, are: Sheri Perando, Jenni Grant, and Allson Rudy, captain. In the second row are: Tonya Friend, Heather Hanline, Emily Namith, Bethany Savage, and Bryanne Miller (co-captain). In the third row are: Megan Mahaffey, Brianne Meyers, Crystal Hinnant, and Toni Sullivan. In the back row are: Diane Arnett, coach; Shelli Winters, mascot; and Amy Namith and Wendy Craver, coaches. Absent when the photo was taken was Lindsay Garris.

Rams, Huskies Second, Third In Golf Meet

Behind a low-medalist score of 40 by Kane Wengerd, the Southern High School golf team placed second in a tri-meet with Beall and Northern at the Oakland Golf Club course on Monday.

Beall won the meet with a 189, Southern recorded a 194, and the Huskies were just one stroke back in third place with a 195.

Other scores for the Rams were a 43 by Bryson Paugh, a 51 by Justin Stephens, and a 60 by Bryan Roderick. J.C. Armstrong led Beall with a 45, Derek Yates carded a 47, Sarah Parker finished with a 48, and Jeff Klinetob recorded a 49.

Leading the Huskies was Matt Settle with a 42, second best on the day, while A.J. Thomas had a 48, Justin Heslop carded a 50, and Rob Taylor and Jill Speicher each recorded 55s.

The Rams will play again next Tuesday at the Polish Pines course against Keyser and Frankfort.

Southern Girls Open Volleyball Season; Go 2-1

The Southern High School girls' volleyball team, under new coach Gwen Evans, opened its 1997 season last Thursday with a 3-0 victory over host Flintstone, then blanked Bishop Walsh on Tuesday, 3-0, in Cumberland, and lost last night to visiting Allegany, 3-0.

Scores against Flintstone were 15-11, 15-1, and 15-3, with Jennifer Teagarden leading the Rams' serving effort with 13 points. Erika Heavner led the Aggies with seven.

The Southern junior varsity won the first match, 2-1, by scores of 14-16, 15-11, and 15-5. Amy Johnson recorded 15 service points and Meranda Byers had 12 for the Rams. Mandie Gallion finished with 14 for the Flintstone jayvees.

Rachel Lane paced Southern's serving effort against Bishop Walsh Tuesday, as she recorded 15 points, while Meredith Martin added 10. The Rams dominated the match with game scores of 15-1, 15-4, and 15-6.

Liz Paesani had 10 kills for the Rams and Lane recorded six.

Erin McCormick recorded five service points and Sarah Kiemle had five kills for the Spartans (1-2).

The Southern jayvees also coasted to victory, 15-2, 15-2, behind an 11-point service effort by Megan Hickman.

The Rams were topped by Allegany last night by scores of 15-11, 15-5, and 15-8, as Laura Helmsteter and Cassie Murray each had a dozen service points for the Campers (2-0), while Shelly Winters had six for the Rams.

Southern's jayvees won the preliminary match, 15-10, 15-4, with Erica Wilt recording nine service points for the Rams.

Southern will play again next Wednesday at home against Northern.

Local Racers Fare Well In Donegal Race

The snowmobile grass drag racing team sponsored by Snowy Creek Motorsports traveled to Donegal, Pa., Sunday to compete in the Laurel Highlands Snowmobile Club's season opener, and the local racers captured a number of trophies for their efforts.

Tim Glotfelty won first place in both the unstudded stock B 700cc and A 800 cc races, while Jerry Durst won first in the unstudded stock E 500cc event and third in the D 600cc race. Dan Ledden won second places in both the unstudded stock D 600cc and stock C multi-pipe races.

All three local drivers compete on 1997 Yamaha snowmobiles.

Rams Upset Campers In Soccer, Then Nip Huskies

After four seasons of learning the sport, and finishing with below-.500 records, the Southern High School soccer team may have "finally arrived," as the Rams opened their 1997 season with a huge 3-2 victory over visiting Allegany Saturday evening, and then edged the also much improved Northern Huskies Tuesday night, 2-1, at the Cove.

The Rams, many of whom played almost year-'round in various indoor and outdoor leagues under Southern High assistant coach Mel Menker this past year, may well be on their way to their first winning season since the sport returned to Garrett County high schools five years ago. However, head coach Tom Powers and assistants Menker and Bill Lovett also realize that the season has just begun.

"It was a great feeling to get the win over Allegany, especially since it was the first time we had ever beaten them," Powers said, "plus, they were picked to be among the best teams in the area this year."

The Rams trailed the favored Campers until there were less than five minutes left in the game, but at the 4:38 mark, Southern junior John Andrews, a second-team All-Area selection last year, tied the game at 2-2 with a direct kick. Then with just 1:43 remaining, he put Southern on top for good with a successful penalty kick after Mike Tressler drew a foul inside the penalty area.

Southern took the first lead in the match when senior Karlo Gesner headed in a throw-in by Andrews at the 33:01 mark of the first half.

Allegany's Matt Zealand knotted the score at 1-1 when he scored off an assist by Arnel Kazazic with 26:45 left in the half, and then Zealand put his team on top at the 14:15 mark with a goal off an assist by Jimmy Small.

The Rams finished with a 26-18 advantage in shots on goal, although the Campers had a 4-1 edge in corner kicks. Jonathan Price was credited with 14 saves for Southern and Robbie Stansbury recorded 21 for Allegany.

John Menker and Steve Pariseau paced the Rams' defensive effort, which kept the Campers scoreless throughout the second half.

Allegany won the junior varsity contest, 2-1.

It was two more goals by John Andrews Tuesday evening, both from the penalty spot, that gave the Rams their 2-1 victory over cross-county rival Northern in a downpour of rain.

His first opportunity came 24:23 into the first half.

COLLISIONS ARE COMMONPLACE In the sport of soccer, as opponents constantly vie for possession of the ball, and a demonstration of such an encounter appears in the photo above, taken Tuesday evening at Northern High School stadium, where the Huskies were hosting cross-county rival Southern. Competing for the ball are Southern's Mark Ludwig, right, and Northern's Eric Neubert. The Rams edged the Huskies, 2-1, with both of Southern's goals being scored on penalty kicks by John Andrews. The match was played in a downpour of rain. The win lifted the Rams to 2-0 and dropped the Huskies to 0-2. See stories.

Zack Rawe then tied the score for the Huskies when the ball was kicked back toward Price by a member of the Rams' team. The ball did not reach Price in time, however, allowing the charging Rawe to intercept it and score the unassisted goal.

The steady rain and increasingly soggy field made play difficult in the second half, and there were about six minutes left in the contest when Andrews nailed his second penalty shot to give Southern the win.

Matt Fritz, a first-team All-Area keeper, played an outstanding game for the Huskies, as he recorded 13 saves that included a number of diving catches. Price was credited with eight saves for Southern.

The Rams finished with an 18-12 advantage in shots on goal, and each team was awarded two corner kicks.

The Southern junior varsity won the first match, 2-0, as Keith Steyer scored both goals for the Rams.

The Huskies opened their season last Thursday with a heart-breaking, 4-3 overtime loss to visiting Beall (see separate story).

Youth Players Invited To SHS Soccer Matches

The Southern High School soccer coaching staff and players have extended an invitation to all players and coaches in the Mountaintop Soccer Association's youth league to be guests this Saturday evening when the Rams host Bishop Walsh at the Southern athletic field.

All MSA coaches and players who wear their team jerseys will be admitted to Saturday's match free of charge. Two under-12 teams will play an exhibition match during halftime of the varsity match.

The junior varsity game between the Rams and Spartans will be kicked off at 6 p.m., and the varsity match will get underway at 7:30.

HARDESTY WINS CHAMPIONSHIP RACE - Cody Hardesty won the championship race at the Outlaw Speedway, Somerset, Pa., on Aug. 17. Hardesty crossed the finish line just 12 inches ahead of Jeremy Murphy, with Mike Sloan coming in third. All three drivers are from the Oakland area. Hardesty won the stock medium class again last weekend, with Murphy finishing second in stock medium. Murphy also won first place in the gas and oil class.

Husky Booters Drop Heartbreaker To Beall In OT; Fall To Rams

Despite opening their 1997 season with a pair of defeats, the Northern High School varsity soccer team is much improved this season, and still has Husky fans believing that a winning season - their first since the soccer program began at the school five years ago - is a distinct possibility for this year.

The Huskies opened with a 4-3 overtime loss to visiting Beall last Thursday, with the Mountaineers scoring their winning goal on a penalty kick. Then, after the Southern Rams opened their season Saturday with a big 3-2 victory over Allegany, the Huskies were edged by one goal again Tuesday night at home, 2-1, by the Rams (see other story).

B - Jamie George assisted by Eric Robbins, 4:47

Both of Southern's goals were recorded on penalty kicks.

In the match against Beall, the Huskies took a 1-0 lead just 1:26 into the game, when Dustin Swiger scored off an assist by Matt Fletcher.

Beall came back to tie the score about six minutes later, as John Eberly scored off a feed by Aaron Walker.

Swiger struck again off an assist by Fletcher with 18 minutes left in the half to give the Huskies a 2-1 halftime advantage.

Beall then scored the next two goals, the first an unassisted shot by Larry Werner at the 33:16 mark. Eberly hit the next goal for the Mountaineers off an assist by Larry Werner at about the 25-minute mark to give Beall a 3-2 lead.

Northern's Zack Rawe then knotted the score at 3-3 with an unassisted strike with 21:11 remaining in regulation time, which is where the score remained until the end of the second half.

A goal by Jamie George, off a corner kick by Eric Robbins, 4:47 into the overtime period gave the Mountaineers the victory.

Northern keeper Matt Fritz, an All-Area selection last year, had 22 saves for the Huskies, who were outshot by a 25-12 margin. Northern's Jeremy Wengerd finished with nine saves.

The Northern junior varsity was defeated in the preliminary match, 3-0, with Lee Ajang scoring two goals for Beall.

The Huskies will play again this evening at Mt. Savage, will travel to Flintstone next Tuesday, and will host Allegany next Thursday.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

SEASON ENDS WITH MAGELLAN RACE
By Ted Rissell

The Saturday after Labor Day marks the end of sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake. The last race of the season is known as the Magellan Race, named after the famed navigator who first circumnavigated the earth back in the 16th century. In the Deep Creek version, we circumnavigate the lake, sailing as far up into each cove as water depth will allow. Since sailboats cannot sail under the Glendale Bridge, the charts provided the entrants show that area as terra incognito (unknown land).

The race is reputedly sponsored by The Flat Earth Society, who tell us that should boats somehow venture beyond the bridge, they might well fall off the edge of the earth. By tradition, the winner of last year's race hosts the event the following year. Last year's winner was none other than Oakland's Dr. Tom Johnson, dubbed The Lord High Admiral for the event. Tom, as many before him, put on a great race. Some skippers took two or three extra crew to enjoy the race. As you may have gathered, the race is a bit of a spoof, and great fun.

Race day dawned cloudy and cool with little wind. Seven Flying Scots and three Lasers set out. As the race progressed, the wind picked up as a small front blew through. One Laser, handled by two young girls, had to drop out. Another capsized and turtled (turned upside down) in the shallow end of Hooppole Cove. After the skipper righted the boat, he found mud on his sail, but sailed on gamely. Another Laser, skippered by Kevin Rissell, broke its mast in Green Glade Cove, and had to be towed home. Kevin, who has won the event four times since its inception, had started five minutes late, but had caught up with the leaders.

The founder of the race was the late Harry Filemyr who was a resident of Mtn. Lake Park. Harry was the first Lord High Admiral and reputed to have been the president of the Flat Earth Society. His widow, Marilyn, kept the family tradition alive, by sailing her Scot with her son and several guests as crew.

When the boats finally crossed the finish line, Stephanie Mahan, with her mother Jane as crew in the family Scot, were first. The next boat to cross the finish line, also a Flying Scot, was that of Dave Frank with his father John as crew, followed closely by Gordon Clefton in his Laser. However, the race is a handicap event. Lasers are smaller and under most conditions are considered slower than a Flying Scot. Therefore, Tom Johnson, the Lord High Admiral for the event, awarded second place to Gordon.

According to tradition, the Lord High Admiral provides lunch as well as trophies for the participants. Thus, Kathy Johnson served a fine lunch to all the racers, and Tom awarded as trophies a wooden inlaid chest and an inlaid tray, which he had made in his wood shop.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

ARCHERY SEASON RIGHT AROUND THE CORNER

Bowhunters of Garrett County are tuning their equipment and honing their skills as they prepare for the statewide antlered and antlerless deer season which opens on September 15. For many, this is the season that is enjoyed most, as the weather is still mild and the onset of autumn paints the woodlands in orange and gold.

3-D ARCHERY COMPETITION TO BENEFIT MAKE-A-WISH

Archers who would like to test their shooting skills may want to participate in a 3-D archery shoot sponsored by the Maple City Archers. This event will be held September 28 at Wagner's Sugar Camp in Salisbury, Pa., and is to benefit the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Hours of the shoot are from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Anyone interested in more information can call 1-800-732-0999.

IF A NEW SCOPE IS IN THE OFFING

At one time, there were serious questions as to whether the scope could ever be as reliable as iron sights; but, today it is rare to find someone who prefers open sights for hunting. This is particularly true in low light situations where the use of a scope can extend the productive hunting time for a day by up to an hour.

Anyone contemplating getting a new scope for the coming hunting seasons should get started on selection and then sighting-in as soon as possible. Taking the time to install it correctly and then making sure it is functioning up to your expectations will pay dividends in the field.

Selection of the right scope depends upon the type of hunting conditions one expects to encounter. For example, around here very long distance shots are the exception rather than the rule and consequently scopes with 4X magnification are just about right. However, if one hunts a lot out west where the distances for a shot can be much longer, greater magnification is appropriate. A good choice for both situations is a variable power scope that permits selection of the degree of magnification. And, as with most equipment, hunters are generally better off buying the best that they can afford. Consulting with a good knowledgeable outfitter is a good first step.

Once properly installed, it is important to get your rifle shooting where your sights tell you it is going to hit. Sighting-in is best started by visual bore sighting (with a bolt action) or using a bore sighting collimator. The outfitter who sells a scope will usually install and bore sight it in the shop, but it is up to the hunter to make the final adjustments actually firing at a target. Most deer hunters sight their center fire rifles to impact about two inches high at 100 yards, which makes them just about dead-on at 200. Anyhow, now is the time to get started. The retailers have a good supply and the firing ranges aren't crowded.

Thank You

Rams Upset

The Huskies will play again this evening at Mt. Savage, travel to Flintstone next Tuesday, and host Allegany next Thursday. The Rams are slated to host a strong Bishop Walsh team this Saturday, with the junior varsity match at 6 p.m. and the varsity set to kick off at 7:30 p.m. They will host Beall next Thursday evening.

Archery Deer Season To Open Next Monday

With the archery deer season opening on Monday, Sept. 15, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin noted the increasing popularity among hunters of this method of hunting; six out of 10 Maryland hunters hunt deer with a bow. Because of increasing deer population numbers and improvements in bow hunting equipment, the success rate for Maryland bowhunters has increased in recent years. Approximately three out of every 10 archery hunters take a deer, compared to one out of 10 in 1984, Griffin said.

"The department supports hunting as an essential element of scientific wildlife management and as a valuable outdoor recreational activity," Griffin said. "Hunting is a time-honored tradition in Maryland, intrinsic to the state's heritage and culture. DNR encourages private landowners to allow access to their properties for public hunting."

In 1996, bowhunters took 13,588 deer, including 8,680 antlered bucks, 3,843 does, and 1,047 button bucks. The 1996 bow harvest topped the 1995 total by 1,191 deer, establishing a new state bow season record. The highest archery deer harvest last year occurred in the following counties: Garrett (1,470), Allegany (1,116), Washington (1,085), Frederick (1,049), and Baltimore (1,019).

An estimated 50,000 bow hunters will spend about 17 days afield this season, pursuing both white-tailed and sika deer.

Tree stands can be a valuable tool for bowhunters, but only if they are used correctly and safely, Griffin said. Nationally, one in three hunting injuries involves tree stands. "Most of these incidents could have been prevented if the user of the tree stand had followed all safety precautions. Two of the most important rules are to wear a safety harness and to not carry your bow with you as you go up and down the tree," he said.

The popularity of bow hunting continues to increase in many suburban deer habitats, and many suburban residents invite archers to help thin deer numbers around their neighborhoods.

In all Maryland counties, the bow season bag limit is one white-tailed deer. This deer may be antlered or antlerless. In Montgomery, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester counties, archers may take an additional antlerless deer as part of their regular bow season bag limit. Bowhunters who have purchased a "Bonus Deer Stamp-Bow" ($5 for residents and $10 for nonresidents) may take an additional deer.

New regulations require that no more than one antlered deer may be taken within the combined total bow season bag limit in Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Frederick (Zone 2), Harford, Howard, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Washington (Zone 1), Wicomoco, and Worcester counties. The reason for the new bow harvest restriction of no more than one antlered deer for these areas is to encourage the harvest of antlerless deer. "These counties contain growing deer numbers which need to be controlled," Griffin said. Similar antlered deer bag limit restrictions have been instituted for both the firearms and muzzleloader seasons for these same counties.

For the remaining Maryland counties/zones, i.e., Garrett County, Allegany County, Washington County (Zone 2), and Frederick (Zone 1), bonus deer may be antlered or antlerless.

Sika deer, a non-native deer released into Dorchester County during the early 1900s, has a separate bag limit. Bow hunters may take two antlered or antlerless sika deer. Bonus stamps are not available for sika deer.

More than 250,000 acres of DNR managed properties are open to public hunting. For information about hunting on DNR public lands, hunters should refer to pages 37 through 47 in the publication, Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1997-98. This publication is available from DNR Sport License Agents and DNR regional service centers.

ly, I believe God alone knows exactly what is best for this county. And while I think we should all continue to work hard for our respective beliefs on this matter, I suggest that we unite in surrendering the final outcome to God, the source of peace and welfare we all care for. In sum, Thy will be done.

G.C./CARE

P.S. I have just received a letter from a friend who writes that " I feel there is enough, "silent sentiment" to keep this road from being built. We will make our silent" voices known if the threat is truly real.

To which I reply: Friend, as a media "insider," I can tell you honestly and sincerely that Congress is ALREADY debating whether this "threat" is truly real. An if we (CARE) lose the battle at this stage, our only alternative is going to court. I doubt whether there is enough money in the whole county to tight the federal government. Silence is precisely what the politicians. who want this road, are hoping for. Stand up and scream today, or you very well may fall on your knees and weep tomorrow, and forever--in silence.

To the Editor:

GOBA, WKHJ, and the Garrett County Arts Council recently presented the 2nd Annual Artist Street Fair. Once again there was music and art of our regional artists and hundreds of our citizens enjoyed it all. It is estimated that over 1,500 people attended on Saturday alone!

This project was designed to bring people downtown to see what Oakland and Garrett County have to offer in the way of the arts as well as our retail district. It was quite a success in that respect.

As chairman of Oakland's Downtown Revitalization Committee, I want to thank all of those who made it possible and of course, thank the musicians, artists, and artisans.

First, the Arts Council, especially Sonva Pratt, Ron Skidmore, and Steve Schlosnagie, who spent many an hour hanging and arranging the art as well as you would see in any gallery. The final sales amounted to nearly $2,000 for the fair, a tremendous commitment to the arts in Garrett County.

I also need to thank Bill Grant and First United Bank for allowing us to us the Pritts Building. The City of Oakland, under Mayor Asa McCain's direction, fixed up the Pritts Building so well that Bill barely recognized it. And I must thank Amy Rudy for arranging the musical acts that were as varied as they were professional and well prepared. Barbara Boone and Peggy Jamison kept the SOS table company as they raised nearly $400 for the Station effort.

KHJ publicized the event and due to their live remotes on Friday evening we had a constant flow of visitors all day on Saturday. Thanks to Stephanie Shaffer and Jim Shaffer.

And all of this couldn't have happened without the leadership of Mikal McCartney, GOBA's president, who made sure all of the loose ends got tied at the last minute. This ended up being a grand kick-off for the Mountain Arts Pavilion project that will be open each weekend through Autumn Glory to present and demonstrate the arts in the Pritts Building. Mikal's work to see this come to a reality has been extremely dedicated and often underappreciated.

It was exciting to see the activity and the number of people who felt that the arts were worth seeing, admiring and purchasing. I hope everyone who attended the fair enjoyed it as much as I did. If you missed it, you have weekends until Autumn Glory to at least see the gallery.

New Arrivals

The births of eleven infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesperson.

A daughter was born September 5 to Bradley Raymond and Kristi Rae Cacek Wilt, Oakland.

A daughter was born September 5 to Charles Joseph and June Louise Donaldson McClosky, Swanton.

A daughter was born September 6 to Frank Clarence and Clara Louise Goff Probst, Corinth, W.Va.

A daughter was born September 6 to Michael Lee and Karen Patricia Sheets Stone, Kingwood, W.Va.

A daughter was born September 6 to Melvin Wayne and Karen Ann Keller Spiker, Westernport.

A son was born September 8 to Lowell Dean and Tonya Kay Bray Sturm, Oakland.

A son was born September 9 to William Charles and Mia Lynn O'Haver Lansberry, Mt. Storm, W.Va.

A son was born September 9 to Richard Ray and Sheila Kay Dove Bittinger, Oakland.

A son was born September 9 to Chad William and Amy Kathryn Margroff King, Oakland.

A daughter was born September 10 to Loren Edward and Beverly Sue Collins Bowser, Oakland.

A daughter was born September 10 to Dennis Michael and Lori Jean Bush Warnick, Bloomington.

Admissions were listed at 62 with 64 discharges. This morning's census shows 29 patients.

Paul and Amy Harvey, Oakland, announce the birth of a daughter, Jaiden Taylor Harvey, on Monday, Sept. 8, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland. Paternal grandparents are Bobby and Mary Lou Harvey, Oakland. Maternal grandparents are Jack Thomas and Barb Piper, both of Oakland.

THE NEW SUBACUTE UNIT at Garrett County Memorial Hospital received its first patient in early August with the admission of Pennsylvania resident H. Ralph Rugh. The 10-bed unit, a collaborative effort between Garrett Memorial and the Cuppett Management Corporation, Inc., is designed for patients who are too ill to return home or go to a traditional nursing home, but not ill enough to remain in the normal hospital setting. Subacute services provide patients with the care and education needed to function in a home-like setting upon discharge through a high-intensity of nursing and rehabilitative care. The unit features a comfortable, home-like environment that contains its own dining area, activity room, and laundry facility. Pictured, from left, presenting Mr. Rugh with a Garrett County afghan, are Margaret Kaiser, MD, medical director of the subacute unit, and Elizabeth Daniels, RN, MSN, the unit's nurse manager.

"Jews For Jesus" Leader To Speak At Pleasant View

Peter Rice, chief spokesman of the Washington, D.C., branch of "Jews for Jesus," an international organization comprised of Jews who believe that Jesus was the promised Messiah, will present a program titled "The Fall Feasts of Israel" at Pleasant View Baptist Church on Sunday, Sept. 14, at 10:15 a.m.

To Rice and other Jews for Jesus, following the teachings of Jesus makes sense in the light of the Jewish Bible and in light of their experiences as believers in the Christian experience. "What could be more Jewish than following the Messiah?" Rice said, adding that he considers himself "100% Jewish and 100% Christian" at the same time.

After over 20 years of working for Jews for Jesus in a variety of capacities, including volunteer, full-time evangelist, and leader of the organization's traveling drama troupe, The New Jerusalem Players, Rice currently leads teams in street evangelism throughout the year and in Summer Witnessing Campaigns, intensive short-term evangelistic efforts. He also serves as an instructor at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago each June, and heads up the D.C.-based drama team, The Y'shua Players.

Rice has written a number of articles published in the organization's newsletter and has authored some of the gospel tracts used in its street evangelism. He has a bachelor of arts in Biblical studies from Biola University and a master's degree in missiology with a concentration in Jewish evangelism/Judaic studies from Fuller Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.

Persons interested in further information about Rice's presentation may call the Pleasant View Baptist Church at 301-334-8515. There will be no admission charge for the event, but an offering will be taken.

county, and all of us need to be informed as to exactly what is going on and what we as members of this community can do about it."

While the meeting had moments of high emotion, the assembled crowd fell silent as G.C./CARE steering committee member and spokesperson Dana Shimrock, a resident of the Cove area, used an overhead projector to display a map of the proposed highway's entire route from Toronto, Canada, to the point just south of Bluefield, W.Va., where it would connect to the existing interstate highway system to form an unbroken four-lane limited access highway leading to Miami, Fla. The map is a publication of The Route 219 Association, a multi-state coalition of business and political interests that is lobbying all levels of elected officials to support the highway.

"I have to see that!" a woman's voice from the back of the hall called out. A man from the front row went to the light switch to darken the room and bring the map into focus. From the seats the highway's red line running the depth of the nation appeared to obliterate Garrett County as it traversed the 50 miles of land between Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

After Shimrock and other G.C./CARE members described the scope of the project, estimated to cost $300 million for the Garrett County section alone, an animated discussion followed.

"Something that we have on our side is that the highway bill that this project is included in is a real budget-buster," Courtney Englar of Accident, a G.C./CARE member, stated to the assembly. "It goes billions of dollars over what the government realistically can spend if they're serious about balancing the budget. While it's being pushed by Congressman Bud Schuster (R-Pa.), the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Transportation, many of his fellow Republicans are budget hawks who are voicing opposition to the dollar figures the bill contains."

Published reports in The Washington Post state that the highway bill sponsored by Shuster contains a 30% increase in federal highway funding over the next three years, with a portion of those monies being earmarked for the creation of "International Trade Corridors," between Canada and the southern border of the United States, one of which contains the stretch of proposed interstate through Garrett County.

The information on the highway proposal was greeted with interest by the assembled crowd, which then embarked on a wide-ranging discussion of the project and its potential effects on Garrett County. The reasons that have been given by highway proponents were discussed, especially the issue of projected economic benefits to the county. "There are a variety of creative ways other than a four-lane highway to bring economic development to the county," Shimrock said later. "While our first goal as a group is to see that this four-lane interstate highway does not cut the county in halt, we have to be committed to seeing that the county explores other options for starting up new businesses and cutting the unemployment rate.

"G.C./CARE can't stop at the highway issue," she continued, "we must continue on by working together with county officials and all citizens to explore sustainable economic development strategies that replace short-term interests with long-term benefits and which do not comprise the rural, agricultural, and natural heritage of Garrett County."

Shimrock laid out a framework for a public discussion forum between opposing sides of the issue. "We are not in any way, shape or form out to discredit our public officials and we recognize they have a right to explain why they feel Continental One should be a priority for Garrett County." She added that "discussions with the county economic development department should lead to an announcement soon of a public meeting between G.C./CARE and the highway proponents, which could occur in the third week of this month. The public will be invited to listen and participate, of course."

In regard to last night's meeting, some participants later commented that they felt that in addition to the "much-needed" factual information the meeting's leaders presented, a "high point" was when a white-haired man took to his feet near the end of the meeting and said, "25 years ago we had to fight to keep strip mines out of Garrett County, and we did it. All of you working together can stop this highway -- get together and work hard!" he exclaimed, to an ovation from the crowd.

G.C./CARE staff emphasized to the assembly that their input is needed to help the group stop the highway funding bill, which is being currently being laid out in Congress and could come to a vote as soon as the end of September. "Write, write, write the elected officials on Capitol Hill," Shimrock said, "and have your friends write too. Our representatives need to know how you feel before it is too late."

U.G.L.Y. Contest Slated For Oct.; Registration Open

Registration for the 18th annual U.G.L.Y. Challenge for multiple sclerosis is now open for establishments which hold a beer, wine, or liquor license.

The competition, scheduled to run through the month of October, pits contestants against each other in a battle for the title of the 1997 U.G.L.Y.-EST in Maryland.

Contest organizers stress that entrants need not be ugly to join. The name is an acronym. The letters stand for: U, understanding; G, generous; L, lovable; and Y, young-at-heart.

Contestants will each receive a kit with information to help plan fund-raising events. During October, each participant in the match will host various promotions to support multiple sclerosis.

Money collected will be sent to the MS Society weekly during October. For every $.25 collected and sent, the establishment earns one vote. Bonus votes will go to those who meet the weekly deadlines.

Prizes will be awarded to the top establishments from Southern Maryland, Eastern Shore, Central Maryland, Western Maryland, and the Tri-County (Carroll, Howard, and Frederick) areas.

The categories are as follows: pubs/taverns, clubs/organizations, restaurants/hotels, packaged goods stores, and nightclubs.

The grand prize winner will earn a vacation for five days and four nights in Aruba. Prizes and awards will be presented at the U.G.L.Y. Awards Ball, to be held in Baltimore, Nov. 18.

The Republican, along with other sponsors across the state, will provide support for the Garrett County campaign by offering free advertisements and news coverage.

Donations from the contest support the MS Society's national research programs and health related services for the 3,500 local residents who are affected by the disease.

The goal of the society is to raise $160,000 through this year's competition.

Free U.G.L.Y. kits are available from volunteer U.G.L.Y. agents or the MS Society. Anyone interested in registering may call the National Multiple Sclerosis Society at 410-527-1770, or toll free, 1-800-FIGHT-MS.

The Lingering Cold Is Bad News

How does your cold usually start out - cough, sore throat, sniffle? For each of us it is most often the same symptom for each cold. And usually your cold will run its course in about the same way every time. If it's not really a severe one you might even get rid of it without seeing your physician.

The cold you want to be extra careful with is the one that does not follow your usual pattern. Either it starts off differently or it does not respond to your efforts to treat it. Don't let this kind hang on; see your physician before something serious develope.

Three Girls

Three girls sit on the patio near me, taking a break from their bike ride, faces alive with animation as they chat. After carefully counting and combining change they pay for their ice cream before continuing their afternoon trek. We had not spoken, but making a U-turn in the road, they yelled "Bye!", to me as shining brown hair blew in their faces. Surprised, I responded.

These three girls will return to school soon, as will millions of other young people. May we pray for each young life. Also pray for strength and wisdom for their teachers and their parents, as it takes a cooperative effort to mold young minds.

Most importantly, we must set an example of regular weekly worship. Young people take note when we are not aware as they travel the rocky road of adolescence. When they turn to look at us, may we be looking back with God at our side.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

RSVP
September 14, 1997

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 55
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 49:8-13

The Godfather, both as a novel and a series of movies, put into our language an expression that endures. "I'll make you an offer you can't refuse."

Actually, the best offer we can get in life is the kind that we not only can refuse, but often do. Our problem is often that we know we want something, but don't quite know what it is we want. There's an emptiness in ourselves and we want to fill it with something. But what?

Very often that which we seek to fill the void within is a thing of some kind, a material object. Our problem is that we want immediate gratification and things may very nicely fill the void for a little while. The thing may be a symbol of success—a new car, a bigger house, a better job. Even other people can be the things with which we try to fill the emptiness. But have you ever noticed how none of these things really satisfy us for the long haul. All of them fade, tarnish or wear out—but the hunger within us, never!

What all of us seek—even if we don't realize it—is something to permanently fill the voids in our lives. But what can do that for us? Ah, that's the question and how elusive the answer is for so many of us.

COSTS A BUNDLE

A cartoon I clipped from a newspaper several years ago shows a wise man or guru sitting atop a very steep mountain. Standing before him is a man who has crawled to the top and asked him a question. "Yes," replies the wise man. "I have the answer to the meaning of life, but it's going to cost you a bundle!"

Many of us suspect that, whatever the answer is, it is going to cost us a bundle. It can only be purchased with material goods and it is going to be very, very expensive—perhaps more than we can ever scrape together.

So, God comes to us with an offer we can, but ought not refuse: "Ho, every one who thirsts, come to the waters; and he who has no money, come, buy, and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price" (Isaiah 55:1). What an offer! It's better than winning the lottery, the Irish Sweepstakes, or a prize from Ed McMahon—all material things.

FOOD THAT'S NOT BREAD

But God's offer is not about material things. It will not necessarily bring instant gratification. It is about eternal realities and an ultimate gratification that is lasting. And because God's offer does not satisfy our aspiration for things, we tend to be suspicious of it and disregard it. The very offer we need and long for is the one that we reject or ignore. So, God asks us, "Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy?" (55:2). Instead God offers us something that does satisfy: "Incline your ear, and come to me; hear, that your soul may live" (55:3).

The offer God makes is the world's only really 'free' offer. We can have it without exchanging things for it or accumulating a pile of money to pay for it. Now that's an offer we shouldn't refuse! But will we?

Although the offer from God is a free offer, it doesn't mean that the promise is automatic. We can't pay for it—that's grace—but we have to accept it. God doesn't slip his promise into our hip pockets for us to discover at a later time. If we are to take advantage of his offer, we have to put out our hands to receive it. And to receive it, it takes repentance. "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, that he may have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon" (55:6,7).

It is the best offer any of us will ever get. But it takes an RSVP to get it.

Conservation Corps Crew Ends Busy Year

The 1996-97 Potomac-Garrett State Forest Maryland Conservation Corps (MCC) crew, an AmeriCorps program, recently finished the program year with over 11,000 hours of combined service to the community.

Corps members Shane Buckel, Steve Broadwater, Mendi Pingley, Beth Rumer, Doug Rumer and Andrew Simmons began the program in September of last year and have spent the last 11 months tackling conservation work while earning $4,725 each towards furthering their education. Each corps member logged in over 1,700 hours of service, which included numerous work projects, training workshops, and seminars.

Some of the corps' activities during the year included completing wildlife habitat improvement projects in the state forest, assisting the Freshwater Fisheries Division in surveying the fish population by electro-shocking and performing stream surveys on several miles of area streams and rivers, and helping the Forestry Department fight two forest fires in Allegany County.

The crew also marked nearly 30 miles of state forest boundary, constructed two three-sided camping shelters, planted over 12,000 seedlings along the Maryland access road at Jennings Randolph Lake, built a 55-foot swinging bridge along the Lostland Run Hiking Trail, and constructed a 3-D archery range at Potomac State Forest Headquarters consisting of 20 targets and a 12-foot tower from which to shoot.

In addition to working on the state forest, The Potomac-Garrett crew lent a helping hand on several local community service projects, including clearing a lot for a Habitat for Humanity home, constructing a playground for Barton Elementary School, and performing flood relief work in Shallmar with the A Star! In Western Maryland AmeriCorps group.

The crew also visited several local elementary and middle schools and talked to over 800 children about tree planting, fire fighting and tree climbing.

This year's crew not only worked in western Maryland, but also traveled to Elk Neck State Park in northeast Maryland to perform trail work and hazardous tree removal. In August, the crew traveled to Assateague State Park on the eastern shore to remove old snow fence from the sand dunes.

As part of the 11-month program, corps members were also given the opportunity to participate in various training workshops and seminars. They received training in CPR and first responder medical training, chainsaw safety and directional tree felling, topographic map reading and compass orienteering, water rescue responder, introduction to computer skills, and basic forest fire fighting.

Buckel and Broadwater each also received a tree climbing certificate from the Institute of Arborculture and Urban Forestry, while Pingley, Simmons, and Beth Rumer attended a three-day disaster services and damage assessment training offered through the American Red Cross. Buckel, Broadwater, Simmons, and Doug Rumer each also received their National Forest Fire Fighting certification after a two-day course, which involved a 1.5 mile run and a written test.

MCC, an AmeriCorps program, sponsors six crews statewide and is funded by the Corporation for National Service in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources, State Forest and Park Service. A new 10-member crew will begin operating at Potomac-Garrett State Forest on Sept. 22.

Several Students Complete Career Planning Class

The New Horizons/New Dimensions programs of Garrett Community College recently completed the first FY98 series of a five-week, 10-session Career Planning class taught by Mary Kirkland, intake/counselor specialist with the New Horizons Program of GCC. The class included learning about job hunt strategies, getting to know oneself, what self esteem means to a nontraditional student returning to classes or to the work world, ways to build self esteem, what stress is and how to handle it, combining working with family obligations, time and budget management, resume writing, and job interview techniques.

Several interest tests were administered to participants to determine their career interests. These tests included the Career Assessment Inventory (CAI), the Holland Code Self-Directed Search, and the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery).

The recent group of students enrolled in the class included: Heather Dawson, Deanne Donnelly, Michelle Flores, Heidi Harvey, Victoria Howard, and Dinah Murphy.

The next Career Planning class is scheduled to begin next Monday, Sept. 15, at Garrett Community College, McHenry Campus. Anyone interested in enrolling in the Career Planning class should call New Horizons weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3102 for complete information.

"The class is a great beginning for a support group and has proven beneficial for re-entry individuals to make career decisions and to enter training in their areas of interest," stated Barbara Frey, program director for New Horizons and New Dimensions.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget for New Horizons. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Community Services Administration, Women's Services Division, in the amount of $14,.98.

MCHR Helps GC Residents Fight Unfair Treatment

The Maryland Commission on Human Relations (MCHR) provides services to individuals statewide to help protect them against unfair treatment.

MCHR is an enforcement agency that investigates complaints under such laws as Americans with Disability Act, Equal Pay Act, Age Discrimination Act, and civil right laws.

These laws protect Maryland citizens ag inst unfair treatment because of race/color, sex, age, religion, national origin, marital status, or disability. Sexual harassment incidents and pregnancy issues are also covered.

Catherine Skaggs, a senior investigator for MCHR, serves the western region of Maryland from an office in Hagerstown. She makes monthly visits to Garrett County to meet with people who have questions or complaints of unfair treatment under the law. "I'm in Garrett County once or twice every month," she said.

Several agencies in the county refer people to Skaggs for assistance. "I get quite a few referrals from the job service office," she mentioned. Individuals may tell a job counselor of some treatment that is questionable conduct under the law. Reports of these situations will reach Skaggs' desk for her investigation.

Skaggs also is available to conduct seminars or workshops for communities or employers.

Anyone wishing to contact Catherine Skaggs may write to her at 14 N. Potomac Street, Hagerstown, MD 21740. She can also be reached at 301-797-8521 and will accept collect calls.

Nominations Open For Women Of Tomorrow Awards

Nominations are now being accepted for Women of Tomorrow awards. These awards were established by the Maryland Commission for Women, the Girl Scouts of Central Maryland, and the American Association of University Women.

A committee will review the nominations based on the criteria of community service, life experience, commitment, pursuit of academic excellence, leadership, and future goals.

The young women will be recognized during a two-day conference titled "Girls to Women: Agenda for the 21st Century," which is scheduled to be held in November.

The Girl Scouts of Central Maryland, the Maryland Department of Human Resources, and the Maryland Commission for Women will sponsor the conference.

The meeting will bring together individuals from government, private business, and local communities to assess, improve, and celebrate the lives of girls, explained Elaine Solomon of the Maryland Commission for Women.

Anyone interested in submitting a nomination is asked to contact the Maryland Commission for Women, 311 W. Saratoga Street, Baltimore, MD, or call 410-767-7137. Nominations must be received by Sept. 24 to be considered.

"We'll Only Stay a Minute!"
The warm touch, thoughtful words, and caring smile that visitors bring to hospital patients are all important to a quick and healthy recovery.
However, frequent and lengthy visitation can be too much of a good thing because patients need plenty of rest and quiet time in order to get well!
Seeing a familiar face is comforting to our patients, and while we encourage you to visit, we also ask that you use good judgment.
By doing so, you can make a big difference in the road to recovery for our patients.
Rest assured!

Amanda Miller Wins Scholarship From WEPCO

Amanda D. Miller, Oakland, was awarded the 7th Annual WEPCO Federal Credit Union Scholarship Award.

Ms. Miller is attending Garrett Community College as a business administration major. She is a 1997 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society.

In addition to the WEPCO scholarship, she has also received the Success in Schools Award, Lions Club Award, the Garrett County Vocational Advisory Committee Award, and the Council on Economic Education in Maryland Participation Award.

Ms. Miller also works as a data entry clerk at The Data Entry Company, Oakland, and is a gymnastics instructor at Creations School of Dance and Gymnastics. She is the daughter of Clayton and Dani Miller, Oakland.

WEPCO Federal Credit Union, with offices in Bloomington and Oakland, offers scholarship awards annually to worthy students. Selection of the scholarship winner was based on a written essay on the following topic: "In Planning for Retirement - What Steps Can You Take to Ensure a Comfortable Retirement?" This year there were 13 applicants, of which only one can be selected. Persons who have a child who is a member of WEPCO and will soon enter college or is currently enrolled are encouraged to request information about the WEPCO Federal Credit Union Scholarship Program.

EGCVFRD Auto Show Winners Are Announced

The 18th Annual Antique and Custom Auto Show was held recently at the Route 40 Elementary School, Finzel. The show was sponsored by the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department and Ladies Auxiliary of Finzel.

An early morning rain shower and the threat of thunderstorms did not dampen the spirit of enthusiasts from throughout the tri-state region who lined the field with vintage, classic and modified vehicles, including several truck and motorcycle classes. First, second, and third place trophies were awarded in each of 28 classes. The people's choice award and longest distance award went to Joe and Dee Woods of Iverness, Fla., who traveled 1,144 miles to the show.

Eastern Star Chapter Meets

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday, Sept. 2, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple in Oakland. Worthy Patron Ted Raynovich called the meeting to order.

Thelma Henshaw, Worthy Matron, opened with a reading, "Extend a Hand," and then greeted Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer of Maryland; Juanita Bosley, Grand Representative of Idaho, in West Virginia; and Ted Raynovich and Delmar Sliger, Brothers holding Masonic honors. Announcements were made for the next meeting, September 16, for a covered dish dinner prior to the meeting at 6:30 p.m. in celebration of the Chapter birthday. Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Oakland Chapter will be honored at the meeting.

Signs and Passes were reviewed under the direction of the Worthy Patron and the Conductress, Wilda Hile. Mrs. Henshaw closed with "Keep The Faith," and refreshments were served by Carole and Bob Paugh.

FIREMEN ARE APPRECIATED IN DEER PARK - The Deer Park Civic Group showed its support of fire fighters, past and present, with a Firemen Appreciation Day on Aug. 23. The group wished to thank and honor the original founders of the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department, as well as former and present members and auxiliary volunteers. The theme of the afternoon was "Answering the Call," and the festivities included a memorial service, a parade with several units, an antique car show, and the presentation to the fire company of a painting created by Charles Evans Jr. Evans used a 1950s postcard of the original Deer Park fire hall to make the painting, which depicts the young men answering a call in the night, running toward the fire hall. Nearly 200 people came to the event, according to Jerry Browning, civic group president. Assisting the civic group in Appreciation Day were the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, American Legion Post #71, VFW Post 10077, the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, Rev. John Grant, and visiting fire companies. Grant presented a short history of the fire company, which was organized in September 1950. Pictured above are Browning and Lonnie Dawson, vice president of the civic group, as they unveil Evans' painting. The founder of the civic group, Lonnie Rodeheaver, is shown standing at the podium in the background. Original members of the fire company are pictured in the photo above right. They are, left to right, George Comp Jr., Carl Thrasher, Leo C. Smith, Edward W. Sollars, Dwight V. Clary, and Clarence E. Marley. Not present for the photo were Niles Madigan, Charles Madigan Jr., and John R. Smith. Numerous fire departments sent equipment for the parade, as is evidenced in the photo below. ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Ryan M. Durst received practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) Advanced Camp at Fort Lewis, Tacoma, Wash.

The camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training. Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, Guard, or Reserve.

The cadet is a student at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. He is a son of R. Mark Durst and Donna W. Durst, both of Oakland. He is a 1994 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

U.S. Army Pvt. Randy A. Murphy has graduated from One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala., which included basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

During basic military training, trainees received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

During AIT, the soldiers trained as military police specialists and learned to provide support to the battlefield by conducting battlefield circulation control, area security, prisoner of war operations, civilian internee operations, and law and order operations. Trainees also learned to provide peacetime support to the military community through security of resources, crime prevention programs, and preservation of law and order.

Murphy is the son of James W. and Betty Mae Murphy, Oakland. He is a 1995 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(Special) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis"® and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on liquid form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Real Life Decisions . . .
Real Life Solutions
Banking for real life.

"I am doing something that I have always enjoyed doing!" said Bill Sisler of Bill's Marine Service.

Everyone at the Lake knows Bill—the name you need to know! He takes pride in his work and it shows. Bill and his two brothers, Kenny and Dale, own and operate Bill's Marine Service located on Garrett Highway at Deep Creek Lake.

Bill and his brothers started their business in 1958 with a small floating dock, and a shop at the Glendale Bridge. First United is proud to say that we knew Bill when . . . Bill appreciated the hard work, dedication and quality service that the First United staff has shown him time and time again. "First United has been able to provide the support, the products and the services to meet the needs of our business over the years", Bill commented. The company now has over 35 dedicated employees.

It is all about people helping people. And that's First United's philosophy when it comes to helping people in their communities. First United is happy to play a part in the success of businesses like Bill's Marine Service. Throughout the decades their business has flourished and the relationship that was built many years ago between First United and Bill Sisler continues today, stronger than ever.

COVER STORY

Bob no more. Newhart is back with George & Leo

By Kelly Barclay
©TVData Features Syndicate

Bob Newhart

Bob Newhart insists he isn't selling out with the title of his new CBS sitcom, George & Leo, which premieres Monday, Sept. 15. "Legally, I'm George Robert Newhart," he says, "so I'm still using my name."

The actor, whose eponymous shows have included The Bob Newhart Show, Newhart and Bob, stars as a mild-mannered, button-down, retired mutual-fund manager, who now owns a bookstore on the island of Martha's Vineyard, located off Massachusetts.

Enter Leo (played by Taxi veteran Judd Hirsch), the soon-to-be father-in-law of George's son. Leo is the anti-George: While working for the mob in Las Vegas, he stole $25,000 from a drop he was supposed to have made.

Now he's on Martha's Vineyard for his estranged daughter's wedding, as a gift from George's son to his bride. The trouble is, she doesn't want to see her father in the first place.

Newhart credits his chemistry with Hirsch for much of the humor. "We had the reading, and we knew there was a chemistry and it was going to work," he says. "I mean, this was (the show's) very first sit-down."

Newhart thought he would retire from television after his previous show, Bob, but found he was bored not working. "I tried playing golf for a while and one day said to my wife, 'I can't do this for the rest of my life, I'm going to go nuts,' " he says.

Unknown to Newhart, George & Leo executive producers Dan Staley and Rob Long were already working on a script for him.

"We sat down to create a Bob Newhart show," Staley says, "which, in retrospect, was sort of an odd thing to do, since Bob didn't know we were doing that."

But when the script for the pilot showed up, Newhart was pleased. "I was most impressed with (the fact that) they had found my voice," he says. "They had found my way of speaking."

Now they had to find an actor to play Leo. "I think we realized that Leo was critical to the success of this show and we had to have someone really strong and good," Newhart says.

"Always at the top of our wish list for the other role was Judd Hirsch," Staley says.

Hirsch says he really hadn't intended to take offers from television since his last show, Dear John, went off the air. Then the script for George & Leo came around. "And I said, 'It's just good. It's just wonderful. I'll see you in Los Angeles.' "

Casting the other roles wasn't as easy. The original pilot featured Patrick Breen as George's son. But after filming, it was decided the chemistry just wasn't there. Jason Bateman was recast in the role and the pilot was reshot.

"It was the nicest call I've ever gotten," Bateman says.

Working with Newhart and Hirsch is great, he admits. "It's like I've graduated college and gone on to grad school, and I'm studying under the two most respected professors in the business."

Long says he is amazed by the cast members of George & Leo, and how his and Staley's vision of the show has turned out so perfectly.

"I expect to wake up with Suzie Pleshette at some point," he says.

TRIVIA

Barbra Streisand's first TV special won five 1965 Emmy Awards. "Television is a marvelous business," she noted.

TRIVIA

Roots, TV's first miniseries, won nine Emmys in 1977 and swept the nominations in the best lead actor category.

IN FOCUS

John Corbett (Northern Exposure) stars as a pilot who mysteriously reappears 50 years after his disappearance over the Bermuda Triangle in The Visitor. The Fox drama premieres Friday, Sept. 19.

The pilot, who hasn't aged a day, is on a quest to alter the future and save the world from total annihilation.

He also must elude two organizations out to capture him in this series from Independence Day creators Dean Devlin and Roland Emmerich.

TV-PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: Did the actress who plays Scully on The X-Files also play Kit in the movie A League of Their Own? –Ashley Hignell in Canada.

A: No. Lori Petty, who played Kit Keller in League, did somewhat resemble Gillian Anderson of The X-Files at the time Petty filmed that 1992 comedy directed by Penny Marshall.

Petty also starred in the short-lived 1996 Fox sitcom Lush Life.

Q: Whatever happened to actor Adam Wylie, who played Zachary on Picket Fences? –Jerry B. via e-mail.

A: Wylie, 13, continues to work at a pace most actors would envy, though none of his recent roles has been as high-profile as the one he played on Picket.

Last season he co-starred in Love and Marriage, a sitcom that had a brief run on Fox before it was canceled along with the network's other new sitcoms, Party Girl and Lush Life.

Wylie also played Chip (the teacup-boy) in the West Coast stage production of Disney's Beauty and the Beast, appeared this past January in an episode of High Incident, co-starred in the Hulk Hogan movie Santa With Muscles and provided a voice for the animated All Dogs Go to Heaven 2.

Blessed with a level head and a healthy sense of humor about himself, Wylie should have a long career.

Q: What is the name of the '40s drama starring Ronald Reagan and Ann Sheridan? In the movie, a doctor cuts off Reagan's character's leg because he wanted to marry the doctor's daughter. Is it available on video? –T. Mayes, Sweetwater, Texas.

A: You're thinking of King's Row (1941), in which Reagan gave his best Hollywood performance. It is available on video.

Q: How – if in any way – are Garry and Penny Marshall related? Are those their real names? –Pauline Ames, Lexington, N.C.

A: Garry, who is Penny's older brother, gave his sister her first big break when he hired her for a recurring role in his hit TV sitcom The Odd Couple. She played Oscar Madison's secretary, Myrna Turner.

Their first names are their given ones, but their real last name is Marsciarelli (also spelled Masciarelli in some sources).

Q: In the season finale of Mad About You, did Jamie give birth to a son or a daughter? I can't remember. –J. Allison, Louisville, Ohio.

A: Paul and Jamie Buchman have a new daughter, who is awaiting a name. Expect lots of laughs when the sitcom returns Tuesday, Sept. 23, on NBC.

Elaine L. McDonald, chairman of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, has announced that Russell E. Eddy will head the Foundation's Special Gifts Committee.

Russell E. Eddy, of Eddy & Wakefield Insurance Agency, is a certified financial planner as well as a licensed insurance agent. He also serves as a member of the Board of Governors for Garrett County Memorial Hospital and has served as a member of the Foundation's Planned Gifts Committee for several years. Active in the community, he is a member of the Elks Club and is a Past Exalted Ruler of Elks.

The Special Gifts Committee recruits friends of the hospital to join the Pillars by giving a generous gift of $10,000 or more to help preserve and improve local health care services. Thus far in 1997, two new members have joined the Pillars, bringing the total to 26 members. "These individuals support the Foundation through their dedication and strong commitment to philanthropy. These individuals are truly 'pillars of the community.' Their generosity and support are the foundation on which the future will be built," stated Ms. McDonald.

"My role in the community has always been to help people in the community prepare for the future through insurance planning and financial planning. Heading up this special fund-raising committee is another way to help my friends, neighbors, and colleagues plan for the future - the future of health care in our community," Eddy said.

Durst Family Members Hold 70th Reunion

The 70th annual Durst family reunion was held on Aug. 31 at the newly renovated Community Center in Springs, Pa.

The meeting was called to order at 12:30 p.m. by President Dale A. Hetrick, who asked for a blessing of the meal and the family. Over 100 family members helped themselves to a wide variety of food selections.

After the meal, Gene and Yvonne Durst led those present in singing "America the Beautiful." Then the children were taken outdoors by Tonya Wilkens for a candy scramble. The candy was donated by Sherry and Gary Resh, Stan and Jan Durst, and Gene and Yvonne Durst in memory of Irvin and May Hetrick.

Gene and Yvonne Durst organized games and other outdoor activities.

Debi Durst was elected as the new secretary. All other officers will remain the same.

In guessing the number of beans in a jar, Ken Hetrick came the closest to the actual number. There were 4,221 beans and he guessed 4,280.

The first door prize had been donated by the late Harold Butler and was redonated by the winner, Martin E. Durst.

Dalena Durst was the youngest in attendance, born April 2, 1995. Martin Gene and Barbara Jo Durst were the most recently wed, March 29, 1997.

Elsie Durst was the oldest woman in attendance at age 91, and the oldest man was Bill Fisher at age 81.

Bonnie and Alexander Shimrat had traveled the farthest for the occasion. They came from San Diego, Calif.

After prizes were awarded to each and every child from age 2 to 14, the secretary's report from last year's reunion was read by Katie Hetrick.

The birth of a new daughter to Andrew and Karen Salvadore on Aug. 18, Julia Adele was announced, as were the deaths of Harold and Ray Butler, Ray Resh, and Glen Cutter.

Treasurer Gene Durst gave the financial report and took up an offering of $160.59.

The second door prize was donated by Viola Durst Myers and awarded to Terry Maxwell.

The activities concluded at 2:15 p.m., but fellowship continued for hours.

Homecoming Set For Sept. 21 At Otterbein Church

The annual Homecoming at Otterbein United Methodist Church in Swanton will be held Sunday, Sept. 21. Sunday school will be at 9:45 a.m., worship will begin at 11 a.m., a meal will be shared at 12:30 p.m., and there will be an afternoon service with special music at 2 p.m. Senior citizens will be honored throughout the day.

Pastor David Simmons and the members of the congregation invite all to attend.

Patients Awaiting Organ Transplants Nearing 2,000

Since April another 200 Marylanders were added to the national organ transplant waiting list, bringing the number of patients in Maryland awaiting a life-saving organ transplant to 1,931. Nationally, that number exceeds 54,000 people waiting for either a kidney, liver, pancreas, heart, lung, or intestine.

"Because transplantation is more successful and even though there are more donors than in the past, the number of people waiting for organs continues to rise at a faster rate than the number of organs available for transplant," said Marion Borowiecki, CEO of the Transplant Resource Center of Maryland.

"We are experiencing a severe shortage of organ donors," said Borowiecki, adding, "We need to narrow the gap between organs available for transplantation and patients awaiting an organ transplant."

Each day approximately nine people in the U.S. die while waiting for a life-saving organ transplant.

"The waiting is unlike any other kind of wait. You are waiting in line to get your life back," said Rhonda DeLaremore, a TRC community liaison and kidney transplant recipient.

The Transplant Resource Center of Maryland is the not-for-profit health service provider of organs and tissues to the citizens of Maryland. Incorporated in 1990, the TRC provides human organ and tissue recovery services, hospital donor-program development to approximately 40 hospitals, and community education in most Maryland counties.

To become an organ donor, one can either sign a uniform donor card and carry it in a wallet or purse or check yes on a driver's license. More important is telling one's family, as loved ones will ultimately be asked to make that decision at the time of death.

"One organ donor can save up to seven lives. One tissue donor can improve the lives of 50 more people," said Borowiecki.

For further information, or a free donor card, persons may contact the Transplant Resource Center of Maryland, 1-800-641-HERO (4376).

Sarbanes Accepting Service Academy Applications

U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes has announced that his office is accepting requests for applications for nomination to the four United States Service Academies for classes entering in 1998. The deadline for submitting completed applications is Thursday, Nov. 6, 1997.

"I urge young people who are interested in attending the U.S. Naval Academy, U.S. Military Academy, U.S. Air Force Academy, or the Merchant Marine Academy to obtain a nomination application packet from my office," said Sarbanes. "The packet contains all the necessary information and forms. Completed applications will be carefully reviewed and those candidates who appear to meet the minimum entrance standards established by the academies will be invited to interviews before my Academy Interview Panel."

To qualify, applicants must be U.S. citizens who are Maryland residents; are at least 17 years old, but have not passed their 23rd birthday, by July 1, 1998; have the equivalent of a high school education with high academic standing in school; and demonstrate extracurricular or community activities, or both, which show leadership potential.

Interested persons may obtain the nomination application packet by writing to Senator Paul Sarbanes, Tower One, Suite 1010, 100 S. Charles Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Pastor Installed At Bear Creek

THE NEW PASTOR at Bear Creek Church of the Brethren is Rev. Thomas V. Wegman, pictured above with his wife Ellen. Rev. Wegman had been interim pastor at the church since last August, but was installed recently to the fulltime position. See story.

The congregation of Bear Creek Church of the Brethren, Accident, recently installed the Rev. Thomas V. Wegman as its new pastor. Rev. Wegman had been serving as interim pastor of the church since last August.

Presiding at the installation service was Rev. Peter J. Leddy, district executive minister for the Westmarva District. Linda Sanders, church board chairperson, gave the welcoming and commitment statement on behalf of the congregation, and Rev. Leddy presented the installation sermon.

The women's fellowship of the church provided a meal in the church pavilion following the service.

Rev. Wegman has been in the ministry since 1984 and has served primarily as an evangelist, ministering mostly on the east coast of the United States. He also served as association pastor for eight years in LaVale. Prior to coming to Bear Creek church, he was the pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Frostburg. He has also ministered as a conference speaker and has led revival meetings and seminars on the east coast.

The Wegmans currently reside in Cumberland.

Sunday school and worship are held each Sunday at Bear Creek Church of the Brethren at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m., respectively. Bible study is held every other Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the church. The church is located along Brethren Church Road approximately one-quarter mile from Accident Elementary School.

Persons desiring more information about the church may call 301-746-8895 or 301-895-4466.

To the Editor:

What's next? Some months ago, a small, vocal number of people suggested buying Deep Creek Lake from the Pennsylvania Electric Company. However, it was not for sale. Then, Sunday alcohol or liquor sales was proposed by legislation in an unheard of manner - election districts. It only succeeded in two of the smaller districts.

Now we read of some support for a major highway, running north to south, through Garrett County. This may occur in the future, at a high cost. I doubt if this freeway would be of any significant support to our county. Freeways are designed to move heavily loaded trucks from point to point, quickly. I suggest one try to follow one of these trucks, keeping in mind the legal speed allowed. Yes, a new freeway may produce some fast food restaurants and truck stops.

Presently, there is a freeway running east to west, located north of where I reside. From my observation, I would doubt if it has provided any significant monetary assistance to Garrett County. Garrett County already has approximately 700 miles of roads to maintain. I believe it would be more sensible to repair and improve these roads as fast as the taxpayers can. I have no doubt that drivers would appreciate this.

In closing, may I say that I do not support this type of freeway. It could have the effect of dividing the county, depending on where it might be constructed. Consider the amount of land it may require, not to mention the significant expense.

Sincerely,
Hubert A. Friend

To the Editor:

The Glades Town Park is a wonderful place. The marked paths to get you on your way are all paved and kept in top-notch condition. It's a real pleasure to walk one mile or two miles out in the open where you get fresh air and also a tune-up of your muscles you did not know you had!

They also have a basketball court that is really terrific, and this is well-lighted so you can play basketball in the evening.

The homes look like what you see in "House Beautiful." They are painted in different colors and it's just outstanding. The mayor of Oakland, I am sure, had a lot of foresight in the planning of such a lovely place.

I live in Mountain Lake Park and I did not realize what a wonderful place this must be to live, until I went out to Glades Town Park! More people should use this place - walking on the marked pathways or just sitting on one of the benches and enjoying the fresh clean air. I just can't get over what a wonderful place the Glades Town Park really is. Truly it took a lot of planning.

My hat's off to the Mayor and Council of Oakland for giving the best to the people of this area.

God Bless,
Charles C. McIntyre

To the Editor:

This is in regard to the construction of a four-lane interstate highway through Garrett County. I have spoken to some county residents about this issue and have heard opinions both pro and con, but the most common opinion is that if the state wants to put a highway through, they will do it, no matter what the people say.

There appears to be too much apathy towards this issue. I am not in favor of this highway, but I am sympathetic to the concerns of people who have to drive past the lake every day. I have heard many complaints about the traffic around Arrowhead and McHenry. I don't believe an interstate highway running the length of the county will help with local traffic congestion, only increase it, as it makes the area more accessible. Another highway will not make up for bad driving habits. The lake used to be known as Maryland's best kept secret. Well, folks, the secret's been out for years; let's not make it any worse.

There are 3,904,721 miles of roads in the U.S., second only to India with 1,342,000. We cannot afford to make the necessary repairs to the roads and bridges already built, so why should we build more? B&L didn't leave the area because there wasn't a highway, but because of NAFTA (North American Free Trade Agreement). We have Bill Clinton to thank for that. If other industry is to move into the county, we have to show them what's really desirable about the area, which is the people. They are dedicated, loyal, and hardworking. Why do you think the people in the city like to get away in a place like Garrett County? And we're privileged to live here. There aren't many places like this left in the U.S., so why the big rush to be like everyone else? What do they have that we don't? More crime, more drugs, more traffic, higher taxes. I personally like the drive from the highway and find it relaxing after combating traffic around D.C. or Pittsburgh. There's a lot more to life than saving 10 minutes of driving time.

I attended the meeting for C.A.R.E. Friday night and was pleased to hear from other concerned residents. I encourage anyone interested in this issue to attend the meetings. I learned of proposed areas to be directly affected and believe that if it were to go near your home or through your property, you would be more concerned, too. Now is the time to speak up, before it is too late. I only hope the people will get more involved, whether it be for the highway or against it. If you do not make a decision, it will certainly be made for you.

To the Editor:

Regarding the super highway proposed to go through Garrett County, make no mistake about it; this is just another example of something to make money for a few at a very high cost to many.

Historically, politicians and big business have used wars to create their "pork" pies. Now, they are using a highway to achieve the same end, a highway that begins in Canada and ends in Florida, and in between will slash through Garrett County. Where will it cut through this beautiful county? At this time our leaders aren't saying, but if I were to venture a guess, I would say that they will attempt to put it through our state forests and parks with the lame explanation that in this way not many people will be adversely affected, e.g., farmers, businesses, homeowners.

The fact that this super highway is not needed, is not wanted, and in fact will do nothing but result in a scar across the landscape will not deter them. As I said, this will be their "pork" pie. They (the federal government and others) are counting on little resistance because, I suspect, they think of the people along the way as nothing more than country bumpkins. I don't think that it is a coincidence that the route for this super highway encompasses a very high percentage of rural areas.

Additionally, they are using the same tired, old "carrot" of jobs to try to overcome resistance to this "pork pie project." What they aren't telling you is that the few jobs that might result will consist of cleaning bathrooms, pumping gas, cleaning tables, etc., at gas stations or truck stops for minimum wages. Fact is, a super highway will not guarantee the good citizens of Garrett County high-paying jobs; just look at the Northern Garrett County Industrial Park, which is located adjacent to Interstate 68. Bausch and Lomb didn't come to Garrett County because of a highway and they didn't move to another location because of a highway.

What a highway will get you is: lots of pollution, lots of noise, increase in crime, and lots of congestion.

Which brings me to the "stick" that they are using to try to convince people that this abomination (the highway) is necessary: that it is needed to relieve congestion. As far as I'm concerned, the little congestion that there is would be better treated with a nasal spray. All you need to do is look around to see that wherever you have interstates there is congestion; that what they are telling you is exactly the opposite. A classic example of this can be seen downstate in Baltimore, with Int. 95, Int. 83, 695, US 40, US 1 all criss-crossing the city. And you know what? People are moving away from that city in record numbers to get away from the noise, pollution, crime, and congestion that has resulted.

Once that congestion from the highway starts here, someone else will come along and tell you that another highway will be needed to relieve the congestion from the first, and so it goes. And when that happens you might just do what the young lady told me the other day: "If the highway goes through here, I'll sell and move to a better place."

How sad it was to hear that. To think that a few people just might be able to "railroad" this project through Garrett County and destroy what I consider to be the garden spot of the world makes me want to cry. There is no other place like this county and darned few that even come close. Please, people, don't let them do this to us. Once it is gone, we'll never get it back.

We need to make a stand against this unnecessary shortcut for traffic through beautiful Garrett County. The very nature of this proposed limited access highway should alert people to its real purpose: to get through Garrett County, not to Garrett County. Why should we give up even a small part of this beautiful place so people traveling north or south can save a little time? The amount of time saved and the costs to save it just don't add up. I am talking about the cost to us in quality of life and also the cost in dollars -- our dollars. They will tell you that it is federal money or state money. But, ney, folks! The last time I checked, that money comes from you and me in the form of taxes.

We can't let this "pork pie project" happen. We may not be able to do much about other parts of the country, but we can do something here in Garrett County, Maryland. We can let the federal government and others know that we are not country bumpkins; that we do know about smoke and mirrors. We need to let them know what mountain people are made of. We need to tell them: "We don't want your road, and if you want to know where it should go, just ask us; we'll tell you where to stick it."

I also urge our elected officials to take this opportunity to show their support for the people of Garrett County by coming out with a public statement strongly condemning this proposed project.

Folks, we can stop this thing! All we need to do is come together as a community and let them know in no uncertain terms that we don't want this super highway; not now, not ever!

Act now; write or call your elected officials, both local and federal. Talk to people who haven't heard about this proposed project. Join a group if possible. Go to public meetings and express your outrage at this assault on your quality of life. Give your support to groups who are working on your behalf to stop the highway. Whatever you do, don't say to yourself, "I'm only one person; what can I do?" This effort needs every single person, and remember, every group is really made up of individuals who have come together to make a stand. Join with them; then you won't be just one person.

George Falter Jr.

To the Editor:

I doubt that Mary Ann and William Brown have seen their taxes increase because of the existence of a handful of Pre-Kindergarten programs in Garrett County. There is only one such program in all of the county's southern district, and money for it is provided by a state grant that has not been increased in several years.

In fact, there are many fewer Pre-K programs in the county than there used to be. That is unfortunate, as the program is a fine one that deserves support. I know because my son was enrolled in the Pre-K program at Red House School last academic year. The program is offered at that school, according to the school board's Brenda McCartney, because the school is the only one within the southern half of the county that has extra space. The county will not offer a Pre-K program at a school unless there is an extra room that is not otherwise being used.

The Pre-K classes at Red House are taught by Mrs. Sue Lear, who emphasizes enhancing students' social skills and getting them ready for kindergarten. Not all students are ready for a school program by age 4, but many love it. Mrs. Lear has a way with young children and takes her job seriously. This is not kindergarten--students do not learn their letters and numbers and there is no drilling. They learn the basics--how to get along with other kids and how important it is to listen to an adult. They also get the beginnings of an appreciation for books and art.

I'm curious as to why the Browns targeted the Pre-K program for their complaints. Anyone in the southern end of the county is eligible to enroll their 4-year-old in the Red House program. You do not have to live in that district. It is a first-come, first-served program. Those who live out of the district provide their own transportation. Since there were about 20 students in last year's class and about half lived out of the district, only 10 students total rode the county's school buses. The Browns complained that the existence of the Pre-K program led to an increase in their taxes. I doubt that 10 extra 4-year-olds riding a county bus did much to boost the Browns' tax bill.

This county needs more good Pre-K programs. Very few first-rate private programs exist. Most are glorified day care. At Red House, my son learned to speak more clearly, to make friends, and most importantly, to love school. Just the other day he put on a coat he hadn't worn since the end of the Pre-K school year and pulled some tattered woodchips out of a pocket. He instantly grew nostalgic. "I got these from the playground at Pre-K," he said. "I will always remember Pre-K by these." I couldn't help but chuckle, but he was sincere and it made me thankful that he had had such a good introduction to school and learning.

There are a lot worse ways to spend a few tax dollars.

Sincerely,
Robin Wilson

Introducing Panelcraft Building Systems
The House of Tomorrow is Here Today!
Cool When It's Hot, Cozy When It's Not!
Customer satisfaction is our #1 goal.
(Residential, Commercial, Churches—ICBO, BOCA & SBCCI Approved)
PANELCRAFT BUILDING SYSTEMS, INC.

These houses are built with Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs).
Using SIPs requires less construction time and leaves the customer with a draft-free Energy Efficient Home at an affordable price!
At Panelcraft, these Panels go through a special bonding process to create a Structural Panel far superior to using just the insulation by itself in a conventional frame building.
The material used for the insulation is called Polystyrene, the same thing that is used for styrofoam coffee cups. Not only does 1/16 of an inch of Polystyrene protect your fingers from being burned from the scorching hot coffee, it also keeps them dry!
Now if only 1/16 inch will do this, imagine what 4 to 6 inches will do in your home to keep the warm and the dry inside and keep the cold and the dampness outside!
Oh! By the way all you carpenters and do-it-yourselfers, etc., no more itching and scratching and coughing while insulating a house!
Panel homes have withstood earthquake activity where others crumbled.
If you would like to know more about Panelcraft and why SIPs are one of the fastest growing building techniques in the industry, call or write.

This Week In History

On September 8, 1664, 300 British troops seized New Netherlands from the Dutch, who surrendered peacefully ... September 11-14, 1786, delegates from five states met in Annapolis, Md., asking Congress to call a convention in Philadelphia to write a practical constitution for the newly-created 13 states ... September 10, 1813, Oliver H. Perry defeated the British fleet at the Battle of Lake Erie ... September 12, 1814, the Maryland militia stopped the British advance ... September 13-14, 1814, the British bombarded Ft. McHenry in Baltimore for 25 hours, but failed, inspiring Francis Scott Key, who observed the battle, to write the words to "The Star Spangled Banner" ... September 9, 1850, Senator Henry Clay's Compromise of 1850 admitted California as the 31st state, with slavery forbidden; made Utah and New Mexico territories without a decision on slavery; made the Fugitive Slave Law stricter; and ended the slave trade in the District of Columbia ... September 14, 1901, President William McKinley succumbed to the gunshot wound he had received eight days earlier at the hands of the anarchist, Leon Czolgosz; Teddy Roosevelt, the vice president, became president ... September 9, 1919, Boston police went on strike ... September 8, 1935, Senator Huey Long (D-La.) was assassinated ... September 14, 1940, the first peacetime draft was approved ... September 9, 1943, U.S. troops invaded Italy ... September 8, 1945, U.S. forces entered Korea south of the 38th parallel to displace the Japanese ... September 9, 1945, General Douglas MacArthur took over the supervision of Japan ... September 8, 1951, the Japanese Peace Treaty was signed in San Francisco by the U.S., Japan, and 47 other countries ... September 8, 1954, the Southeast Asia Treat Organization (SEATO) was formed by a collective defense pact signed in Manila by the U.S., Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand ... September 8, 1974, President Gerald Ford issued an unconditional pardon to Richard Nixon for all federal crimes that he "committed or may have committed" while president.

An American Hero
by Dr. Robert B. Pamplin, Jr. and Gary K. Eisler

MADELEINE ALBRIGHT

The writing on the wall filled her with emotion. They were the names of her grandparents, dead for half a century, inscribed at the Pinkas synagogue in Prague, the Czech Republic.

For Madeleine Albright, Secretary of State of the United States, the names meant the death and birth of her identity. Albright, whose three grandparents, an aunt, an uncle and a first cousin had been murdered during the Holocaust because they were Jewish, had been unaware of her own ancestry — until she became a serious candidate for her current high position.

Albright had been born in Prague in 1937. Her father had been a diplomat for what was then known as Czechoslovakia. He was in London in 1939 when the Nazis threatened trouble. Two days before they invaded his country, he returned home. Madeleine was only 2 when the Nazis swept through and Albright's parents fled 10 days later.

They spent the war years in exile while family members who remained behind became part of the slaughter of 77,000 Czechoslovak Jews. After the war, the family came home. But just three years later, the Communists took power and once again the family fled — this time to the United States.

Madeleine was young when the family learned about the murder of their relatives. Since they had changed religions years before anyway, they never told her about her background — she grew up as a Catholic and later became an Episcopalian. In the United States, Albright flourished and ultimately became the first woman Secretary of State.

The valiant Czech Republic at last is free and democratic. On a recent visit to her native land, Albright first went to pay her respects at the city's 500-year-old Jewish cemetery. She had the honor of welcoming her native country into the fold of NATO as a member — ensuring the freedom of the Czech Republic for the foreseeable future. For its part, the Czech Republic bestowed on this powerful emigrant daughter its highest civilian award.

This American Hero helps create a world where background doesn't matter.

SHORT TAKES

CONSPIRACY THEORY: An ordinary New York City cabby (Mel Gibson) stumbles upon a plot which threatens U.S. security and the government. What can he do? Who will listen to him? Julia Roberts, a beautiful Justice Department lawyer who happens to hitch a ride, gets caught up in the cabby's paranoia. She actually thinks there might be something to what he's saying — and the premise for this flick is established. However, rather than being about the plot itself, the movie focuses more on human relationships and connections. Rated R, I give this one only two stars. It manages to confuse more than capture your undivided attention!

CONTACT: Sci-fi fans will love this one! Jodie Foster portrays an astronomer whose lifelong dreams are realized when she begins to receive signals from obviously intelligent beings in outer space. Based on Carl Sagan's novel, this movie manages to stay true to the best-seller and makes a point about personal connections, as well as out-of-this-world connections! Matthew McConaughey and Tom Skerritt co-star. Rated PG, this one gets three and a half stars!

FACE/OFF: If you're into violence, this is your flick. Nicolas Cage and John Travolta star as two guys who hate each other and are out for revenge. When their faces are surgically exchanged, they actually trade places, the hunter becoming the hunted in this bizarre tale. Rated R, I give it three stars, if only for the fact that it is well-done, although not exactly my cuppa'!

FREE WILLY 3: THE RESCUE: In what has become a formula film, Willy is back, this time helping Jesse nail some illegal whale poachers. A father is forcing his young son into helping him in this business, but the son is determined to save the whales. Rated PG, this politically correct movie gets three stars from me. (If you're into whales, don't miss this one. There's a spectacular whale birthing scene!)

Top 10 Movies

1. Copland starring Sylvester Stallone
2. Conspiracy Theory Mel Gibson
3. Air Force One Harrison Ford
4. Event Horizon Laurence Fishburne
5. Steel Shaquille O'Neal
6. Spawn Michael Jai White
7. Men In Black Will Smith
8. Contact Jodie Foster
9. Picture Perfect Jennifer Aniston
10. Paperback Romance Anthony LaPaglia

Home Tips

STRIPPED SCREW — When the threads on a tiny screw (such as in fingernail scissors) will no longer hold, try putting one or more strands of sewing thread through the hole. Then screw the screw back into place. The thread provides just enough filler to make the screw stay in place.

Thanks for all the help in your column. Stella Tate H., Bentonville, Ark.

MATCHING CLOCK — After wallpapering my bathroom, I took an old wall clock and removed the plastic cover on the front and the hands. I cut out a round piece of my wallpaper and glued it to the face. I bought "pretty" numbers from the craft store.

Now, everyone wants to know where I bought a clock to match my wallpaper! Sylvie J., Greenwood, Ind.

New Cradle Roll Program Started By Foundation

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation has announced development of the "Cradle Roll," a new recognition program that provides an opportunity for donors to celebrate the birth of a child.

Under this new fund-raising program, all babies born at Garrett County Memorial Hospital are eligible for the Cradle Roll. Parents, relatives, or friends may honor their favorite baby with a minimum donation of $25 to the GCMH Foundation.

The names and birthdays of enrolled babies will be prominently displayed on a wall in the Family Centered Maternity Suite at the hospital. Parents receive a decorative certificate at the time of enrollment. The child's name and the individual(s) providing the recognition will be included in Foundation publications.

THE NAMES AND BIRTHDAYS of enrolled babiss will be prominently displayed on the Cradle Roll rseognition plaquss located in the Family Centered Maternity Suits at Gerrett County Memorial Hospital. This new fund-raising program sponsored by the GCMH Foundation allows donors to celebrate the birth of their favorite child through an honorary gift of $25 to the Foundation.

"Donations received through the Cradle Roll will be used for services and specialized equipment in the Family Centered Maternity Suite," announced Foundation director, Kathy R. Greaser, CFRE. "Brochures explaining the program are available. Anyone interested in additional information or a brochure should contact the Foundation Office at 301-334-2155," concluded Ms. Greaser.

Nutrition Screening, Counseling Offered For Senior Citizens

In support of the National Healthy Aging Campaign, Community Action's Area Agency on Aging (AAA) is providing nutrition screenings for Garrett County senior citizens.

A registered nurse will perform the analysis using the Maryland Nutritional Screening Level I Screen.

This process can determine if a person is at nutritional risk and in need of nutritional counseling. If such a need is determined, AAA will provide this service through a registered dietitian at no cost to the senior.

The schedule for screening is as follows: Mary Browning Senior Center, Wednesday, Sept. 17, 10-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-3 p.m.; Flowery Vale Senior Center, Tuesday, Sept. 23, 10-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-3 p.m.; Kitzmiller nutrition site, Wednesday, Sept. 24, 10-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-1:30 p.m.; Grantsville Senior Center, Thursday, Sept. 25, 10-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-3 p.m.; and Swanton nutrition site, Tuesday, Sept. 30, 10-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-1:30 p.m.

Appointments are necessary and can be made by contacting the site manager or the agency at 301-334-9431, ext. 142.

AAA will also accept referals of seniors for nutrition counseling from physicians. Anyone wishing more information may contact the agency.

Grantsville HS Class Observes 45th Anniversary

Members of the Grantsville High School Class of 1952 observed the 45th anniversary of their graduation by holding a reunion on Aug. 2 at the Holiday Inn, Grantsville.

This was the last class to graduate from Grantsville High School. The following school year, the Garrett County high schools merged.

The reunion began with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. for renewing friendships and sharing school memories.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Oscar Preston introduced Marion Bittle and her husband Robert. Mrs. Bittle was the music instructor for the high school.

Rev. Owen Preston gave the invocation, and a buffet dinner was served. Tables were decorated in the school colors, green and gold, with yellow carnations, ferns, and baby's breath.

Group pictures of the class were taken. Shirley Kamp Bender called roll.

A memorial service was held to commemorate deceased fellow classmates. The names and dates of their deaths are as follows: Gene Swauger, 1972; Anna Broadwater, 1992; and Betty Buckel, 1992. Kay Beachy Speicher let tall white candles in memory of each one as Rev. Preston read the poem "Old Friends."

A letter sent by Roberta Railey Robison was read. She was unable to attend the reunion because of illness.

Shirley Keister Norris, who resides in Florida, sent a floral arrangement in green and gold with balloons attached. She was unable to attend the reunion because she had sustained injuries.

The floral arrangements on the tables were given to Marion Bittle, Wilda Warnick Englehart, Oscar Preston, Carl Butler, Janice Lee Pope, Henry Synder, and Elizabeth Anne Warnick Fife. The flowers sent by Shirley Keister Norris were later taken to Roberta Railey Robison.

The following prizes were awarded: the longest-married, Mary Durst Warnick; the most grandchildren, Elizabeth Anne Warnick Fife; and traveling the longest distance, Joan Bender Hutchinson.

Mrs. Bittle led the group in singing the class song from the high school's final year.

Closing remarks and the benediction were given by Elizabeth Anne Warnick Fife.

Other graduates, not yet mentioned, who attended the reunion were Carl Beachy, Kay Beachy Speicher, Evelyn Durr Nicholson, Verda Durst Barrow, Helena Hetrick Rasel, Daniel Hershberger, and Beulah Miller.

Former classmates who also attended were Joan Bender Hutchinson, Janice Lee Pope, and Forrest Blocher.

Kay Beachy Speicher, Elizabeth Anne Warnick Fife, Oscar Preston, and Owen Preston served on the reunion planning committee.

The next reunion will be held in five years.

IT SEEMED LIKE OLD TIMES when the Grantsville High School class of 1952 got together to celebrate the 45th anniversary of their graduation. The members of this class, the last to graduate before the consolidation of Garrett County high schools, held a reunion recently to renew friendships and remember classmates. Posing in the front row for a class picture are, left to right, Evelyn Durr Nicholson, Helena Hetrick Rasel, Verda Durst Barrow, Wilda Warnick Englehart, and Mary Durst Warnick. In the second row are Henry Snyder, Kay Beachy Speicher, Elizabeth Anne Warnick Fife, Beulah Miller, and Shirley Kamp Bender. In the third row are Carl Beachy, Daniel Hershberger, Carl Butler, Forrest Blocher, Owen Preston, and Oscar Preston.

New Germany Friends To Meet

The Friends of New Germany will meet at New Germany State Park Lakehouse on Monday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. Plans will be made for the annual Halloween/Harvest Social. This meeting is open to the public. For more information, persons may call Bill Martin at 301-895-5453.

"Health Habit Challenge" Issued By Maryland DNR

As a prelude to Maryland State Parks Week, which will be Oct. 4-12, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin is challenging Marylanders to "acquire a health habit" by visiting nearby state parks. Those accepting the challenge will be in the running for various prizes, including overnight accommodations, rounds of golf, dinners, and free parks admissions and boat rentals.

"This will be our second year observing 'Maryland State Parks, a Health Habit,'" said Griffin. "We want to bring to the attention of Marylanders that our state parks offer parents, children, and people of all ages opportunities to have fun while pursuing healthful outdoor activities in our natural resource settings."

In the challenge, citizens are being encouraged to visit at least three parks within their regions, pick up entry forms, answer the questions on those forms, and return them by Sept. 30 to any state park, or by mail to DNR (Attention: Parks Service), 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis, MD 21401. The challenge will run through September.

The trivia-type questions will range from building and trail names to the kinds of trees found in particular areas of the state parks. Park visitation is necessary for participants to find the correct answers, Griffin said. Challenge questions also appear on the DNR website at http://www.gacc.com.dnr/

A drawing for the prizes will be held on Saturday, Oct. 4, as part of the kick-off of Maryland State Parks Week. For more information, persons may call 410-260-8186.

Pig Roast To Benefit Youth Hunter Program

A benefit pig roast and silent auction will be held at Deep Creek Lake State Park beginning at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 27, with all net proceeds to stay in the local area and benefit the Youth Hunters Safety Program. Youth who pass the program will receive a free Green Wing Ducks Unlimited membership, and will be asked to participate in putting up wood duck boxes provided by the national chapter of Ducks Unlimited, based in Memphis, Tenn.

The pig roast and silent auction event, sponsored through the combined efforts of the Mt. Top and Allegany chapters of Ducks Unlimited, with the cooperation of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, will also feature "Old Man Kennels," a retriever demonstration by Larry Knott and his dog.

Current members of Ducks Unlimited will not be charged a membership fee. Other persons interested in purchasing tickets may contact one of the following members of the Mt. Top chapter: Tom DeBerry, 301-387-2000; Jason Dilley, 301-334-9793; Daryl Walters, 301-387-2339; or Greg Shockey, 301-334-9494. Allegany chapter members who may be contacted for tickets are Larry Knott at Motor City, 301-777-5007, or Matt Knieriem, 301-729-1480.

BITTINGER

Margaret Hatcher, Partlow, Va., and granddaughter Aldina Maestri, Alexandria, Va., visited Ruth DiPaolo during the Labor Day holiday.

Rodney Glotfelty and family entertained Ruth on her birthday with a family dinner.

The annual Glotfelty barn party was held over the weekend with approximately 125 guests attending. Various guests came from as far away as London, England, and New Zealand.

Martha Glotfelty was visited by Sonny Dawson of Riverdale last weekend.

Saturday, Pastor Mark and family, from the Bittinger Lutheran Parish, attended the installation of Bishop Ralph Dunkin as the new bishop of the West Virginia/Western Md. Synod of the ELCA. The ceremony was held at St. Joseph's Cathedral in Wheeling, W.Va. Also attending were Ed and Jan Chalkley of Oakland. Bishop H. George Andersen gave the sermon and installed Bishop Dunkin with the help of retiring Bishop Alex Bl[illegible].

Conference Set At Local Church

Dr. Shelton Smith

Dr. Norris Belcher

Two community events are scheduled for this month at the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church in Oakland. A five-day conference will be held and an anniversary will be celebrated.

The Western Maryland fourth annual "Sword of the Lord" conference on revival and soul winning will be hosted by the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church, Sept. 21-24.

The featured speakers at the conference this year are Dr. Shelton Smith, evangelist and editor of the Sword of the Lord, a revival publication, and Dr. Norris Belcher, pastor of Church of the Open Door, Westminster.

Music will be provided by the Lonnie Moore Family from the Victory Baptist Church in Nicholasville, Ky.

Services begin at 7 p.m. each evening. There will be two morning services which will be held at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday and Tuesday. A pastor's fellowship will follow the Tuesday morning service with lunch provided.

Pastor Dennis Leatherman has invited members of the community to the conference. Transportation is available.

The anniversary celebration is scheduled for Sept. 21, beginning at 9:45 a.m. Pastor Leatherman will be recognized by members of the church for his four years of service as pastor.

Dr. Smith will be guest speaker at the service and the Lonnie Moore Family will provide music throughout the day. Pastor Moore will speak at 5 p.m.

The community is invited to participate and stay for the dinner following the morning service.

A fully staffed nursery and transportation are available for all services at the church.

Anyone who wants more information on the conference, anniversary celebration, or transportation may call 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042.

GCC Initiative To Develop Business, Jobs, Training

Peggy Santamaria

A joint venture at Garrett Community College has evolved into a mutually beneficial arrangement among education, employer, and employment opportunities. Garrett County residents stand to profit from the relationship.

A new curriculum has been developed to be offered through the Community and Continuing Education Department and it is linked with a start-up business that is ready to offer paid internships. In addition, GCC has the support systems for embryonic businesses.

Tom Kierstead, associate program director, recently explained the development process of this partnership.

"What began with a vision rising out of a need for trained medical transcriptionists has evolved into the creation of Garrett Community College's new comprehensive Medical Language Specialist curriculum," Kierstead said.

Before the curriculum could evolve, however, there were problems in getting the cart and horse in the proper order. Even identifying which was the cart and which the horse seemed at times to be the issue.

Kierstead listed the factors he was faced with coordinating: training, an employer to hire graduates, a qualified instructor, an equipment vendor, and the technology link-ups needed.

He was trying to decide which should come first. "GCC was caught in this dilemma when all the pieces came together at once," he said.

An adjunct instructor at GCC since 1994, Debbie Bishop was selected by Steve Herman, president of GCC, to fill the role of the associate director of the new curriculum.

Beside having the necessary background in technology and healthcare, Bishop was in the process of establishing a medical transcription service. Development of the business plan for The Accuracy Center, Inc. (TAC) was being pursued in West Virginia by Bishop and her husband.

The business plan projects the creation of 25 new jobs over four years with a future expansion into the legal field. "If TAC could be formed in Maryland, it could provide internship jobs in 1998 and be an incubator business nurtured by GCC through the program established for that purpose," Kierstead said.

Herman began working with Jim Hinebaugh, director of Garrett County economic development, to bring the TAC business plan to Maryland.

To further cement the relationship, both GCC and TAC have chosen to use the Dictaphone Enterprise System. This, Kierstead pointed out, will permit easy transition for interns.

The equipment will also support the new Continued Voice Recognition (CVR), which is currently under development. "Medical transcription will not be eliminated, but the future job function will take on more of an editor's role; hence the curriculum title Medical Language Specialist," Bishop said.

GCC students will be trained in skills for use of today's and tomorrow's technology.

After completion of the internship, students should be eligible to sit for the Certified Medical Transcription Exam. As CMTs, several full-time and part-time employment opportunities exist: TAC center-based employee; TAC home-based employee; local hospitals, clinics, or physician offices; self-employed Independent Medical Transcriptionist; or international assignment.

An open house will be held at GCC Saturday, Sept. 20, 9-11:30 a.m. to introduce the Medical Language Specialist curriculum and the instructor Debbie Bishop.

Anyone wishing more information on the curriculum, or planning on attending the open house, is asked to call Tom Kierstead at 301-387-3084.

GCC To Offer Basic, Advanced Cake Decorating

A course titled Basic Cake Decorating will begin Wednesday, Oct. 8, and be held from 9 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College. The class will meet for a total of four weeks. Students will learn to make frosting for the use of decorating, and the use of basic decorating techniques to produce a variety of borders, flowers, and lines.

A course titled Advanced Cake Decorating will begin October 9. This class will be held at the Oakland Center of GCC and will meet each Thursday from 8 to 9 p.m. for a total of four weeks. Students will continue to improve their knowledge of cakes, frostings, and special techniques for decorating cakes more professionally in this advanced offering.

For more information, persons may call Patricia Baer at 301-334-8304 or the Continuing Education Division at 301-387-3069.

GRANTSVILLE

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Mars Hill Homemakers Club met at Jennings United Methodist Church on Tuesday. Anna Belle Folk, assisted by Dorothy Wilburn, gave a demonstration on flower arranging.

Ruth Stanton, president, presided over the business session. Karen Durst brought the games, Anna brought the pies, and prizes were won by Dorothy, Norma Bowser, Ruth, and Mary Kamp. Each member reported on her summer activities. For closing, Ruth read "Consider the Lilies."

For the October 14 meeting, members will wear costumes for Halloween, and there will be a "show and tell." Ruth will bring the games, Anna Belle will bring the prizes, and Mary will bring a salad. Each member should bring a sandwich.

NURSING STAFF RECOGNIZED -- Members of Garrett County Memorial Hospital's nursing staff were honored at a apscial reception sponsored by the hospital's Nursing Advisory Committee. Cardiac rshabilitation nurse Bethany Browning, RN, CCRN, and third floor nurse Kay Perry, RNC, were both honored for nursing excellence as part of the Celebration of Nursing Excellence program sponsored by the MHA: The Association of Maryland Hospitals and Health Systems. Ms. Browning was selected for the award this year while Ms. Perry received the honor in 1996. Other nurses attending the reception were recognized for their participation in Garrett Memorial's Clinical Advancement program, which "rewards nurses who exhibit clinical excellence while encouraging them to move to higher levels of clinical practice, achieved through the enhancement skills and knowledge," explained Joyce Andrews, RN, director of nursing at Garrett Memorial. Pictured, from left, at the reception with both Browning and Perry as well as Garrett Memorial's chief of staff Sotiere Savopoulos, MD, are those nurses who were promoted to nurse clinicians II and III. Seated, from left, are: Darlene Tuel, clinician II; Susan Smith, clinician II; Wanda Blamble, clinician III; Anna Marie Bowman, clinician III; and Karen Rexrode, clinician III. In the back row, from left, are: Ms. Perry; Kendra Thayer, clinician II; Beth Spencer, clinician III; Ms. Browning; Beth Newcomb, clinician III; Brenda Burner, clinician II; Linda Lafferty, clinician III; Dr. Savopoulos; Carol Burns, clinician III; and Dave Betz, clinician III.

The following poem was written by Oakland resident Charles Stinson. The National Library of Poetry selected the writing as a semi-finalist in the North American Open Poetry Contest. As a semi-finalist, Stinson has a chance of winning either one of 70 prizes or the $1,000 grand prize. The poem will be published in a forthcoming anthology titled "The Scenic Route."

In Touch

A mutual feeling attained
Deepened by constant use
Reflected trust being gained
An understanding never to lose
Want and need shared with fervor
Friends as well as both only lover
The right match bearing no doubt
Direction complimenting our life throughout
In each other's care love can be fun
Belief in our truth standing as one.

More GCC Scholarships Awarded

JEREMY ROBINSON

LORI EVANS

ARY BOSLEY

The Garrett Community College Foundation has recently announced the names of three more scholarship recipients who are attending GCC this year.

Jeremy Thomas Robinson, son of William and Rita Robinson, Friendsville, has received the James H. Nordeck Memorial Scholarship for the Early College Admissions Program. A senior at Northern High School, Robinson has been a member of the concert band and the marching band. At GCC he is majoring in engineering. As an Early College Admissions student, he will complete his senior year in high school along with his first year of college. His hobbies are fly fishing and fly tying.

Lori Evans, daughter of Linda and Gary Evans, Oakland, has received the Bell Atlantic and the GCC General scholarships. She is a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society and the volleyball team. At GCC she is majoring in business administration toward her goal of becoming a CPA. She is a member of the GCC volleyball team and the Red House 4-H Club.

Ary Bosley, daughter of Craig and Marsha Bosley, Oakland, has received the Move-Along-A-Thon scholarship from Southern High School, where she graduated this year. In high school she was a member of the softball team, serving as captain during her senior year, and member of the journalism staff for two years. At GCC she is studying physical education with a goal of becoming a coach or athletic trainer. Following a "family tradition," she enjoys all sports and she helps as a volunteer at Red House Elementary School. Pursuing her interest of line dancing, she recently traveled to Nashville to appear on national television with her group.

A FINE DISPLAY of antique automobiles, part of which is pictured above, was once again on hand at the recent 18th annual Antique and Custom Auto Show, held at Rt. 40 Elementary School and sponsored by the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department and Ladies Auxiliary, Finzel. First, second, and third place trophies were presented in 28 classes, along with a people's choice award and longest distance award. Pictured below are a custom GTO and a Plymouth. A story with a complete list of the show winners appears on page B-4.

Major Initiative Underway To Save Wetlands

A billboard on Interstate 68 at Big Savage Mountain proclaims that location as part of the western border of the Chesapeake Bay watershed. Now comes news that two major conservation groups have formed a partnership with each other in conjunction with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to work for a healthier Chesapeake Bay by focusing efforts on areas hundreds of miles from the bay itself, such as much of western Maryland.

The Chesapeake Bay Foundation (CBF), Ducks Unlimited, Inc. (DU), and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced recently that they have joined forces in a 10-year partnership to restore, protect, and enhance wetlands, stream buffers, and wildlife habitat in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

One of the early goals of the partnership is to restore 3,800 acres of wetlands, 1,150 acres of upland habitat (primarily warm season grass plantings), and 34 miles of river and stream banks between last spring and December of 1998. These early projects will require nearly $500,000 from the CBF and DU, and will utilize another $1 million from government conservation programs and participating landowners.

Most of the promising restoration work is found on farmland, so farmers are important to the program. Prior to the realization of the importance of wetlands, many were drained and turned into pastures or croplands. With the voluntary participation of farmers, the converted wetlands can be re-established and the natural wetland community reclaimed. Landowners stand to benefit by gaining improved water quality, wildlife habitat, and, in many cases, tax credits.

The benefits to the environment stand to be far-reaching. "Concentrating our restoration efforts in the upper reaches of the watershed will not only increase habitat for waterfowl and wetland wildlife," said Dr. Alan Wentz, group manager of conservation programs for DU, "but also have some of benefits for improving the water quality in the Chesapeake Bay. The bay is one of our most important programs in our mid-Atlantic habitat restoration initiative."

Both DU and CBF bring strengths to the partnership. Based in Memphis, Tenn., Ducks Unlimited has over 900,000 supporters and a 60-year history of designing, restoring, and managing wetlands and adjacent upland buffers. DU has identified the Chesapeake Bay as its highest priority in the Atlantic Flyway and critical to the long-term sustainability of many species of waterfowl. Since 1987, DU has protected, restored, and enhanced more than 40,000 acres of habitat in the bay region.

CBF has established a goal of increasing 125,000 acres of wetlands in the bay watershed by 2005. With a committed membership of more than 84,000 members, CBF has critical knowledge of the region and 30 years' experience in restoration, outreach, education, and fundraising. It is the largest nonprofit conservation organization in the nation working to "Save the Bay."

Heading the partnership project will be Ed Temple, a former U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service wildlife biologist. Temple will work out of CBF's Annapolis office, assisted by staff in Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

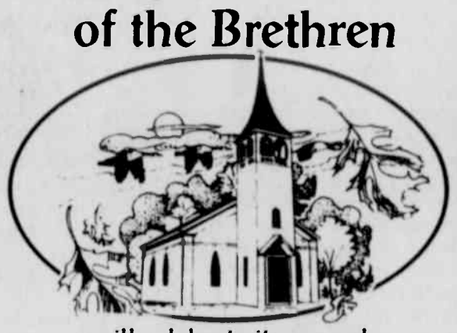
The restoration partnership will work with federal and state conservation program money by bringing landowners to the programs and by providing technical, financial, and managerial expertise to the projects.

During the next five years, the partnership plans to restore more than 10,000 acres of wetlands and 120 miles of stream banks to improve water quality in the bay region. The restoration goals will grow as the partnership continues and as the program takes root.

The Chesapeake Bay watershed has lost more than 60% of its historical wetlands, and both CBF and DU have identified restoring them as critical to the bay's long-term health. Wetlands and stream buffers reduce sediment, nitrogen, and phosphorus flowing into the bay, leading to improved water clarity, a critical requirement for the return of underwater grasses that support waterfowl, fish, and shellfish.

"This restoration work is critically important to the bay," said William C. Baker, CBF president. "We have halted the Chesapeake's rapid decline and have reached a decision point. We need to reclaim resources that give the bay resilience - including its wetlands, stream buffers, and oyster beds. If we don't, the bay will deteriorate as the watershed's human population grows.

We are especially excited to have Ducks Unlimited, the premier non-profit wetlands and waterfowl conservation organization in the world, as our partner in this work."



Gospel Pair To Sing At Church

"Earl and Libby," a gospel pair from Knoxville, Tenn., will perform "old fashioned country style" singing at the Sand Spring Church of God on Sunday, Sept. 14, at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission fee. The two singers are continuing the song ministry of "Don and Earl," according to a church spokesperson.

The parish is located along Fearer Road in Friendsville.

ARE YOU AN IN BETWEENER?

Are you stuck in between?

Let me explain.

Your job provides a steady income--a problem because your take-home pay is just enough to make you ineligible for any government aid programs. But your take-home pay won't let you qualify for help from a standard lender.

You're in between.

Think about where you live. What about space? Do more than two children share a bedroom? How about the roof and ceilings? Exposed wiring? Plumbing? Any standing water? A clean, constant water source? Heat? Insulation?

You get the idea.

Just one more question: Do you live or work or worship in Garrett County? Yes?

Then read on.

If some of these comments and questions describe your situation, and you and your family and friends are willing to work hard, Habitat for Humanity may be able to help you buy and build a solid, affordable home.

Apple Festival Ushers Autumn Into Burlington

The Burlington Old-Fashioned Apple Harvest Festival will be held the weekend of Oct. 4-5 in historic Burlington, W.Va., which is located just off US Route 50.

The first thing to greet festival goers arriving in Burlington will be the scent of simmering apples and spices, country ham being fried for sandwiches, ox roasting over a pit of hot coals, and funnel cakes.

Live bluegrass and gospel entertainment will be performed free on the Apple Harvest Festival Stage both days of the festival. On Sunday afternoon, the festival's second annual Fiddle and Banjo Contest will offer music of pickers from a four state region, who will compete for cash prizes.

There are games and rides for children throughout the weekend, a Ronald McDonald show, a grand feature parade, and a bow hunters competition on Saturday.

Sunday activities include a chicken barbecue and an antique automobile, tractor, and small engine show featuring more than 250 entries.

There will also be a handmade quilt show and sale, a model train exhibit, a library silent auction, three tents of arts and crafts, with an open-air flea market.

The festival's main attraction is Burlington's Famous Apple Butter.

Festival grounds are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday. For more information persons may contact Apple Harvest Festival Headquarters, P.O. Box 69, Burlington, WV 26710, or phone 304-289- 6010 or 304-788-1953.

Horse Salve Eases Arthritis Pain

LOUISVILLE KY. – An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflamation in racehorse s legs, has now been approved by government researchers for human use The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx® ARTH-Rx comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritic pain for millions Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messeger substance that send pain signals to the brain

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446

ARTH-Rx is available at

Bike Race To Culminate Mtn. State Road Series

For several years now, the Heritage Day Classic Bike Race has been an exciting adjunct to the Buckwheat Festival Sunday (Sept. 28) activities. This year's race is host to the culmination of the Mountain State Road Series.

Organized four years ago, the Mountain State Road Series consists of 20 races. Bikers will use their best cumulative scores from 10 of the 20 events to vie for the series awards.

The route of the 25-mile Heritage Day Classic, set for the final day of activities during the 56th Annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival, will feature an uphill finish. Racers start at Preston High School on Rt. 26 South, just outside of Kingwood. They will be escorted to the bottom of Caddell Mountain where the escort will leave them and the real race will begin. The racers will take Rt. 72 into Rowlesburg and the race at that point will break into two fields: one group consisting of Category 4 and Citizen racers will return to Kingwood on Rt. 72, then up Showerbath Road to Preston High School; the other group consisting of Category 1-4 racers climb Salt Lick Road into Terra Alta, then turn left on Rt. 7, fly down Caddell Mountain, ascend Showerbath Road, and finish at PHS. This course makes for a demanding mile-and-a-half uphill finish.

At post race ceremonies, Heritage Day Classic prizes will be awarded to the top three females and the top three males in numerous age classes. Cash prizes are awarded to the top three qualifiers in the category divisions.

Race day registration begins at 10 a.m. at Preston High School. Pre-registration entry fee is $17 per person, and interested persons may pre-register on Friday, Sept. 26. Race day registration will be $20.

Sponsors of this year's race are Scott Ford-Mercury, the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department, Wes-Banco, J&J Homes, Bruceton Bank, Pizza Hut, Coca-Cola, A&A Office Helpers, Bowyers' Furniture and Appliances, and Smith & Smith, Certified Public Accountants.

Horse Pull Included In Festival Events

Back by popular demand during the Preston County Buckwheat Festival will be a draft horse-pulling contest, planned this year on Saturday, Sept. 27, at 3:30 p.m. in the field behind the book center at Preston High School.

Sponsored by the West Virginia Draft Horse and Mule Association, and locally by Bruceton Farm Service, Inc., the contest will feature approximately 20 teams from the tri-state area, with Delmer Hershman, the recent state president of the Draft Horse Organization, heading up the management team. Draft teams will compete for a $300 first prize and a trophy in the lightweight and heavyweight divisions.

Buckwheat Festival Sunday To Feature Antique Show, Sale

One of the many attractions during the 56th Annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival in Kingwood will be an antique show and sale at the Craig Civic Center on Tunnelton Street, adjoining the fairgrounds. The show is sponsored by the Kingwood Volunteer Fire Department and is scheduled to run throughout the festival, Sept. 25-28.

More than 10,000 square feet of antiques will be on display by approximately 39 exhibitors at the civic center for this first-time Buckwheat Festival event, according to the show's organizers. The cost of admission will be $3, and children under the age of 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult. Patrons who present an antique schedule card will receive $1 off the cost of admission (cards may be obtained at Kingwood area businesses).

The times for the show and sale are as follows: Thursday, Sept. 25, 6-9 p.m.; Friday, Sept. 26 and Saturday, Sept. 27, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.; and Sunday, Sept;. 28, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Potential exhibitors and antique dealers may still reserve spaces by contacting Bill or Anita Bolyard at 304-329-1571 or 304-329-1874.

16th Potato Festival Set For Saturday

The 16th Annual Mt. Grove Potato Festival, sponsored each year by the Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department, is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 13-14.

Events will get underway Saturday morning and continue throughout the day and evening. Sunday activities were added several years ago to accommodate the growing interest in gospel music groups that perform during the event.

Attractions planned during the two-day event include games, prizes, food, craft tables, and live country and gospel music. One of Saturday's highlights will be the festival's increasingly popular cake auction. Cakes, featuring a fire department or potato festival theme, are entered into competition, with the top three cake decorators receiving cash awards. The cakes are then auctioned to the public, followed by a variety of other cakes that are baked and decorated by ladies in the Mt. Grove area.

There is no charge for admission to the Potato Festival activities and entertainment planned throughout the weekend. Plenty of free parking will be offered on the VFD's grounds, located on Rt. 219, between Silver Lake and Thomas.

Proceeds from the annual festival are used for the fire department's operating expenses.

REPORT ON RUSSIAN TRIP

Debbie (Mrs. Roger) Strawser of Eglon presented a slide and vocal report of her recent trip with the Josh McDowell Ministries to Russia on Sunday morning, Sept. 7, at the Maple Spring Church. Showing a portion of her slides brought into focus the need for both physical and spiritual aid in that country. Her display included Russian newspapers, Russian copies of Josh McDowell books that were distributed along with scriptures, and items brought back as gifts for family.

MISSIONS CONVENTION

Maple Grove Assembly invites all to be a part of a Missions Convention, which will begin this Friday evening, Sept. 12, and continue through Sunday evening, Sept. 14, with services each evening at 7 p.m.

On Friday evening, Rick Caswell will be sharing about West Africa. Jason Skipper and the Bolivian team will be ministering Saturday evening. On Sunday morning at 10:30, the Rev. Sam Klinger from Peru will be speaking. Closing the convention on Sunday evening will be Debbie Strawser, who will be sharing about her short-term mission in Russia.

WEAVER DEATH

The Rev. L. John Weaver, 82, Palmyra, Pa., died early Friday morning, Sept. 5, in Hershey Medical Center, where he had been a patient since Monday.

Weaver served as pastor for five years at the Mohrsville Church of the Brethren, was pastor for 17 years of the Midway COB at Lebanon, Pa., and prior to that was pastor for 20 years for Eaton and Potsdam Church of the Brethren congregations in Ohio.

He was born in Everett. Pa., a son of the late Rev. Mahlon J. Weaver and Frances (Snowberger) Ritchey Weaver. He was a graduate of Elizabethtown College, Pa., and Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago.

Surviving are his wife, Flora Harsh Weaver, of Palmyra and formerly of Eglon; one son, Edward, of Wilmot Flat, N.H.; and four daughters, Margaret Fitzkee, Lebanon, Pa., Sara Wagner, Lancaster, Pa., Anita Sherman, Indianapolis, Ind., and Ruth Hazene. Columbus, Ind.; one brother, the Rev. E. Paul Weaver, Everett, Pa.; and seven grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one son, David L. Weaver.

The Clauser Funeral Home of Schaefferstown was in charge of arrangements. After a memorial service in Pennsylvania, the body was brought to the Maple Spring Cemetery on September 8 for graveside services and interment.

60TH ANNIVERSARY

Lorain and Mary Jane Hanline of Aurora will observe their 60th wedding anniversary Sept. 28, with an open house from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Aurora fire hall. They request that gifts be omitted.

NOSTALGIA NIGHT

On Thursday evening, Sept. 18, at the Aurora Community Building, a "nostalgic celebration" for reopening of the library in the building will be held, beginning at 7 p.m. There will be once again a Thursday night movie with refreshments and local items on display, all for a dona-
